He that is known to pay punctually, and exactly to the time he promises, may at any time, and on any occasion, raise all the money his friends can spare. This is some times of great use. After industry and frugality, nothing contributes more to the raising of a young man in the wor'd than punctuality and justice in all his dealings: therefore, never keep borrowed money an hour beyond the time you promised, lest a disappointment

CHRYSTALLIZATION OF TIN -This new art was, we are informed, discovered accidentally about three years ago, in France, by a Monsieur Bagot, who gave it the name of Morie Metallique on Metallic Watering. Another Frenchman near Brussels, however, contests the palm of originality; and in truth, the principle has long been one of the least secrets either in chemistry or metallurgy, though we believe its useful application is entirely new. It depends simply upon the action of acids, whether pure or nixed, and in different degrees of solution, on alloys of Tin -The common Vitriolic Aeid, we believe, answers the purpose as fuly as any other more expensive acid agent. The process we find described in the public prints as follow:—'Dissolve 4 ounces of Muriate of Soda in eight ounces of water, and add two ounces of Nitric Acid: -or 8 oz. Water, 2 oz. Nitric Acid, and 3 oz. Muriatic Acid:-or 8 oz. Water; 2 oz. Muriatic Acid and 1 oz. Sulphuric Acid. Either of these mixtures is to be poured warm upon a sheet of tinned iron, placed upon a vessel of stone ware; it is to be poured on in separate portions, till the sheet is completely watered; it is then to be plunged into water, slightly accidulated and washed' The operation is completed by drying.

The meanest tin pan in our kitchens, submitted to this easy process, instead of its pallid metallic surface, imitates mother of pearl in its tone of colour, and shoots forth into an nfinitude of figures and reflections, equal to enamel, and full of rich variety in design. By subjecting the iron to different degrees of heat, the variety of the forms is increased; some parts are granular; others are like architectural ruins; others grand natural phenomena of wood, and mountain, and cataract; others a silvery sunset darting rays along the expanse; others simple leaves and flowers; others cubes, cones, and all that geometry embraces; in fine there is no shape which the imigination can conceive that acci-

TION.

FROM THE LATEST LONDON PAPER.

At length the official despatches from the ships employed on the Discovery of the North west passage have been received, and we understand are most satisfactory. They are dated July 28, at which time the Isabella and the Alexander were in lat. 75 deg. 30 min. N. lon. 80 deg. 30 min. W. well over to the American coast, the weather serene and perfectly clear. The variation of the compass, by accurate observations repeatedly made on board both ships, was 89 deg. and the dip 81 deg. 30 min, which led them to conclude, that they were approaching very nearly to the magnetic pole. It had been perfectly calm; the sea was smooth as glass for the last three or four days, and the current drifted them to the South-eastward, which raised their hopes of an open passage round the point of America from which quarter it appeared to proceed .- All the way up the middle of Davis's Straits they skirted an inbroken field of ice on the left, but as they proceeded it became thinner and apparently rotten, and they were sanguine that the moment the breeze sprung up the ice to the westward would open to them a passage, and allow them to reach the northern shores of America. The utmost harmony prevailed among the officers and every part of the ship's company and all were in perfect health. Such is the substance of the accounts which we have been able to learn. There are abundance of private letters to the friends and relations of those who have embarked in this most important and interesting enterprise. The following is an extract from

From his Majesty's ship Isabella, lat. 75 25, long. 60 7, variation 88 48-July 25. NEW YORK, November 11. We copy the following circumstantial and melancholy account of the loss of the brig Sine, of Boston, from the Liverpool Mercury of September 11 .- Mer Adv. This week we have the sad task to detail the particulars of two most melancholy catastrophes which have occurred off the neighboring coast. The brig Sine, Capt. Doak, sailed from this port on Monday week for Boston; thirty two passengers were embarked on board of her. About ten o'clock on Wednesday night, whilst the two vessels were standing on opposite tacks, she unfortunately ran down the brig Dash, bound from Yarmouth to London. The Dash sunk almost instantaneously. Her crew consisted of five persons, two of whom were saved by the exertions of Capt. Doak and his crew, and the remainder were unhappily drowned. The Sine's bowsprit was carried away by this lamentable accident, and the vessel seriously damaged by the violence of the shock. Captain Doak, being incapable of prosecuting the vovage with his vessel in this snattered condition, determined to return to Liverpool to repair. But new misfortunes awaited the ill-fated vessel. Between four and five o'clock, the captain, worn out by his previous exertion, and anxiety for the fatal accident which had occurred, retired to his cabin, after having left the brig in charge of the mate, and given him strict injunctions to keep a sharp look out, and to call him before she got up with the Skerries. The vessel continued on her course till about half past seven o'clock, when she struck on the Platters, off the Welsh coast, near to the Skerries light-house. The water rushed in with great rapidity, and the vessel was sinking fast .-At this dreadful conjuncture captain Doak, who had hurried on deck as' soon as she struck, ordered the ship's boats to be instantly cleared away. She had only two, the one a long boat, and the other a very small one. The long boat was speedily filled, but only a few persons get into the small one; for, before the whole of the people on the wreck could embark, both boats were cut adrift; the persons on board of them fearing, we suppose, that, if allowed all to embark, they would be so much crowded as to endanger the lives of the whole. Capt. Doak, who had been actively and anxiously engaged in transhipping the passengers, the mate, a seaman, and many passengers, were thus abandoned to all the horrors of their impending fate. The scene which ensued was awfully affecting. The brig was now nearly under water. Death stared the unfortunates on the wreck in the face. Mothers were seen clinging to their unhappy children in all the agony of maternal despair, piercing the air ! with their shrieks; whilst the helpless children-clung to their distracted parents, looking to them for aid which they could not yield. At this awful moment, the small boat put about and returned towards the vessel. This afforded the people on the wreck a gleam of hope But it was transient: no entreaties could pravail upon the persons in her to come alongside to rescue their companions. At length the vessel went down, in less than helf an hour after she struck -Captain Doak was saved by the boat, which also picked up the mate, who was almost live-The remainder, consisting of a Mrs. Moor

PALACE YARD MEETING. On Monday a meeting was held by the radical reformers in the metropolis, at which Mr. Hunt was called to the chair. Soon atter twelve o'clock, that gentleman, accompanied by Dr. Watson, and others, ascended the temporary platform, and having consulted a short time with his friends, proceeded to state, that during the last Parliament, | loss. more than a million and a half of ind viduals had vainly petitioned a corrupt House of Commons for a restitution of their rights, and he believed, that from the constitution of the new honourable House it would be equally fruitless to petition them. It was, therefore, determined, to address the Prince Regent in a firm, maply, and dignined tone, calling upon him to protect the rights of the people. Dr. Watson, after a speech of some length proceeded to read the deciaration, it was followed by a string of resolutions, 26 in number, which objected to the present constitution of the House of Commons, insisted on the right of universal suffrage, condemned the existence of a standing army, pointed out the propriety of substituting the ancient civil force for a military one, and the reliance for our defence from invasion, rather upon a militia drawn from the body of the people than upon a regular force-These lations also condemned the conduct of ministers, in the employment of spies, and the passing of the corn bill, which was stated to be a vile conspiracy between the great landholders and the ministers, to extort an immense portion of taxes from the poor: the resolutions concluded by condemning the encouragement given to the Bank of Enggland, in the unlimited issue of their paper All the resolutions in the declaration were then carried, and Mr. Hunt said they would no doubt, appear in the public papers with the comments of the hirelings of ministers. Mr. Hunt then proposed a remonstrance to the Prince Regent couched in language such asa free people ought to use to their sovereign. Mr. Goss a shipbuilder of Deptford, second ed the motion. It was then unanimously agreed that Mr. Hunt should present the re monstrance. He forthwith set out for the Secretary of State's office, accompanied by a large number of the populace. He was immediately introduced to Lord Sidmouth, to whom he delivered the remonstrance, and on his return he stated that Lord Sidmouth had promised to give the meeting an answer in few days. The crowd then dispersed.

On Tuesday morning a warrant was obtained at Bowstreet, against Mr. Henry Hunt, for an assault upon Mr. V. Dowling, in the shop of Mr. Clement, the proprietor of the Observer.

> ROGERSVILLE, (Tenn.) oct. 23. MOST HORRID ATROCITY.

On Wednesday a deed of the most shock. ing enormity was perpetrated at the house of Mr. Robert Gambill, in the vicinity of this place. The particulars, as far as we have been able to learn are as follows: Mr. Gam. bill had left home early in the day, after which it appears, that his negro boy, about 12 years of age, took his rifle gun from the rack in the dwelling house, which he found emp. ty: he loaded it, and then proceeded to the loom-house, where his mistress was weaving, and discharged its contents at her through a crevice between the logs of the house. The ball appears to have entered behind her right ear, andcame out the left cheek near her ear The monster then entired the balance of the family, consisting of Mr. Gambill's three children, the youngest about twelve months old, and a small negro girl about 10 years old, to go with him to the barn, when he recommenced the horrid work of destruction. which he had began with his mistress; he took an axe and despatched, as he thought. the negro girl, and all the children except the youngest, which he left unhurt. He then hid the axe, and preceded to the houses of the nearest neighbors and informed them that some person had come to his master's house, and shot his mistress and killed the children. When the neighbors assembled a most shocking spectacle was presented to their view. Mrs. Gambill had fallen from her seat at the loom, and lay weltering in her blood, apparently just expiring, and the children lying in the barn yard apparently dead. The culprit was taken into custody and confessed the facts above related. He also states. that he was persuaded to commit the crime by a white man and a negro belonging to Mr. Cockram, a near neighbor of Mr. Gambills: the white man and negro are also in custody: all the family are yet living, but little hopes are entertained of the recovery of any

NORFOLK, NOV. 7. SAILING OF THE MACEDONIAN

The United States Frigate Macedonian. John Downs, esq. commander, got under weigh from the navy yard at Gosport, yesterday morning about 11 o'clock, and came came up to the Navy Yard, about three weeks ago, without many of our citizens being apprized of her approach. Her appearance yesterday was very impressive for she was in elegant order, and, as we learn, much better prepored for her cruize than when she left Boston, being furnished with many spare articles of equipment, which from peculiar circumstances, could not be obtained in Boston at the time of her outfit. " She will probably sail from the Roads on Sunday, bound to the North West Coast of America.

It is due to the activity, zeal and ability of the several departments in, and connected with the Navy Yard at Gosport, which have effected the refitment of this fine ship with so much dispatch, to state, (as we do from good authority) that since her arrival here it by the fire bursting into the area. Before she has been furnished with an entire new set of masts and spars, (with the exception of a bowsprit) and nearly a complete gang of new rigging. The masts and spars were all made in the Yard and put on board in less than two weeks after she anchored there, and in 18 working days, the whole equipment was accomplished.

lately received the appointment of Secretary of the Navy, was, at the time, chief justice of the state of New York; he is nearly sixty years of age, and is said to have been at the bar and on the bench upwards of 25 years. At the last election for governor of that state, he was put in nomination in opposition to Mr. Clinton, but afterwards withdrawn, and Gen. P. B. Porter substituted in his stead. as being a more popular candidate. - Gaz.

A letter, from Boston states, that informstion had reached that place, that 400 troops, were about sailing from Havana, to take possession of Pensacola.

The southern papers state that Gen. GAINES arrived at Darien, in Geo. on the 30th uit. and the next day proceeded for Amelia Island, where he was to fix his head quarters. The garrison of that island has been reinforced by 310 men, under the command of Major BIRD.

We are informed, that the United States Branch Bank at New-York has been robbed, to the amount of 19,000 dollars, by one of the clerks belonging to that institution. It is said that he got access to the chest, where the Notes were deposited for Collection, and after taking them out to the amount above + stated, obtained a loan upon them of 13,000 dollars from a Broker, who wanting the money before they came due, put them into market which led to the discovery of the rob- office, are open to all who deserve them in Pensacola .- We learn from a gentleman who lately arrived from Pensacola, (says the Mobile Gazette of October 20,) that Capt. Byles, to whom Gen. Jackson gave the command of a company of rangers, has had another brush with the Indians, and has been wounded and brought to Pensacola, although his party had the advantage of the Indians. We learn further, that part of the troops stationed at Pensacola had commenced their march for Appalachicola, but on the arrival of a messenger with despatches for the commander at Pensacola, they were ordered to return to that place.

anninna FROM THE PITTSBURG GAZETTE. The account of Col. D. Boon's death, we detest law suits, but want our me a fabrication, probably framed for the purpose of introducing the fanciful incident of this heroic woodsman, breathing his last with his cheek pressed against the butt of his favourite rifle. We have lately seen a gentleman who was at Col. Boon's house in August last, when the old gentleman was perfeetly healthy, and wore the appearance of not being more than 65 years of age, although he is between 80 and 90. His sight had failed him so much as to unfit him for his accustomed amusement and business of hunting This is almost the only symptom of old age which appears to affect him. The chase with him was a passion which he indulged to extravagance — When the periodical hunting season arrives, he represents himself as labouring under the most restless anxiety for some days, and he declares that nothing can compensate him for the pleasure he is depriv-ed of in not being able to pursue the buffalce and deer as formerly, to the centre of the Missouri deserts. The family of Col. Boon, consisting of his sons and daughters, with their wives and husbands, live near each other and form a most interesting groupe. So far from the characteristics of savage life which they have been represented to possess, the sons are described to us as well bred gentlemen, distinguished by some of those grand features of mind which are so often found in our native sons of the forest. They own a fine estate in land granted to the individuals of the family by the crown of Spain. They are eminently useful to strangers who explore the lands on the Missouri and Osage, and the hospitality of every branch of this family is the theme of every branch of this family is the theme of every traveller who extends his ourney to the neighborhood of their settle-

The alderman, general; bank director, and tailor, said in reply, very well, sir, you shall have them, and you will take care that the adjutant has the division on the ground at the precise hour. The Englishman, who attended these interviews, very leisurely lifted up his eye glass, and having viewed the tailor from top

There is a charm in sacred song. That lifes the pious tho't to heaven, That cheers the soul when troubles throng, And soothes the heart by anguish riven.

A charm, inspires the anxious breast, And fills the heart with pure devotion, That lulls the wayward thought to rest, And checks each wandering wild emotion.

A charm, that dries affliction's tear, In secret shed from many an eye, That soothes the grief o'er friendship's bier, And stifles virtue's hallowed sigh.

A charm, can yield a purer joy, Than aught on earth beside can give, Can soften pain when cares annoy, And bid each soothing transport live.

A charm, can quell each anxious fear, And calm the troubled mind to peace. Can yield a balm to soothe us here, And bid life's rankling sorrows cease.

A charm, that wakes each ling'ring hope, And cheers the gloom of melancholy, That bids the feeling heart to ope, And checks the thoughtless smile of folly. A charm, sends through the heart a thrill

Of pure, serene, uncloying pleasure, Which can each boist rous passion still, And fill of joy's bright cup the measure. A charm, the lonely pilgrim cheers,

That quells his griefs, that calms his fears, And soothes his hopes when friendships fail. A charm that bids the soul aspire Above this scene by tempests riven, That lights Religion's hallowed fire,

Journeying thro' life's gloomy vale,

And points the eye of faith to Heaven. From the Franklin Gazette "WHY WEEPEST THOU?

Does gloomy fate with sullen frown Consume thy soul with care? Hast thou the draught of misery known Whose dregs are dark despair; Art thou opprest with sorrow's doorn, Thy heart with anguish torn-

Oh, soon that sad and cheerless gloom Shall wake a brighter morn ! Then why should sorrow wring the brow, Say, mourner, say-" why weepest thou?"

Does tender love bedeck the bier, Is dust-with dust inurn'd? Has one-affection priz'd so dear To Heaven, and Gop-return'd! The beauteous flower, that charms the eye, And decks the smiling plain-With winter's blast, does fade, and die, But dies-to bloom again!

Then why should sorrow wring the brow, Say mourner, say-" why weepest thou?"

Law Anecdote of the late King of Prussia. at such an expense as ended in the ruin of concise and determinate, it is scarcely possible for an Englishman to perceive how ambiguous, equivocal, and voluminous he found those of Prussia. He found that about the construction even the judges differed, and there was only one method by which a radical cure could be effected: this method he adopted: burnt all the books, and in their place formed a short code, which might be understood by all. and could not be misinterpreted by the sophistry of professors. This done, he made an edict, prohibiting any more than four persons from practising the law in Berlin, or any part of his dominions. Many thousand acute and ingenious men being by this means thrown out of large incomes and a splendid mode of life, they determined to write a petition, stating, that by this, his majesty's determination, they were reduced to beggary, and entreating that he would, in great goodness and clemency, point out to them any employment which they might take up in lieu of that from which they were prohibited. His answer was, as usual, written at the bottom of the petition, and is still preserved among the royal archives.

"Such of you as are not tall enough for grenadiers may enlist as common soldiers, and those who are not tall enough for common soldiers shall be received as drummers "FREDERICK."

An American Sergeant .- In the battle of Niagara, such was the carrage among Colonel Jessup's officers, that he was obliged to place his standard in the hands of a sergeant, whose name was Fitch - While the colors, pierced with about 70 balls, were waving in the hands of this brave fellow, a shower of grape shot coming from the enemy cut the staff into three pieces. Fitch deliberately gathered up the scattered fragments, turned Jessup, who was near him, and said, with a amile, " Look, colonel, how they have cut this." In a moment afterwards a ball passed through his body. But even that was insufficient to move him. Alike powerful in person and resolute in mind, he neither felt nor flinched, but continued to wave his mutilated standard, until, becoming faint with the loss of blood, he was forced to resign it into the hands of another. Fitch recovered from his wound, and his good conduct being reported to the secretary of war, he was promoted to a 2d lieutenancy, his commission bearing date from the day on which he had thus distinguished himself. Port Folio

OP NING OF THE SESSION.

Ionday November 16, 1818. This morning both Houses of Congress convened, agreeably to a joing resolution of April last, in the building erected for their temporary accommodation, on the Capitol

The chair was aken, at 12 o'clock, by Mr Gaillard, president protem and the names of the members called over by the secretary, and a quorom being present, they proceeded to business: a committee was then appoin-ted, consisting of Mr. Dagget, Con. and Mr. Macon, N. C. to was on the President of the United States, in conjunction with one from the House, to inform him that they were prepared to receive any communications that he might think proper to make.

A message was received from the House, informing that a committee was appointed, jointly with that of the Senate, to wait on the President; and, after appointing the usual committees for conducting business, and adopting a resolution for supplying the members with newspapers, the Senate ad-

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The chair was taken, at 12 o'clock, by Mr Clay, Speaker, and the names of the members were called over by the clerk, a quorum was formed, 120 being present, a committee ppointed, in conjunction with that of the Senate, to wait on the President and inform him that they were ready to receive any communications he might think proper to the United States transmitted to both houses

That the members may be furnished with of Congress, by his Secretary, Mr. J. J. Mon. ros, the following

MESSAGE: Felow citizens of the Senate, and of the House of Representatives : The auspicious circumstances under which you will commence the duties of the present session, will lighten the burthen inseparable from the high trust committed to you. The fruits of the earth have been unusually abundant: commerce has flourished; the revenue has exceeded the most favorable anticipation, and peace and amity are preserved with foreign nations, on conditions just and honourble to our country. For these inestimable blessings, we cannot but be grateful to that

Providence which watches over the destinies As the term limited for the operation of the commercial convention with Great Bri tain will expire early in the month of July next, and it was deemed important that there should be no interval, during which that portion of our commerce, which was provided for by that convention, should not be regulated either by arrangement between the two governments, or by the authority of Congress, the Minister of the United States at London was instructed, early in the last summer, to invite the attention of the British government to the subject, with a view to that object. He was instructed to pro-pose, also, that the negociation which it was wished to open, might extend to the general Vanella and Tonqua commerce of the two countries, and to every other interest and unsettled difference be Beans for scenting tween them; particularly those relating to impressment, the fisheries, and boundaries, in the hope that an arrangement might be Vivory and Lampmade, on principles of reciprocal advantage, which might comprehend, and provide, in a satisfactory manner, for all these high conthe proposal was received by the British government in the spirit which prompted it, in the Apothecary line, which is used in the and that a negociation has been opened at London, embracing all these objects. On full consideration of the great extent and magnitude of the trust, it was thought proper to commit it to not less than two of our distinguished citizens, and, in consequence, the Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Ple-nipotentiary of the United States at Paris, has been associated with our Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary at London; to both of whom corresponding instructions have been given; and they are now engaged in the discharge of its duties. It is the existing convention should be continued for a term not less than eight years. Our relations with Spain remain nearly in the state in which they were at the close of the last session. The convention of 1802, providing for the adjustment of a certain por-tion of the claims of our citizens for injuries sustained by spoliation, and so long suspended by the Spanish government, has at length been ratified by it; but no arrangement has yet been made for the payment of another portion of like claims, not less extensive or well founded, or for other classes of claims, or for the settlement of boundaries. These subjects have again been brought under consideration in both countries, but no agreement has been entered into respecting them. In the mean time, events have occurred, which clearly prove the ill effect of the policy which that government has so long pursued. on the friendly relations of the two countries, which, it is presumed, it is at least of as much importance to Spain, as to the United States, to maintain. A state of things has existed in the Floridas, the tendency of which has been obvious to all who have paid the slightest attention to the progress of affairs in that quarter. Throughout the whole of those provinces to which the Spanish title extends, the government of Spain has scarcely been felt. Its authority has been confined almost exclusively to the walls of Pensacola and St. Augustine, within which only small garrisons have been maintained. Adventurers from every country, fugitives from justice, and abconding slaves, have found an asylum there. Several tribes of Indians, strong in the number of their warriors, remarkable for their ferocity, and whose settlements extend to our limits, inhabit those provinces. These different hordes of people, connected The Speaker laid before the house the constitution of the state of Illinois, which authority of Spain, and protected, on the other, by an imaginary line, which separates Florida from the United States, have violated our laws prohibiting the introduction of slaves, have practiced various frauds on our revenue, and committed every kind of outrage on our peaceable citizens, which their proximity to us enabled them to perpetrate The invasion of Amelia island, last year, by a small band of adventurers, not exceeding one hundred and fifty in number, who wrested it from the inconsiderable Spanish force stationed there and held it several only, was made to recover it. which failed, clearly proves how completely extinct the Spanish authority had become; as the conduct of those adventurers, while in posses-sion of the island, as distinctly shows the pernicious purposes for which their combination had been formed.

This country had, in fact, become the theatre of every species of lawless adventure. With little population of its own, the Spanish authority almost extinct, and the colonial governments in a state of revolution, having no pretension to it, and sufficiently employed in their own concerns, it was in a great measure derelict, and the object of cupidity, to every adventurer. A system-ofbuccaneering was rapidly organizing over it, which menaced, in its consequences, the lawful commerce of every nation, and particularly of the United States; while it presented a temptation to every people, on whose seduction its success principally depended. In regard to the United States, the perhicious effect of this unlawful combination, we snot confined to the ocean. The Indian tribes have constituted the effective force in Florida. With these tribes, these adventurers had formed, at an early period, a connection with a view to avail themselves of that force, to promote their own projects of accumulation and aggrandizement. It is to the interference of some of these adventurers, in misrepresenting the claims and titles of the Indians to land, and in practising on their savage pro-pensities, that the Seminole war is principally to be traced. Men who thus connect hemselves with savage communities, and stimulate them to war, which is always atended, on their part, with acts of barbarity the most shocking, deserve to be viewed in a worse light than the s vages. They would certainly have no claim to an immunity from the punishment, which, according to the rules of warfare practised by the savages, might justly be inflicted on the savages

If the embarrassments of Spain prevented er from making an indemnity to our citizens, for so long a time, from her treasury, for their losses by spoliation, and otherwise, it was always in her power to have provided it, by the cession of this territory. Of this, her government has been repeatedly apprized, and the cession was the more to have been anticipated, as Spain must have known that, in ceding it, she would, in effect, cede what had become of little value to her, and would likewise relieve herself from the important obligation secured by the treaty of 1795, and all other compromitments respecting it. If the United States, from consider proper to add, that, to prevent any inconvenience resulting from the delay incident to a pressing their claims in a spirit of hostility, negociation on so many important subjects, the motive ought, at least, to have been duly it was agreed, before entering on it, that appreciated by the government of Spain.
