DR. JOHNSTON. Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London Graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the Hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known. Many troubled with a ringing in the ears and head when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, and bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended some-times, with derangement of mind, were cured immediately. TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

Br. J. addresses all those who have injured them selves by private and improper indulgences, that secret and solitary habit which rulu both hody and mind, un-fitting them for either business or society.

These are some of the sad and inclaucholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power. Palpitation of the Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Paipitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c.

NERVOUS DEBILITY. Weakness of the system, nervous debility and prema ture decay, generally arising from the destructive habit of youth, that solitary practice so falal to the healthful existence of man, and it is the young who are most apt to become its victims from an ignorance of the dangers to which they subject themselves. Parents and guardians are often misled with respect to the cause or source of disease in their sons and wards. Alas! how often do they ascribe to other causes the wasting of the frame, Palpitation of the heart, dyspepsia, indigestion, derangement of the neart, dyspelsia, indigestion, derangement of the nervous system, cough, and symptoms of consumption, also those serious mental effects, such as loss of memory, depression of spirits or peculiar fits of melancholy, when the truth is they have been indulging in pernicious but alluring practices, destructive to both body and mind. Thus are swept from existence, thousands who might have been of use to their country, a pleasure to their friends, and ornaments to

DR. JOHNSON'S INVIGORATING REMEDY FOR DR. JOHNSON'S INVIGORATING REMEDY FOR ORGANIC WEAKNESS.

This grand and important Remedy has restored strength and vigor to thousands of the most debilitated individuals, many who had lost all hopes, and been abandoned to die. By its complete invigoration of the nervous system, the whole faculties become restored to their proper power and functions, and the fallen fabric of life is raised up to beauty, consistency and duration, upon the ruins of an amaciated and premature decline, to sound and pristine health. Oh, how happy have hundreds of misguided youths been made, who have been suddenly restored to health from the devastations of those terrific maladies which result from indiscretion. Such persons before contemplating MARRIAGE, hould reflect that a sound mind and body are the most should reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial happiness.— Indeed, without this, the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage; the prospect hourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair, and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own. Let no false delicacy prevent you, but apply immediately.

He who places himself under the care of Dr. Johnston, may religiously confide in his honor as a Gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a Physician.

TO STRANGERS. The many thousands cured at this institution, within the last ten years, and the numerous important Surgical Operations performed by Dr. Johnston, witnessed by the reporters of the papers and many other persons, notices of which have appeared again and again before the public, is a sufficient guarantee that the afflicted will find a skillful and honorable physician.

N. B. There are so many ignorant and worthless Quacks advertising themselves as physicians, ruining the health of the already Afflicted, that Dr. Johnson deems it necessary to say to those acquainted with his reputation that his oredentials or diplomas always hang in his Office.

FOR THE SPIRIT OF JEFFERSON. "I argered the matter this way that an adver tisement travelled wherever the paper travelled, and everybody knows that they go into all the out o'-the way places in the State. So, I thought a good advertisement will be sure to ketch the eyes of some people of the interior and if it does, who knows but what they'll give a fetler a lift? Here goes for a trial, at all events. So I takes a store of a Puke, who, because I talked upright, didn't want the rent in advance, mn in a lot of truck that I had on hand, and which was so old and unmarketable that I could neither sell it nor give it away—hung up my shings, labelled— "Samuel Swinton, Commission Merchant," put a springing advertisement in the two papers published in the town, got a first-rate puff from the editor of each, to the effect that I was "responsible," as well as "some" in a trade, and then I sat down to abide by the ishew of events."

"That is, of the advertisement?" "Prezactly. Well, I hadn't been "storin" it ong, when a planter in the interior of the State' "What State, Sam?

It's the only way of makin' customers. And I laid myself out to sell the corn." "And that didn't take you long. Sam. of "Yer might bet a bar'l Mongyhely on that, Bob, with all the chances to win. Yer see, the other merchants in the own couldn't come within a thousand miles of me in my prices. I could undersell their boots off on 'em and they could-"n't help themselves. Some on 'em tried to back up agin me, by pulting their corn down to the lowest market price, but it warn't no sort er use. I run mine down half theusual prices, and they had to knock under. They grumbled orful, and declared that I was roomin the business, but it didn't make no difference. I continued to sell so much lower than any on 'em that they at length gave up all idee of competition with me, and I had the markit all to myself ill the last bushel was gone. To be sure, continued Sam, with one of his expressive smiles, "I had the advantage of the pulses they expected to pay the owners for their corn, when it was sold, whereas "Had no such intention," said !...

"Not the least," said Sam, "It was agin my principles, and always had been! Well, my competitors, jealous of my success, commenced blowin' agin me everywhere, butinstead of hurtin' on me, it done me good. It a short time ! got my name up as the cheapest and quickest corn dealer on the Wabash, and the planters began to consign their corn to me so fast, that I come to the conclusion that they must have been mighty anxious to get rid of it." "You never intended to pay hem a dollar, I

"Not the first picayune!" answered Sam. "But I went on sellin'. There's a large market on the Wabash for everything—even for corn, if you put it low enough—and as I went in for the big market, and warn't pertickly about prices, the way I naterally hauled in he pewter was enough to send a thrill of joy to the heart of a dying christian. While I was felicitatin' myself on the luck which follows advertsin', I received a letter from my first customer, wanting ter know if I had sold his corn yet, and if so, ter let him know, so he could draw onme for the tin. gloominess; it is rain on the window as one sits by the fire; it is to walk in the garden, As his plantation was away is the interior, I writ to him that it warn't sold ye, and there was no tellin' when it would be, as noney was so orand see the flowers open and hear the birds sing; it is to hear the post-man bring letters; it is to have the news from the East, North ful tight, and more coin in the mirket than there was any demand for. This shu him up for a month or two, when along came another letter, which I answered as before. I lidn't hear from and South; it is to read old books and new books; it is to have Sundays; it is to pray with a family morning and evening; it is to eit in the twilight and meditate; it is to be him agin till nigh onto eight minths, when he writ me a sassy letter, statin' that he was hard up and must have the money, that I must sell the corn off at any price, deduct my commission, well, and sometimes to be ill; it is to have business to do, and to do it; it is to have breakast and dinner and tea; it is to belong to a town and have neighbors, and to be one in a cir-cle of acquaintance; it is to have friends to love and let him know what the balance was, so he could draw on me for the amount. This letter one; it is to have sight of dear old faces; and took me all of a heap, as I had been puttin' off vith some men, it is to be kissed daily by the the settlin' with all my correspondents, with the intention of makin' a slide. However, thinks I, I'll give this puke a small eight of feller-feelin' same loving lips for fifty years; and it is to know themselves thought of many times a day, in many places, by children and grandchildren, and many friends." —for I've often known what it is to be hard up myself. The poor puke's corn came, even at the prices at which I sold it, to $475, and I thought, seein' I was so eas, and doin' a tall business, that it was nothin' more'n fair that he should have part of the pevter; so I sot down, made a statement of the account and sent it to Two darkies, on Sunday morning, were stand-ng at a corner of Willard's hotel in Washington when a discussion arose concerning our President's military experience. Shall I picture this maid of the greekwood and glade as she was in the day when old 'Allen' held away, while his iron nerved men were the pride of the glen? not deceive. . While thus he knelt pleading, while thus interceding, he thought by her smiling that his words were beguiling. But he found the con-clusion a hopeless delusion: for the maid was unlinking his seeming was thinking; and she thought in a twinkling, she'd give him a sprinkling of the well-peppered ointment of black dis-appointment. Ere he drew to a close, she turned up her nose, as you may suppose, just as high as she chose; and scorning his prose through his pleadings she broke, and thus 'twas she "Oh! great is your fame; O'Handy your name; from the city you came, with your heart all a flame; and you thought, in the shade of mountain or glade, to capture a maid by pomp and parade. Oh! save all your tears, your hopes and your fears, your "ducks" and your "dears" for some other ears. All men are agreed you are a nice bird indeed; but your figure's too lean, you're "Indyanny, of course—consigned me four big | too gaunt and too green; and that is not all, you're ission, with instruc- | excessively tall; your nose is too big-you've a voice like a pig, and you wear a huge wig while your upper lip seems just the shade of your dreams. Now, my answer you know—there's Still he lingered to plead his love and his need—and he boasted and told of his titles and gold -of her station in life whom he chose for his wife. . But he found, 'twas no part of a mountain maid's heart to bear insult and wrong from an eye or from tongue. That maid could not brook such a word and such look, and she caught down a broom that hung in the room, and hit him a blow that made the blood flow not gracefully slow. He lit on all four, just out of the door, all covered with gore. Then he sprang on his feet, and considered it sweet, and exceedingly meet to beat a retreat to cover a defeat; and he fled from the place in shame and disgrace-disappeared o'er the green and was never more seen. -and ever since then city dandyfied men have learned to beware of the Green Mountain Fair.

MATRIMONY.

Marriage is the mother of the world, and preserves kingdoms, and fills cities, and churches, and Heaven itself. An unmarried man, like fly in the heart of an apple, dwells in a perpetual sweetness, but dwells alone, and is contined and dies in singularity. But marriage, like the iseful bee, builds a house, and gathers sweetness rom every flower, and labors and unites into soieties and republics, and sends out colonies, and eeds the world with delicacies, and exercises many virtues, and promotes the interest of mankind, and is that state of good things to which God hath designed the constitution of the world. THE NEWSPAPER.

In promotion of the desirable object—the union of the intellectual with the useful—the newspaper is an important auxiliary. It is typical of the community in which it is encouraged and cir-culates. It tells its character, as well as its condition; its tastes, as well as its necessities; the moral, as well as the physical stamina, popula-tion and soil. It is the map whereon is traced out tendencies and destinies. The chart to direct the traveller, and the settler to safe and pleasant harbourage, or to divert them from the shoals and quicksands of social degradation. At home, t brings to our firesides, it imparts to our household, it inculcates on our children, its sentiment of prosperity, or its tone of contamination.—
Abroad, it is regarded as our oracle, and speaks volumes for or against us. In its business features may be discerned the indications of our prosperity, in a worldly sense, or otherwise; but in its general complexion will be discovered our moral and spiritual healthfulness or disease. It is the portrait of our imperfections, as well as the chronicler of our advancement. Wheeling Intelligencer.

A Boston MILLIONAIRE. The Boston Mail states that the yearly income of a certain rich citizen of that town would buy twelve hundred farms. His income-six per cent. on his entire wealth-would amount, daily, to more than the wages of two hundred hard working men. His ncome would buy a bottle of schneider or a pair of boots every three minutes. Every breath the old man takes is worth another ninepence. His enormous capital commands the toil of one thousand laborers and mechanics yearly to pay the interest.

A CHINESE NEWSPAPER. In Pekin, a newspaper of extraordinary size is published weekly on silk. It is said to have been started more than a thousand years ago—somewhat earlier than the one under the patronage of the "Good Queen Bess." An anecdote is related to the effect that in 1897, a public officer and false intelligence to be inserted in this newspaper, for which he was put to death. Several numbers of the paper are preserved in the Royal Library at Paris. They are each ten and a quarter yarda long.

HORRIBLE.—The Galena (Ill.) Advocate gives a report of a horrible crime committed in that vicinity. The father and mother of a family died last spring. Their disease was supposed to have been cholera. Recently disclosures have excited suspicion that they were poisoned by their own daughter, a girl of fifteen. A young man had been paying his attentions to her, to whom the parents objected, or account of his bad character. To remove this obstacle, it is supposed that the young girl consented to and committed the horrible crime of particids.

world, whether it would or could be success undertaken. But we were mistaken. We had formed a very inadequate conception of the ge-nius and energies which were enlisted in its prosecution. And now we have a report presented to the company by its president, announcing (or as good as announcing) the completion of the work through its whole length of 380 piles. tremity, that it may be said with truth harbor of Baltimore and the waters of | e Ohio are in each other's embrace. On the 11 of the ensuing January, the train of cars that will leave the depot in Baltimore will in twenty fours or less time, discharge their freight and passengers on the banks of the Ohio. In taking up our pen to notice this splendid achievement of the people of the Monumental City, we can but cordially congratulate them upon their deserved and almost unexampled success. They have entitled themselves to the everlasting gratitude of the millions who will share with them the rich fruits of their commercial enterprise, which are to be to greet, and the deeper and deeper coloring into orange and red, till at length the 'glorealized in this magnificent structure. They deserve to flourish under its auspices, as they must do, in a rapid and substantial manner. They have persevered steadily and courageously in the face of all difficulties, and is despite of all discouragements-difficulties, and discouragements too, which would have dismayed and paisied the hopes and exertions of less spirited communities after the lapse of twenty-six years the triumphant | Rays of light are wings. It is thus said

RAILROAD LAW. Justice Gibson, of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, has just delivered a very important de-cision in regard to the liabilities of railroads, in which he takes broad ground. It was in a case where an action was brought to recover the value of a cow run over by a train of cars on the Eric Railroad. Judge Gibson's remarks relative to the opinion of the Court below are as follows: The charge was accurate in its outline, but not in its details. As has already been said, there was no evidence of negligence on the part of the defendant. In another part, he even took the fact for granted. "The simple fact," he said, of "permitting, for a limiting time, the cow to wander on the railroad, would not, of itself, be such negligence as to excuse all negligence on the part of the defendant."

Had there been evidence to raise the point, the discretion might have been well enough; but the application of the principle in the particular instance is wrong. In Sills vs. Brown, 9 C and P 605, it was ruled that in cases of accident with carriages or ships, mutual negligence, if contri-butive to the injury, bars an action for it—a principle enforced by this court in Simpson vs Hand, 8th Wharton, 311. But it was erroneous to predicate it of a case in which the negligence was all on the side of plaintiff.

He further charged the Jury "that if the plaintiff knew his cow was wandering on the railroad. it was his duty to drive her therefrom. He had no right to suffer her to be there, and if he suf-fered it knowing her to be there, he was guilty of such negligence as would prevent his recovery. But if his cow casually wandered away, ordinary care being used to restrain her, the simple fact of her being on the track would not excuse the defendant's negligence."

Now, the making of this gratuitous imputation of negligence, and the ignorance of the cow's whereabouts, the turning point of the cause, is the root of the error. As the loss of the property is not a penalty for the owner's supineness in the care of it, of what account is his ignorance of its jeopardy? The irresponsibility of a rail-way company for all but negligence or wanton injury, is a necessity of its creation. A train must make the time necessary to fulfil its engagements with the post office and the passengers; and it must be allowed to fulfil them at the sacrifice of secondary interests put in its way, else it could not fulfil them at ail. The maxim of "salus populi" would be inverted, and the pa-ramount affairs of the public would be postponed to the petty concerns of individuals.

Every obstruction of a railway is unlawful, mischievous and abatable at the cost of the author or owner of it, without regard to his ignorance or intention. It may seem cruel to make a dumb brute suffer for the fault of his owner, but it must be remembered that the lives of haman beings are not to be weighed in the same scales wi ha farmer's or a grazier's stock; and that their preservation is not to be left to the care which a man takes of his uncared for cattle. Allowing them to prowl for their food, he may not wash his hands of the consequences of it. In a country so obnoxious to the charge of indifference to human satety, it is a high and holy charge of the Courts to hold to their duty, not only those to whom it is immediately committed, out also those by whose defaults it may be remotely endangered, and to hold them hard.—
We are of opinion that an owner of cattle killed or injured on a railroad, has no recourse to the company or its servants: that he is liable for demage done by them to the company or its passengers.

My Dear Friend:—Whether it be a favor or an annoyance, you owe this letter to my early habits of rising. From the hour marked at the top of the page, you will naturally conclude that my companions are not now engaging my attention, as we have not calculated on being early travellers to day.

This city has a 'pleasant seat' It is high; the James river runs below it, and when I went out, an hour ago, nothing was heard but the roar of the Falls. The air is tranquil and its tamperature mild. It is heard but the roar of the Falls. The air is tranquil and its tamperature mild. It is morning, and a morning sweet, and fresh, and delightful. Every body knows the morning in its metaphorical sense, applied to so many occasions. The health, strength, and beauty of early years lead us to call that period the morning of life. Of a lovely young woman we say she is bright as the morning, and no ane doubts why Ludfer is called the of the morning. mong all our good people, not one in a thou-sand sees the sun rise ence a year. They know nothing of the morning. Their idea of it is, that it is that part of the day which comes long after a cup of coffee and a beefsteak or a piece of toast. With them, morning is not a new issuing of light, a new bursting So little remains to be done at the Wesl rn ex- forth of the sun, a new waking up of all hat the that has life from a sort of temporary death to behold again the works of God, the heavens and the earth; it is only a part of the The first streak of light, the earliest pur-pling of the East, which the lark springs up

King David speaks of taking to himself 'the wings of the morning. This is highly poetical and beautiful. The wings of the norning are the beams of the rising sun.issue of their labors. A triumph like this is worthy of glorification, not only in Baltimore, but throughout the length and breadth of the whole that shall scatter life, health and joy throughout the universe.

Milton has fine descriptions of morning. but not so many as Shakspeare, from whose writings pages of the most beautiful imagery, all founded on the glory of morning, might be filed. I never thought that Adam had much the advantage of us from having seen the world when it was new. The manifestations of the power of God, like His mercies, are 'new every morning,' and fresh every mement.

We see as fine risings of the sun as ever Adam saw, and its risings are as much a miracle now as they were in his day, and I think a good deal more, because it is now a part of the miracle, that for thousands and thousands of years he has come to his ap-pointed time, without the variation of a mil-lienth part of a second. Adam could not tell how this might be. I know the morning-I am acquainted with it, and I love it. I love it fresh and sweet as it is-a daily new creation, breaking forth and calling all that have life, and breath and being, to pew adoration, new enjoyments, and new gratitude. DANIEL WEBSTER.

A REMINISCENCE.

In Norfolk last week, a three story brick house on Little Water street, built in 1804, was destroyed by fire. The Norfolls Herald savs: It was in this house that a shocking tragedy eccurred in 1806. Two gamblers brothers, of the name of Davis, rented the third stery for the purpose of keeping a pharo-table. One night an Italion, whose name we believe was Colmini, (Coalminer, as he was commonly called,) visited this establishment, and meeting with extraordinary luck, finally broke the bank. The Davises and another of their fraternity charged him with cheating; he protested his innocence, but it was to no purpose. They attempted to seize him, but he broke from them and fled down the narrow dark stairway, all three in close pursuit. On the second landing he stepped aside, unperceived, and as each passed him on the right, in the dark, he gave him a fatat stab with a stilette in the left side, and a push down the next flight. The two Davises were mortally wounded and died within 24 hours; their companion lingered several weeks and died also. The Italian escaped.

The president's report shows that the revenue from freight and passengers was $89,776 22, and from other sources $4,294, 41; total $94,170 93. The revenue from the former source last year was $98,486 07. The Virginian says the decrease is attributed, in a great measure to the abelition of the "drawback acceptate," and to the reduction of tolls. The number of passengers transported during the year has been 17,772—an increase of 1,660. The toursge of the year was 30,518.

peaceful and decorous demeanor of the citizens of this republic, on the day of its national elections. The remarks made by the Philadelphia "General Pierce acknowledged to Bulletin are applicable to almost every city and town in the Union. "Had an intelligent foreigner," says that paper, "been in our city yesterday, he would scarcely have believed that it was the day of our great national election. Accustomed to hearing at home that the people are incapable of self government, he could not have realized that this vast nation was actually choosing its. chief executive officer for the ensuing four years. The quiet with which everything was conducted would have increased his wonder. Remembering the ceremonies with which new monarchs are inaugurated in Europe, and old Empires revived, he would have been astonished, almost beyond measure, by the republican simplicity of our proceedings. Many such foreigners, visiting the United States on a tour of travel, we have no doubt, were in Philadelphia yesterday. Their reflections on the day were salutary, without question; and must have induced serious thought. The calmness with which the defeated party endures its disaster, to day, will naturally assist the favorable impression which our institutions have left on the minds of such visitore. Alas! that all nations are not, like this, capable of self-government, and in the enjoyment of free suffrage. But the auspicious time, when republicanism shall prevail in all civilized communities, draws pearer and nearer; to that, in spite of retrograde France and downtrodden Hungary, the heart of humanity has no cause for permanent despair."

The Free Masons of the 21st Masonic District intend to have a celebration of the Centennial Anniversary of the initiation of General George Washington into the mysteries of Free Masonry, at Martinsburg, on Saturday next, the 13th inst. Gen. Washington was initiated upon the 4th of November, 1752, but owing to the impracticability of celebrating the 4th inst., they have deferred it to the 13th. C. J. FAULKNER is announced as the orator of the day. All neighboring lodges, and brethren in good standing are invited to attend.

FRANKLIN PIERCE AT HOME.

Notwithstanding the vast majority of the popular vote by which Franklin Pierce has been called to the chief magistracy of the republic, the State be not foremost in his support. In the cultura Fair, no less than at the great Balti opinion of politicians whose only care is success, the vote of New Hampshire is a matter of no importance; but as indicating the regard in which he is held by those who know him best, it must afford a peculiar pleasure and pride to General Pierce to witness the enthusiasm with which his neighbors and friends rallied to his support. On a recent occasion, and with touching eloquence, he made a passing allusion to the partisan assaults upon his good name-only, however, to express the confidence that perfidy could not rob him of the esteem of those who knew him. He has not been disappointed. The calumnies of Foss and Fogg fell harmless against his invulnerable honor. In New Hampshire where he is best known, he is most loved and admired. Perhaps no man ever excited such generous and whole-souled regard as has been lavished upon Franklio Pierce during the recent canvass by the people of New Hampshire. More than all else does this fact attest the solid and sterling worth of the man, and therefore does he value it above every other manifestation of popular re-

SHOCK OF AN EARTHQUAKE.

The Fredericksburg Herald, of Thursday last, The shock of an earthquake was felt very sen-

Our good friends, the Whigs, in many sections of the country besides Spottsylvania, felt this same shock about 6} o'clock, Tuesday even ing. Its result, though not the wreck of matter or the crush of worlds, was the perfect annihilation and destruction of the Whig party. It was a severer trial by far, to their nervous system, than the falling stars.

THE AWARD OF PREMIUMS.

We publish in our paper to day, the award of Premiums made at our recent Agricultural Fair. It will be seen that the premiums dis-tributed by the Society are exceedingly liberal in amount, and embrace almost every variety of articles of any practical utility. 'Our Mechanics' have come in for a full share of the awards, and have come in for a full share of the awards, and among those especially worthy of being enumerated is our good friend Mr. John P. Gorman, who was kind enough to present us with the premium Bridle, one pittle most beautiful and complete articles in its way we have ever seen. Mr. G. also took the premium for the best Gentlemen's B. d. lie, a most capital specimen of taste, skill and substantial service. He hoped they would also remember that no prospect of success, nor indeed political elevation itself, could render their neighbor more or less worthy of the confidence and affection for which he was profoundly grateful. To the people of his native State, his heart acknowledged obligations for the expression of which language furnished no form. How could it be otherwise? For more than twenty wears their disintenested triendship for twenty years, their disinterested friendship for him has never been chilled nor their confidence shaken. He had not the irrogance to believe that his services had been at all commensurat with their steady, unsolicited partiality. To the record of that partiality he would ever look with pride and gratification. From the record of his acts, as its recipient, he had neither the right nor the inclination to turn away. He would freely confess to his friends that within the last few weeks, it had been particularly pleasant to know that forty-seven years among this people, as a boy and man, had given to their faith in him such strength, that falsehood could not shake it, nor per fidy steal it away."

readyrs such returns from the various portion, the country as we have been able to college there. The victory is overwhelming, to a surface first it has mollified the seal of victors, no less than overwhelmed with distant confusion the vanquished. When the an of the battle has passed over, and the billed as the wounded properly cared for, we shall take o casien to express our own views as to the ci cumstances which have conspired to bring about so astounding a result. The Whig party is dead dead, dead, beyond the hope of resurrection. The great Democracy of the country can we afford to be magnanistons, and tread lightly upon its ashes. To many of its unprincipled champions, and the more scurrilous of its public press heir own consciences, and the just coude tion of an outraged people, will be the most sig nal rebuke that could be offered.

VIRGINIA. The returns from this State, will scarcely fully ascertained, before the meeting of the L gislature, which will convene on the 4th Monds of the present month. Our table of returns a given below, which is, fuller than any other we have yet met with, indicates a majority ap proximating 15,000 for Pierce and King. W have gained already in sixty counties, 4,29 over the vote of Johnson, and in the counties remaining to be heard from, it is reasonable infer our gains will be still greater. The O Dominion is determined to have a full share i the clorious triumph which has been achieved.

STEADILY PROGRESSING.

The people are beginning to appreciate the advantages of favoring home institutions, affording, as they do, greater security against loss. The Insurance Company of the Valley of Virginia has already issued a large number of policies, and the receipts of the last month was about $1000. The firm basis upon which this Company is established, compared with the doubtful character of many of the city institutions, must secure for it the entire patronage o the Valley, besides other portions of the State.

THE GOLD CROP.

What a prodigious yield of gold (exclaims an Albany paper) California has made to the world since the first bright flakes of the precious metal were discovered in Sutter's mill race! The estimated entire product of the mines from that time down to the 30th of June last, and including all shipments to all ports in the United States, Europe, South America, Australia, the East Indies, &c., is the enormous sum in round numbers, of one hundred and sevenly four million seven hundred and eighty one thousand dollars:ther and more distant quarter of the globe, threa-tens to rival, if not far outstrip California in the yield of gold.

AUTUMN.

Chateaphriand has beautifully said: "Those eaves which fall, as do our years those flowers which wither like our hours—those clouds which fleet away, as do our illusions—that light which ecomes more feeble, as does our intelligence that sun which becomes colder, as do our life i —have a secret affinity with our destinies."

IT In addition to the choice of the Presidentia electors in all the States on Tuesday last, elec-tions were also held in the following States for the officers named:

Vermont voted for a member of Congress in the third district; New York for State officers and members of Congress; New Jersey for members of Congress and of the State Legislature; Delaware for member of Congress; Virginia for a member of Congress in the Wheeling district; Kentucky voted for a member of Congress in place Kentuck voted for a member of Congress in place of Humprhey Marshall; Michigan voted for members of Congress and State officers throughout; Illinois for members of Congress and County officers; Wisconsin for members of Congress, State and County officers; California for Congressmen, Judge of Supreme Court and County officers.

THE TAYLOR HOURS.—Julius C. Waddle has leased the Taylor Hotel for a term of years, and will enter upon the duties of landlord about the first of the coming year. The reputation earned by Mr. Waddle, whilst proprietor of Capon, will enable him to bring every advantage to bear in the management of this well-known house. Mr. Seevers, the present landlord, has earned for the establishment a wide and extended popularity.

The Guasa Mines.—A correspondent of the London Times, in a late communication to that

Its reliance uson mere military renown and service as a claim to the highest civil office was an outrage not only upon the public intelligence, but upon every principle of public liberty.

Its pretexts to hide its sectionalism, and to place the claim of the Whig candidates upon any other than military grounds, were from the first seen to be gross frauds! And, finally, the pretence that a canvass so organized and conducted could be called in any sense a conservative canvass, was the most odious fraud of all. All the intelligent conservatism of the land knew at once that in our federation there is no one political element so utterly and hopelessly destructive as sectionalism. It knew, moreover, that in a republic, to rally con-servatism under a mere military banner is a glar-ing self-contradiction. Feeling this, it found itself summoned to sustain a candidate whose po-litical life, among illustrious services in another walk of patriotic duty, exemplified almost every extreme of political error; and then, to crown this whole elaborate architecture of party ruin, this same sober, quiet, staid, distrustful conservatism of the country found itself liberally supplied with picture books as an inducement and a guide for its everying of the process. for its exercise of the great right of the vote!

The result is before us. The conservatism of the country turned away in utter disappointment

And yet this is but one-half, and less than onehalf, of the case. in the position of the united democracy. In the face of serious difficulties, first of all it planted itself firmly on national ground—the ground of justice and good faith under all the provisions of the constitution.

It sternly forbore to make its politics a per-It refused to tamper with the old, time-honored democratic creed. It called upon the country to sustainlin its entireness and purity the policy which, swaying the government for almost half a century, had made the country prosperous and

And, finally, it took, as the chief representative of that policy, a man who had shown a greatness of nature which, without effort or ostentation, could rise above all the temptations of public life and political ambition-a man, who, The New York Tribune says—

The business in breadstuffs is as large as the nature of the supplies will admit. The demand is good for Flour, and active for Wheat. The home to the convictions of the people and to all the interests of the country, had then, in his youth, of his own choice, laid down high public honor, and plunged into the depths of private life, content to display his powers in the faithful discharge of all its duties, save when his country called on him to gird on his sword for war, or when some emergency of high public concernment in the political affairs of his own State called him forth to display on that theatre a wisdom, patriotism, energy, and courage, worthy of the highest statesmanship of the best days of the republic !-And his associate in the democratic nomination was in all respects eminently fitted to grace that illustrious companionship, and to show by his acknowledged ability, consistency, and prudence, both in public and private life, the sincerity and singleness of purpose with which the democratic party in selecting its candidates had sought to put fairly in nomination the democratic sentiment of the country! Between two parties thus organized and thus led, the people could not hesitate, and have not hesitated. The whole land is democratic. The whole organized opposition to de-mocracy is a ruin; and as the Whig party goes into liquidation and winds up its affairs, the country must wait for the new firm and style in which the business of conservative opposition to the Democratic tendencies of our institutions and our people, shall henceforth be carried on?

THE RESULT.

The Comments of the Whig Press. At this peculiar juncture, nothing, perhaps, could be more acceptable to our readers, than some brief extracts from the Whig press, showing the tone and sentiment with which their overwhelming defeat is received, no less than the speculations which are offered as to the future political contests. The following is from the Baltimore Clipper.

neutral in profession, but Whig in practice: THE RESULT.—General Scott has suffered a more signal defeat than he ever gave to the enemies of his country, distinguished and glorious as his victories have been—and the Whig party is—no where. That party has fought its last battle, and should now dissolve. It never can recover the blow that has been inflicted upon it; recover the blow that has been inflicted upon it; and it would be worse than useless to continue its organization. When the old federal party was found to be irretrievably in the minority, it wisely disbanded, and many of its members were subsequently elevated to the highest offices in the country. The Whig party should follow the example, and withdraw all opposition; leaving to their opponents to carry out their measures without restraint. The people have decided by an overwhelming vote that the Democratic policy is that which should be pursued by the country, and resistance to it would be as unwise as it would be useless. With that party will rest the whole responsibility of the future course of the whole responsibility of the future course of the nation; and we hope that it will be such as to preserve the Union, and keep us out of all unto preserve the Union, and keep us out of all unnecessary conflicts with foreign powers.

It has been supposed that the election of Gen. Pierce would introduce free trade principles, and arrest appropriations for the improvement of rivers and harbors. We know not that this will be the result; but if it be, we shall be content, as it will be in accordance with the will of the people, to which we always cheerfully submit. If these measures be tried, and be found prejudicial to the public interests, they can be readily abandoned for others more suitable to the wants of the nation.

One thing has been effected by this election, which should excise no regret even with the Whig party. It has arrested the disposition which was becoming to prevalent, to prefer military chieftains for the Presidental office.

RESULT OF THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION. Since the fatal moment of Scott's nomination at Baltimore we have never had a doubt of his defeat; but the deluge is more overwhelming that the most sanguine Democrat predicted, or he most timid Whig feared. It required only an exercise of the simplest arithmetic, with the most ordinary knowledge of human nature to foresee the inevitable result; and they must be either very ignorant or very dishonest men who lave persisted in the contrary opinion. With twenty-five of the thirty-one States already in their possession, and with the additional incentive of lederal patronage to stimulate the Democracy, what hopest reason could possibly be assigned to encourage a hope for Gen. Scott-The simplest statement of the case carried a conviction of defeat to the heart of every candid man. They who counted on the personal popularity of Scott to overcome the odds against him trusted to an element that did not exist, as the end has sufficiently proved. And so far as his military character was concerned, that combustible fame went out with Gen. Taylor. The drum and file drama would not bear rehearsal. And then the barren speeches and zig zag travels of General Scott have lost him votes by hundreds of thousands. Blarneying the Irish with his affected "love of that rich brogue" went for less than nohing with a class too much accustomed themselves to "blarney" not to see through it, with the sly ejaculation, "Is it there you are?" And more, and worse than all, Gen. Scott was brought forward and supported by a faction of the Whigs whose motto has been for years, "to rule or ruin" the party. We have too much respect for the sagacity of those men, and too little for their honesty, to believe that they ever had the slightest faith in Scott's chances of election. To spite Webster, and punish Fillmore ; to grati, fy their malice against the "silver gray" or Union higs; to prove that in failing to "rule" they still had power to "ruin"—these were the mo-tives which led to the nomination of Scott; and t the same time to the repudiation of the Union

'platform," which the majority of the convention insisted upon putting under him. But we will dwell no longer upon the causes of the great revolution, upon this uprising of the ocean, this overwhelming deluge. There is still an Ararat for the ark of Whiggery to rest upon -the Green Mountains, we believe, are not quite submerged—and after forty days, it is possible, some exploring dove may bring back a single leaf to revive the drowning hopes of the anteci-

A word for the triumphant Democracy and the President elect. As we have endeavored during the campaign to treat both candidates and all candidates fairly and justly, so we shall continue to treat them to the end of the chapter. To the Democratic platform," as laid down at Baltimore, we have never taken but a single exception." We are in favor of "internal improvements' for national purposes. And to the plat-form of the Whigs, we object only to one plank. We are opposed to a protective tariff.

Of the President elect we have only to repeat that he is a man of excellent abilities, of undoubted patriotism, and of finer personal manners than any public man we have ever known since Mr. Clay. Cordial, off-hand, dignified and courteous, he wins the warmest affections of all with whom he holds intercourse. In personal popularity he will excel any of his predecessors in the Presi-

If is an emoibus we ride,
It is a beauteous sight to See,
When full the vehicle inside,
Are taking childhood on the knee.
But in the dog-days' scorching heat,
When a slight brenth of air is jarayed for,
Half sofficented in our seat,
We feel that "children must be paid for."

There is about the sports of youth
A charm that reaches every heart;
Marbles or toys are games of truth,
The bat plays no deceiver's pact.
But if we hear a sudden crash,
No explanation need be stayed for,
We know there's something gone to smash;
We feel that "children must be paid for."

How exquisite the infant's grace,
When clambering upon the knee,
The cherub, smiling, takes his pisce
Upon his mother's lap at tea;
Perchance the beverage flows o'cr,
And leaves a stain there is no aid for, On carpet, dress, or chair. Once more We feel that "children must be paid for. Presiding at the festive board,

With many faces laughing round,
Dull melancholy is ignored
While mirth and jolity abound
We see our table amply spread
With knives and forks a dozen laid for, Then pause to think-"How are they fed?"
Yes, "children must be paid for."

We have in our possession a large number of certificates, recommending this Drill to the farmer as having no superior. Among the number the following:

I have used on my farm and am still using one of the Wheat Drills, patented by Gervis S. Gardner and George Rohr, and now sold by Messrs. Henson, O'Bannon and Hun:. I do not suppose any intelligent farmer would now dispute the advantage of drilling over broadcast sowing; I also consider the above Drill altogether equal to any drill now in use, and the advantage of apply. ing a compost box to it, makes it very desirable-The compost part of the drill acts well in every particular and is one of the greatest inventions of the day for the farmer; it might well be called the farmer's friend, as it saves both time and labor. Northampron Co., April 13, 1852.
Messrs. Tyler & Adair: I have been afflicted with rheamatism at times, from my twelfth year. I will be 50 years of age the 15th of this month; the attacks were so severe at times as to render me helpless. I have tried various remedies to very little effect. Last October I was attacked in my shoulders, sides, back and hips; I could not rest day or night; I could not move any part of my body without crying with pain. At this time I also tried many remedies, internal and external, without relief. I was at last advised to try HAMP: TON'S VEGETABLE TINCTURE. Before I had taken one bottle of which, I felt much better, and as I continued taking it I felt strength coming into my back and limbs, and my stomach strengthened and revived every way. I have taken five bottles, and am much hetter than I ever expected to be. I intend to use it whenever I need, and would recommend it to the afflicted, believing it unequalled.

Messrs. Mortimer & Mowbray: Mrs. Elizabeth Bagwell is a lady of the highest respectability, wealthy and influential. The cure in her case speaks volumes in favor of this wonderful Tincture. Several other persons we have heard of, have derived great benefit from its use in our county. We are entirely out of the article, and have daily anxious enquirers to know when we will receive another supply. We expect large sales of it from the present demand, and want you to send us a box as soon as possible. box as soon as possible.

Messrs. Mortimer & Mowbray—Gentlemen: It is with pleasure I can testify to the great healing powers of HAMPTON'S VEGETABLE TINCTURE. My of HAMPTON'S VEGETABLE TINCTURE. My wife had been afflicted for three years, laboring under a constant hacking cough, with a most violent pain in ner right side, neuralgia in the head, and a dimness of sight; very little rest day or night, and much emaciation, and to all appearances a rapid consumption inevitable. We had the most eminent physicianin Annapolis, but his medicine did not give her any relief at all, but growing worse if any change in the least; and after having read one of your pampulets, in July last, she concluded to try Hampton's Vegetable Tincture, and after taking but two bottles of which (under a kind Providence) we perceived a great change for the bet-Providence) we perceived a great change for the better: her appetite improved, her skin became quite clear, cough, pains, neuralgia, &c., entirely left her, and by the time she had taken a few bottles more she was com oletely cured, and is now in the enjoyment of most ex-

I have seen also its beneficial effects on several other ladies of Annapolis, and I think I can say from what I have seen of the Medicine, I do not believe its curative powers can be equalled. A sense of duty to the afflicted has induced me to drop these few lines for their benefit.

Baltimore, May 1st, 1852. Wonderful core of hereditary scrofula by Hampton Vegetable Tincture!
This certificate is from the pen of a gentleman whose This certificate is from the pen of a gentleman whose name appears on the journal of Congress, one who is extensively and favorably known:

"It affords me pleasure to state that Dr. Jesse Hampton's Tincture has effected a most extraordinary cure of my slave boy, Albert. The patient was three years old, and had the scrofula—(his father was scrofulous.)—The boy was a moving mass of sores from head to foot; the upper lids of the eyes were much swollen, and turned inside out, exhibiting horrible mattering ulcers that protruded over the eye-balls so as to produce blindness. It is strange, yet true, this child, that I felt reness. It is strange, yet true, this child, that I felt resigned to see die as a relief from suffering, has been restored to health under the treatment of Dr. Hampton.
