From the Boston Patriot, Dec. 21. LATEST FROM ENGLAND.

The ship Triton, Capt. Holcomb, arrived here vesterday in 18 days from Liverpool. By this vessel, we have received from our correspondent, London papers to the 1st of November, inclusive and are indebted to Mr. Topliff for Liverpool papers to the 2d -nearly a fortnight later than former advices We have given as many extracts as our time and limits would permit.

The Triton brings despatches to the Secretary of State of the U States, containing the Treaty of Commerce concluded by Mr. Gallatin with the British Commissioners.

The London Courier of Oct. 23, contains the commercial treaty between this country and Sweden, negotiated by the hon. Jonathan Russell.

The British army is to be reduced 33 000 men Orders have been issued to the recruiting parties in London, to suspend recruiting men until further orders. The king of England has completed the 58th year of his reign, being two years longer than any monarch who ever before reigned in England. On the dem se of the queen it is said to be the intention of the ministry to propose to parliament a greatly diminished establishment for the king at Windsor. The care of his maje-ty to be confided to the allowance for his services.

LIVERPOOL, oct. 31. All the allied sovereigns and their ministers, except the emperor of Austria, have now left Aix la Chapelle, and have repaired to the frontiers of France, in order to review for the last time, the army of occupation, before its final departure.

Some transports are expected to leave London in a few days, with no less than and Sedan, they were expected to arrive 1500 volunteers, enrolled in this country in Paris on the morning of the 26th. It is into the expediency of providing, by law, provenents bad not yet because the providing of the 26th. for the insurgent army of S. America. A private letter from Madrid speaks of the great embarrassment in which the new minister of finance is placed. He cannot raise the loan by any means.

The private correspondence from Aix-la-Chapelle informs us, that the decision of Congress on the question between Bavaria and Baden has actually taken place, and has I been highly fivorable to the latter state ! The Grand Duke is to retain the whole of his dominions, except that part comprised within the Tauber Circle, which is to be immediately surrendered.

The Austrian Troops commenced their retreat over the Rhine on the 16th. It is said considerable desertions had occurred. Nov. 2 -The conference at Aix la Chapelle, so far as the sovereigns took a part in it, is concluded. The emperor of Russia and king of Prussia left that place on the 20th ult and have proceeded to Paris. The fortress of Valenciennes has been delivered up to France; being the first fortress that has been restored. From the London Observer of Oct. 25.

Differences with America adjusted-The matters, not in dispute exactly, but in un certainty, and which were left for arrangement between this country and America, at the conclusion of the late war, are said to have been, the greater number of them, hap pily settled by the commissioners appointed for that purpose on our part, and Mr. Gallatin on the other, before that gentleman quitted England. The boundary, which was left unsettled in the treaty at the end of | Calais. the revolutionary war, is now accurately fixed. This, if true, is a great point. A council of the Cabinet Ministers was held yesterday. The deliberations occupied a long time. A consultation was also held at the office of the Home Department.

A letter from Manchester, Oct. 27, says -" The cotton market was more brisk today than for several weeks past, and several extensive sales were effected: but I cannot quote any amendment in the prices, owing to the large importations."

We have received a German mail. The affairs of Baden, both as connected with the internal and external policy of that state, seem to excite an inexplicable degree of interest.-We are now assured, however, that all further ideas of military preparations are

Her Majesty the Queen, we are sorry to say still languishes under the most distress-Duke of York, who is to have an additional | ing exhaustion, and since her last paroxysm, the more virulent symptoms of her disorder have by no means so entirely subsided as they have done heretofore. Notwithstanding she appears by the bulletins to have slept well every night, yet the repose has not produced the slightest refreshment.

The Paris papers of Wednesday have arrived. The Emperor Alexander and the King of Prussia left Valenciennes on the said the king of Prussia will leave Paris on the 31st. It was not supposed the emperor of Russia would stop longer than one day, but depart on the 28th. The French funds continue in rather a depressed state. On Tuesday the 5 per cents left off at 74f. 95c. From London papers of Thursday Evening

This morning Paris papers of Monday last, were received. FROM HAYTI.

A Haytian paper of the 15th Oct. has the | izing punishment.

" We see with the greatest satisfaction and most lively interest, that the damages which the lightning occasioned at the Citadel Henry, on the 25th Aug. last, are repaired with incredible activity. Already a great part of the galleries of the upper batteries, which had fallen from the effect of the explosion, have been replaced, and in a short time of their residence. no traces will be left of the disaster."

In a paper of the 5th of November, alluding to some accounts of the extensive ruins of the explosion, the paper says the repairs are finished. At a single glance it is easy to determine this fact. The extreme elevation of the Citadel, and the height of its walls made it seen for twenty leagues around .-The vessels that pass on our coast will enable all on board to see with their own eyes not only that the citadel has suffered no loss, but the houses are rebuilt, and are more solid than before. And that the event, far from being disadvantageous, has been beneficial and the evil has proved a good, as it has obliged to correct what was before the most,

FOSIL DISCOVERIES IN OIHO. Facts concerning the bodies of fossil fish, and the remains of animals, found in the State of Onio-addressed by Caleb Atwater, good Log Building on the same. Esq of Circleville, to the Hon. Samuel L.

Mitchell, of New-York. DEAR SER-I am constantly engaged in investigating the natural history of this country, and collecting specimens tending to illustrate it, for your Lyceum. I have lately written an essay on the theology and mineralogy of the secondary sand-stone bordering on the Ohio river. But I am many times at a loss to know whether many of the fossil remains of animals which we have found here, have been disc vered elsewhere; and especially of scale fishes, of which I have several already, and hope soon to have more. In digging the canal through a secondary sand-stone at Zmesville, two fossil lishes, and what the people there call a rattlesnake, perfect and entire, were taken out of the rocks. The supposed serpent was not a rattle snake, but bore some resemblance to one. One of the fish they call a garr, such as inhabit the Ohio to this day; though it bore scarce y any resemblance to the common garr of that river, except in its size. But eighty head of SHEEP, on reasonable the fish which most excited my attention, and to which more particularly wish to draw yours, is a singular one, about three feet long, and somewhat more than eight inches in diameter at the largest place. Its scales were at least an eighth of an inch in thickness, each four clo-ely united together, and the spaces between the four scales in any relics, like the rock which contains them, are salicious. I have one now before me of a years of age, 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high slen markable region, are periwinkles (murex) madreporites, asterites, and belemnites, and old shoes. John A. Chevallie,

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LONDON MORNING

CHRONICLE. SIR-So many reports are affoat concerning the rising navy of America—that formidable opponent, with whom Great Britain will find it a difficult task to contend before half a century has passed away, that I shall feel obliged if you will permit me, through the medium of your paper, to state what that navy is at the present time, and what it will be in a few years. I have not been four months from America. At New York a line of battle ship and three frigates of fortyeight guns were lying; in Hampton roads, a three decker, flush fore and aft, without a poop (that useless appendage, merely to provide the admiral a state cabin) was at anchor, attended by two sloops of war, mounting 30 guns each. I visited the three decker, General Washington, and although prepared to defend the nautical abilities of my own country against all the world; I was completely (to use language familiar to com-mon minds) "knocked on the head with astonishment." The decorations of an American line of battle ship's interior, are far superior to ours, the expences being defrayed by the nation; and as to military equipment, they outrival us with a vengeance. Regular mechanics, bred to the trade, are employed to take care of the arms; every sword glitters in polished steel, and its edge is so fine, that but for its unwieldy size, you might shave with it. The tomahawk for boarding (and which are the best instruments that can be placed in the hands of a British sailor) are of the finest metal, and peculiar in their make. All the guns run upon slides, which I consider a great improvement. In fact, Mr. Editor (I have not time to enter into details) the American ships of war are fitted out in superior style; and England, the mistress of the wave, will be obliged to take a lesson of instruction from them

The Americans have now affoat nine ships of the line, seventeen frigates, and twelve sloops of war. All of those sloops of war mount thirty four guns, and a match for any of our smaller class of frigates.

On the stocks America has eleven sail of he line, most of them will be launched before another year has passed away, and there are frigates laid down in every port. It benoves us to watch with a careful eye on the increasing maritime power of America. That country has already defied and defeated us in single combat; she will very soon encounter us with a whole fleet.

STATE OF THE AMERICAN NAVY. | the British Navy (frequently alongside of Americans, as friends and foes) have enabled me to make. - On the remarks I venture to assert, that it is not presuming too much to say, that my opinions are in unison with those of the greater part of my brother officers, who have had an opportunity of observing American naval discipline. Of the allusions to private transactions of some of the members of admiralty, I have only to observe, that it is a pity that a gentleman should allow himself to blend apparently useful information with private scandal. Though Mr. M. like myself, perhaps, has been disappointed in promotion by causes, that, as fallible human creatures, we could not possibly foresee or avoid; yet

Mr. Mitford observes, that, "the encouragement given to Seamen in the American Navy induces Seamen to enter it! There is no flogging; no degrading a man to the level of a beast. Human nature is estimated at its proper value; the noble mind is cherished and rewarded." It is really astonishing, Mr. Editor, that any man, in his right senses, should attempt to palm such an asser-tion on the British public for truth! I will stake my existence, that there was more flogging and starting with ropes'—ends, in the few ships composing the American Navy than there were floggings (startings have been long abolished in our Navy) in the Mediterranean Fleet, consisting of nearly one hundred ships of war, between any given periods, from the year 1809 on to 1815! Should this remark be too general, take the following par exemple: - Shortly after our late peace with America, I was dining at the Commercial Hotel in Havannah, where were also several American Officers, commanding a small squadron of gun-boats, which put into that port, on their way to attack the freebooters of the island of Barataria. After dinner, one of them invited me on board his gun-boat, to see some men who had been injured by the blowing up of gunpowder. I accompanied him on board of his ves-el; and I will allow you, Mr. Editor, and Mr. Mitford, to judge of my surprise, to see several men manacled with irons on both hands and feet, and some of them gagged with pump bolts, and other pieces of iron, to prevent them expressing

No officer in the British navy, under the Captain commanding, can inflict a lash on any culprit! -- here a master's mate exercised all the necessary duties of his absent commencing officer, from his own feeling mind, that according to Mr M. urged him to "estimate human nature at its proper value," and to chersia. and reward the seamen" Should this case. to the veracity of which I pledge my henour not suffice, I can cite many others not less encouraging to British seamen to leave the comforts of their own ships, regulated by a superintending Parliament, and enter on board of those of America. It has been our rare fortune in the progress of this miscellany, to be the harbingers of the various important discoveries which, our apathy at home, and the exertions of our in a clear and popular manner; and it is active brethren across the Atlantic, without our glory, in regard to several of them, that in recommending them, we have often stood alone, and have generally been opposed by contemporary journalists, and not unfrequently by professors of science. We have now to announce another publication of phi-losophy to the arts of life, so pregnant with advantages and extensive in its purposes; as to threaten an entire revolution in the economy and formation of our domestic establish ments. In the number for April last, we introduced the details of a system of warming result of all the observations on American discipline, which fifteen years active service in stated in such clear terms the advantages of
