only proper Physician to be consulted.. Dr. Johnston, Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London Graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the Hospitals of London, Paris, Philadel-phia and elsewhere, has effected some of the most as-tonishing cures that were ever known. A Certain Disease. When the misguided and impudent votary of plea-sure finds he has imbibed the seeds of this painful dis-case, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame, or dread of discovery, deters him from apply-ing to those who, from education and respectability, can alone befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease make their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose, hocturnal pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deaf-ness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face, and extremities, progressing on with ness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face, and extremities, progressing on with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commisera-tion, till death puts a period to their dreadful suffer-ings by sending them to "that bourne from whence no traveller returns." To such therefore, Dr. JOHN-STON pledges himself to preserve the most inviolable secrecy, and from his extensive practice in the first hospitals of Europe and America, he can confidently recommend the most safe and speedy cure to the un-fortunate victim of this horrid disease. It is a melancholy fact, that thousands fall victims to this dreadful disease, owing to the unskillfulness or ignorant pretenders, who, by the use of that deadly poison, mercury, ruin the constitution, and either send the unfortunatesufferer to an untimely grave, or makes the residue of his life miserable. Take Particular Notice. Dr. J. addresses all those who have in jured themselves by private and improper indulgences, that secret and a hitary habit, which ruin both body and mind, unfiting them for either business or society.

THE TRIAL OF CHRISTIAN.

FROM THE LEXINGTON STAR, OF APRIL 20, 1854. We surrender almost the whole of the inside of our paper, this week, to the publication of the evi-dence in this case. We give in fall the testimony of the principal witnesses for the prosecution. We thought that we would better subserve our pupose of giving our readers a fair and impartial history of the facts, by this course, than by a condensed state-ment of all the evidence upon the trial. We preferred the order to the witnesses in the order too to give the testimony of the witnesses in the order of the several periods of time, at which the incidents occurred so far as posible, rather than as it was given in at the trial. Our design was in this to make a time and position of the parties, when the fatal wound was given. We have not space to give the opinions of all of them, and therefore we preferred

Cadet BRUCE .- Mr. Blackburn left the Institute 10 or 15 minutes before me on Sunday evening. On Saturday or Sunday morning Blackburn requested me to tell Miss Anderson that he had taken some notice of the affair. On Saturday, the 14th of January, I was at Mr. S. McD. Moore's, and whilst there, Mr. Blackburn came in. Mrs. Moore said that Miss Anderson had received a letter from Christian, of a laughable character. Blackburn and myself tried to persuade Miss Anderson to show it to us, but she refused. Mrs. Moore then told her she did not think it would be wrong to show it; and after a little more persuasion, she did show it. After the letter was produced she handed it to Blackburn, who commenced reading it, laughing at every other line. He read only the Latin part aloud. A short time after the letter was read and laid aside. Black-

He said that he had just read a note or letter written by Mr. Christian to his (Blackburn's) Cousin, which was the most ridiculous thing

LEXINGTON, December 30, 1853. LEXINGTON, December 30, 1853. Miss ANDERSON :-Being induced by my exalted opinion of your refined feelings to believe that you would not wantonly wound the feelings of any gen-tleman, and being myself the unhappy victim of your mal-treatment, I must conclude that you had an apparent cause. And failing in my attempted in-terview with yon on last evening, I deem it necessa-m in institute on a mortal failing in my attempted in-terview with yon on last evening, I deem it necessa-m in institute on a mortal failing in the fail ry in justice to my reputation as a gentleman to find out the mysteries of the matter, and to clear my skirts of all imputations incompatible with the char-acter of a gentleman and the strict rules of courtesy. Then I ask it of you as a last favor to tell me if any there be, the causes which induced you to do so il-liberal an act. And if there be a calumniator so base, Ibersi an act. And if there be a calumniator so base, so envious, as with his own vile fabrications, to break the friendship heretofore existing between us, do tell me, and I will bring the culprit to justice and prove to you and the world that I am innocent, and that such a deed is beneath the dignity of those princi-ples of honor, that it was the care of my aged parents is justification.

He remained in the offict a short time, and then walked to the door, attracted by something. There he saw Black-burn come down the street, and approaching him, tapped him on the shoulder and asked him to walk into the passage adjoining the bar-room. Blackburn then said he had seen his letter to Miss Anderson, and that he (Blackburn) had called to inform him that he (Blackburn) was her adviser. Christian said that he asked Blackburn for his reasons for giving that advice. Blackburn answered, from the charac-ter which you bear in Lexington. Christian said that he then ssked him who had informed him of anything detrimental to his character. Blackburn's that he then asked him who had informed him of anything detrimental to his character. Blackburn's reply was, that he was responsible. He (Christian) said to Blackburn, "let it pass for the present." I asked Christian why he did not knock blackburn down. He replied that Blackburn could whip six of him, and besides that, he (Blackburn) was standing with he hand in the breast of him coat and that he with his hand in the breast of his coat, and that he felt confident from that fact and his position that he was armed. I asked him where was his stick. He said that whilst in the office some one of the Cadets had taken it out of his hands. He said he did not know who it was. He said there were several Cadets standing about the door, some of whom came up with Blackburn. I asked Christian if he believed that there was a concerted plan among the Cadets to disarm him of his stick, and then beat him in the absence of his friends. He said it looked very much like it. Christian then inquired of Morris and my-self what he should' do in such a case. Christian had made an engagement with Miss Anderson to escort her to Church on Sunday evening. I went to Blackburn soon after hearing this, and told him that I had heard of this engagement, and that Mr. Christian's reputatation, so far as I was acquainted with it, was not such at least, that it would be to his Cousin's credit to go to Church with him, and since regarded myself as a friend of both him, and his Cousin, I thought I had better tell of think, buttoned his furlough coat, (the buttons the engagement, and if he wanted my advice he had opened to insert his hand,) as he apabout it, he had better go over and tell her not to accompany him. I do not know what reply he made, but he went over. About 2 o'clock P. M., on the 14th of January, Horner and myself were at dinner in the Mess Hall. Blackburn entered the side door at my back and made some remark heard by Horner, but not by me. Blackburn then advanced and stood behind facing me with his back to the

Horner has. He said, for delicious nonsense, he had never seen its equal. He then said he was going to town, or rather asked if he ought to go. I replied that I did not think it was a matter in which a fight was to be feared, but however that might be, yet justice required, that Mr. Christian if he desired it should know the name of the man who had done him an injury. I said, from what I had seen of Mr. Christian, if he did not shut him up about it or take some notice of it, he would make the whole affair and his Cousin's name in connexion with it, the subject of town gossip, and he had better shut him (Christian) up about it. Blackburn replied "I will go to town immediately." Mr. Horner then told him not to act too rashly. I told him to wait and we would go with him. My reason was that if he happened to speak to Mr. Christian in the presence of other persons he might not have a difficulty with him, but if he happened among Christian's friends he might need some help. Blackburn waited until we were done dinner and we started to town. I concur with the statement of Horner until the time we got back toMcDowell'sand until Christian andBlackburn entered the passage, except that I do not remember whether Blackburn had his hand in the bosom of his coat or not, but I did not notice particularly. I did not approach the passage door. Mr. Horner was about six feet from it. I did not hear the remarks of which Horner speaks. I only heard Blackburn's report of the interview. Blackburn said after coming from the passage, "I informed Christian that I had seen his note evening. On Sunday morning at church, Christian came and sat down by me, and Blackburn was sitting in the Cadets' gallery on the opposite. I remarked to Christian. there is your friend, now. He smiled, and said "Yes, I see him." When church let out Christian went out before me. When I came out he was standing on the steps, and as I came by him Blackburn came out on the opposite side. He, (Christian) said to me "shall I go and see him now." I told him he had better not; it was not a proper place or time. He made no answer that I remember but he did not go. I saw him no more until after Blackburn's death. I came out to church that night and saw a crowd at White's gate. I was told what had happened. I thought at once that Christian was the man who had cut Blackburn. I met two ladies who asked me what was the matter. I went with them to the Hotel. I went back and told the rumor I heard. I then went to Christian's room and found that he was in Strayer's room just opposite. He (Christian) was standing, and had just I stay to see some of his county men. My im- washed his face. I told him that Blackburn I went in and Mr. Christian asked me to set was dead. He threw up his hands and said "Great God! No." His feelings seemed to be so great, that I was induced to deny that ther Christian or myself commenced talking Blackburn was dead, out of a feeling of merabout the affair of the 14th. Mr. Christian cy for him, and went out of the room.-asked me, or I told him, that I had found out I saw no more of Christian until afterwards in J. W. WOODFOLK .- I had a conversation with Christian on Sunday evening about half past four or five o'clock. He came to my room from the Episcopal church as he said. My room is at Mr. Comp-ton's nearly opposite the church. We talked upon various subjects for some length of time. At length he told me he knew who it was that had slandered him to Miss Anderson. He said on the day previous, after dinner, he was standing in the door at McDowell's Hotel. I think he said there were one McDowell's Hotel. I think he said there were one or two Cadets standing by him, and several, stand-ing before, or approaching the door. One, he did not remember which, asked him to let him look at his stick and he handed it to him. A few minutes after he had handed the Cadet his stick, Mr. Blackburn touched him on the shoulder and said he wished to see him. I think he said they walked in-to the passage above the bar room. Mr. Blackburn said he had seen the note he had written to Miss Anto the passage above the bar room. Mr. Blackburn said he had seen the note he had written to Miss An-derson and that he was the one he termed in that note a calumniator that he advised his cousin not to accompany him to church, and for the reason that he was not of good character, and that he (Black-burn) was responsible for what he and his cousin had done. I asked Christian why he did not knock him down if he could. He said he had no friends present and he believed it was a preconcerted affair among the Cadets, and also helieved Blackburn was armed, for when he approached he had his right hand in his bosom under his coat. He said he told Blackburn that he would see him some other time, and said the first time, he met him he meant to ask him for his suthors name, for what he said about his (Christian's) character or to spologise. If he refused to do so he would tell him he had acted rascally, or that he was no gentleman I do not remember which. And that if Mr. Blackburn struck bim he would came him. He said that when he met Mr. Blackburn he lady be excused for giving the advice, but in justice to Mr. Christian and himself, he would be compelled to give his calumniator. I suggested that a note should be written asking Mr. Blackburn for the information. Mr. Christian asked Mr. Morris and my-self to write and deliver it. Mr. Morris rethred to his room and prepared the note. J asked Mr. Christian if he understood by Black-

. I asked Mr. Christian if he understood by Black-burn's remark that he (Blackburn) was responsible for telling MissAnderson, or responsible for the slander itself. He rephed that he was uncertain—that he did not know which. After Christian left my room I went into Morris's room, and after he had prepared the note, I told him I thought ta-proper one. We then went to my room. Christian shortly afterwards came in, and inquired if the note had been written, and I told him that it was lying on Mr. Morris's table. He went in and read the note over, and when he returned here under the care of Mr. and Mrs. Moore : other places; that she had an opportunity of ered his character bad it was their duty to advise her. He then asked my advice as to and read the note over, and when he feturned said that it would do, and asked us to carry what he should do. I told him that I would go to Blackburn and ask for an explanation, it to Blackburn. Morris then remarked, "Christian, if you understand Blackburn to hold himself responand that if he refused to give it I would fight sible for the slander, this is not the note." Christian him. He temarked that Blackburn was a insisted upon the note being carried; that it would be much stronger man than he was and could best to have Blackburn's statements in writing. whip him. I told him then, I would take a cane and if he refused to explain, I would Morris said the delivery of such a note would be a farce if he (Christian) understood him (Blackburn) to avow the slander, and refused to carry it. I then cane him. He then remarked B. is armed told Christian that he had better go to Blackburn and will kill me. I then told him if it came and ascertain whether he was responsible for the communication made to Miss Anderson or for the slander. If B, should say that he was responsible onhimself, and to wing him. Mr. Christian ly for making the communication to his cousin, then he would be in honor bound to give up the name of the author. If Blackburn should say that he was reshowed me a revolver, a single-barreled pistol and a large knife. He had the knife in the sponsible for the calumny itself, Mr. Morris remark-ed that he (Christian) would have but two remedies ed that he (Christian) would have but two remedies to pursue; to challenge him, or to tell him what he thought of him and take the consequences. I added there is a third—you must back out and show your-self a coward. Mr. Chistian responded and said he would not challenge Blackburn, because he (Black-burn) could not leave the Institute. He said that burn) could not leave the Institute. He said that Col. Smith kept them so close it would be impossible for him to get away. He said he would go to Black-burn, ask him for an explanation as I had advised him, and if he said he was responsible for the slander or its author, he (Christian) would tell him what he thought of him or that he was no gentleman. He said that he would make no assault upon Blackburn, but if Black-burn assailed him he would defend himself as best he might under the circumstances. About sev-en o'clock that (Saturday) evening I left my room in en o'clock that (Saturday) evening I left my room in company with another gentleman to take a walk. Mr. Christian was in Stribbling's room, both examining some caps when I went in. Christian asked me if I had a knife. I said I had, but never loaned it to any person. He asked me what kind of a knife it was. I told him it was a howie-knife which my brother carried with him travelling in the West. The convercarried with him travelling in the west. The conver-sation here dropped about the knife, and they said something about the caps. Some gentlemen then asked to see my knife. I told them it was in my room in my trunk, and if it would be any gratifica-tion to them, they could come in and see it. I went to my trunk, took out the knife, laid it on the table, and all the gentlemen examined it, and lastly Mr. Christian. I told him to hand me the knife that I wanted to put it up. Christian said he knife, that I wanted to put it up. Christian said he would like to have it. I told him "no, I do not like to let any one have my knife." But Christian said "Winn, I believe I will take it any how." He put it into the waistband of his pants, and walked out of the room. I saw no more of him until after tea. He said to me, "Winn, what do you reckon, that rascal is adding injury to insult—he is going about the streets calling me a coward." I asked him who had told him. He said the friend who had told him did not desire his name to be mentioned. I then asked him to give me back my knife. He said he did not intend under any circumstances to use the knife, ex-cept in extremes—that he was afraid when he should meet Blackburn, he would have a crowd of Cadets meet Blackburn, he would have a crowd of Cadets with him, judging from the manner in which he first came, and if he did not have some weapon with him to defend himself, and no friends present, the Cadets would beat him to death the wanted to keep it to protect himself against such an attack on their part. He asked me to go up street with him; I declined on the plea of business. On Sunday evening, shortly after tea, I was in Chenoweth's room and found Christian there. I had been in there but a short time when Christian remarked that he was going over to Christian there. I had been in there but a short time when Christian remarked that he was going over to church that evening, and that he would probably see Blackburn—he wanted us to go with him in the event and difficulty should occur. We both told him that we Jid not think the occasion or the place at all suitable for seeing Blackburn on the subject of the difficulty. Mr. Chenoweth declined in positive terms. Christian then addressed himself to me particularly, and asked if I would go. I told him that he cought not to sat anything to Blackburn on Sunday. ought not to say anything to Blackburn on Sunday, because it would prejudice him in the eyes of the compunity and it was probable. Blackburn would community, and it was probable Blackburn would be in company with a lady. Christian replied that he would not have an opportunity of seeing Black-burn again for a week. He seemed to be apprehen-sive that his character would suffer from Blackburn's talking about him in the meanwhile as he had altalking about him in the meanwhile as he had al-ready been doing. Chenoweth said he could go down to the Institute on Monday, Christian said—"if I go there, I will have 150 Cadets on me—if I go to the church, I will have no more than 30, and my friends could prevent foul play." Christian stood by the fire-place and again said something about going. I told him he had better go up on the upper floor and see Morris and others, and whatever they said I would do. I was opposed to going on Sunday, but would go cheerfully at any other time. Mr. Christian, when I made that remark I think was disposed to yield to my suggestion, and I think was disposed to yield to my suggestion, and go at some other time. This is only an impression I think was disposed to yield to my suggestion, and go at some other time. This is only an impression. Mr. Christian then left. I remained in Chenoweth's room something like half an hour after he left. I still being there, he came running into the room his face covered with blood. His clothes in front, and his shirt particularly, were covered with blood. The sleeves of his shirt were bloody. We both exclaim-ed "What is the matter?" He said that he had just had a fight with Blackburn—that Blackburn had him down choking him—that he (Christian) had cut him in the face—and that Blackburn had bled on him whilst he was lying under him. After Christian said he had a fight with him. Chenoweth asked if he had shot him. Christian said "No, I cut him in the face." Christian said to me and Chenoweth to go and see if Blackburn was hurt seriously—he hoped he had not hurt him seriously. I told Christian to come into his own room and wash and put on some clean clothes. I do not recollect our conversation. We did not stay more than 10 minutes. Cousins and myself then went down, leaving Christian in his room. We came with the intention of going to church with ladies, and seperated at the tavern. I went to church with a lady, and left her at the door. After talking a few minutes with some Cadets at the door, I went down to Mr. Christian's room again. As I was going up the steps I met several Law-Students on the steps and in the passage. The Cadet did not come in, but turned immediately and left. I think it was Thompson, but am not posi-tive. Mr. Sevier came in a few moments after, and Christian asked him to go and see how Blackburn was. Sevier left. I locked the door and told Christian to tell me all of the circumstances. Christian then said he went to the Church and in the vestibule he saw Blackburn standing with two other Cadets. He tapped him (Blackburn) on the shoulder, and said he wished to have some private conversation with him, and asked him to walk aside with him. They went out into the street and walked up toward and near the Baptist church, when Blackburn said, if he had anything to say to him, he had as well say it ristian then said to Blackburn that he vished him to explain to him what he meant by his remark that he was responsible for what he had said to Miss Anderson and repeated that he wished to have an explanation, and he thought Blackburn ought to apologize for the remark. Mr. Blackburn said that he would make no explanation or apology but that he was responsible for all that he had done. Mr. Christian then told him that he was no gentleman. Mr. Blackburn replied, "don't repeat it, Sir." Mr. Christian said "Yon know it is true, Sir." Blackburn then rushed upon him. Christian gave back several paces, and as Blackburn was approaching, he (Christian) struck him, or at him with his stick. Blackburn seized him immediately, and took his stick from him and threw him upon the ground. The taking of the stick and the fall were simultaneous. He tripped him and fell over on him. Blackburn got him by the throat and was choking him violently, when he (Christian) cut him with the knife; that he attempted to cat him in the face to make him losse his grasp. And that the blood from the wound which he had given him ran down upon his face, head and clothes, as before described. added at the same time that he had no design or in tention of killing him; his only object was to make him loose his grasp, as he was nearly out of breath at the time. Christian did not know, when he was making this statement, that Blackburn was fatally injured, or that he was dead. In a short time som other person knocked at the door, I opened it and Cadet Langhorne and Messrs. Morris and Stribling came in. Supposing that they were some who had gone to inquire about Blackburn, Christian exclaimd how is Blackburn and hoped he had not hurt him. Mr. Morris asked him about the affair and Christian made to him substantially the same statement which he made to me. The last statement was made in the presence of Cadet Langhorne, Mr. Stribling, and Mr. Morris. Mr. Sevier then came in and Christian asked him "how is Blackburn." Sevier said, "Blackburn is dead." Christian exclaimed, "Oh no! it is not so." Some one then ceme in and suggested to Christian that he had better leave. Christian said he had done the act in self-defence and he could not help it, and would stand and take the consequences. I heard the noise of steps coming up the stairs. I took him to Strayer's room to dress and I then went up to my room. Soon I came back and found him in his own room. I asked him what he was going to do. He said that he was going to surrender himself-that he had sent for the officer. Mr. Jordan came soon after and Mr. Christian made the remarks as reported by Mr. Jordan. I remained there until Mr. Jordan carried him out to Jail. I went and examined the ground where the affray came off, and I saw two places with blood there. I then went to Christian's oom with Jordan, Smith and others. They made an examination of the weapon. When Christian came in, his coat was very muddy upon the shoulders, and there was also some mud about the hips. The ground was muddy from the moisture rising in the thawing of the ground. Christian said he had got the mud on him by Blackburn having him down. After the officers left, I remained in Christian's room, whilst they were gone to the Jail to get the key of Christian's trunk. After the search I went to the Jail. There were several Law-Students there, who were about leaving. Mr. Christian asked that some one would stay all night with him. Mr. Morris said that he would stay with him. Morris went tomake arrangements for staying, and I remained until Whilst there I observed Mr. Christian he returned. spit several times upon the wall. The redness of the spittle attracted my attention and I found it was blood. I said to Christian, "That fellow must have The said "I was near

Our eyes met and we looked at each other steadily ommenced." I went but a short dis in the face for an instant. I did not recogniz him. I could see that he was a white man, gen teely dressed, with a sort of sack overcoat on, h toned in front. I know it was a sack, for I had seen his back as I first approached. He struck me as a person low and heavily set. The light from the Church was falling full upon his person. He turned to the right whilst whilst I turned to the in-dividual upon the ground, and approached him — When I got to him he was lying on his back, rath-er turned to his left side. His bead was not around more to the left than his body-his face lying partially in a rut. He was breathing like a man with his mouth and nose full of somethingsnuffling. He made no moan of groan. I observed that it was a white man, and judging from the dark apparance of the lower part of the face, thought he had whiskers. I afterwards suppose that it must have been blood, for the deceased had no whiskers. I took hold of his right hand and arm, and pulled his face partially out of the rut and into the light of the Church, which was partially kept from the body by the scales. I at the ne asked who it was. He made no manisame festation of consciousness at all. I then exclaimed "I believe the man is killed," or something to that effect, and called for help. Some one, a tall gen-tleman, in citizens clothes, I thought, came up rapidly at that moment and asked what was the matte I replied, "I believe that the man is killed, or that some one has killed the man." With some exclamation of horror, he turned and ran off. In the msantime, I was pulling at the prostrate man. I observed a Cadet uniform overcoat, and directing my attention the more narrowly to his face, I reognized the features of Cadet Blackburn, whom I knew very well. At that moment a tall Cadet came up rapidly on my right, and went to Mr. Blackburn's head, with another low gentleman who came round by my left, and went to Mr. B.'s feet. I don't know that the Cadet said anything. I said "this is Cadet Blackburn; I believe that somebody has killed him; 'un after a doctor." He immediately started. The other gentleman seemed to have on a dark blue uniform and cap, and it suggested to me that he was a musician. He immediately said "this is Mr. Blackburn," and getting between the body and the scales, got down on his hand and knecs, and putting his face close to Mr. Blackburn, called him by name, Mr. Blackburn, Mr. Blackburn, several times quite loudly. He gave no sign of consciousness. He took him by the shoulders, whilst I held on by the right arm, and we pulled him up on the scale and laid him on his back. By that time perhaps a dozen of people had gathered around. Dr. Christian was the first Dr. who arrived. The body was carried diagonally across the street to the counting-room doo of William White's store. The counting-room is not as wide as the store-room, which leaves a space between counting-room door and the pavement, and this is enclosed by a high fence. The body was brought into this yard and laid upon the cellar door. By this time a light was procured, and it was found that the nose and mouth of the deceased were full of blood. He was gasping and his eyes blood shot and about half open. I thought he was dying. The blood from his mouth and nose had that frothy appearance, which would indicate that he had been breathing through it. I went with Mr. Jordan the Mayor to the Hotel, for the purpose of arresting the individual who did it. We went together to Christian's room, from whom we had received a message, after reaching the Ho-tel, that he wished to see Mr. Jordan. In consequence of that message we went to Mr. Christian's room. Mr. Jordan and myself went to the Hotel with a posse, and we went into the bar-room or office before receiving Mr. Christian's message. The Clerk said that no one had come into the barroom. I suggested that some one might have run in at the upper passage, about four doors above the bar-room and fronting on the main street, and at the same time I suggested to Mr. Jordan that a guard had better be placed at the entrance of the passage which was done at once. We went through the bar-room into the passage next to it, thence through a covered way leading to the dining room and up a narrow pair of stairs leading amine the wound in the neck, after laying aside second story, which terminated at another pair of steps leading from the upper passage into the second story. Mr. Jordan stopped in order that we might get the Clerk or Landlord to pilot us through the house. A servant was with us with a There were several persons on the steps light. leading from the upper passage to the upper story. The foremost of them, Mr. L. Barclay, said to me that Mr. Shriver had a message from Mr. Christian to Mr. Jordan, that he wished to give himself up. I turned to Mr. Jordan and said Mr. Christian is the man. I thought Mr. Jordan had heard Mr. Barclay's remark. Mr. Jordan then asked the servant to show us to Mr. Christian's room, which he did, being but a tew doors from where we were. We met some one in the passage, I do not remember who it was, Mr. Jordan, when we arrived at the door, opened or knocked at it and it was immediately opened. Mr. Jordan stepped in. The door is near the corner of the room and opens from the hall. As the door opened I saw but one individual and that was Mr. Shriver. I had a very limited view of the room. As Mr. Jordan stepped in Mr. Christian approached him and can e within my view, as I was standing in the door. Mr. Christian "Mr. Jordan this is an agly scrape into said which I have gotten," or something to that effect. He then added "that I couldn's help it I asked him to apologize and he wouldn't do it. And I told him he was no gentleman." Mr. Jordan then said "put on your clothes Mr. Christian and go with me." To which Mr. Christian and go with To which Mr. Christian replied very promptly "Yes sir, or certainly sir." I then left and went to Church. Mr. Christian had on his pantaloons and shirt when I first saw him in his room, his Vest and Coat being off. His shirt had no blood on it and seemed to be clean. The left flushed and as if he had been washing. His hair was brushed up, and his manner was excited and embarrassed. His expression was concerned and anxious. I came to town next morning about 10 o'clock. I went first alone, and afterwards with two others, Col. Smith and Maj. Preston, to examine the ground upon which the encounter had taken There were a good many persons there when I examined the ground alone, several the last time, and not so many the second time. The ground was very much trampled in every direction around. I do not think it had frozen that night at all. I went to the place near the engine house from which I first heard the scuffle the night before, and looked carefully to see if there was any blood at that point. I could see none at all. At the place where I saw the individuals lying together the night before about 20 feet from the door of the engine house, which I first examined, I saw a bloodstain on the ground. It was of an elliptical form about 18 inches in length and 12 in width. The ground seemed to be saturated with blood. This was near the Main street, obliquely across the cross street, in the direction of the Main street, about one and a half yards from the pavement on . which I was standing the night before when the rencontre took place, and where they were first lying as I have before described. I saw no blood spattered around the ellipse. The other blood stain, which I saw upon the ground 10 or 15 feet from the one before described, was diagonally across the cross street towards Main street, and near the corner of the Scale nearest Main street, the place where I found the deceased lying the night before. There was some clotted blood in the rut, and the ground around was saturated with blood. The spot covered at this place was larger than at the other, but it was irregular, the longest way being parallel with the scale, and with the direction of the body as it lay the night before. From my examination then and subsequently I do not think there was as much blood at this point as at the first. There was another blood-stain upon the floor of the Hay-scales, where we had laid him the night before, but less blood there than at either of the other places. I did not observe very closely whether there was any blood-stain between the first and second stains which I have described .-But I saw no blood-stains between these two points. The length of time from the time of my first hearing the scuffle and the strokes as I have described until I saw them on the ground, I do not suppose that more than half a minute had elapsed. From that time until I saw them rise and one pushed off as described, I think not more than 15 or 20 seconds of time elapsed. From that time until I got to the body a few seconds, and until he was laid upon the scale not more than two minutes elapsed. From the the time I first heard the scuffle until Mr. Blackburn was laid on the scale did not exceed three minutes. and not more than five minutes after we had bim on the cellar door at Mr. White's. I left him then for dead, although he was still gasping. So that I would say that from the time when I first heard the than S or 9 minutes had elapsed. When I saw Mr.

discovered another pool of blood. I then looked at that. I walked over to the pavement where I first stopped, I only saw three pools of blood. The least pool was five or six feet above the corner of the Hay-scales pointing towards McClellands's, a lit-the to the right of the direct line of the outer edge the to the right of the direct line of the outer edge of the Hay-scales-a little nearer to the Scales than the Engine-house. I examined the pool carefully and had no doubt it was blood. It was five or six inches in diameter, and some spatter from it. I was within a step or two of it when I saw it, about 15 or 20 feet from the spot. There was a horse track near it. It was not otherwise tramped. W. M. Busnus -I went to the ground ene half hour after it happened. I discovered three pools of blood pointed out to me. The first was about half way between the lower corner of the Engine-house and the upper corner of the Scales. The other was on the opposite side of the street, nearer the en-trance to White's gate, and about 12 steps from TUESDAY MORNING, MAY 2, 1854. the first. The third one was on the side next the Church, near the Scale. This observation was made at night, immediately after the Methodist Church let out. I staid nearly ten minutes. The first pool which I have mentioned looked equally as large as the others to all appearances. The blood was still there next morning. The ground was more tramped there than any where else. SAMUEL CAMPBELL .-- I was on the ground about The pool near the pavement had the next less blood. At the third pool it seemed to be splashed, with a trail towards the Engine-house. The ground seemed cloddy. The third pool was not under 4 inches in diameter. It could be probably straddled by a carriage coming out the Church yard. MARTIN PHILLIPS .- I examined the ground at 8 o'clock the next morning. I saw three pools of blood. The poolnear the lower corner of the Scales had most blood The one near the pavement was next in quantity of blood. The other had least, and seemed to be sprinkled DR. CHRISTIAN .- I found Blackburn lying upon the Hay-scales, rather upon his left side. first reached there, I could not see whether he was white or black. I called for a light immediately, and believing from his breathing that it was a very urgent case, I requested that he should be immediately taken to my office. Several persons took him up and he was carried to Mr. White's counting-room. There appeared a wound upon the left side of the neck, immediately below the ear, and directly over the course of the carotoid artery. I saw that Blackburn was dying, and believed that his death resulted from hemorrhage produced by that wound and the cutting of the carotoid artery. The wound in the neck was about one half inch be low the left ear. It was a transverse cut, from an inch and a quarter to an inch and a half in width -The cut was parallel with the bottom of the ear .-I made no futher examination at that time. The next morning I saw a wound upon Blackburn's left temple-an angular wound down and back in • an oblique direction.

DR. JORDON,-I saw the body of Blackburn with in 10 or 15 minutes after his death, and whilst I was upon the cellar-door at Mr. White's. There were few persons present at that time, and Dr. W. Grallam, the only physician present, was standing by his head. The body was lying upon the back, the head thrown stightly to the right side. There was a wound on the leftside of the neck, and it was the only one I observed. I introduced my finger into the wound, and found that it extended the who'e way across to the right side and back of the windpipe, and terminated against the angle of the jambone on the right side. By pressing the finger on the wound below the jaw, I could feel the end o the finger thro' the integuments from the right side The next morning, with four other physicians. attended the Coroner's inquest. We had the body stripped and washed. We discovered a wound in the back, which we first examined. It was situated on the right side of the back, one and a half or more inches in length, and passed obliquely under the the right shoulder blade, seeming to have terminated on one of the ribs. CHARLESTOWN:

THE CHRISTIAN AFFAIR. We publish in another column the evidence adluced in the trial of Charles B. Christian for the murder of Thos. Blackburn. We have noticed heretofore the distressing and painful circumstances thrown around this case, and we to-day give the evidence without any comment.

On Tuesday afternoon, the 18th ult., Capt. David E. Moore, Attorney for the Commonwealth, commenced the argument, for the prosecution, and acquitted himself in a very able manner. Wednesday was occupied by James B. Dorman. The effort of this gentleman is spoken of as being a masterly affair. It having elicited the warmest encomiums from all who heard it. On Thursday the Hon. A. H. H. Stuart, added additional lustre to his already high legal character. Thursday afternoon Thos. J. Michie, Esq., appeared in behalf of the prosecution. His efforts was conceded to be one of the greatest ever heard in the county. The Star, however, in alluding to this gentleman, as being employed by Col Smith and Dr. Blackburn, made we think rather an indelicate and very unkind remark ; it may rest assured that no pecuniary motives could have actuated Dr. B. in the premises. It was the memory and character of his son that caused him to assist in employing counsel. Robt. L. Doyle, Esq., Chas. L. Mosby, Esq., and Judge Brockenbrough, successively followed, in able and eloquent speeches. Capt. Moore closed for the prosecution, and the case was submitted to the jury. The jury was unable to agree and the Court dismissed them. The case has been transferred to Bedford county, and will be tried next September.

DUEL IN CALIFORNIA.

Our former townsman, and most respected person al and political friend, BENJ. F. WASHINGTON, Esq., has had a personal conflict with Gen. WASHBURN in which the latter was seriously wounded. Mr. Washington is the editor of the Times & Transcript published in San Francisco, and Mr. Washburn of the Alta California. The difficulty grew out of the subject of election of U.S. Senator from California in place of Col. Gwynn. One party being in favor of electing a Senator during the present session of the Legislature, the other being opposed to that measure These gentlemen having taken issue upon the pending question, articles appeared in their respective papers which led to a personal encounter. We give below a brief statement, copied from a California

DOINGS AND GOSSIP OF WASHINGTON. ce of the Sp rit of Jef WASHINGTON, April 28, 1854. Fen Million Land Bill-Speech n the Ten Milla and Nebraska Bills-Col. Bento Smith of Virginia — Gen. Millson's Speech Badger Proviso Unanswered — The Mczu ty Modified by the Senate — Its probable of by Santa down y Santa Anna-A California Duel, &c., &c.

JAMES W. BELLER, Esq.-Dear Sir : As yet there ano veto of the Ten Million "Petticoat" Land Bill out I am induced to believe it will make its appearnce in a few days. The "Deficiency Bill" is not nally before the Committee of the Whole in the Honse, but yet no one pretends to discuss it, but the time of the Committee has been taken up with speeches upon Bennett's Land Bill and the "Nebraska Bill." Mr. Disney, of Ohio, varied "the play" in the House yesterday by making quite a finished and able argument against granting the public lands to the several States for internal improvements and school purposes. It is a great pity he is not as orthodox, against granting them to Wisconsin Railroads, &c. The "soulless corporations" have not yet recovered from the able and sound trouncing they received a few weeks since from Mr. Letcher of your State, but it is thought they will make another effort to regain their former favor before the session is over, but I do not think they can succeed. The Hon. Mr. Rodgers of North Carolina, made quite an able argument today in favor of Bennett's Land Bill. He is a Whig and preaches the old Whig doctrine and faith. He is quite a talented young statesman, and the most youthful looking man in Congress.

The debate on the "Nebraska Bill" has been pretty steadily in operation all this week, and astonishing to say has given rise to a number of fine and interesting speeches, which have been listened to with unabated interest. Col. Benton "exploded" this week, but unfortunately for his Nebraska fame and immortality, he did not do it half the harm the brusting of the Princeton's big Paixhan gun did his brain a few years ago. But to characterize "Old Bullion's" speech as a failure is not doing him justice. True he is not what he was in the pride and full bloom of his intellect during Jackson's Administration, yet he is still great and powerful in debate, and those who attempt to laugh down him or his speeches only make themselves ridiculous. Governor Smith of your State, yesterday made a speech in favor of the Bill, and particularly in reply to Col. Benton, which I regret I did not hear, as I have heard high commendations passed upon his speech by all who heard it. We had quite a nice Southern Speech against the Bill a few days since from Mr. Harris of Mississippi, which was really an able effort, a mixture of genuine wit, glowing declamation and strong argument. Several other speeches pro and con have been made upon the Bill, but General Millson's able argument against the Badger proviso, has not been answered yet, notwithstanding I have several times heard and seen it given out, that it was to be demolished. Mr. Philips of Alabama, it was said was to batter down its walls, but I opine his ordinance was rather too light. The Washington papers will give you full views of the modified "Gadsden Treaty," therefore I shall not dilate upon it here. The Mexican Legation here seem to be very well satisfied with it, and the impression prevails here in all well-informed circles, that Santa Anna will accept it.

I regret to observe by the last mails from Califora that our friend B. F. Washington, Esq., has been engaged in a duel, but am happy to see that he es- on yesterday, for Corporation officers, at which a and start for Texas. They had buried 2,000 pounds caped unharmed and hope his wounded antagonist may recover from his injuries. Very respectfully, your obedient servant, FRANKLIN.

DUELS, MURDERS AND CRIMES IN CALIFORNIA. Like all new countries which are settled by a mixm every ter of the embark in haza enterprises. and who aim to amass great fortunes in the shortest and easiest manner, California presents many strikfeatures. In such a country, where conflicts and s occur between men who have no sympathies in common, and who have grown so habituated to danger and strife as rather to court than avoid them, it is not surprising that there should be many brawls, fights and murders. But California has latrly been the scene of so many crimes as to have excited the liveliest apprehensions in the minds of the more sober-minded and orderly of her citizens.

The California papers teem with accounts of shocking mimes and brutalities. We group some that recently occurred in the space of a few days, which we extrac from California papers. Some were affairs of hono others plain murders.

"A duel was fought March 20, at Volcano Bar, or he middle fork of the American river, by Messrs, J Landon and David E. Hacker. A pu de by Mr. Hacker, relative to the senatorial electric on, was the cause of the duel. They fought with tols-distance fifteen paces-and at the second fire Ir. Landon was killed. Messrs. McBraver and Park, members of the asembly, were prevented from fighting a duel by the aterference of the Masonic lodge, of which they were embers. Thomas Burke, of Sonora, was shot by James

Smith, of the same place, in the Union Hotel, San Francisco, on the 16th of March. Burke survived about forty-eight hours. The murder was the result of a drunken quarrel. "A man named Schwartz, a Swiss, having stolen a horse at Jackson, Calaveras county, was pursued arrested, taken back to where he committed the lar ency, and hung (March 22) upon the same tree that at different times six other men have been suspended from without judge or jury. The orderly citizens of the place were very much incensed at the roceedings of the mob, and the county judge issued varrants for the arrest of all parties connected with he lynching.

CHURCH DESTROYED. The large and beautiful edifice known as St. Paul's Church, and situated on the southeast corner of Charles and Saratoga Streets, Baltimore, was destroyed by fire on Thursday last. St. Paul's was consecrated in the March of 1817, at an outlay of $140,-000, and was the third Church crected on that spot since its first organization. The origin of the fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary. THE WALKER EXPEDITION.

Letters from San Diego, of March 25th, state that about thirty of Walker's men arrived in that town and would leave immediately for San Francisco. These men state that when they left Walker, on the 21st ult, he was preparing to abandon the New Re public, as he has called it, and would start with about forty of his best officers and men, on the following day, for Texas, crossing the Colorado river

63-The Petersburg (Va.) papers state that $150,-000 worth of the bonds of the South Side railroad guaranteed by the city of Petersburg, have been already disposed of at that place. It is expected that the larger portion of the residue will be sold next Luesday.

83- JONATHAN HIRST, sold on Monday, 24th ult. in Loudoun, a tract of land, near the Goose Creek neeting-house containing 56 acres, for the handso um of $7,000, being $125 per acre.

03- We learn, the mill and still-house of NATHAN NERR, near Hillsborough, in Loudoun county, was burnt on Wednesday night of last week. It is supposed to have been the act of an incendiary. His loss is about $1200.

AF-The town of Warrenton, Georgia, was nearly, destroyed by fire on Sunday last 27th ultimo, Every store, the court-house, post-office, with many of the best dwellings and a number of offices, are destroyed The loss is estimated at from $1,100,000 to $1,200.

85-The workmen on the Baltimore and Ohio Rairoad, have notified the Company, that unless their wages are increased before the 1st of May, they will strike. The reason assigned is the advance in prices of all the necessaries of life.

DAMAGE BY HAIL .- Two hail storms passed over a portion of Frederick county, Md., last week-one on Wednesday, the other on Thursuay, doing much da-mage to the crops, &c. The Catortin Whig says that three miles south of Middletown, the hailstones were as large as hen's eggs. At the farm house of Mr. Jacoh Smith, over 70 panes of glass were demolished and about 90 broken at the house of Mr. Geo. Shafer The garden truck in that section, as well as the branches of the young fruit trees, were completely cut to pieces by the hail. In many places hail drifted in banks to the depth of 2 to 3 feet.

Cor., BENTON .- The President having appointed an anti-Benton man as Postmaster at St. Louis, Old Bullion has published a card stating that he will not forward letters by mail to the St. Louis Post Office, or receive letters mailed there-but will employ Ad-ams & Co's express for the transmission of his letters to that city, and requests his friends to employ the same medium of conveyance in sending letters to

DISPERSION OF CAPT. WALKER'S BAND .- A letter from San Diego states that Capt. Walker and 40 of his fillibusters were about to aba don their ca

ly out of breath, when I gave the wound." I examned his neck. I discovered there was skin knocked off his cheek and some rubbed off just back of his ear. There were marks of fingers upon his neck, where he had been grasped. It was very red where the fingers had been impressed upon his neck. His neck was not red any where clse. I remarked to him "he came very near fixing you." Miss JULIA JUNKIN .- Mr. Blackburn accompanied

Cadet MATHEWS .- On Sunday evening the 15th of January, McKinney and myself passed in at the front door of the Presbyterian Church a few paces behind Cadet Blackburn, who was in company with a lady. As soon as the lady entered the Church, Mr. Black burn turned and made some remark to us which did not hear. We were standing just in front of the right hand inner door, and just as he made the remark, Mr. Christian came up, and t uched him on the shoulder and told him he wanted to see him a little. Mr. Blackburn assented and both immediately started off. I think Mr. Christian was on Mr. Blackburn's left. Mr. Christian had on a sack over-coat, buttoned up, and a stick under his left arm, and both hands in his over-coat pockets. Knowing that Blackburn and Christian had had a diffisulty, I suggested to Mr. McKenney that we had better see that they had no difficulty in the street. We stepped out of the door a few paces behind them, and walked to the head of the steps leading into Main street. We stood there and no ticed them until they got about the corner of the Street leading up by the Baptist Church. And sceing that they walked on, we turned and went into Church. We were in there but a few moments when we were told that Blackburn was stabbed .-We immediately came down and found him lying on the cellar-door in the rear of Mr. White's

Cross Examination .- I heard no words exchanged between them, except those already mentioned. had seen Christian, just before he spoke to Blackburn, standing by the left hand door in the vestibule. I do not know, but think that Blackburn had no arms. He had on his furlough coat and over coat buttoned partially. The cape was buttoned back, and my impression is that the coat was not buttoned the whole way up. I had heard that Blackburn had been up to see Christian about a lifficulty and they had not had one. . I noticed his dress, but did not notice anything peculiar in his apparance. There was nothing in Christian's tone manner, which indicated excitement when he touched Blackburn, and said he wanted to speak to him. They were but a few steps apart when Blackburn left the lady at the door of the aisle. JAMES W. MASSIE .- On Sunday night, the 15th of January, 1854, about a quarter before 6 o'clock, P. M., was on my way to the Presbyterian Church, in company with a lady. I was on the cross-street leading from McClellan's to the main-street, walking on the pavement on the side next McClellan's about half way between McC.'s and the main dark night. I do not remember whether there were any stars. The ground was wet, but not frozen, and this increased the darkness. At the place which I have described I heard a slight scuffle. It was about the Engine-house. It was on the side of the street opposite to where I was. I continued walking forward, and immediately after the scutfe there were several strokes or licks in very quick succession. They sounded more like the stroke of some pliant substance, such as a whip or switch. It might have been a stick, but did not sound like one. I am not familiar with the sound of a stick under such circumstances. It suggested to my mind the idea of some one whipping a negro. walked during this time about 15 yards, and until I came up with T. Benton Taylor, who had stopped in front of me. The pavement upon which I was, was illuminated by light from the Church .-Perhaps before or about the time I reached Mr. Taylor, the blows increased, and a tolerably violent scufile ensued. 'The ground being soft, the persons scuffling did not make much noise. It might have been more violent than I supposed. I looked around and saw two individuals lying on the ground, about a yard and a half from the pavement upon which I was, and about 15 on20 feet from where I was standing, I saw two persons with their heads lying directly towards me, locked in close embrace, with their heads close together. I heard no noise. I heard no blows struck. I may have heard their breathing. They were lying quiet. One was on the top of the other, so far as 1 | scuffle until I left him on the cellar door, not more could see. As far as I could see they were then y, their heads most, in the light coming from the Church windows. They were nearly opposite and perhaps a little above the upper window of the Church. As soon as I could place the lady under my charge in the hands of Mr. Taylor. and gave him a book which I had in my hands, and which I asked him to take, I turned and went towards the individuals upon the ground, rapidly, perhaps I ran. About the time that I turned, perhaps before I had gotten half way, the individuals rose. I cannot say distinctly that I saw them rise, as there was some hurry and confusion. They were standing and seemed to have hold of each other. When I had got within about a yard of them, one of them had his back towards me, and was on the side of the street next the payement from which I had come, and about 41 yards from the pavement. The other was with his front and left side rather towards me. When I reached this point I saw the one with his back towards me give the other a violent push with his right hand; he seemed to have hold of his collar. At the same moment that he gave the push, be sprang to his left on the pavement, and the other fell obliquely towards the main street, his head toward the main street, and his body lying along with and in the direction of the cross street, about 10 or 15 feet from the place where he received the pusk. His body lay parallel with and within about 3 feet of the Hay scales. His head was about with the corner of the scale next main street, not quite so far, perhaps lacking 2 feet. The point from which he was pushed on the opposite side of the street from where he was lying, was about the upper corner of the scale. He fell so limberly and heavily, seeming to step one or two steps, involuntarily moving rapidly in the direction in which he fell. It oc-curred to me that he was drunk. The individual who gave the push and sproug upon the pavement, turned whilst I was advancing, and as I stopped about the point where the push was given. I look-ed over my shoulder and he made a step or two on the pavement in the direction of the main street, so that he had passed me. I looked around over my right shoulder, and he was standing facing the in-dividual who was lying and about opposite to him.

Tremendous efforts were made by able, eloquent and ingenious counsel to have Christian acquitted, whilst the lawyers who appeared for the Commonwealth were equally earnest and zealous for his conviction. The general feeling in the community where the tragedy was enacted, was decidedly against the acquittal of the prisoner, and a verdict of "murder in the second degree," with confinement in the Penilentiary for a term of years, would have accorded with the general wish of those who attended the trial

THE TERRIBLE TRAGEDY AT LYNCHEURG, VA .- We stated, Tuesday, that Mr. John W. Lambeth had murdered his wife at Lynchburg, Va., on Saturday last, and then committed suicide. It appears he had been in bad health for some time, and returned, about three weeks ago, from Philadelphia, where he had been in search of medical relief. He was a resident of Halifax county, Va., but with his wife was on a visit to his mother at Lynchburg, at the time of the sad tragedy. The Virginian says : "On Saturday, while setting with his wife, in company with members of the family, without warning or sign of any character, he seized her and inflicted a frightful gash upon her throat with a pocket-knife She attempted to escape, but he rushed after her and succeeded in inflicting two other cuts. - She staggered out of the house and fell in the yard. His atten tion was then arrested by the children of his brother Dr. Lambeth, and he made an attempt to seize them but was thwarted by a negro woman, who threw them over the pailing. He then made at his uncle, Mr. Bingham; but he escaping, the murderous but

We observe with pleasure that the press and the people in various sections of the Union, are manifesting their disapproval of the practice now in rogue of employing army officers to superintend the public works of the country when the service of civilians ought only to be required. For several years past whenever there occurred a demand for any one to superintend the construction of public buildings, such for instance as custom houses, marine hospitals, arsenals, acqueducts, &c., or to the charge of manufacturing arms, which every intelligent person will ad. mit is strictly a mechanical and not a military pursuit, strange and ridiculous as it may seem, ninetenths of these appointments have been made from the ranks of the army, so that now our ingenious citizen mechanics to whom the country is almost exclusively indebted for its exalted position in the arts As a good many of our Farmers have insured in this and sciences, are practically given to understand that they are incompetent and unfitted for the duties of constructing buildings and manufacturing, and that the only proper, honest, and qualified persons for such situations are those who were educated to command on the field of battle. Consistency is said to be a jewel. Now that the subject is referred to a special committee in Congress, with authority and direction to investigate the propriety of such a condition of affairs, we earnestly hope that they will be satisfied in their in-quiries by no superficial half-way examination, but will sift the matter thoroughly and effectually so that their verdict will command the respect and prompt action of any and all charged with the means of remedy.

Cross Examination .- The distinct impression upon my mind at the time was that the push was given with the right hand, and from the position of the parties, 1 am satisfied that it was the righ hand which was used in giving the push. Hi back was turned towards me and I saw that he had on a Sack-coat. I think I caunot be mistaken as to the fact that it was a mere push and not a blow. The hand seemed as if grasped upon the collar or pushed against it. I saw no blow or push after that. Christian sprang back to the pavement and the parties were not near enough together after that to exchange blows. I could not have seen his back if he had pashed him with his left hand .-My impression from the relative position of the parties as I saw them upon the ground and as they arose is that Christian was undermost. We learn that while in the cars at the Richmond and Fredericksburg depot, he handed a news-boy a note to carry to some person in the city, paying him twenty-five cents. It is supposed that he thus com-municated with his friends in that place, inducing

May 29, 1854. In this Institution thorough instruction is given in all the branches of Mathematics of Science useful to the farmer and the man of business. The students are not taught the theory only, but they are instructted in the PRACTICAL APPLICATION of their studies to the every day affairs of life. They are made ac-quainted with the phenomena of nature, taught the properties of soils, the requirements of plants, the composition of minerals, the utility of different kinds of rocks, laws of mechanical forces, calculations of the strength of materials used for building and other purposes, surveying farms, levelling water courses, chinery, &c. Agricultural Chemistry is thoroughly taught, and illustrated by thousands of interesting experiments in the lecture room, in the laborato and on the farm. The advanced students are taugh how to prepare pure chemicals, analyze soils, mine rals, marls, &c A workship is furnished with a Turning Lathe and a great variety of tools for working in wood and metal. Hence the students have an opportunity of wit-nessing all the branches of mechanism from the felling of the timber to the polishing and finishing of and some and costly apparatus, every part of which is familiarly explained. Their attention is not confined to the class book, but they are taken into the laboratory, the workshop, the garden and the field; and they are made acquainted with hundreds of operations which every body sees, but few can explain. The design of the Institution is to prepare young men for business. To accomplish this desirable end, neither pains nor expense is spared in obtaining every thing necessary for full and complete instruction The buildings are new and commodious. The labo ratory is conveniently arranged for all the manipulations in qualitative and quantitative analysis, and the location has all the advantages of purity of water, salubrity of atmosphere, and beauty of scenery. The course of instruction is varied to suit the farmer, the merchant, the engineer, &c. The regular sessions commence on the first day of October and end on the first day of the following August. Young men wishing to enter as students should if possible make application before the closing of the previous session. Terms per Session of Ten Months-Two hundred dollars, one-half payable in advance and the remain-der on the first of March. This includes Tuition, Board, Lodging, Washing, Fuel and Lights. Stu-dents in the Classical Department are charged $20 per session extra to be paid in advance.

Sons of preachers and editors are charged only $150 per session. Books furnished at store prices, for which the students are expected to pay cash. Farmers can have their soils analyzed and teachers and students can obtain pure chemical tests at the BENJ. HYDE BENTON, Principal.

The Lawn and premises senerally are high-ly improved by Shrubbery and a large variety of hand-some Ornamental and Fruit Trees. There is a Cis-tern convenient, and a never failing well of pure, Limestone Water about 100 vards distant. The farm in shape is nearly square. The land is in a fine state of cultivation, and the soil of superior quality. It has every convenience to market, being in the immediate-vicinity of the Winchester and Harpers-Ferry Rail-road, and within 7 or 8 miles of the Balto, and Ohio road, and within 7 or 8 miles of the Balto, and Ohio Rail-road. The place is well known, and altogether is one of the most desirable tracts of its size in the Valley. Persons who contemplate purchasing, can be in-formed as to the terms of sale by consulting me in person, or by letter addressed to me at Charlestown, Jeffeorsn county, Va. GEORGE WASHINGTON,

AND BRASS FOUNDRY. THE subscribers respectfully call the attention of the farming community to their very large assort ment of FARMING IMPLEMENTS, comprising every kind of implement used by the farmer to facilitate and cheapen his operations, including our celebrated Patent Premium Thresher, Cleaner and Bagger, Which received the First Premium at the Crystal Palace, N. York; this making 10 Premiums in two Parace, N. York, this making to Premiums in two seasons, in competition with the most celebrated Sep-arators of the day; proving conclusively, that sim-plicity in construction, cheapness in price, and dura-bility in machine, is being fully appreciated, and the old complicated costly separators must yield their place to a superior machine. This Machine, for thresh-ing separating cleaning twice, screening and harplace to a superior machine. This Machine, for thresh-ing, separating, cleaning twice, screening and bag-ging, (by one simple operation,) all kinds of Grain— the greatest labor-saving machine extant, for simpli-city, durability, cheapness and capacity, it has no rival in the world. It is capable of turning out, ready for the nill or for seed, from 300 to 500 bushels of Wheat per day, with 6 or 8 horses, and 8 hands—or from 500 to 800 bushels with 12 horses and as many hands, doing the work cleaner, and breaking less grain, than any machine now in use. This machine received the first premiums at the Maryland State Fair, Balt., in 1852, and 1853; the Washington Co., Md. Fair; Valley Agricultural Fair, of Va., in 1852 Md. Fair; Valley Agricultural Fair, of Va., in 1852 and 1853; the Rappahannock Agricultural Society, at Port Royal, Va.; the first premium at the Illinois State Fair, 1853, at Springfield, and a Silver Medal at the Indiana State Fair, at Indianopolis, 1853.

This machine is so simple in construction, that the one fan and shoe completely cleans and begs the grain, dispensing with all the complicated machinery (and consequent liability of derangement) in all oth-er separators, thus making it more desirable to the former

FACTS CANNOT BE DOUBTED. Let the Afflicted Read and Ponder! MORE than 500 persons in the City of Richmond, Ya., alone testify to the rewarkable cures per-formed by CARTER'S SPANISH MIXTURE. The great Spring Medicine and Purifier of the blood is now used by hundreds of grateful patients, who tes-

In greates by hundreds of grateful patients, who tes-tify daily to the remarkable cures performed by the greatest of all medicines, Carter's Spanish Mixture. Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Scrofula, Eruptions on the Skin, Liver Disease, Fevers, Ulcers, Old Sores, Affec-tions of the Kidneys, Diseases of the Throat, Fenale Complaints, Paines and Aching of the Bones and Joints, are speedily put to flight by using this great and inestimable remedy. For all diseases of the Blood, nothing has yet been found to compare with it. It cleanses the system of all impurities, acts gently and efficiently on the Liver and Kidneys, strengthens the Digestion, gives tone to the Stomach, makes the Skin clear and healthy, and restores the Constitution, enfeebled by disease or bro-ken down by the excesses of youth, to its pristine v. gor and strength.

ken down by the excesses of youth, or is prisine v. gor and strength. For the Ladies, it is incomparably better than all the cosmetics ever used. A few doses of Carter's Spanish Mixture, will remove all sallowness of complexion, bring the roses mantling to the check, give clasticity to the step, and improve the general health in a remarkable degree, beyond all the medi cines ever heard of.
