General Intelligence.

EPISCOPAL CONVENTION, NEW YORK.—On the first day, a president could not be elected, the candidates being Rev. Drs. Creighton and Wainwright. On the second day Dr. Wainwright was withdrawn by John C. Spencer and Dr. Creighton elected unanimously. A resolve declaring the "solemn conviction of the convention that the Rt. reverend Bishop T. Onderdonk, even if his restoration to office were practicable, can never perform the episcopal functions in this diocese with any prospect of usefulness to the church," was laid on the table, on motion of Mr. Spencer: ayes, clergy 82, laity 66—148; noes, clergy 47, laity 63—110. The fund committee reported that they had concluded to pay Bishop Onderdonk what was due to him on the 3d January, and withhold what is due since, $1,766 69. The Standing Committee nominated by what is termed the High Church party, was elected by a decided majority. On Saturday evening a compromise between the two parties appears to have been made—the Bishop being allowed a handsome salary, and the Standing Committee being authorized to procure the services of a neighboring Bishop when necessary.—Constitution.

The Morning News contains a statement of the population of the city of New York, as ascertained by a recent State census. It now amounts to 366,785. In 1840 it was 312,710, showing an increase in five years of 54,075! The News says:—She stands, as compared with the leading cities of the world, according to the late enumera-

The population of London proper, it will be seen, is but 125,000, but with its suburbs, amounts to 2,560,281. The suburban population of many of the other cities of Europe is included in the returns. If we embrace Brooklyn as the suburbs of New York, which it really is, inasmuch as that its population is composed of those who do business here, and move over there for convenience the population of Brooklyn being now 59,925—the population of New York proper would amount to 425,710 souls, and give New York the fifth rank in the commercial world. She has attained this rank almost altogether through her natural advantages, unaided by any of those extraordinary enterprises which have of late given such an impulse to the prosperity of Boston.

PATRICK HENRY.—Some very interesting reminiscences of this great orator is in Howe's Historical collections of Virginia,—a work recently published and likely to be of a good deal of interest not only to the people of the Old Dominion, but to the citizens of other States. In this work occurs this passage, stating Henry's opinion on an, important point of our Constitution.

"He was opposed to the adoption of the Fede-

'In the British debt cause, of which Wirt gives a full account, Mr. Henry made great preparation. He shut himself in his office for three days, during which he did not see his family; his food being handed by a servant through the office door.— The countess of Huntington, then in this country was among the auditors, and remarked, after hearing the arguments of several speakers, 'that if every one of them had spoken in Westminster Hall, they would have been honored with a peerage.' This case, says Wirt, was discussed with so much learning, argument, and eloquence, as to have placed the bar of Virginia, in the estimation of the federal Judges, (if the report of the day may be credited, above all others in the United States. Mr. Henry on this occasion had a diamond ring on his finger, and while he was speaking, the countess exclaimed to the Judge, Iredell —who had never before heard him—'The diamond is blazing!" 'Gracious God!' replied he,
'he is an orator indeed.' In this cause he injured his voice so that it never recovered its original power.'-New York Courier and Enquirer.

THE MORMON TEMPLE .- This monster work in the far West is progressing and excites the won-der of all who look at it. Is it intended as a place of worship? It is said not. The people are to assemble without to worship; the saints alone are to enter within the "holy of holies." The War-to enter within the "holy of holies." The Warsaw Signal insists upon it, however, that the temple has another object. It says:

"The temple, in reality, however, is designed, in our opinion for a fortification. It has regular port holes, in the shape of round windows, in the second story, and is in every respect well situated for a fortification. The wall enclosing five or six acres around the building, is about four feet thick, which can be intended for no other purpose than defence. The idea of its being intended merely as the foundation of an ornamental railing, as pretended by the Saints, is preposterous."

GOVERNMENT PATRONAGE.—The General Gov. ernment controls the appointment of 14,000 post-masters, 14,000 deputies, 1,000 mail contractors and agents, 2,000 revenue and light-house officers —making in all 33,000 public dependants. Every State controls 2,000 appointments, and all of them 54,000. The General and State Govern-ment, together, control 87,080 men. This is ex-clusive of army, navy, and the troop persons are clusive of army, navy, and the troop persons em-ployed by the Executive officers of the National State Governments.

Sion or a Tedious Winter.—It is a remarkable fact, that bees, this year, have almost universally refused to swarm; and in some instances, after filling their hives, they have commenced laying up store on the outside. Such extraordinary conduct of these weather wise and provident insects it is thought, indicates a winter of unusual length and severity.

Health of New Orleans.—The Picayune of the 21st inst. says:—It is with unfeinged pleasure that we can announce the continued good health which prevails in the city. It is meet for us to acknowledge the hand of a kind Providence in shielding us completely from the visitation of an epidemic.

German Publications.—No less than six thousand books and pamphlets in all branches of human knowledge, were published in Germanny during the year 1844. A fourth part of them consisted of theological treatises, sermons, and works of piety; nine hundred were of theology proper.

A Miser.
A correspondent of the Journal of Commerce A correspondent of the Journal of Commerce relates the following:

"An old man died last summer at Paris, at the advanced age of eighty-five, who was a perfect miser. He came to Paris, accompanied by his miser. He came to Paris, accompanied by his son, about three years since, in the most abject state of poverty. They depended entirely upon their neighbors for subsistence, and were in the daily habit of begging from door to door for something to support them. One of the neighbors, having missed seeing the old man for a few days, went in search of him, and found him just breathing his last in a miserable hovel, destitute of every necessary. He was lying on a hear of straw in ing his last in a miserable hovel, destitute of every necessary. He was lying on a heap of straw in one corner of the hut, without any covering. In the same place was his son, about sixteen years old crying most piteously. On asking the reason, he said that his father has been without any food for more than two days and that he had not a sous to purchase any. Observing near the straw a large iron bound chest he enquired what it contained. The son replied that his father had told him it was full of iron. He then proposed selling him it was full of iron. He then proposed selling it, and, having procured a key, then opened it; but what was to their astonishment on finding it filled with gold pieces (coins of Louis XVI) instead of iron, amounting in all to one hundred and fifty thousand francs; ($30,000.) It was supposed the old man had accumulated this large sum by begging. His son became almost insane on this fortune, but he amply rewarded the neighbor who assisted him."

who assisted him." FIERY FOUNTAIN.—If twenty grains of Phosphorus be cutvery small, and mixed with forty grains of granulated or powdered zinc, and put into half an ounce of water, with two drachms of concen trated sulphuric acid, phosphorated hydrogen gas will quickly cover the whole surface of the fluid in succession, forming a complete fountain of

Dr. Sharp, who is now on a visit to Europe, writes thus from Edinburg:

"I never wish to see the extremes in America that every where meet me in the populous cities in great Britain. Oh, how much better, how more desirable is the condition of society with us than in this ancient land. Could laborers and mechanics and attenuable see the condition of than in this ancient land. Could laborers and mechanics and artizans only see the condition of their own similar classes in this country, they would enjoy their superior condition with thankfulness and joyousness of heart. For the great multitude of human beings no country can be compared to the United States. And the greatest good of the greatest number, without injustice or unfairness to the smallest number is what every true lover of his kind must desire to see." true lover of his kind must desire to see."

Bishop Soule says, that there has been a derease of 45,435 members of the northern section of the Methodist church the past year, and an in-crease of 9,703 in the southern section, while the total increase of the preceding year was 155,000. He ascribes it to the contention and strifes that

THERTY-SIX INDICTMENTS.—We learn from the Port Tobacco Times that "the grand jury of Charles county has found 36 indictments against Mark Coent, a free negro, for aiding and assisting in the escape of slaves from that county. The penalty is six years confinement in the penitentiary on each indictment, or 216 years in all! He certainly stands a fair chance of doing the state some service."

The Alleghany Methodist Conference lately relved, "that no minister shall be admitted into this conference who uses tobacco in any of its forms except as a medicine, and in that case satisfactory evidence shall be given." This decree will be likely to end in smoke.

The northern part of Orleans county, New York, as visited on the 20th instant by a terrible tornado. Its track was 160 rods wide and 17 or 20 miles in length. It is said that large forest trees were twisted from their trunks and hurled through the air like feathers; orcherds were prostrated and many barns and houses were blown down.—
Some of the ablest farmers in the county are said to be ruined; and many have sustained heavy losses. A report was in circulation that a woman and her child had disappeared.

ABOLITION RIOT ON THE ATLANTIC .- The New Abolition Riot on the Atlantic.—The New York Herald learns that Captain Judkins, of the steam ship Cambria, one of the Boston and Liverpool mail packets, on her last trip to England, had a negro named Douglass, among the passengers. When half way over the Atlantic, Captain J. brought Douglass forward on the quarter-deck, and called the passengers together in order to have an abolition meeting. This step, of course, lead to difficulty, and as the negroabused America and the Americans, there arose a general uproar. the Americans, there arose a general uproar.—
The ladies were much alarmed, and had the Captain persisted in his abolition efforts there would have been a serious riot in the midst of the ocean's roar, and the negro tossed to the sharks. If the Cunard steamers are to take negro passengers and have riots in the Atlantic, very few whites will go in them.—Keystone.

From the Londonderry (Ireland) Sentine THOUGHT AND DEED.

BY G. B. KENNEDY.

Full many a light thought man may cherish,
Full many an lille deed may do;
Yet not a deed or thought may perish—
Not one but he shall bless or rue.

When by the wind the tree is shaken, There's not a bough or leaf can fall, But of its falling heed is taken, By One who sees and governs all. The tree may fall and be forgotten, And buried in the earth remain; Yet from its juices rank or rotten, Springs vegetating life again.

The world is with creation teeming, And nothing ever wholly dies, And things that are destroyed in seeming, In other shapes and forms arise.

And nature still unfolds the tissue
Of unseen works by spirit wrought;
And not a work but has its issue
With blessings or with evil frought. And thou may et seem to leave behind thee, All memory of the simil past; Yet oh, be sure thy sins shall find thee, And thou shall know its fruits in last.

Destruction of the World. Many of our citizens doubtless well remember the excitement produced hereabouts, as well as in some other portions of Virginia, by the Prophecy of Nimrod Hughes, that the world was to be destroyed on the 4th of June, 1812. An edition of the pamphlet was printed at the Martinsburg Gazette office, for an old man named Crawford, who zette clice, for an old man named Crawford, who poddled the Prophecy about, and in some instances met with rather a rough reception for frightening the women and children, and not a few of the men also. When the dreaded day came, not a speck of cloud was to be seen, and Nimrod's pridiction had no other effect than to alarm the timid, and "put money in the purse" of some adventurers.

The following article from the Abingdon Virginian, gives some items of interest concorning ginlan, gives some items of interest concerning Nimrod.—Win. Rep.

THE LAST PROPHET. Nimnon Hughes, one of the most remarkable men, perhaps, of the age, died at his residence in this vicinity, on Thursday, the 4th ult., aged about 72 years. He was of obscure origin, grew to manhood in obscurity, and, like a passing meteor, he made one grand display, then relapsed back again to his native obscurity, and lived and died unhonored and unknown. His life, were its incidents known and collected, would form a curious scene of vicinities with here and there a recent dents known and collected, would form a curious scene of vicissitude, with here and there a green apot in the great desert of existence. Though not remarkable for any brilliancy of intellect or high moral attainments, he nevertheless possessed strong native sense, and too much tact and discretion to be understood or detected. He looked upon mankind as a vast herd, nearly equally divised into two great classes—knaves and fools—the first of whom were to be dealt with in their own coin, while the fears and superstitions of the latter were to be operated upon at the pleasure and latter were to be operated upon at the pleasure and to the advantage of those who might prey upon

A Mr. Jameson in England, is teaching what is called colored music, by which persons are taught to perform on the piano almost at the first touch of the keys. The pupils play from sight. The keys of the piano forte are colored to various lengths, to correspond with similar colors in the book; color being note, height being octave, and length being time.

The Alleghany Mathedist Conference lately as them.

It was upon the latter class he operated in 1811, by means of that prophecy which well-nigh turned some portions of the world topsy-turvy. We have an indistinct recollection of its effects—it was written in the most chaste and ingentious style, by another pen, but in the name of Nimrod Hughes. Its circulation was co-extensive almost with Christendom, and it was put into the hands of people of distant nations, and translated into their own language. Thousands upon thousands looked with lear and trembling for the awful consummation of his prediction, and we have seen a smile of triumph play upon the old man's features, when has declared he was instrumental in converting more sinners that year, than all the campmentings in the land.

His prophecy had its origin thus:—A gentleman in this neighborhood, upon rising one morning, found his meat-house broken open and his bacon stolen. From previous threats of revenge for some imaginary grievance, suspicion fell upon Nimrod, who, in the absence of ball, was "shut up in durance vile" to await his trial. From some defect in the glorious uncertainties of the common law, his period of incarceration was protracted, during which, although finally acquitted, the plot was laid and accomplished which has stamped his name with immortality—the Prophecy of the Judgment in 1812. Like the letters of Junius, the name of the author was never discovered; and, alings in the land. name of the author was never discovered; and, al-though Nimrod realized but little by his copy right, he shone with a borrowed light for a season, whilst he shone with a borrowed light for a season, whilst others gathered the harvest.

Taken altogether, he was, as stated in the outset, a remarkable man—shrewd, discriminating and wary. As a land speculator, he had, at one time, but few equals, and became acquainted with every line and corner throughout this whole region of country. Over many in his sphere, the ignorant and credulous, he exercised an extensive influence, and partially subsisted upon the effects of their superstition. Up to his last illness, which was of some two or three month's continuance, he was as active, his eye as bright, and his step as elastic, as a man of forty. Although strictly temperate in his habits, and to all appearance enterprising and industrious, his pathway uniformly lay through the vale of adversity, and he at last died the tenant of a rude cabin in the midst of his native hills. native hills.

He is gathered to his fathers, alike insensible to earthly good or ill; and, if he could not hoast the prowest of "Nomrod the mighty hunter," he lived a chequered and eventful life, and has gone down to the grave, the last of the prophets.

NOT GENERALLY KNOWN .- The St. Louis Re veille—a capital paper it is too, waking up sleepy people with its rub-a-dub—has the following, which deserves to be writ in letters of gold, where "The parent which would train up a child in the way he should go, must go in the way that he would train up the child."

Ah—an ounce of example is worth whole tons of recept; and there would be a great saving of precept; and there would be a great saving of scholdings and whippings, if people could learn to govern themselves before they undertake to govern these United States prosperous and happy!—How much of riches like this to steep a nation in the véry dregs of poverty and crime?

On this subject the Saturday American well says:

What does the consumer get for his money but disease and death when he makes a purchase of alchohol? What does he obtain for his money when he makes a parchase of flour? Nourishment, life, comfort, joy, strength, which enable him to labor and grow rich. Is it not better, then, to have the grain that produced it, than the ton million gallons of alchohol, which operates as the seed of a thousand murders, a thousand suicides, ten thousand adulteries, twenty thousand thefts, a million of slanders, a million of fights, a hundred duels, innumerable desertions, premature widowand murders, at thousand thefts, a million of slanders, a million of fights, a hundred duels, innumerable desertions, premature widowand from impression of the fuman family, and implety towards God.

The Death of a Child.

The Death of a Child.

And no one feels the death of a child as a mother feels it. Even the father cannot realize it thus. There is a vacancy in his home, and a heaviness in his heart. There is a chain of association that at set times comes round with its broken link, at there are memorics of endearment, a keen sense of loss, a weeping over crushed hopes, and a chain of wounded affection. But the mother feels that one has been taken away who was still closer to the heart. Hers has been the office of constant ministration? Every gradation of feature was developed before her eyes. She has detected every new gleam of intelligence. She has detected every new gleam of intelligence. She has been the refuge of his fears; the supply of his wants.—And every task of affection has woven a new link, and made dear to her its object. And when he dies, a portion of her own life, as it were, dies. How can she give him up with all these memories, these associations? The timid hands that have so often taken hers in trust and love, how can she fold them on his breast, and give them up to the cold clasp of death? The feet whose wandering she has watched so narrowly, how can she see them straightened to go down into the dark valler? cold clasp of death? The feet whose wandering she has watched so narrowly, how can she see them straightened to go down into the dark valley? The head she has pressed to her lips and her bosom, that she has watched in burning sickness and in peaceful slumber, a hair of which she could not see harmed, O! how can she consign it to the chamber of the grave? The form that not for one inight has been beyond her vision or her knowledge, lov can she put it away for the long night of the sepulchre, to see it no more? Man has cares and tolls that draw away his thoughts and employ them; she sits in loneliness, and all these memories, all these suggestions, crowd upon hor. How can she bear all this? She could not, were it not that her faith is as her affection; and if the one is more deep and tender than in man, the other is more simple and spontaneous, and takes confidently hold of the hand of God.

[Rev. E. H. Chapin,

An Ancedote of War. 'I have somewhere read of a regiment ordered to march into a small town and take it. I think it was in Tyrol; but wherever it was, it chanced it was in Tyrol; but wherever it was, it chanced that the place was settled by a colony who believed the Gospel of Christ, and proved their faith by works. A courier from a neighboring village informed them that troops were advancing to take the town. They quietly answered, if they will take it, they must. Soldiers soon came riding in with colors flying, and files piping their shrill defiance. They looked round for an enemy, and saw the farmer at his plough, the blacksmith at his anvil, and the women at their churns and spinning wheels. Babies crowded to hear music, and the boys ran out to see pretty trainers, with feaththe boys fan out to see pretty trainers, with feathers and bright buttons, the harlequins of the nineteenth century.' Of course none of these were in a proper position to be shot at. 'Where are your soldiers?' they asked. We have none,' was the brief reply. 'But we have come to take the town.' 'Well, friends, it lies before you.' 'But is there nobody here to fight?' 'No; we are all Christians.'

Christians.'

Hore was an emergency altogether unprovided for; a sort of resistance which no bullet could hit; a fortress perfectly bomb-proof. The commander was perplexed. 'If there is nobody to fight with; of course we cannot fight,' said he.—
'It is impossible to take such a town as this. So he ordered the horses' heads to be turned about, and they carried the human animals out of the wilden as swilless as they extend and perchange. village, as guiltless as they entered, and perchance somewhat wiser.

This experiment on a small scale indicates how casy it would be to dispense with armics and navies, if men only liad faith in the religion they profess to believe. When France lately reduced her army, England immediately did the same; for stances, is one of the most desirable things in the the existence one army creates the necessity for another, unless men are safely ensconced in the bomb-proof fortress above mentioned.'

else. Fashion is every thing—and nothing— There is neither reason nor common sense, comfort nor convenience about it. One ecason she will pad women up till they look like hogsheads, and the next squeeze them up till they may be compar-ed to a cornstalk—deck their head at one time with a bonnet nearly the size of a wind-mill, and at another with one hardly big enough for a mouse's nest—dress men one year with coat skirts as nar-row as possible, and the next fasten on them skirts row as possible, and the next fasten on them skirts wide enough for an over-coat—gives them tall hats one season and short the next—broad brims give place to narrow ones; and bell-crowns to peaked—and allows the lads to go a courting before they are old enough to be fairly free from their mother's apron strings. Fashion is fashion, and will be, and men and women must follow the fashions, lot them be ever so ridiculous. We would give not a little to see a woman full-rigged of 1829, '30 and '31—with hooped dress, large sleeves, stiffners, and the big bonnet with all her hair done up in form. We woulder that some Yankee girl, who has preserved a full set of gear, don't start out and has preserved a full set of gear, don't start out and exhibit herself in fashion. It would be a grand speculation, and we doubt not excite more attention than an elephant, and draw crowded houses, and yet that fashion was not more unbecoming than the present.—Factory Girls' Garland.

Industry bears the same relation to agriculture, that action did to eloquence in the action did to eloquence in the action of the section of uence in the estimation of the Athenian orator. whence in the estimation of the Athenian orator. With industry the farmer may accomplish anything, without it, he can do nothing. Let him then study the value of time. Time is his great capital, and should be well invested. The wealth of the world, its high civilization, and all its magnificent improvements, have been created and fashioned by the labor and industry of man; the poorest soil and most unfavorable climates are scarce impediments to an industrious and energetic people impediments to an industrious and energetic people Look at Holland, reclaimed from the ocean, fenced in by her embankments and mud walls, literally a smiling garden, where once there was nothing a smiling garden, where once there was nothing but bogs and ocean waves. Look at Switzerland, where an industrious but hardy peasantry, contending against the avalanches of snow and ice, and mountain masses of rock, falling and crushing for miles overy thing before them, have cut the hills and mountains, into terraces, and planted them with vines. Lands, which before were worse than nothing, by this improvement sell for ten thousand france per acre.

Great indeed is the task assigned to woman; who can elevate its dignity? Not to make laws; not to lead armies, not to govern empires; but to form those by whom laws are made, armies led, and empires governed; to gnard against the slighest taint of bodily infirmity, the frail yet spot-less creature must be derived from her; to inspire those principles, to inculcate those doctrines, to animate those sentiments which generations yet unborn and nations yet uncivilized shall learn to bless; to soften firmness into mercy and chasten honor into refinement; to exalt generosity into virtue; by a soothing care to allay the auguish of the mind; by her tenderness to disarm passion; by her purity to triumph over sense; to cheer the scholar sinking under his toil; to console the statesman for the ingratitude of a mistaken people; to be compensation for friends that are perfidious, for happiness that has passed away.—
Such is her vocation. The couch of the tortured sufferer, the prison of the deserted friend, the cross of the rejected Saviour—these are theatres on which her greatest triumphs have been achieved. Such is her destiny; to visit the forsaken, to attend the neglected when monarchs abandon, when counsellors betray, when justice persecutes, when brethren and disciples fles. In vernale, maskelow tend the neglected when monarchs abandon, when counsellors betray, when justice persecutes, when brethren and disciples flee, to remain unshaken and unchanged; and to exhibit in this lower world a type of love, pure, constant, and ineffable, which in another world we are taught to believe the fest of virtue.—Blackwood's Magazine.

A dark feature in the present age, said the late Dr. Channing, "is the spirit of collision, conten-tion and discord which breaks forth in religion, tion and discord which breaks forth in religion, politics, in private affairs—a result and necessary issue of the selfishness which prompts the endices activity of life. The mighty forces which are this moment acting in society are not and cannot be in harmony, for they cannot be governed by love. They jar—they are discordant. Life has now little music in it. It is not only on the field of battle that men fight. They fight on the exchange. Business is war, is conflict of skill, management, too often fraud. Christians forsaking their one Lord, gather under various standards to gain victory for their sects. Politics is war, breaking the whole people into fierce and unserupulous parties, which forget their country in conflict for office and power. The age needs nothing more than peace makers; men of serene, commanding virtue, to preach in life and word the gospel of human brotherhood to allay the fires of jealousy and hate."

Gorke in Alone.—One of the Rochester papers tells a clever story of the celebration of the fourth of July, by one of the patrictic citizens of that town, by himself. Disdaming the annoyance of a crowd, and detesting gunpowder fulminations, he shut himself up in the solitude of his office where after locking the door and putting the key into his pocket, he produced for his individual and private fructification two bottles not of recent vintage. He then proceeded to read the declaration of Independence, and John Adams' immortal letter. Afterwards he delivered an eloquent, patriotic and impressive oration. Next he sung a national ode. At this stage of the proceedings he confesses a At this stage of the proceedings he confesses a degree of thirst, and dispensing with the dinner he removed the cloth. He recollects having drank a toast for each of the thirteen States, but conceived that he lost himself among the volunteers. He feels sure however that his love of country was never more ardent, or his attach-ment to free institutions more sincere than on stances, is one of the most desirable things in the world; and few as they are who ever possess it, it is in reality very easily acquired. It may all be done by strictly adhering to the following resolution: Whenever you feel angry, ill-natured, vexed, or insulted, never do anything, or say anything, which would give expression to that feeling, until it is entirely abated. By practicing rigidly on this rule, you will soon, instead of being the slave of your passions, make those passions your rervants.

A GRAND JOKE. - Some wags took a drunken fellow, placed him in a coffin with the lid left so he could raise it, placed him in a grave-yard, and walted to see the effect. After a short time the fumes of the liquor left him, and his position being rather confined, he sat upright, and after looking round, exclaimed, "Well, I'm the first that's iz! or else I'm confoundedly belated.

Slander, says Lacon, cannot make the subject of it either better or worse. It may represent us in a false light, or place a likeness of us in a bad one. But we are the same. Not so the slanderer,—the slander he utters makes him worse, the No one, says Jerome, loves to tell a scandal except to him that loves to hear it; learn then to check and rebuke the detracting tongue, by showing that you do not listen to it with pleasure.

"Sir, you have an education, I suppose," said an illiterate preacher in Maine, to a learned cler-gyman, "Yes, sir," was the reply. "I am thank-ful," rejoined the former, "that the Lord has opened my mouth to preach without any learning."
A similar event," replied the latter took place in Balaam's time; but such things are of rare occurrence at the present day."

Goon Teachers.—In every age, even among the heathen, the necessity has been felt of having good school masters, in order to make any thing respectable of a nation. But surely we are not to sit still and wait until they grow up of themselves. We can neither chop them out of wood, nor hew them out of stone. God will work no maricles to furnish that which we have means to provide; we must therefore, apply our care and money to train up and make them.—Martin Luther.

Instinct or Reason.—The question is as to whether animals are capable of "ratiocination"—there is nothing like a hard word—or whether they act alone upon the impulses of instinct, may, perhaps, have light thrown upon it by the fact mentioned by Scoresby, that an elderly pig in Cinnati always lies down as soon as a boy come in sight, that the youngster may not exercise and improve his equestrian skill by riding on its back, as boys are apt to do. It appears to us, therefore, that one of two things is true—either that the elderly pig draws an inference, or that Scoresby draws a long bow.

PORTICAL—VERY.—I sat by the open windo on a fine dewing morning. The stars shone at and the moon flung her mild beams over the root that bounded my view. The birds had retived rest—the wakeful frogs made music in the neighboring marsh, and the fire flies bespanged edarkness. Looking out on the charming scene. I raised my eyes to the milky way, and recollect that I had not a clean shirt for Sunday.

MARYLAND ELECTION.

The Democracy of Maryland have achieved a great triumph. In the last Congress their entire delegation was Whig; in the next, there will be but two of that party, the Democrats having carried four of the Districts. Mr. KEY, the Democratic candidate, is only beaten 355 votes, while in the Presidential election the Whig majority was 1,200. In the 6th district Martin, the Democratic candidate, is beaten only 156 votes, while the Whig majority at the Presidential election was 1,500. The following is the aggregate vote

The Legislature stands 43 Whigs to 39 Democrats-last year it was 61 to 21. The Senate last year was largely Whig, and as only one member was elected this year, we had no opportunity of overcoming the large majority against us.

We have gained, however, four members of Congress, have the popular vote by more than 2,000, gained 18 members in the lower House and 1 in the Senate of the State. Notwithstanding all this, however, the "Free Press" presumes so much on either the ignorance or credulity of its readers, as coolly to assure them that "after all the crowing of the Locofocos, they have gained nothing substantial in Maryland." Hear its excuses for defeat in the Congressional contest:

"In the Congressional elections, it is true, the Whigs have suffered. Mr. Kennedy's election was lost by the running of a Native American ticket,Mr. Wethered's district was always Loco Foco it has only put itself into its old position of dark-ness; the Cumberland District was lost by a thin vote; and the fifth district, (Harford, &c.,) was lost by an artful move upon 'Constitutional Reform,' &c. Whilst the Locos had the offices in Maryland, they saw no need of Reform; but as soon as these were lost, every thing in their eyes, needed renovation; and some Whigs, as usual, were found 'soft enough,' to be caught in the

"But it is immaterial as to the Congressional result for the present. The majority was already overwhelming, and the more power the "Spoilers" have to do prompt mischief, the sooner will the remedy be applied."

It is rather surprising it can bear defeat with so much equanimity, particularly as an acquisition has been made to the "SPOILERS," and their means for doing "mischief" increased.

Mr. Polk's Kane Letter.

When the Swiss letter writer of the Charleston Mercury-a paper professing to be friendly to the Administration, but whose friendship has done more to embarrass its action and engender discord than all the Whig papers in the Union—asserted that Mr. Walker was the author of Mr. Polk's Kane Letter, the Whig press really chuckled that they had now so good an opportunity for attack. But this, like all the other causes for opposition short lived. It seems that this correspondent of the Mercury is one notorious Cyril V. Grey, an unnaturalized Englishman, and altogether an unprincipled slanderer and traducer. When the charge was first put forth, the Union, on its own authority, pronounced the " whole statement false from beginning to end, without a solitary circumstance of any kind, however remote, to base it To this emphatic declaration of the "Union," branding Mr. Grey as it did, with deliberate and premeditated falsehood, he had of course to invent some mode for his escape, and put the responsibility on another. This he does, by giving as his authority the Hon: Reverdy Johnson of Maryland, whom he says was "informed by another Senator, that Mr. Walker himself had told him that he was the author of the Kane Letter." Mr. Johnson is now in Europe and it is believed that Grey has taken advantage of his absence, to make him shoulder a base and slanderous charge. But, let the matter have originated where it may, the "Union," by authority, thus emphatically answers the charge and disposes of its authors :-"We are authorized by the President of the United States, and by the Secretary of the Treasury, to state, that the statement of the correspondent of the "Charleston Mercury," whose commudent of the "Charleston Mercury," whose commu-nication we publish above, "that Mr. Walker, the nication we publish above, "that Mr. Walker, the Secretary of the Treasury, is the author of President Polk's letter to Mr. Kane, on the subject of the Tariff," written on the 19th June, 18:44, is "false in all its parts, from beginning to end, without a solitary circumstance of any kind, however remote, to base it upon. The whole statement is unqualifiedly untrue." Mr. Polk wrote that letter at his residence in Tennessee, on the 19th day of June 1844, where it bears date, and mailed it at that place to Mr. Kane, at Philadelphia. Mr. Walker was at Washington city at that time, and Walker was at Washington city at that time, and was as ignorant that any such letter had been written, or that Mr. Polk intended to write such a letter, until it was published in the newspapers as any man in the country who never had heard Walker was never consulted by President Polk about writing the letter, or about its President Polk, in that letter, reiterated his President Polk, in that letter, reiterated his opinions on the Tariff—opinions which he had often before publicly avowed, and upon which he had acted during the period when he was a member of Congress. Mr. Walker did not know even that Mr. Kane intended to write, or that he had written any letter of any kind on any subject to Mr. Polk, until some time after it had been written; and never had any communication, either in conversation or in any other manner with Mr. Kane, about writing any letter on the Tariff, or any other subject, to Mr. Polk. The whole story, as we have heretofore said, is basely false."

17 The appearance of the secret correspondence under the auspices of that "patriotic" citizen W. Lyon Mackenzie, is about to be followed by a really important work, entitled, "The Suppressed History of the Administration of John Adams, from 1797 to 1801," now in the hands of Messrs. Walker & Gillis, of New York. This book appeared during the lifetime of Aaron Burr, and bout one thousand copies published-all of which (so runs the story,) except a single copy, were by

The Tariff and the Mechanics.

Let the Whigs say what they may, the Tariff of '42 was neither designed, nor does it, protect any interest in this country, save the bloated and overgrown Woolen and Cotton Factories of the North. They, derive lasting and substantial benofits. By this act of partial and unjust legislation, are they enabled to declare their 10, 15, 25 and 40 per cent. whilst the Agricultural, Mechanical and all other interests must be content to uphold them. It will do for Whig orators and Whig presses to talk about protecting Home industry framing the Tariff Act of '42 with special reference to the Mechanical interest, in order to save them from competition with the " pauper labor of Europe" &c. but when we compare figures, we find it does no such thing, and is a sheer hum-

The Washington Constitution is following this Tariff Bill through all its ramifications. A writer in the Intelligencer argues against its repeal, because of the benefit it confers upon the Shoemaker, the Tanner, the Tailor, &c. The Constitution thus answers that part of the argument:

"But the shoemakers and tanners are said to "But the shoemakers and tanners are said to be protected; the former 60, and the latter 45 per cent. In 1814 we imported, of leather, tanned, sole, and upper, 1,474 lbs. and 18,853 pairs of shoes, all told, and worth together, $25,935.—
During the same year, we exported of leather, 591, 951 lbs. and 105,941 pair of shoes, worth together, $204,000. And yet we are told that the shoemakers are protected, and that too when it is notorious that that class of men are in a most distressed. ous that that class of men are in a most distressed condition, because every article of clothing is raised in price by the operation of the tariff, while the market for their produce is lessened. The means of the community being reduced by the same cause, they wear old shoes and go without new ones, when they would not do so were it not for the injustice perpetrated upon them by means of the tariff.

Well, let us come to the tailors. They have Well, let us come to the tailors. They have 50 per cent, says this tariff advocate. What say the returns of imports and exports? In 1842, under the Compromise act, the importations of clothing, ready made, and that made in part, were to the value of $28,312. In 1844 they were to the value of $950,209. Under a very low tariff, the tailors have hardly any ready made clothing imported to compete against, and under the high tariff they have nearly a million of dollars' worth? This is the protection they receive.

This is the protection they receive.

This is owing to the fact that the tariff has so much enhanced the price of the cloth on which the tailors work, that it is cheaper to import clothing ready-made, and pay 50 per cent. duty, than to purchase either American or English cloth, and have it made in America. The consequence is, that the tailors and seamstresses engaged in making clothes in this country, are ground to the dust, and hardly can earn enough to keep soul and body together. These are the blessed results of the tariff of 1842. We might go on to show that the bleskemiths the saddless the times. tariff of 1842. We might go on to show that neither the blacksmiths, the saddlers, the tinners, nor the farmers, are or can be protected, under the present or any other tariff; but we have said enough to show that the operation of that iniquitous measure upon the operatives is oppressive to the last degree; the only persons who are benefited by it being the iron masters, and the woolen and cotton manufacturing masters, and the glass making masters. They are protected the glass making masters. They are protected, and they are enabled, by the operation of the tariff of 1842, to plunder the whole community, including their operatives. So much for these as-

Native Americanism

The "Union" very appropriately remarks, in connection with the Maryland Election, that Native Americanism is rapidly descending to the tomb of the Capulets. The result of the Baltimore election is contributing to ring its funeral knell. The whigs did not fail to use this bigoted party as long as it would serve their purposes .-They sought a political coalition with them in Philadelphia and New York during the severest struggles of the late presidential election. They elected a mayor in the city of New York, and a member of Congress in Philadelphia, in order that U. S. mint-with several valuable tables, and a they might propitiate the natives, and procure blank space for memorandums, arranged and to the present Administration, was destined to be their votes for Mr. Clay. But the whigs have marked for every day in the year. subsequently found it was a losing game; that they lost more votes by it than they had gained; and in many places they are cutting the acquaintance of their former allies. Mr. Kennedy, however, and the "National Intelligencer" continued to countenance them; and dearly have they paid for it, as some of their party now confess. The Baltimore Patriot ascribes Mr. Kennedy's defeat to the existence of the "third party," and, in effect, cautions its whig friends to profit by the lesson and, for the future, abandon the idea of a native American party. It declares, that by this "division we have given up the city of Baltimore to almost uncontrolled loco-foco rule; we have lost John P. Kennedy's services in Congress, when it was in our power, and when it was our duty, to have kept him there; we have endangered the existence of that 'bill of blessings,' the tariff of 1842; we have placed every interest of the coun try in jeopardy; and have lost, in some degree the proud distinction, that, as whice of Baltimore we have ever maintained among the whigs of the Union. Let the rallying cry be, ' The whig name, and the whig party." We rejoice at this result on every account; and it adds no little to our sat-We rejoice at this result. isfaction, that it assists in grinding this narrowminded party into dust and ashes. Henceforth, it is to be hoped, that this, liberal antipathy to foreigners-this war against their naturalizationthis contemptuous distinction between the native and naturalized citizen-will all disappear.

He done, however, only what every other right thinking man should have done. The two alternatives were presented, universal or restricted suffrage to the free negroes of New York. He chose the latter, and this restriction was incorporated in the Constitution of that State. Now. another cry is raised for universal suffrage to the negroes, and the whig presses of New York, who could condemn Mr. Van Buren in '36 and '40 for other column. The intelligence is important to our agricultural interest, as it shows that the English crop, though better than was at first antici-pated, will not be sufficient for the demand.

The Potato Rot will occasion a further deman for grain, and as it seems to be very general, it occasions great alarm and excitement among the poorer classes of Europe. In France, where the rot also prevails, a distinguished Professor of Agriculture, &c. ascribes the disease to a fungus exremely thin and prolific. This fungus is of an extreme tennity; but pullulates or reproduces, in an incredible measure. Its trunk is composed of several erect, jointed fibres bearing at their summits one or more branches, always double, and at the ends of which appear the reproductive bodies in the form of an egg, but which do not really exceed in diameter the one hundredth part of a millimetre, or the 393-700th part of an inch.

The Potato Crop in this country has very generally failed, but is owing we believe to the unusual drouth. We learn that they command readily at Harpers-Ferry $1 00 per bushel.

The Constitution of Texas.

The Constitution of the new State of Texas has peen completed and will be submitted to the people for ratification or rejection on the 13th day of the present month. In its leading provisions closely resembles the Constitutions of many of the States of this confederacy, but in several respects is a decided improvement upon them.

Peace Probably Restored.

The civil war between the Mormons and Anti-Mormons of Illinois, which has been raging with so much violence in that State, is about to be closed by a compromise between the belligerents.-The former propose to leave the State in the Spring, provided hostilities are suspended, and the suits which the Anties have instituted against them are withdrawn, and they are allowed peaceably to dispose of their property and prepare for their removal. The proposition is favorably received by the Anties, and it is thought that it will be finally acceded to-a vast deal of Mormon property has been destroyed, and a good many lives lost in this disgraceful row.

Farmers' Library.

The October No. of this valuable Agricultural Journal has been received. It is not only creditable to Mr. SKINNER, its editor, but reflects great credit upon the publishers, GREELY & MCELRATH, for the beautiful manner in which it is gotten up. The present No. has a fine steel portrait, with a memoir, of Justus Liebig, besides information on every subject pertaining to Agriculture. It is a work of the very highest character, and deserves the support of every farmer in the country who is at all able to make the expenditure. The price, $5,00 a year, may be thought too high by some, but if any will take the pains to examine minutely the way in which the work is gotten up, they will be satisfied that it cannot be published for less.-We hope some of our liberal and intelligent farmers may be induced to subscribe, and we guaranty they will have no cause at the end of the year to regret the investment.

We were shown in the garden of Mr. John B Woltz of Shenherdstown, a Sunflower stock, measuring 17 feet 3 inches in height, and bearing the extraordinary number of 73 flowers. This, considering the season, will be found hard to beat.

Congressional Globe and Appendix. Messrs. Blair & Rives propose continuing their Congressional Globe and Appendix. They have reduced the price to $1,50 for the Congressional Globe, and $1,50 for the Appendix. The Congressional Union and Appendix will be published by Messrs. Ritchie & Heiss at the same price.

Reduction of Fare.

To the Editor of the Spirit of Jefferson: Dear Sir-For some time I have intende to congratulate you, and through your interesting and well arranged paper, the public, for the re-duction of the fare from Washington to Baltimore. The over charge was so glaring, the directors were in a manner compelled to do what they did, and still in all reason it is high enough. Now, Mr. Editor, I hope you and others of your fraternity, will give them no rest until they reduce the fair from Baltimore to Harpers-Ferry. It is an over charge and the public suffers by it. Therefore it is demanded. JUSTICE.

From the advantages resulting from cheap fare, wherever the experiment has been made, we have no doubt it the price from Harpers-Ferry to Baltimore was reduced to $2,00 or $2,50 the revenue of the Company would be increased. Hunwho now never think of such a thing. The spirit of the age is decidedly in favor of cheap fare, and the day is not far distant when a man may be propelled by steam his hundreds of miles for as many cents. On the Washington Road, the benefits of cheap fare are already beginning to be realized, both by the increased receipts of the Rail-Road and the improved business of the City. The Intelligencer says :--

The following is from the New York Express, the leading paper of the City.—What must the warm hearted Irishman and the thrifty and industrious German think of its comparison? As this paper is standing authority with some of our Southern Journals, we hope they will treasure up this small morsel until '48:

WASHINGTON CITY, Oct. 7, 1845.
MR. PAINE FIRED AT AGAIN!—This gent Mr. PAINE FIRED AT AGAIN !—This gentle-man, who has gained so much notoriety by his many hair-breadth escapes from assassination, and who was robbed in this city last spring while re-turning from the observatory at midnight, was again fired at last night, about 9 o'clock. The cirnumstances are these:—Mr. P. was standing in ront of Tyler & Burch's U. S. Hotel, with his back against one of the granite columns, observing the bassengers leaving the hotel in the steamboat omaibus, a number of persons near him, when sud-lenly his hat fell back against the house, and in denly his hat fell back against the house, and in falling was caught by Mr. P., who immediately ex-claimed that he had been shot at by means of an air-gun. His hat, upon examination certainly con-firmed his statement—there was a hole in the front and one in the back of it. Mr. Burch examined and one in the back of it. Mr. Burch examined the place, and found a spot which indicated that a ball had struck, and on the ground a flattened slug. Mr. P. says he distinctly heard the report of an air gun, though no one else did. Mr. Tyler informs me that on the night previous, about the same nour, Mr. P. stated to him that he had heard a report of an air gun very near him. It is a most extraordinary affair, take it altogether, and T am afraid that Mr. P. will have to be killer, and T am afraid that Mr. P. will have to be killed in order to make many believe these oft repeated attempts to murder. One thing is certain, that his enemies employ very unskilful marksmen to discharge their designs. I have been informed that a statement of all the escapes, and circumstances connected therewith, will appear over Mr. P.'s own signature, in the Washington papers, to morrow.

Arrival of the Steamship Cambria. 14 DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

The Harvest in Europe-Privateers against American Commerce-State of the Grain Market-

The Steamship Cambria, Captain Judkins, from Liverpool, with advices to the 19th ult. arrived on Thursday at Boston at half past five o'clock, afternoon.

Our advices are from Liverpool of the 19th, London of the 18th, and Paris of the 16th ult. The cotton market was in a healthy state. The iron trade is again in a healthy state, and

The iron trade is again in a healthy state, and prices are advancing.

The Queen has returned from her German tour; and, to cement still stronger the intimate personal friendship which has sprung up between her and Louis Philippe, she called, on her way home, at the Chateau d'Eue, and passed a night or two under the hospitable root of the Citizen King. The meeting of the two monarchs on the shore at Treport, is set forth with all the wordy minuteness of Loudon letter writers. A baithing machine was the only available conveyance at hand for landing Queen Victoria on the domains of her powerful neighbor, and in this frail thing of planks the "annointed" monarchs embraced, with a becoming sense of the ludicrous.

The disease among the potato crop in Europe

The disease among the potato crop in Europe appears to be almost universal.

The Fron Trade.—In our notice of the coal and iron trade last week, and the recent strike of the workmen, we expressed an opinion founded on information on which we could rely, that another rise in the price of iron might safely be calculated on. The advance which we anticipated has taken place during the present week, several of the largest houses in South Staffordshire having issued circulars on the 11th instant, quoting the prices of bars at 20s, and pigs at 10s, in advance prices of bars at 20s, and pigs at 10s, in advance of the former prices. Under these rates no fur-ther orders will be executed by the leading firms. The effect of this rise will be injurious to the manufactures of heavy goods, whose trade suffered severely during the rapid advance about nine months ago, and was but just recovering the shock it then received. There is every probability, however, that the present rates will be maintained, as the demand for rails for the new companies is very great, and likely to continue so for some time. The colliers have given notice to another advance of 6d a day, but whether they will succeed in their present movements, the policy of which is very questionable after the late concessions on the part of the masters, remains to be seen. The Weather and the Crops.—The fine weather which prevailed at the date of our last publication, continued uninterruptedly until Tuesday last.—
Since then the elements have changed, rain has fallen in torrents, and the mercury is still low.—
But the fine weather which has prevailed during the last two or three weeks, has in a great measure saved the crops; weather more propitious for harvest operations cannot be imagined, and for harvest operations cannot be imagined, and in all directions the farmers have been taking advantage of it.

A great deal of the outstanding wheat and oats have been secured, and if the unfavorable change new crops.

Importation of Foreign Grain.—It is stated tha orders have been sent out from this country within the last two months, to the amount of three millions sterling, for the importation of foreign grain, under the expectation that it will be required before the harvest of 1846, either to be mixed with English grain, or to be used separately.

Liverpool Corn Market, Sept. 18.—Notwith-standing the continuance of weather very favora-ble for ripening and gathering in the crops still ble for ripening and gathering in the crops still outstanding, an upward movement has again commenced, induced principally from the unfavorable reports from the agricultural districts as to the deficient yield of the wheat crop, and the extended prevalence of blight in potatoes. The advance from the lowest point this month is 1s 6d per bbl, on flour; 3d a 4d per bushel on wheat; 2d on oats; and 1s per load on oatmeal. The Repeal agitation has lost an able, enthusiastic, and withal an honest champion, by the untimely death of Mr. Thomas Davis, the principal editor of the Nation newspaper, who died Sept. 16th from the effects of a gastric fever, with which he was seized about ten days previous.

Mr. O'Connell is still rusticating at Darrynane from whence he issues his weekly missives to the Repealers in Conciliation-hall. He is about emerging from his mountain home, to attend "monster" demonstrations in Kerry, Mayo, and rivaleers against American Commerce.-One of the most interesting pieces of intelligence by this arrival is that relative to the Mexican letters of marque. The impression in Europe, and particularly in Great Britain, was strong that Mexico had declared war against the United States, that many merchants had despatched fast sailing vessels to the Gulf to obtain authority to pirate upon American Commerce.

Belgium.—Brussels, Sept. 15.—Our crop potatoes is almost entirely destroyed, in most place a thirtieth part not being worth anything, and even in the places where the disease has made the least ravages, only a sixth part being preserved. This is a terrible calamity, potatoes being the chief part of the food of the greater part of our population. In compliance with the general wish of the country, ministers have issued a royal ordinance, decreeing the admission of wheat and all kinds of corn, together with potatoes, &c., duty free, and forbidding the exportation of such articles.

Paris Fasilions .- The fashions in dress at pre Men wear tiny hats, with scarcely any brims couts almost without tails; trousers without strap coats almost without tails; trousers without straps, and about a yard wide at the anoles; tremendous waistcoats, of the fashions and the dimensions worn in the year of grace 1745; enormous watch ribbons, bearing ponderous bunches of seals. The ladies wear robes fitting tight to the body, and buttoning up to the chin like a soldier's jacket, paletots, fastening in every respect like those of men, only made of silk; and bonnets resembling corpulent and apoplectic coal scuttles. I am afraid that this description will not be sufficiently scientific for the tailleurs and merchandes de modes of New York; but it is correct. New York; but it is correct.

The Magnetic Telegraph.—Henry O'Reilly, Esq., secretary of the Atlantic, Lake, and Mississippi. Valley Telegraph Company, has been in Harrisburg for some days, making arrangements for putting the magnetic telegraph between this place and Philadelphia in operation. We learn from him that a contract has been made for putting up the wires between Harrisburg and Philadelphia, and that the telegraph will be in operation by the first of December. It is contemplated to have the line between Philadelphia and Baltimore completed by that time, so that we may expect an abstract of the President's message communicated to the denizers of Harrisburg on a streak of lightning, before the document itself is half read in the capital at Washington. This enterprise will be of great importance to the business community, and particularly to the press; and as Mr. O'Reilly and Mr. Kendall have long been connected with the press of this country, we may expect great facilities to be extended to the corps editorial by this great enterprise.

THE EFFECT OF THE NEWS IN NEW YORK. The New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledg-er, gives the following statement with respect to the effect of the news by the Cambria on the markets of that city: of the news by the Cambria on the markets of that city:

"The effect upon our market of the news by the Cambria, has been immediate and important. The letters of our merchants speak much more alarmingly than the English papers of the failure of the potato crop throughout Northern Europe, and of its consequences upon the grain market. From the orders that have appeared in the market for the purchase of flour, it would seem that on the other side they consider the failure of the potato crop of more than seeming interest. As soon as the letters were distributed, fresh orders were in the market for flour and rice. Several thousand barrels of flour wire taken yesterday at an advance of 25 a 37 cents. Rice, too, went up from 25 to 50 cents, but the stock on the market is small. Grains felt sensibly the effect of the rise in flour—the holders of wheat put up the prices to $1. Corn also was held firmer and higher. Indeed the general complexion of things was improved, but in the articles specified only has any advance of price obtained.—The private letters also differ some from the newspaper quotations, and with each other, in regard to Cotton—Some letters state that an advance id had taken place, while others disavow any advance. The holders are somewhat disappointed, as they had been flattering themselves with a decided advance of prices in Liverpool.—The market is, however, tolerably firm, though the sales yesterday were very light."

NEVER GIVE UP:

Never give up! it is wiser and better
Always to hope than once to despair;
Fling off the load of doubt's cankering fetter,
And break the dark spell of tyrannical care;
Never give up; or the burden may sink you—
Providence kindly has mingled the cup,
And in trials or troubles, bethink you,
The watchword of life must be, Never give up!

Naver give up! there are chances and changes
Helping the hopeful a hundred to one;
And, through the chaoe, High Wisdom arranges
Ever success—if you il only hope on;
Never give up! for the wisest is boldest,
Knowing that Providence mingles the cup;
And of all maxims the best, as the oldest,
Is the true watchword of Never give up.

Nover give up! though the graps shot may rattle,
Or the full thunder-cloud over you burst.
Stand like a rock, and the storm or the battle
Little shall harm you, though doing their worst:
Never give up! If adversity presses.
Providence wisely has mingled the cup,
And the best counsel, in all your distresses,
Is the stout watchword of Never give up.

LARGE and very commodious three-story BRICK
HOTEL, in Charlestown, Jeffer son county, Virginia.

This Hotel is well known at home as well as abroad for the comforts of its pleasant parlors, its delightful chambers, and its very healthy and agreable location—situated in the centre of the town—the front presenting a southern exposure,—adjoining the public square, near the market house, and but a few steps from the Court House door, having a good pavement leading to the latter—nearly opposite the post office—and in all respects decidedly the most desirable and convenient location for all business transactions in the town.

It has also acquired much notoriety and celebri-location for all business transactions in the town.

It has also acquired much notoricty and celebrity by being known as Abell's Hotel, and without flattery or unmerited applause to Capt. Joseph F. Abell, the public (and especially his patrons) will bear testimony with me to the fact—it is therefore the privilege and pleasure of the undersigned to express a fond hope for the success of his predecessor, and for the undisturbed happiness of his amiable family in their new abode at Harpers-Ferry

The undersinged deems it only necessary to add, that it will be the constant desire of his heart to keep a genteel, orderly and dignified house, and promises to spare no labor or attention on his part to make it equal, if not more agreeable, than beautiful.

and promises to spare no tance or attention of the part to make it equal, if not more agreeable, than heretofore.

The bar shall at all times be supplied with choice Liquors, and, (except upon Sabbath days) may be dealt out in moderation to the weary and thirsty.

Having procured from Bushrod Taylor, Esq., of Winchester, one of the best cooks in the Valley, the undersigned can, with great confidence, promise to his guests, dishes rare and palatable. And lastly, relying upon his unlimited acquaintance with the good people of his native county, his own unremitting exertions to please, and the liberality of a just and generous public, he flatters himself that he will merit, and hopes to receive, a bountiful share of patronage, with the further assurance, however, that none who favor him with a call shall go away dissatisfied. His charges will be moderate, and all sorts of country produce will be received in payment of bills now due or contracted thereafter at the Hotel.

640 Acres of Land, lentifully watered by running streams and a goo pring, and covered by a growth of valuable times of every variety.

Spring, and covered by a growth of valuable timber of every variety.

The region of country in which said Land is situated is a highly interesting portion of Western Virginia, and on many accounts desirable as a place of residence.

The land lies high and undulating, the climate remarkably healthful, the soil is peculiarly adapted for grass, small grains of every sort, tobacco, &c.,—while the Creek Bottoms cannot be surpassed for the growth of Corn.

Persons wishing to engage in the grazing or wool-growing business, but who are prevented for want of sufficient extent of surface, would here be enabled to "graze their flocks upon a hundred hills."—All persons, who, seeking to better their condition, are bound for the "far West," would do well, before arriving at the "atepping off place," to pause on this our western border, and direct their observation to this hitherto overlooked, yet intrinsically valuable region of country. Virginians, particularly from the Eastern portions of the State, who find it necessary or expedient to emigrate—yet who are attached to the laws and customs of the Old Dominion—may here find a home, when, though beyond the Alleghanies, and on the opposite run of Waters, they may feel that they still tread the soil of that State which has given birth to six Presidents.

The terms of sale of the above named tract of Land will be suitable to those persons whose means are limited, and all such could not do better than to purchase. This is no fiction.
