FROM THE MARYLAND REPUBLICAN. THE RUSSIAN CELEBRATION,

Modern Toryism in Maryland exposed. Agreeably to public notice, on Thursday last about an hundred bravadoes and desperadoes from different parts of the state, and Tory-town in the district of Columbia," assembled in this city to celebrate, by a public procession and an oration, the late reported victories of the allies in Germany, over Bonaparte. Great preparations had been made by the procurators, and we are credibly informed that upwards of five hundred special invitations were sent out with a view o having it "fully attended." All, however, would not do. The federalists generally did not come into the measure, and of course refused to join in the unpardonable iniquity of rejoicing at the victories of our implicable enemy. In the whole state, and the district of Columbia, there was but about one hundred capital villains to be found, who pos sess the consummate impudence, publicly to avow their attachment to the British government, and disaffection to their own. A number of these fellows arrived in the city the preceding evening, and so conscious were they of their diabolical purposes, that with a cowardice characteristic of vi lainy, they absolutely refused to sleep in separat rooms, (although in a federal boarding house and we are informed, had nine beds put in on spartment for their accommodation. We onl mention this circumstance to prove, that man who were concerned in the celebration, sensibly felt the computctions of their own consciences and feared the revenge of an insulted populace.

The procession, (headed by the committee of arrangement, Levin Winder, three of his council, nd a number of the federal members of the house of delegates) was formed at the federal hotel about half-past eleven o'clock, and arranged and conducted by two noted Englishmen, one of them actually a TORY during the American Revolution Such were the principal actors in the arrangement of their procession. From the hotel they marched o the church of England, (all in character) where the oration was to be delivered by Robert G. Harper, (not in his shirt tail as on a former occasion The service was opened and closed by parson Weems, (who had been prevailed upon to offici-ate, after the refusal of all the rest of the min sters in the city.) in two short prayers, the latter of which only, we had an opportunity of hearing.-To the honor of this gentleman we must say that he acquitted himself on this occasion as every American ought, but in a style not very pulatable we presume, to the Cossack gentry. His prayers for the President of the United States, and the heads of departments; for a speedy and how norable peace upon terms advantageous to the A merican people, and in which a due regard should be paid to our national and individual rights, was not what they wished or expected. Denunciations from the pulpit against the government and people, and in praise of Russian valor and British magnanimity, would have been more congenial their ideas. The orator, we are told, as on al other occasions, indulged in the grossest ribaldry and opprobrious invective against the general g remment and measures of administration. short, we may safely say of this oration, and the hearers, what Pompret said of col. Kirk's noted in getting-out to sea. regiment of soldiers :

Here nothing but the blackest demon'sdwell, he refuse of the damn'd and dregs of hell ; lere every breath, here every atom's curs'd, There's no degrees in 111 for all is worst."

Here our narrative must necessarily be interupted. We know nothing more of their proceed ings until the evening. A scene was then present , equally disgraceful to the actors and disgust to all who witnessed it. Broke from their Pandemonium, they sallied in a body into the sircet : with frightful yells and frantic dance, futiously they ran like painted devils from their mid night orgies, (with torches carried by a parcel of tegraes) uttering curse ugainst the government and all its advocates; some of them as we are d bly told, huzzaing for the prince regent ! is is a doleful sample of modern federalism Maryland. Oh ! venerable shades of our departe thers; spirit of the immortal Washington (whose sacred name has been made a cloak to shield the iniquities of a band of traitors) look down in pity uppy your degraded country, and blast with your indignant frozens, the wretches who have wronged you, who would this day de-stroy, if they dared, the fair fabric which was reared by your virtue and patriotism. "in the days that tried men's souls."

vinces, dated Quebec, January 12, in Vermont. which he attempts to justify the barbarity and the depredations on private property committed by the troops under his command on the north western and northern frontiers. Conceiving this proclamation to be filled with falsehoods and misrepresentations, as the publications of Sir George Prevosi always are, we sannot True to the base trust reposed in him by not only encouraged the systematic commission of every species of unlawful vio-lence and brutality on the Americans of all ages and sexes, but, after having caused these infernal outrages to be perpetrated, he has the audacity and cruelty to affect to be very sorry for them, and to extenuate their criminality by charges the most false against our government. Sir George, on the present occasion, says we commenced the system of plunder and conflagration ; nay, to prove the accusation, he reverts to the invasion of Canada by General Hull, whose troops he charges with having committed excesses at Sandwich. This is the first time we who commenced a fire, which was rehave heard of these excesses. We have | turned with spirit until the enemy chargalways understood that lenity to a fault was exhibited by those troops towards the enemy. Sir George then states, that he might have retaliated on the people of Michigan for these pretended excesses ; but that private property and persons were there sacredly respected by the British ! A more unblushing misrepresentation of the facts was never uttered .-Judge Woodward and a host of other witnesses have testified to the depredation and cruelties committed by the British and their Indian allies in the Michigan territory and thereabout. But there is no occasion to make a particular reply to all the assertions of this profligate tool of a profligate ministry. The massacres at Raisin, the violations and murders at Hampton, the cooffagrations at Havre and elsewhere, and the outrages practised whereever British soldiers have appeared, would have justified the Americans in not only burning Newark, but in putting to death every British soldier and same excuse, would he escape being hung. committed under Gen. Hull, as an apology for the neferious barbarities of the enemy. The British governor promises to forbear from repeating his acts of pillage and massacre in future. Kind soul! for this act of condescention and humanity, he will no doubt be eulogised by most of the federal prints on the continent ; & his proclamation will run through all these prints without a disapproving comment.
