ber, 1847. AFFLE TRADE.—The New York Journal of Commerce has the following statement: Robert Pell, Esq., of Pelham, Westchester Co., has an orcherd of twenty thousand apple trees, all bearing Newton Pippine. By trimming and the application of the best manures, he has brought the fruit to unusual size and excellence. The ap-ples are picked and packed in barrels without be-ing rolled or jolted in carts, and so arrive in the very best order for shipment. Last year they were sold in London at twenty-one dollars a barrel, and the merchant to whom they were consigned, wrote that the nobility and other people of great wealth had actually bought them by retail at a guinea a dozen which is some forty-five cents an apple.

lispose of the produce of this noble plantation. The American apple, take it all in all, is the most valuable fruit which grows on the earth.— We undervalue them because they are so abun-dant; and even many American farmers will not take the trouble to live like an English lord, though the trouble would be very little.

MORMON PACIFICATION.—Gen. Hardin and others have affected a pacification with the Mormons.— They profess to be ready to sell out and remove beyond the Rocky mountains next spring. Six thousand, with their rulers, will start early in the season. They are said to be busily engaged in trying to sell out their lands and improvements, and making other propagations for densiting and making other preparations for departure.by great prudence and firmness; his presence, with a small force, soon restored order and peace.

A STRAY EAGLE.—A bald eagle flew on board the U. S. ship John Adams, at sea, much fat/gued, says the Boston Journal. As poultry die rapidly at sea, he fared well, not being eatable, and be-come very tame, walking around from mess to mess, getting a crumb here and a drink there. He is now considered one of the crew, and attends to the farling of the graph. He pages left the ship the furling of the royals. AUTUMN SONG. The gold corn in the field. And the saters in the meadow. And the heavy clouds that yield To the hills a crown of shadow. Mark the ending of the Summer, And the Autumn coming in crimaon ave?

And the Autumn coming in A crimeon eyed new comer, Whose volce is cold and thin, As he whispers to the flowers, 'Lo, all this time is our's.'

Lremember long ago When the soft June days were wasted, That the Automn and the snow In the after heats were tasted; For the sultry August weather Burned the freshness from the trees,— And the woods and I, together, Mourned the winter that must freeze The silver-singing streams Which fed our summer dreams.

Through the yellow afternoon Rolls the wagon harvest-inden,— And beneath the harvest moon At the husking sings the maiden ; While without the winds are flowing Like long mriel waves, And their scythe sharp breath is mowing The flowers upon the graves. When the husking is all o'er The maiden sings no more.

Miscellaneous.

Autumn. The seasons, revolving their annual round, once more bring on those "melancholy days," dehomi-mated by the poet "the saddest of the year."— They are so: and the inquiry naturally arises, why it is ? what occasions those pensive and often gloomy feelings that pervade the thinking mind at this season of the year? In the true lover of nature, the cause may readily be traced to a sym-pathising heart. He who has watched her from the first blooming of her spring-time flowers, through the blossoms of her summer roses; who caught a glimpse at her earliest budding plant, and observed through all its periods, the putting forth of the luxuriant forest-tree; who has beheld, with the purest delight, her thousand varied charms, and listened with transport to the delcious warblings of her woodland songsters; why should he not feel sad when all nature seems hastening to decay? Autumn decay ? He has seen the sweet primrose and daisy disappear, and the last rose of Summer, nipped by the biting froat rapidly fading before him, while the gay notes of the feathered tribe, which were wont to arouse him at early dawn, or cheer his steps at sunset hour, dying gradually away, as, one by one, these charming minstrels hasten afar to southern climes, soon to greet his ear no more. Still he seeks from time to time the endeared retreats of nature, and, standing on some eminence whence nature, and, standing on some eminence whence he may survey the surrounding prospect, he be-bolds the fields maked and desolate, the forests stripped of their green foliage, and every thing around wearing a sickly, death-like hue. Mean-while he hears no sound, perchance, save the au-tannial winds, as they mourn through the deserted halls of nature, plainly breathing a dirge for the dying year. A feeling of sadness than comes over him, and deeply meditating, he turns away to weep.

weep. But for him, and for all, there is another cause for melancholy reflections at this time. Contem-plating the constant and rapid changes of the sea-sons, we are led to consider that our periods of ex-istence are swiftly passing, that the autumn of our days will quickly speed by, when, the winter of age coming on, we shall soon be nipped by the chilly blasts of Death, and take our final slum-her in his cold embrace.

The Female Heart.

The Female Heart. There is nothing under heaven so delicious as the possession of pure, fresh, immutable affections. The most felicitous moment of man's life, the most extatic of all his emotions and sympathies, is that in which he receives an avowal of affection from the idol of his heart. The springs of feeling, which in their youthful purity, are fountains of unscaled and gushing tenderness—the spell that or unscaled and gushing tenderness—the spell that in we want the fourth is the mystic light of fin-ture years and undying memory. Nothing in life is so pure and devoted, as a woman's love. It matters not, whether it be for a husband or child, or sister, or brother, it is the same pure unquench-able finme, the same constant and immaculate glow of feeling, where endefinable touchstone is trial. Do but give her one token of love, one kind word, or one gentle look, even if it be amid deso-lation and death—the feelings of that faithful heart will gush forth as a torrent, in despite of earthly bond or mercenary tie. More priceless than the gems of Golconda, is the female heart; and more devoted than the idolatry of Mecca is woman's love. There is no sordid view, qualifying self-interest in the feeling. It is a principle and char-acter of her nature—a faculty and infatuation which absorbs and concentrates all the ferver of soul, and all the depths of her bosom. I would rather possess the immaculate and impassioned will gush forth as a torrent, in despite of earthly bond or mercenary tis. More priceless than the gems of Golconda, is the female heart; and more devoted than the idolatry of Mecca is woman's love. There is no sordid view, qualifying self-interest in the feeling. It is a principle and char-acter of her nature—a faculty and infatuation which absorbs and concentrates all the fervor of soul, and all the depths of her bosom. I would rather be the idol of one uusuilled and unpractised heart, than the monarch of empires. I would rather possess the immaculate and impassioned devotion of one high souled and enthusiastic fe-make, than the sycophantic fawnings of millions. The sypophamitic lawrings of millions.

and place, well combined to depict the misery very common to this great city. In a street where provisions are sold, the scene was of a most ex-traordinary character; some were selling, many begging, but few giving. Among the throng, a little boy about six years old stood in the rain, without hat or shees, and eagerly gazing in a butcher's stall where meat was arrayed for sale; the gas-light fell upon his visage, and exhibited an emaciated, starving child. A penney was given to him, and he was watched to learn the re-sult. An Amarican child would have bought a stick of candy or a toy, but not so with this stary-ing boy. He immediately run to an eating house, and selecting that of which he could procure the most, without regard to quality, he came devouring and selecting that of which he could produce the most, without regard to quality, he came devouring a handful of pudding, which is merely peas holled until they become soft, and forms a consistent mass, strangely enough called pudding. At the next stop was to be seen a man, his wife, and three children, the latter orying for bread. These people have neither employment, money, nor food, and they are all starving in a mass."

The catch of the fishermen was instantly quadrupled. From this school an extra quantity was taken, amounting, as some persons estimate, to twenty thousand bbls. Although very fat and delicious, they were, from their size, almost all ranked as No. 2 and 3, and the price of these num-bers were thrown down to their present position. The fall on No. 2 was four dollars a barrel, caus-ing a very severe loss to holders, who had pur-chased with the ordinary prospect of profit. This new family of the fish have been chiefly instru-mental in causing the irregularity in the inspec-tions which we have already mentioned. Some of the inspectors rated as No. 1, on account of fatness, the same fish which others called No 3 on account of size. For use it is really of very little consequence; for their excellent quality is inducing our best livers to take them for family use in preference to the common fish of larger use in preference to the common fish of larger size, which are of very questionable superiori-ty, though selling at double the price. SEWING MACHINE.—A most ingenious piece of mechanism has recently been made known to the public in France, the inventor of which has been engaged during the last fifteen years in bringing engaged during the last fifteen years in bringing it to its present state of perfection. It is a sew-ing machine, plain in its details, and calculated to revolutionize completely the art of sewing. It will perform two hundred stitches to the minute, enlarge or contract the stitches by the simple turn of a screw, lead the needle along all the sinuosi-ties and irregularities of the stuff to be sewed, without the least danger of tear, whatever may be the texture of the stuff, and do every part of the sewing of a coat, button-holes excepted. [New York Sun.

[New York Sun. A New Rearing Machine has been invented by a Jerseyman—Ferdinand Woodward, of Cream Ridge, Monmouth connty—by means of which, ac-cording to a note in the State Gazette, two horses and two men may cut and deposite in sheaf about thirty acres of wheat, rye, oats, or rice in one day. The particular advantages which it possesses over all heretofore invented are, it is simple in its me-chanism, firm in its construction, and easily trans-ported without being taken apart. It can be used with equal advantage on level or uneven ground. Unlike all other machines of this kind, it can be introduced as well in the middle as in any other part of a field, and does not require any previous outing of a portion of the grain to be set in mo-tion. The blades are arranged on the self-sharp-ening principle, and consequently need not be re-moved until they are worn out, which will re-nuire years of constant use. The great superiori-ty however, consists in the fact, that it forms and deposites the sheafs of a uniform size, at equal dis-tances from each other.—Newark Advecate.

BY THEOPHILUS FISK.

BY THEOFHILUS FISK. Look at that smooth and bloodless brow, of one of earth's loveliest daughters, borne back to her natal bowers from a long pilgrimage, in search of the lost treasnre—health. Like a pale perishing blossom, she is laid in all her fading beauty, down in the home of her guileless infancy; amidst the happy scenes to which her memory fondly clung. The hopes that had nestled in the heart of many a faithful friend, had one by one departed as they marked the hercic spot upon the wan and palld cheek, thin attenuated fingers of the tiny hand, the faltering step, the sunken eye—these told in so-lemn language that the time was rapidly approach-ing when they must prepare the coffin and the shroud. tended field of an enlightened mind.—Fisk. BEAUTIFUL.—Music for the Melancholly ! Aye ! let it be breathed over the desponding hearl, and, even if it be buried in gloom, like the landacape at midnight,ere long you shall see cheerfulness climb-ing up the horizon of despair, like the moon beyond the mountains, hallowing every thing with a light softer than the very darkness it illumines, and more bland than the montide of unclouded joy.— Yes ! pour forth the mystic soul of song, and the downcast brow shall lose its cloud of care, the eye shall anon beam, with its wonted cheer, and the cheek grow radaint with smiles. Music for the Mourner ! Not the wild meas-mes that lead the dance or that rouse wrath in the tempest of battle. O, no ! Soft as angel whisper-ing, and plaintive as the moanings of the angulanded heart, be the tones that would blame the stricken in heart. Let them murmur of blighted hope and buried love, till the crushed feelings are dentifi-ed with the sympathetic strain. But bid bot the thought long wander in the grave. Let the melo-dy, embodied as it were into a thousand Irised hues gild the portals of the tomb and stream like the aurocal glory, towards Heaven.

shroud. A few short months only had passed, since she stood before the altar, a laughing, blushing bride, her slight and fragile form, surrounded by troops of admiring friends. Here me is changed, she returns to her fathers how obtit to leave it for a land of strangers. An! little did they think, on that day when tears and amlies mere mingled— when they looked upon that bright face with its beaming joy and youthful pride, that its glow was lighted with the fevered breath of the treacher-ous disease—consumption. Little did the fond father think when he left a tear of mingled joy and sorrow upon her check at parting, that she was so soon to be borne back to the home of her youth in comfortless sorrow.

youth in comfortless sorrow. Death regards not a father's love, nor a hus-band's grief-she is laid in her shrouded beauty beneath the spreading cypress of her native hills, in calm, unbroken, painless sleep. She has seen the monlight resting upon her native vallies for the last time—the sun to her glids the bill-tops no more. The spirit emancipated from the heavy shackles of mortality, has joined the great con-gregation of the ransomed ones in the paralise of love. Why weep ye then as these who have no hope that there her dark ness is changed to day— that a sun has risen no more to set—that the fet-tors of earth have been exchanged for robes of light and life—that the dark portal of death has been unclosed which opens upon an endless day— that the music of another voice is added to that unbeasing song in a world where pain and part-ing are known me more. Tears may fall when the beautiful and the good are called away; but there is unfading consola-tion in the darkest hour. The oracles of truth point the mourning soul to the land of perfect bliss, where the spirit never dies, and pain never comes. youth in comfortless sorrow.

If you wish to be happy, keep busy. Idleness is harder work than ploughing, a great deal.— There is more tun in sweating an hour, than there is in yawning a contury. Few people however, will believe this, and yet it's true as Genesia. In-dolence is not ease—neither is wealth happiness. 'Life's cares are comforts, and he that has none, must be wretched.'

to allay the fires of jealousy and hate. AGE.---Who can see an old man and not feel disposed to congratulate him? The turmoils of life will soon cease to distress him--the grave will quickly hush his complaints, and place him beyond the touch of woe. If he has been unfor-tunate in business; if he has been the object of bitter persecution; if friends have forsaken him, and foes have oppressed him; he will in a few days be where such anguish is unknown. The tempest is over and the haven is in sight: The closing eye of the mariner sees it, and he pants-for its holy calm. No more will his bosom bleed. No more will trouble fret him. No more will anxiety break his sleep and embitter his waking hours. All are past in a returnless flight. Happy old man ! Sweet to him are his virtuous recollections---bright his heavenly anticipations. The past is pleasant, and the future ineffably glo-rious.

The past is pleasable, and the harder memory gav-rious: A Sixe uter Dreach or Promise.—A Paris for respondent of the Boston Alias, says that the French papers give the particulars of a curious termination to a sulf for breach of marriage pro-mise, at Copenhagen. A gif obtained, as a ver-dict against her seducer, that he should either marry her, of pay 2,000 tix dollars, which was confirmed by a court of appeals; but he refused to do either. She put the decree in the hands of the usual officer appointed to embre the judgments of the olvit courts, and that functiona-ry went early the next morning with a sufficient force, and carried the recreant forer to the cathe-dral, where the damsel was in walting with her witnesses, and the pricet at the slits. The officer having read the decree, ordered the pricet to com-mence the service, which he did, the bidgeroom maintaining a dogged silence, until he heard on the there was but one remedy, and he cried "stop."— The bride willingly accepted his bonds for 2,000 dollars, is place of his hand, and the disconcenter work here, in place of his hand, and the disconcenter mode, though the French journals soon to thick that they should have greeted the other party, and propose remunerating him by subscription.

Treacherous.—Agterican Parton To Young Lanks.—I have found that the men who are really the most fond of the society of the ladies, who cherish for them a high respect, are soldom the most popular with the sex. Men of great assurance, whose tongues are lightly hung, who make words supply the place of ideas, and place compliment in the room of sentiment, are the favorites. A due respect for women leads to respectful action towards them—and respectful is usually distant action; and this great distance is mistaken by them for neglect or want of interest. [Addison.

LOVE LETTERS .- Never write love letters pro-

Love LETTERS.—Never write love letters pro-vided you are free from stammering, or other im-pediments of speech. Writing letters of affec-tion is a stupid process. A man never writes any thing concerning love, that he does not afterwards feel heartily ashamed of. It is not so, generally speaking, with women. They are too cautious, and, withal, too sincere to blush at the perusal of any confession they may put upon paper. On the whole, hovever, it is better for both sexes to con-fer verbially upon all affairs that can be settled by the use of the organs of speech. The quill is treacherous.—American Pairtot.

CHILDHOOD.—Childhood is like a mirror, catching and reflecting images from all around it. Re-member that an impicus or profane thought, ut-tered by a parents lips, may operate on the young heart like a carelass spray of water thrown upon polished steel, staining it with rust which no after scouring can efface.

CHLAIRLISSTOWST : Friday Morning, October 24, 1845.

Unfortunate Affray. On Saturday last, a fight occured at Kabletown in this County, between WILLIAM CLIP and -----GRAY, by which the latter lost his life on Tuesday evening. We are not sufficiently acquainted with the particulars to give any detailed statement of the unfortunate occurrence, but believe the facts to be simply these :--

A previous misunderstanding had existed be tween the parties, and on Saturday, it being a musterday at the place above named, the deceased proposed that it should be settled by a fight. This, Clip refused, assigning as a reason that the deceased was much larger, and he consequently not able to compete with him. But a fight finally ensued, and the deceased received a stab from a penknife which terminated his life, as we have before stated, on Tuesday last.

Gray was engagad at the Shannondale Furnace. in some capacity, and has left a wife and eight helpless children to mourn his untimely fate. An inquest was held on Wednesday, and after a post mortem examination by Dr. G. F. Mason, by which it was found that the knife had passed through the heart, the jury rendered a verdict in accordance with the facts above stated.

The brother of William Clip was tried on Mon day, before a called Court, charged with having struck the deceased with a stone during the fight but he was acquitted.

The trial of Wm. Clip will take place to-day and as able Counsel have been engaged to take part both in the prosecution and defence, it may be expected to cause considerable interest.

Pennsylvania Election.

The old Keystone stands firm, and we may give our victory at the recent election in a few words. According to the Pennsylvanian, the new Senate will comprise 14 Whigs, 1 Native and 18 Democrats; the House, not ascertained to a unit, but there will be a decided Democratic majority.

Ohio Election.

An election took place in this State on Tuesday week, for members of the Legislature, County Officers, &c. The returns are not yet all in, but sufficient is known to insure to the Whigs a majority in the Legislature. Cincinnati, for the first time in 20 years, has elected the entire Democratic ticket.

Presbyterian Synod.

This body assembled at Charlottesville, on th 15th inst. The opening discourse was preached by Dr. GRAHAM, of the Theological Seminary, of Prince Edward. The proposition for a division of the Synod was discussed, and decided in the negative. The Synod passed a resolution recommending the Tract Society. Dr. RUFFNER delivered a discourse on the Roman Catholic religion, which was listened to with much attention. The Synod determined to hold their next meeting in Charleston, Kanawha, on the 28th of October 1846.

The price of flour and grain had advanced The price of hour and grain had advanced in the Baltimore market prior to the receipt of the news by the Hibernia very rapidly, and sales of Howard street flour were made on Monday at $5-26, and of City Mills at $5 31. Wheat also ad-26, and of City Allis at $5 51. Wheat also ad-vanced, on an average, about 124 cents. per bush-el, sales of family white wheat having been made on Monday at 116 a 125 cents per bushel. 'Yes-terday morning, after the receipt of the news by the Hibernia, the market was depressed and un-settled, neitherholders or buyers seeming inclined to operate. After the receipt of advices from New York in the afternoon, however, with private let-ters from England, although no sales took place, there was an evident disposition among holders there was an evident disposition among holders of flour to submit to a dealine of about 20 cents per barrel, and some sales of wheat were made at decline of 3 to 5 cents per bushel. The New York Express of Tuesday thus al-udes to the effect of the news in that city :---

"The influence of the news in the market has been decidedly unfavorable. The flour excite-ment has subsided. A decime of a shifting ster-ling, in England, has caused a corresponding ef-fect here. There is undoubtedly a great disap-pointment at the accounts received, and the private letters do not give the same unpromising intelli-gence as the public papers. Prices which closed very firmly on Saturday at $5 75, are now down very firmly on Saturday at $5 75, are now down to $5 50 a $5 621, and apparently there is no dis-position to purchase at that. It is now stated that no orders had been received for shipment of flour, at over $5,25, and that all above that has been a speculative fever."

Howe's History of Virginia.

The Agent for this work, Mr. BRADLEY, is now in our neighborhood, and will remain for a week or two only. He designs visiting Clarke in a few days, and those of our friends in that county who have not yet procured the work will have an opportunity of doing so. As we have heretofore alluded to the value of this publication, it may be unnecessary for us to say any thing at present in commendation, but again urge upon our friends to procure a copy .--It is beautiful in its designs, and accurate in its descriptions, as is fully testified by an examination of the work itself, and the following high recommendation from Gov. McDowell and others : RICHMOND, April 22nd, 1845.

DEAR SIR :- Although we have had no oppor-tunity of examining your "Historical Collections of Virginia" with as much critical care as we could have wished, we have nevertheless examined it far enough to be satisfied that it is a work of decided usefulness and merit. It not only comprises a large and valuable mass of general matter relating to the settlement, the progress, the legislation and the statistics of the State, but it comprises at the same time, so much of the minu-ter matter of history, so much that relates to scenes and to incidents of local and biographical interest, which is desirable to perpetuate, that it cannot fail to become, even independently of its beautiful en-gravings, a most advantageous and attractive volgravings, a most advantageous and attractive vol-ume to every description of reader. But besides this, your plan of executing the work, by giving a separate geographical and historical account of every city, town and county in the State, is in our judgment an exceeding judicious one. You thus render it a work, not only of reference to every body, interesting as a whole, and interesting in all its parts, but you subject the fidelity of its nar-ration to a more searching and universal critician ration to a more searching and universal criticism, and create a more certain desire to supply, what ever the narrative may omit. Regarding it therefore as an instructive and en-tertaining volume, we cheerfully commend it to every one who cares to know any thing of the past or the present of the "Old Dominion."

To HENRY HOWE, Esq., Author of the "Historical Collections of Virginia," The Fredericksburg Recorder, on the authority

Hon. James M. Mason. Among the gentlemen named by the West to fill the vacant seat in the U. S. Senate, Mr. Masor stands most prominent. He is in all respects admirably suited for the post, and would reflect hon-or upon the Old Dominion. A writer in the Enquir-er thus appropriately refers to the part taken by Mr. Mason on Giles' celebrated resolutions. He was then, as now, uncompromising in his opposition to Federal encroachment, whatever shape it might assume.

For the Richmond Enquirer.

For the Richmond Enquirer. Mesers Editors—In your paper of the 28th Ju-ly, there is contained an article from the Win-chester Virginian, bringing to notice the name of James M. Mason, of Frederick, as possessing high qualifications for a seat in the Senate of the Uni-ted States. In thus acting, the Press is but do-ing justice to a distinguished representative of a name illustrious in the annals of Virginia. The particle allocated teuthfully describes the youthful name illustrious in the annals of virgina. The article alluded to truthfully describes the youthful Legislator, who stood by that able and faithful de-fender of State Rights, William B. Giles, near 20 years ago, when he levelled his celebrated resolutions, in the House of Delegates, against the re-newed aggressions of Federal power, under the administration of the second Adams. The truth is but told, and the record confirms the assertion, that "he is thoroughly imbued with the princi-ples of the school of '98 and '99"-and he never has varied from them, throughoun-shine or storm. As a proof of this, he lost his seat in the Legislature in consequence of the support given to Giles, resolutions, which have been ever since, and, in-deed, before, regarded as the test of the Republican party. At that day, during the administration of the "puritan and the blackleg," Federalism had raised again its down-trodden head, and with all the deceit of the glittering serpent," essayed to corrupt and bribe the States and the people, to its support, by the promise of roads and canals, to be made by the General Government, and also by an increase of the Tariff of '24, and by other iniquitous schemes, to draw them within its foul embrace. Then it was that Giles' resolutions were thunder-ed forth from the battlements of Republicanism ! With "State Rights" inscribed upon it, was bung to the breeze, after a long peace, and all who loved Rome more than Casar were called to range themselves under its folds. In the mean-time, the temptation of the evil one was doing its work, and Frederick county, as well as others, had yielded to the charm, in the shape of a new route for the Cumberland Road, through Virginia to Washing-ton. -What next? Mason was to be sacrificed for his support of Giles' resolutions, which had declared a war of extermination against Internal Improvements by the General Government, and a Tariff for Protection. In that dark hour, his constituents, without reflection, turned from their faithful sentinel, and he was defeated by the " road faithful sentinel, and he was defeated by the "road men." By another year, however, the people of that Republican county repented of the injury done their country, by sustaining Federalism of the rankest dye, retraced their steps, came in un-der the banner of Old Hickory, and reinstated their former Delegate. Thus, it may be seen, that in the early trials of the party, when all depended upon true hearts and the party, when all depended upon true hearts and skilful hands to oppose power and to defend prin-ciples, at all hazards, this gentleman has been weighed in the balance and not found wanting. In order the more fully to show the political integrity and manly independence of Col. Mason, on all occasions, attention is called to the subjoined Address* to his constituents, in 1827, in vindied Address* to his constituents, in 1827, in vindi-cation of his course, in one of the most important sessions of the Legislature. It will repay the reader for a perusal, and subserve the cause of Democracy, by exhibiting the manner in which State Rights doctrines were maintained before the people at a former day, by an advocate, honest, skilful, and fearless of results. To the East and to the West, then, we say, unite upon James M. Mason, with the assurance, that the interests and principles of Virginia would

The Whigs papers occasionally level their arrows at the principles of the Democratic party, as tending to anarchy, and confusion. It is in vain that we point to the different practice of the northern Whigs and Democrats. Every thing must be made to yield to the dogmatical theory of Whiggery-and that theory is, that Democracy is in itself unsound and vicious, and all breaches of the peace and violations of public virtue must have sprung from so corrupt a fountain. On the anti-rent rebellion in New York, the Whigs have harped long and loud -boasting themselves as the lovers of law and order, and their opponents as the main actors in that alarming and melancholy drama. To show what little ground there is for their self-laudation, and to defend the Democrats against a grave charge, we quote from the New York Morning News, which, alluding to the rebellion, says ! "The facts relating to it are astounding, and show how well the Whigs are entitled to the dis-tinction which they claim as conservators of the peace. The seat of the anti-rent war is in the third Senate district of this State. Last year the Whig party supported for the Senate in that dis-trict the anti-rent candidate, and the Democratic candidate, a most worthy and estimable man, came near losing his election by the false reports spread among the tenants on the leasehold estates in regard to him. Since then, and during the present year, this anti-rent excitement has been blown into a maddened flame, and pushed on to rebellion and murder. And what do we find now? The Anti-Renters in the district have again nominated a candidate of their party for the Senate; the Whigs have nominated the same man, and are united with the Anti-Renters in their efforts to elect him. His name is raised at the head of the leading Whig paper of the State, late the State paper, as the candidate of the party. And while the Whigs are thus uniting in his support, he is making speeches at anti-rent meet-ings, and abusing the Governor and other Demo-

ARRIVAL OF THE RIBERNIA. Awful Conflagration at Winchester !!

From the Winchester Virginian.

From the Winchester Virginian. Taylor's Hotel in rains I A fire broke out on Tues-day about 1 o'clock, P. M., in the room of one of the boarders, and that immense building is now in ashes. The flames communicated quickly with the building occupied as a Store by Geo. W. Ham-mond, and adjoining the hotel, on the South side, and that too was entirely destroyed. Mr. Ham-mond, however, we rejoice to announce, succeeded in saving the greater part of his large stock of goods. The wind was blowing a pretty strong gale at the time, and the sparks driven about in all directions, set fire to the Stable and Smoke House of Mr. Wm. Miller, and various other build-ings on both sides of the Main Street ; but owing to the praise-worthy vigilance of our energetic to the praise-worthy vigilance of our energetic Fire Companies and our Citizens generally, if was prevented from extending further than the block of buildings known as Hoff's Row, some 50 yards distant from the scene of the chief con-flagration. That block occupied chiefly as Law-yers and Sheriffs Offices, was entirely consumed. and now presents of heap of black and smoulder-ing ruins. The Libraries and Papers of the Law-yers and Sheriff's were saved. Every House be-tween the Hotel and the Farmer's Bank was on tween the Hotel and the Farmer's Bank was on fire at different times during the day, but as the roofs were well guarded, and kept wet, they were saved, and hence their owners will sustain no other damage except what may have been occa-sioned by the removal of their property out of the way of danger. The Office of the Virginian, not 20 yards from the fire on Hoff's Row was in great danger being several times on fire, but owing to danger, being several times on fire, but owing to the noble efforts of our Foreman, H. Brown, Noax, Messrs. James H. Copenhaver, and Mr. who was stationed upon the roof, plied the dry shingles with copious and constant streams of water, that building was saved, and thus of course was saved the large Store House of Jacob Sense-ney, Esq., of which this office is a part. The Court House was supposed at one time to be on fire, and as it stood within a few feet of the burning torrent which was sweeping along Hoff's Row, it is wonderful how it escaped. It is covered with Slate, and to this alone, we suppose, is its safety to be attributed. It was filled with the Goods of several of our Merchants, who had removed them there for safety, and if it had fallen a victim to the devouring element, the loss would have been very great. Such a conflagration has never been seen fore in Winchester by the oldest of our citizens. It commenced about 1 o'clock, and it was near sunset before it was subdued. Had the wind continued throughout the evening as it at one time threatened, the greater part of Winchester would be at this moment in ruins. We have cause to be thankful therefore, that we have escaped with comparatively, so little injury. We understand that Taylor's Hotel is insured to the amount of $20,000, and the loss of course will not be great to the proprietors. The buildings on Hoff's row were owned by the heirs of the late Mr. Von Raisen, but we have not been able to ascertain whether they were insured or not. We have heard no estimate yet of the loss which has been sustained. For the Spirit of Jefferson.

MR. EDITOR :- As the time for the election of a successor to our present Governor is drawing hear, it becomes us to be looking around for some suitable person to fill, for the next three years, that responsible office. And inasmuch as the public press has been made the medium through which the names of many individuals have been brought to the notice and consideration of the people of Virginia, and their claims to the Gubernatorial chair freely discussed and strongly urged, I avail myself of the same means to present the name of Judge HENRY ST. G. TUCKER, our own esteemed and honored fellow-citizen, and a man in every respect well qualified and suited to become Governor McDowell's successor. A life devoted to the service of his State has rendered his name and history familiar to every Virginian, and therefore to give, here, an account of his course of usefulness, would be uncalled for. It is true that his talents and ability might justly entitle him to a higher and more honorable station, yet they could be well employed in the administration of our State government, and that too, in a manner that would not only reflect dignity upon the office and the highest credit upon himself, but would inure, signed to him, and while he evinced a degree of very positive is stated on the subject, we are infaithfulness, during the whole of his public career. now, identified with the most important and lead-ing interest of the State,—I mean the agricultural. It is not supposed for a moment, however, from this fact, that he would be wanting in his attention to, and efforts to promote the oliver interest of the State. To elect him to the office of Governor would not be required to show our confidence in the integrity and ability of the man, for that has been evinced already so clearly as to render further evidence of it unnecessary, but his election is desired in view of the interest of the State. A CITIZEN OF JEFFERSON COUNTY.

SEVEN DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

The Steamship Hibernia arrived at New York on Monday last, bringing intelligence seven days later than the Great Britian. The news will be found of unusual interest to all classes of citizens, but more especially to those engaged in commercial and agricultural pursuits. The Corn market continues firm, and the fine weather which prevailed last week at the sailing of the steamship, having been followed by repeat-ed and heavy falls of rain, the market, in the early part of the present week acquired additional firmness, and continues so, with a slight draw-back, at the present time. Large quantities of Flour are daily arriving from the United States and Canada; and from the nature of the advices recently sent across the Atlantic, the supply from those quarters, there is every reason to believe, will increase. From the cause at which we glanced in our last publication, the import rate on Wheat has advanced to 18s. the result of the inferior qualities thrown on the market.

The import duty on flour is now 10s. 10d. pe barrel. In some instances, recently, Irish flour has received 1s. per sack, and Canadian 6d. per barrel, influenced by the large arrivals from the West, which amount, since Monday, to nearly 9000 barrels.

The Colton market, which was dull this day week, at the sailing of the Great Britain, still continues in an inactive state. The quotations on most descriptions, except Sea Islands, have receded, 1-8d per lb., and at the time of writing the market is heavy, with a downward tenden-cy. The absorbing feeling in railway shares may have partially contributed to this, and the rising price of provisions, with the approach of winter, is also to be taken into account. The winter, is also to be taken into account. The Committee of Brokers have declared the price for he present week to be-Bowed 41d ; Mobile, 4fd ; and Orleans. 5d.

The produce markets are not so active as they have been. Rice is less in demand. Sugar has receded a little, with less inquiry while the price of foreign coffee has improved a shade. The rate of interest in England is rising, in consequence of the scarcity of money, superin-duced by railway speculation. Some of the large discount houses decline to take any more bills at an interest of less than three per cent.-English stocks, which had receiled about $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent., recovered yesterday their former prices, and consols closed at 98¹/₈ for money, and 98¹/₄ for account. Exchequer bills stand at 45s. to 47s.

prem The Harvest .- The reports which have reached us since our last, respecting the progress made with the harvest in the north, are not of a character to allay the excitement previously felt on the subject. The heavy rain which fell up to the 21st instant was succeeded by dry but unusually cold weather. Sharp frosts were experienced on the nights of the 22d and 23 inst., and though the temperature has since risen, the shift of wir to the southward threatens a return of wet. The interval of dry weather has hitherto been of too short a duration to admit of much corn being car-ried, and the extreme cold has prevented that not before ripe making much progress towards matu-rity. It is, therefore, feared—and not without reason—that the more backward parts of the kingdom may fare even worse than the south; and as the reports of the yield from the forward districts do not by any means improve as threshing is proceeded with, the estimates of the results of the harvest becomes daily more discouraging. These considerations have had their effect on the minds of sellers as well as buyers, and, with a greater inclination to purchase, less disposition has been manifested to sell. The upward movement has, consequently, continued, and at some of the principal markets materially enhanced terms have been paid for Wheat. By our Scotch advices, we learn that the har-vest operations, which had been interrupted by the heavy rain that fell between the 16th and 22d, had again been actively resumed ; it will, nevertheless, require some weeks of dry weather to get in what is still abroad. The lively reports from the couth had caused sellers of wheat to demand materially enhanced terms. At Edingurgh the article rose about 3s. per qr. and at Glasgow the rise amounted to 2s 6d per boll, being equal to 5s I have no doubt, to the lasting prosperity of our good old Commonwealth. Let it be remembered per qr. Much anxiety was felt there to ascertain too, that while engaged in the various and respon-sible duties which his confiding countrymen as-

BALTIMORE, WEDNESDAY NIGHT, October 22, 1845.

BALTIMORE, WEDNESDAY NIGHT, October 22, 1845. Dean Sin:--Since writing you has week, we have been in a continual excitement. On Thursday has twe received the accounts per the Great Britain, and the price of wheat and floar went up some 50 cents per bbl. Sales on Thursday at $4 75 a $5; on Friday at $5 a $5 124; and on Saturday and Monday $5 25. Yesterday we re-ceived seven days later accounts, which is considered un-haverable to shippers, and to-day we have a dull market. Superfine flour from stores $5 124 to $5 25. Fine flour $4 876. Car price is unsetted. WHEAT-White to-day will not command over $1 10, red wheat $102 to $1 05 for good to prime; inferior wheat at less price. Yellow Com 62 to 64 cents; white com 62 cents.— Oats is scarce; selling at 374 to 35 cents. The excite-ment has subsidel and selless of flour are willing to meet the shippers at something less than $5 25, but it is hard to give a correct quotation. The steamer Great Western is out twelve days to-day, and the news by her, seven days later than that brought by the Hilbernia, may be expected on Sunday or Monday, until which time there will probably be but few transac-tions.

GEORGIA .- The majority of CRAWFORD (Whig) for Governor will be about 1600. The state of parties in the Legislature is not yet definitely ascertained. The Savannah Georgian makes the Senate 25 Democrats to 22 Whigs, and the House 63 Democrats to 66 Whigs, excluding Madison county where there is a tie. Should this be confirmed there will be a tie vote on joint ballot.

pungent, and speak a language honorable to itself, and not to be misunderstood by its anti-rent Whig friends :

"Never will our support be given to such an one; never will the noble phalanx of law loving Whigs of old Delaware be given to the man that will thus cringe and succumb to as base a combi-nation as the club Astil Best to as base a combination as that of the Anti-Renters, to win their support. PLAN OF UNION.—A proposal has been made that a great meeting of evangelical Christians, of different Protestant churches and countries, should be held in London, for the purpose of associating and concentrating their strength and promoting the interests of Christianity throughout the world. A preliminary meeting took place in Liverpool the first of October, attended by some of the leading European minds.

From Ireland the complaints in regard to this matter are, however, becoming general; even along the west coast, where the crop was previously stated to have escaped injury, the has, it is stated, been discovered to have been attacked. In the southern parts of the Island the bulk of the grain had, we are informed, been got in, and even in the north the fields were fas being cleared. On the whole, we are disposed to think that the harvest will turn out better in Ireland than on this side of the channel. The rise in the English markets had had the effect of csusing an advance in the value of both wheat and oats.

LIVERFOOL COTTON MARKET, Sept. 30 .- The arrivals in this port during the week furnish a liberal supply of wheat, a moderate fair quantity of barley, oats, flour and oatmeal from Ireland privations of those whom poverty has reduced to with several parcels of wheat and malt coatwise misery. Shall nothing be done to alleviate their sufferings? We trust that the benevolent, among from Canada and the States the inportation of flour is abundant, ainounting together to 26,845 barrels.

LIVERPOOL CORN MARKET, Oct. 3 .-- Of any kind of English, Irish, or Foreign produce, the supplies received into this port since Monday last are comparatively light, except Flour from Cana-da and the United States, which, exclusive of the large arrivals previously noted, amount to 8016 barrels. An advance in the import rate on Fo reign Wheat to 18s per quarter, and on Flour to 10s 10d per barrel, forms the only change in the duties for the week ensuing. Oct. 3.—The import duty on wheat has ad-vanced to 18s per quarter, which forms the only alteration since our last report. The weather has turned out very wet, and the northern harvest being protracted, has imparted a firmness to wheat. The little English on show met a more free sale, at fully Monday's rates, and there was more disposition shown to purchase bonded, but many holders being more sanguine, have withdrawn their samples from present sale. Malted barley scarce and wanted ; malt the turn dearer ; beans readily bring our previous currency; peak are of-lered cheaper. We have a good supply of Irish oats this week, about 5000 quarters of which are new corn. The sale continues contracted, although fully offered at a reduction of 6d per quarte quarter. IRELAND.—Tipperary Banquet.—At the late banquet, given to O'Connell by the Ropealers of Tipperary, that gentleman, in the course of a long speech, made the following observations: "Let the cycle but come round for England, (and it is coming fast.) Ireland will have her own again, and England will be obliged to ask for that alli-ance which we are now ready to make—an alli-ance which we are now ready to make—an alliance of separate States under the one monarch with our own Parliament to protect us, as the sole source of legislation, for the country. majesty of Ireland. Repeal will give to Ireland the waters of life pure and unalloyed, and unmix-ed with mephitic vapors. They shall be admin-istered by a resident Parliament acting for the people—protecting and encouraging the industry of the land, and giving peace, liberty and prosperi-ty to Old Ireland." HOPE. BY RICHARD PENN BRITH. Hope in the young heart apringeth, As flowers in the infant year ; Hope in the young heart singeth, As birds when the flowers appear As birds when the nowers appear Hope in the old heart dicth, As wither those early flowers; Hope from the old heart flicth, As the birds from wintry bowers.

But Spring will revive the flowers; And the birds return to sing; And Death will renew Hope's powers In the old heart withering. THE WIND.

The wind is a bachelor, Merry and free; He royes at his pleasure O'et land and o'et sea: He ruffles the lake, And he kisses the flower, And he sleeps when he lists In a jes mine bower. In a jes mine boren He gives to the check Of the maiden its bloom, He tastes her warm kisses, Enjoys their perfume ; But truant like, often The sweets that he sips Are lavished next moment On lovelier lips.

The humorist.

FIRST RATE .- An incident occurred on board a steamship some time ago, illustrative of the ri diculous pride and affection of the would-be fashionable, and the excrutiatingly polite of the world. At supper, a lady sat down at the table with some-thing of the flourish and toss of the head, expresof her consequence and her utter contempt of all on board. An honest queer-looking, but genteel young man scatch himself opposite; and not being in the mood of waiting long, helped him-self to a piece of bread, and with his own knile took a piece of butter to keep it company. The lady (?) immediately bridled up and showed by her manner that something unusual had occured "Waiter !" said she, " waitah! take away that buttah-that rude man has had his knife in it."

butthh—that rude man has had his knife in it." She was obeyed, and the butter vanished to her great relief. The poor fellow blushed to his shirt collar, and felt sufficiently embarrassed. Before the supper was over, his politeness and laudable desire to retrieve his error, prompted him to pass the lady a plate of dried beef nicely cut up. She reached out her hand very politely and took some on her plate with her fingers. Jonathan instant-ly started up, and with a fond voice cried out—

"Waiter! take away this smoked beef-that rude woman has had her fingers in it." It was now her turn to blush. She was fairly done.

Judge Dooly, of Georgia, was remarkable for his wit, as well as for other talents. At one place where he attended Court, he was not well pleased with his entertainment at the tavern. On the first day of the Court, a hog under the name of pig-had been cooked whole and laid on the table.-No person attacked it. It was brought the next day, and the next, and treated with the same reany, and the next, and treated with the same re-spect; and it was on the table on the day which the Court adjourned. As the party finished their dinner, Judge Dooly rose from the table and in a solemn manner addressed the Clerk, "Mr. Clerk," said he, "dismiss that hog upon his recognizance until the first day of the next Court. He has at-tended as foilbuilt during the next court. tended so faithfully during the present term, that I don't thin! it will be necessary to take any se-·curity."

As GOOD AS IT WERE ÆSOF .- The Nantucket Islander says the following story was lately told by a reformed inebriate, as an apology for much

"A mouse ranging about a brewery, happening to fall into a vat of beer, was in imminent darger of drowning, and appealed to a cat to help him out. The cat replied, 'It is a foolish request, for as soon as I get you out I shall eat you.' The monse piteously replied that that fate would be better than to be drowned in beer. The cat lifted him out, but the fume of the beer caused puss to sneeze; and the mouse took refuge in his hole.-The cat called upon the mouse to come out-'you sir, did you not promise that I should eat you? "Ah?" replied the monse, 'but you know I was in liquor at the time !" "

"Here, you little rascal, walk up and account for yourself-where have you been ?' After the girls, father.

"Don't you know better than that? Did you ver know me to do so when I was a boy?"

Busy BEES .- In the island of Cuba bees are kept with great success. They are not enervated by the warmth and perennial fruitfulness of the limate, but work on, accumulating stores, though there is to be no winter in which they will be want-ed. Many of the Cubans have hundreds of swarms: All the owners do is to furnish hives, which only requires them to cut a large hollow tree into pieces three feet long, and laying them down upon sheds, to fasten a slick through the cen-tre, upon which the bees begin to build. The tre, upon which the bees begin to build. The hives swarm frequently, and all are, as we said, trained to thorough industry, and their industry is abundantly rewarded among the fragant Belle Flowers. When a hive is full of honey, the bees seal it up at both ends, and go to another : so that er has only to take away the rich stores m the deserted dwellings; for as there is no win ter, the bees are always laying up and never con suming.

" It is the first step only which costs," is not less true in educating a people, than in other mat-ters. After the great work is once fairly commenced, there is an intrinsic momentum in a good cause which will irresistibly carry it along. The freedom of the press and the activity of public sentiment in our country cherishes and suttains the germ of educational im, ovement.

tains the germ of educational in rovement. Relying upon this principle, we may anticipate noble truits from the exertions now being put forth in Virginia. The public mind is aroused. The efforts of such men as McDowell, Daniel, Rives, Stevenson, Witcher, Mason and Heath, indicate the pervading interest felt by all parties. It is a noble work, and we may truly say, God.speed them. The establishment of common schools fully ade-quate to the education of every person in the State, is in its highest sense best designated by the word Patriotism, which we consider to be not mere attachment to the land of one's birth, but rather to the wefare of the people whe give vitalirather to the welfare of the people whe give vitali-ty and energy and nobility to that country, which they may bless with their character and their iney may bless with Argus.
