A Cure Warranted or no Charge, in from one to two days.

The many thousands cured at this Institution, and the very extensive practice of Dr. Johnston (ex. voling all others) is a sufficient guarantee that he u the only proper Physician to be consulted.

Dr. Johnston,

Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London Graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the Hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphis and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known. Many troubled with a ringing in the ears and head when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, and bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

times with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

A Certain Disease.

When the misguided and impudent votary of pleasure finds he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shane, or dread of discovery, deters him from applying to those who, from education and respectability, can alone befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horriddisease make their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose, nocturnal pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face, and extremities, progressing on with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commiseration, till death puts a period to their dreadful sufferings by sending them to "that bourne from whence no traveller returns." To such therefore, Dr. JOHN-STON pledges himself to preserve the most inviolable secrecy, and from his extensive practice in the first hospitals of Europe and America, he can confidently recommend the most safe and speedy cure to the unfortunate victim of this horrid disease.

It is a melanchely fact, that thousands fall victims to his dreadful disease, owing to the unskillfulness or

It is a melancholy lact, that thousands fall victims this dreadful disease, owing to the unskillfulness or morant pretenders, who, by the use of that deadly bison, mercury, ruin the constitution, and either send is unfortunatesufferer to an untimely grave, or makes acresidue of his life miserable.

Take Particular Notice.

Dr. J. addresseall those who have injured themselves

Or. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves a private and improper indulgences, that secret and litary habit, which ruin both body and mind, unfiting em for either business or society. These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and limbs, Pains in the Head, Dinness of Sight, Less of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dispessia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c.

to society, self distrust, love of solitude, timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced.

Dr. Johnston's Invigorating Remedy for General Debility.

By this great and important romedy, weakness of the organs are speedily cured, and full vigor restored. Thousands of the most nervous and debilitated, who had lost all hope, have been immediately relieved:—All impediments to Marriage, Physical or Mental Pisqualification, Nervous Irritability, Trembling and Weakness, or Ethaustion of the most fearful kind,

Weakness of Extransion of the most learnin kind, are speedily cured.

Who have injured themselves by a Certain Practice, indulged in when alone—a habit frequently learned from evilcom amions, or atschool—the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and if not cured, renders marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately.

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, and the darling of his parents, should be snatched from all prospects and enjoyments of life, by the consequences of deviating from the path of mature, and indulging in a certain secret labit.—Such persons before contemplating

should reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote countrial lappiness: Indetd, without this, the journey through life becomes a weary pilgriunge; the peoppet hourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair, and filled with the melancticity reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own.—

Weakness of the Organs immediately cured, and full vigor restored.

To Strangers.

The many thousands of the most desperate and hopeless cases cured at this institution within the last twelve years, and the non-terops important Surgical Operations performed by Dr. Johnston, witnessed by the reporters of the papers and many other persons notices of which have appeared again and again before the public, is a sufficient guarantee to the afflicted. We who places himself under the care of Dr. Johnston 1829 religiously confide in his homor as a Gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skir as a Physician.

There are so many ignorant and worthless Quacks copying Dr. Johnston's advertisement, and advertising thems. AND CHEMICAL ACADEMY,

NEAR ALDIE, VA.

In this Institution thorough instruction is given in all the branches of Mathematics of Science useful to the farmer and the man of business. The students are not taught the theory only, but they are instructed in the Paractical Application of their studies to the every day affairs of life. They are inade acquainted with the phenomena of nature, taught the properties of soils, the requirements of plants, the composition of minerals, the utility of different kinds of rocks, taws of mechanical forces, calculations of the strength of materials used for building and other purposes, surveying farms, levelling water courses, laying out roads, making maps, mechanical drawing, calculations required in the construction of machinery, &c. Agricultural Chemistry is thoroughly taught, and illustrated by thousands of interesting experiments in the lecture room, in the laboratory and on the farm. The advanced students are taught how to prepare pure chemicals, analyze soils, minerals, marls, &c.

A workship is furnished with a Turning Lathe and a great variety of tools for working in wood and metal. Hence the students have an opportunity of witnessing all the branches of mechanism from the felling of the timber to the polishing and finishing of handsome and costly apparatus, every part of which is familiarly explained.

Their attention is not confined to the class book, but they are taken into the laboratory, the workshop, the garden and the field; and they are made acquainted with hundreds of operations which every body sees, but few can explain.

The design of the Institution is to prepare young men for business. To accomplish this desirable end, neither pains nor expense is spared in obtaining every thing necessary for full and complete instruction. The buildings are new and commodious. The laboratory is conveniently arranged for all the mampulations in qualitative and quantitative analysis, and the location has all the advantages of purity of water, salubrity of atmosphere, and beauty of scenery.

The course of instruction is varied to suit the farmer, the merchant, the engineer, &c.

The Little Sisters. "You were not here yesterday," said the gentle teacher of the little village school, as she placed her hand kindly on the curly head of her pupils. It was recess time, but the little gril addressed had not gone to the little girl addressed had not gone to frolic away the ten minutes, not even left her seat, but sat absorbed in what seemed a fruitless attempt to make herself mistress of a sum in long division.

Her face and neck crimsoned at the remark of her teacher, but looking up, she seemed somewhat re-assured by the kind characteristics and assured by the kind glance that met her and answered, "No ma'am, I was not, but sister Nelly was."

"I remember there was a little girl who called herself Nelly Gray, came in yesterday, but I did not know she was your sister.—
But why did you not come? You seem to love study very much."

ly all I have learned to day, and to-morrow night she will teach me all that she learns while here. It's the only way we can think of getting along, and we want to study very down beside her, and in a moment explained the rule over which she was puzzling her young brain, so that the difficult sum was easily finished.

"You had better go out and take the air a moment, you have studied very hard to-day," said the teacher as the little girl put aside her slate: This is a second "I had rather not I might tear my dress -I will stand by the window and watch the

There was such a peculiar tone in the voice of her pupil as she said, "T might tear my dress," that Miss M——was led instinctively to notice it. It was nothing but a ninepenny print of a deep hue, but it was neatly made and had never yet been washed. And while looking at it, she remembered that during the whole previous forthight that Mary Gray had attended school regularly, she had never seen her wear but that one dress. "She is a thoughtful little girl," said she to herself, "and does not want to make her mother any trouble-I wish I had more such schol-The next morning Mary was absent, but her sister occupied her seat. There was something so interesting in the two little sisters, the one eleven years old, and the other eighteen months and feet—the elder with dark lustrous eyes and chesnut curls, the younger with orbs like the sky of June, her white neck veiled by a wrenth of golden ringlets. She observed in both, the same close attention to their studies, and as Mary had farried within during the play time so did Nelly; and upon speaking to her as she had to her sister, she received, too, that it was the same dress. It did not fit quite so pretty on Nelly, and was too long for her, too, and she was evidently ill at ease when she noticed the teacher looking at the bright pink flowers that were so thickly set on the white ground. The discovery was one that could not but interest a heart so truly benevolent as that which pulsated in the bosom of the village school teacher. She ascertained the residence of their mother, and though sorely shortened herself by a narrow purse, that same night having found at the only store in the place a few yards of the same material, purchased a dress for little Nelly and sent it to her in such a way that the donor could not be detected Very bright and happy looked Mary Gray on Friday morning as she entered the school at an early hour. She waited only to place her books in neat order in her desk, ere she approached Miss Mand whispering in a voice that laughed in spite of her efforts to make it low and deferential. After this week sister Nelly is coming to school every day, and oh! I am so glad!

oh! I am so glad!

This is very good news replied the teacher kindly. Nelly is fond of her books, I see, and I am happy to know that she can have an opsportunity to study her books every day. Then she continued, a little good natured mischief encircling her eyes and dimpling her sweet lips. But how can your mother spare, you both conveniently!

O, yes, mant, yes, mant, she can now. Some thing happened she did not expect, and she is as glad to have us come as we are to do so.—She hesitated a moment, but her young heart was filled to the brint with jay, and when a child is happy it is as natural to tell the cause, as it is for a bird to warble when the sun shines. So out of the fullness of heart she spoke and told her teacher this little story.

She and her sister were the only two children of a very poor widow, whose health was so delicate that it was almost impossible to support herself and daughters. She was obliged to keep them out of school all winter because for the neighbors to buy them a new dress, they had no clothes to wear, but she told them that if she earned enough by doing old chores for the neighbors to buy them a new dress, they might go in the spring. Very samestly had the little girls improved their stray ahmoses, and very carefully boarded the copper coins which usually repaid them. They had each nearly saved enough to buy a calloo, when Nelly was laken sick, and as the mother had no money beforehand, her own treasure had to be expended in the purchare of medicine.

O, I did feel so had when school opened and Nelly could not go, because she had no dress, said Mary; I told mother I would not go either said Mary; I told mother I would not go either said Mary; I told mother I would not go either said Mary; I told mother I would not go either said Mary; I told mother I would not go either said Mary; I told mother I would not go either said Mary; I told mother I would not go either said Mary; I told mother I would not go either said Mary; I told mother I would not go either said Mary I told mother I teach sister some and that mould be better than no schooling. I stood it for a formight but Neily a little face seemed all the time looking at me bu my way to school, and I could not be happy a bit, so I finally thought of a way by which we could both go, and I told mother I would come one day, and the next I would lend Nelly my dress and afte might come, and that is the way we have done this week. But last night dont you think somebody sent sister a dress just like mine, and now she can come too. O, if I only knew who it was, I would go down on my knees and thank them, and so would Nelly. But we dont know, and so we have done all we could for them—we have prayed for them—and O, Miss M———, we are so glad now. Aint you too?

Indeed I am, was the emphatic answer.—And when, on the following Monday, little Nelly, in the new pink dress, entered the school room, her face as radiant as a rose in sunshine, and approaching the teacher's table exclaimed in tones as musical as those of a freed fountain, I am coming to school every day, and O, I am so glad! Miss M———felt as she had never done before, that it is more blessed to give than to receive. No millionaire, when he saw his name in public prints lauded for his thousand dollar sheater.

name in public prints lauded for his thousand dollar charities, was never so happy as the poor school leacher who wore her gloves a half a summer longer than she ought, and thereby saved enough to buy that little fatherless girl a calico dress.

A Scene in a Conscript's Life. The sergeant and the priest advanced; the two friends embraced and kissed each other; Reaumer retired to a spot where the other soldier was standing; and, kneeling on one knee, leant his face on his hands, still convulsively and unconsciously grasping the spade, as if for a support; the other twelve menhad formed a double line, about fourteen paces to the front of Jean, who was between the thus set in relief by the dark ground beyond, presenting a clear aim to their muskets. "It was not because I didn't want," was the earnest answer, and then paused, and the deep flush again tinged that fair brow, "but," she continued after a moment of painful embarrassment, "mother cannot spare both of us conveniently, and so we are going to take turns, I'm going to school one day, and sister the next, and to-night I'm to teach Nelfrom his penitent the assurance that he died in charity with all mankind, and having bestowed on him a last benediction, and laid on his lips the kiss of Christian love, also retired on one side. Colon gave the word of comon one side. Colon gave the word of command—'Prepare;'—the twelve muskets were brought forward:—'Present;' they were leveled. The sergeant was raising his cane as the last signal, to spare the victim even the short pang of hearing the fatal word, 'Fire!' when Rollo, with a loud yell, sprang to his master's side. He had been startled from his situation by the roll of the description. lumber by the roll of the drum; and, looking up at what was going on, perceiving Jean left kneeling all alone, and all so silent, except Reaumer's faintly-heard sobs, his instinct seem to tell him his master was in some danger; his whining was unheard, or unheeded; he felt this too, and ceased it, but made a desperate effort to break the rope that held him, which weakened as it was by his late gnawing and tugging at it when in the outhouse at Charolle, soon gave way, and as above mentioned he sprang with a rell to his master's side.— But Jean's thoughts at that moment were too seriously engaged to heed even Rollo: he only raised his right arm and gently put the dog aside, his own mild, unflinching gaze still fixed on the soldiers before him. But the dog was not checked by the movement of his master; still whining, and with his ears beseechingly laid back, he struggled hard to get nearer to him. Colon felt for Jean's situation, and made a sign to Resumer (who, wondering at the pause since the last word of command, had raised his eyes,) that he should try to coax the dog off: he did so by whist-ling and calling, but, of course, quite in vain. It will be at once seen that, though this has taken some time in the telling, all that passed from the time of Rollo's arrival was little more than the transaction of a moment,-Sitll it was a delay; and the men were ready to fire; and Colon, not thinking the incident of sufficient weight to authorise a suspension of the excution, however temporary, muttered, 'Great pity—the poor fellow will die too.' He turned his face to his men; and was again about to give the signal, when he was a second time interrupted by hearing loud shouts from behind him, accompanied by the discharge of a park of cannon. He glanced discharge of a park of cannon. He glanced towards the opposite hill at his back, whereon the village stood, and there he saw all was confusion and bustle—officers galloping to and fro, and the men forming hurriedly into a line; he hastily gave the word, 'As you were;' for along a line of the road to the northeast of the hill, he saw a thick cloud of dust from which and the saw at the country of the saw at the saw at the country of the saw at the country of the saw at the saw at the country of the saw at the saw at the country of the country of the country of dust, from which quickly plunged out a group of horsemen, evidently officers; the foremost not so tall as most of them, nor so graceful a whi e he was yet returning the salute of the men and their sergeant, he said, in a voice panting after his hard gallop, 'Hey! what's Napoleon beckoned Jean to him; he came, and Rollo with him; and the latter as though understanding the power and authority of the man his master thus obeyed, putting his forepaws against the stirrup, and whimpered imploringly up to him. Jean looked for a moment in the Emperor's face, but his gaze drooped, though without quailing, beneath that of the piercing large grey eyes that were fixed on him. After a short pause, Napoleon asked. Thing age? Lie down. Napoleon asked, 'Thine age! Lie down-down, good dog!' for Rollo was getting im-

Napoleon smiled—perhaps at the title—and answered, 'No, no, poor Rollo, he is a fine dog. I shall inquire into this affair, Gavard; for the present, I respite thee.'

Jean knelt on his knee, and seized the Emperor's hand to kiss it; but Napoleon said, 'Stay, stay; thy dog has been licking it.'

Winn's Terrible Hours at the Giant's

A Fragment from an unpublished story.

They were proceeding slowly round the winding path which leads from the sea and the Causeway to the high road, near which their hotel lay (expressly built in that situation for the convenience of visitors to the far-famed resort of the "giants," if ever it was such,) when their attention was attracted by a crowd of people assembled at the extreme edge of one of the highest headlands.

"What is the matter?" said Sir James to the puide who had conducted them over the wonders of the place, and had become a great ally of theirs.

"I don't know, yer honor, but I'll be off "I don't know, yer honor, but I'll be off and find out in a jiffy," suiting the action to the word, the guide strode towards the spot where gesticulating and shouting in a fearful manner, some twenty or thirty peasants were congregated. But the inquiring guide did not quickly return, his interest or curiosity became equally absorbed with that of the people already assembled on the height, and our party had themselves reached the crowd before they again saw him. In the midst of the group of men and women sat a little girl. group of men and women sat a little girl, about six years old; a small basket was at her about six years old; a small basket was at her side, filled with boxes of "specimens" (as the natives call them) of the various geological treasures of the place. Above the course wooden boxes containing these stones lay several garlands of primroses; the little dealer in geology had been industriously threading these into flowery chains, which she had been taught to fling over the heads of the visitors, whose custom for her "specimens" she generally ensured in this way, her innocent winning ways snared in this way, her innocent winning way invariably attracting attention in the first in stance, and her singular story afterwards riveting it, and often calling forth the substantial kindness of those who bought of her little stores. The child, accustomed to the rough stores. The child, accustomed to the rough weather and tempestous waves of that rude coast, seemed quite at ease in the midst of the crowd and bustle; she was, however, unconscious of the cause of unusual excitement now, and, wholly occupied with her own little trade, she took a garland from her basket and ran towards the party of visitors as they approached, intending to capture a purchaser for her wares. The wreath being long, but Lady Anne being tall, and the child very small, the latter could not succeed in flinging it over

"Nursey, nursey!" screamed she, springing towards the edge of the cliff, that, straight as a wall of jagged and broken face and fissures, descended to the sea, whose tide foamed wilddescended to the sea, whose tide foamed wild ly in to its base and lashed the waters and spray many feet upwards.

"Nursey! save her, take me to her!"

The guide rushed after the child and caught her up in his arms.

"Primrose," he cried, "nursey will be saved stay quiet, child, they will bring her to you."
But the child would not be quiet; she struggled and clawed, and scratched at his face, and in fact, was so earnest in her determination to get free and go to her nurse, that, without really hurting her, he could not save himself from her attacks.

self from her attacks.

"Musha! what am I to do with the cratur?"
and he, "They want me to steady the rope, and she's such a wild divil of a child, she'll run down the path if I let her go. She's as nimble as any goat of them all, and twice as cute; and, only for the wind there is, and the say coming in so furious and fast, she might escape; but she'd have no chance now. May be, your your honor could pacify her, and keep her quiet, till we get the creel in tow."

The man a physignomist in his way, ventured this request to Lady Anne and O'Kennedy; he had not finished speaking, when they had half-forcibly, half-coexingly, takon possession of the acreaming, kicking child.

the foot of which he was informed she key, coiled and holding on as well as she could to the projecting ledges of rock, which were her only support, and from which the wild waves every moment, as they becomed onwards, threatened to dislodge her. She had as usual made her way down an almost perpendicular, path, never frequented but by herself and the mountain goats, whom she rivalled in hardihood and nimbleness of foot. Her harvest of marine vegitables had been more abundant than usual, and she had unwisely ventured on a deceitful shelf of stone and green alimy seaweeds, from which her foot alipping, she had been precipitated many feet downward to the sands. There she lay, mouning and helpless, though not seriously injured. But the high tide coming in; and with it a sudden change from mild to boisterous rough weather, she would have soon been carried out to sea, had she not succeeded in dragging herself beyond she not succeeded in dragging herself beyon its reach, and in fastening herself to some juting rocks, to which she clung and attache her hold like a sea anemone; but this refug could not have been hers long, and she work could not have been hers long, and she would soon have been swept from it and lost, but for a neighbor whom she had left with the child, who during her absence watched for customers. Both the neighbor and the child wondered at Winny's unusually long absence, and the man becoming seriously alarmed when the weather grew stormy, on venturing a short distance down the path to discover, if possible, had anything gone wrong, through unable to proceed much more than half-way down the steep and all but impassable descent, yet went far enough to catch a glimpse of what had occurred.

To get the almost helpless woman up by the path-way, then beset with the additional dangers caused by a fierce strong wind, was not to be thought of; but summoning for a moment's delay the hardy peasants of the place, and by means of a trumpet shoutting directions to Winny from the nearest hearing point, they succeeded in lowering to her a creel and two long wattles, with which they desired her to balance herself from dangerous contact with the projecting rocks, and as O'Kennedy yet listened to his informant, the exclamations of the crowd warned him that the perilous accent had commenced. His head grew dizzy, as he tried to look down from a jutting point of land, a little to one side of the exciting spot towards which all eyes and hearts turned in dread. He grew sick as he caught an occasional glimpse of something swaying and swinging between earth, or rather sea and heaven, enveloped every moment with showers of thick spray thrown up by furious raging waters, and occasionally lost to sight from the juttings and projections of the green, slimethe juttings and projections of the green, slime covered rocks. The wind had risen fearfulls even within a few moments, and fortunate it was that it had not done so before the men, holding the coil of rope attached to the creel, had trumpeted their order to the hapless voyager. Three men who had formed themselves into a sort of human chain, had them-selves to be held and supported by others, lest their strength or courage should give way, and lest they might be drawn over the preci-pice. At last the basket and its occupant seemed to near the top of the height, and al-ready the impulsive Irish peasants commenc-ed their loud harrahs of joy and triumph.— O'Kennedy could now see her distinctly as she knelt in the creel, holding in either hand the poles of her destiny, and guiding her frail

"A few moments more and she is saved," cried the foremost of the men who hauled the rope; but the words were scarce uttered when a strand of the treacherous rope gave sudden-ly way. Yielding at the pressure from below, and the hulls from above, and heated and wasted by the sharp collision with the shelv-ing rock at the top, which had acted as a sort of windlass to the rope, and a partial defence against the precipice to the basket, the cord began to untwine in his hand. Ere the cry of horrow had time to issue from the lips of the crowd, another strand had loosened and quickly began to unravel itself from the rest of the cordage. The life is sustained, and now almost litterally hung upon a thread. In terror and agony almost equal to poor Winn's own, they ceased for a second to attempt drawing her up, lest the threads should enap on which her life depended.

There she was, suspended some twenty feet from the landing place, swayed hither and tither by the wind, and each instant expecting to be dashed to pieces, ere she could even reech a grave in the waters beneath. She felt thread after thread giving way with her;—down, down she felt impelled by her own weight. But terrible as was the situation, the intrepid crag's-woman's presence of mind did not desert her. She knew that the remaining cords to bear her in safety to the top would be impossible, but her courage rose with the occasion; and as the untwining rapidly proceeded she took her resolution. Fixing firmly first one, then the other of her two crutches on a jutting ledge of rock, on which there was room for her to land in safety; if her head could be kept steady, land in safety; if her head could be kept steady, and so remain until another rope could be let and so remain until another rope could be let down to her, she cautiously stepped from the creek; carefully retaining it, however, she placed it between her and the outward edge of the shelf on which she stood, whilst she leant back against the wall of the precipice behind her. The last remaining threads of hemp would not now have borne a cat's weight, and Winny decad not trust them even to hold the sunty of horsemen, evidently officers; the forenost and so tall as most of them, nor so graceful a rider as many of them, though he sat firmly too, was recognised by Colon and his men (long before he was near enough for them to distinguish a single feature of his face) by his grey frock coat, and small flat three-command; the soldiers shouldered their muskets, and prepared to salute; and, in another minute, Napoleon, at the head of his staff, reised up on the top of the bill. He had left the march of the grand army some leagues behind, and ridden on towards Labarre, in order, with his wented watchfuness, to take the detachmient by surprise, and see what they were about. The men above knew not if the first creek were still safe, and they took the precaution to lower another: it passed the bewildered woman, whose senses were becoming confused, and in consequence she missed the right moment for seizing it; a second more and the exertion to draw it back to her would probably have overbalanced her; but that second did not arrive, before she had taken hold of and drawn it to her. She now discarded the first basket to make way for the second, and per haps at no moment the fearful agony of her position was more dangerous to her safety than when kicking it from her, in the little void beposition was more dangerous to her safety than when kicking it from her, in the little void between her and destruction yet unfilled by the other creel, slie saw the abysa below; she could not, dared not shut her eyes, nor yet open them to the perils before her, for up to that moment she had thought to steady her nerves by not looking beyond or above the basket. She had schooled her unagination in a most manyellous manner to disbelieve, as it were, in her own position. Drawing the cord towards her, she soon managed to place herself in her new rehicle, and a few moments afterwards saw her lauded in triumph amidst the excited group on the headland.—N. Y. Albion. The shells of the Russians, thrown with great precis-ion, burst so thickly among the troops that the noise resembled the continuous discharge of cannon, and the massive fragments inflicted death on every side. One of the first things the Russians did, when a break in the fog enabled them to see the camp of the second division, was to open fire on the tents with round shot and large shell, and tent after tent was blown down, torn to pieces, or sent into the air, while the men engaged in camp duties, and the un-bappy borses tethered up in the lines were killed or mutilated.

Gambier was at once ordered to get up two heavyguns (19 pounders) on the rising ground, and to reply to a fire which our light guns were utterly unadequate to meet. As he was engaged in this duty, and was exerting himself with captain Dagui-lar to urge them forward, Colonel Gambier was severely, but not dangeously wounded, and was obliged to retire. His place was taken by Lieutenant Col. Dickson, and the conduct of that officer in directing the fire of those two pieces, which had the most marked effect in deciding the fate of the day, was such as to elicit the admiration of the army, and as to deserve the thanks of every man engaged in that bloody fray. But long ere these guns had been brought up there had been a great slaughter of the enemy, and a heavy less of our own men. Our generals could not see where to go. They could not tell where the enemy were-from what side they were coming, and were going to. lines through thick scrubby bushes and thorny brakes, which broke our ranks and irritated the men, while every pace was marked by a corpse or man wounded from an enemy whose position was only indicated by the rattic of musketry and the rue to ball and shell.

Sir George Cathcart, seeing his men disorded by the fire of a large column of Russian infantry which was outflanking them, while portions of the various regiments comprising his division were maintaining unequal struggle with an overwhelming force, rode down into the ravine in which they were engaged, to raily them. He perceived at the same time that the Russians had actually gained possession of a portion of the hill in rear of one flank of his division, but sill his stout heart never failed him for a moment. He rode at their head encouraging them, and when a cry arose that the amunition was failing, he said coolly, "Have you not got your bayonets? As he led on his men it was observed that another body of men had gained the top of the hill behind them on the right, but it was impossible to tell whether they were friends or foes. A deally volley was poured in our scattered regiments. Sir George cheered them and led them back up the hill, but a right of builets passed where he rode, and he fell from his horse close to the Russian columns. The men had to fight their way through a host of enemics and lost fearfully. They were surrounded and bayoneted on both sides, and won their desperate way up the hill with diminished ranks, the loss of near 500 men. Sir George Cathearts' body was afterwards recovered with a bullet wound in the head, and three bayonet wounds in the body.

In this struggle when the Russians fought with the greatest ferocity, and bayoneted the wounded as they fell. Colonel Swyny, of the 63d, a most gallant officer, Lieutenant Dowling, 20th, Major Wynne, 68th, and other officers, whose names will be found in the Gazette met their death, and Brigadier Goldle of the 57th Regiment, received the wounds, of which he has since died. The conflict on the right was equally uncertain, and equally bloody. In the light division, the 83th got so far into the front that they were surrounded and put into utter confusion, when four companies of the 77th, under Major Straton, charged the Russians, broke them and relieved their comra-

Brown was struck by a shot which went through his arm and struck his side. I saw with regret his pale and sternly composed face, as his body was borne by me on a litter early in the day, his white hair flickering in the breeze, for I knew that we had lost the services of a good soldier that day. Further to the right a contest, the like of which, perhaps, never took place before, was going on between the Guards and dense columns of sian infantry of five times their number. The Cuards had charged them and driven them back, when they perceived that the Russians had outflanked them. They were out of amunition too. They were un-certain whether there were friends or foes in the rear. They had no curport, no reserve, and they were fighting with the bayonet against an enemy who stoutly contested every inch of ground, when the corps of another Russian column appeared on the corps of another Russian column appeared on their right for in the rear. Shocking Tragedy.

E. W. McCOMAS.

The quiet and peaceful community of Winchester was shocked, on Sunday morning last, by the news the parties for some time past. Upon the Saturday night in question they met in the bar-room of the tavern, and after a drink together had passed, some allusion was made to a difficulty that had taken place between other parties a, week previous, at the head was turned towards the door, was then attackthe battle, but the officers nevertheless were riched of wherever they went, and it did not require the clored staff to indicate their presence. Our amountances were soon filled, and ere nine o'clock they were busily engaged in carrying loads of men, all covered with blood, and grouning, to the rear of the him twice in the left side with a dagger, and was About half-past nine o'clock, Lord Raglan and about to continue his attack when the knife was Nations. March 14, 1554. Nations.

THE association for the Fxhibition of the Industry of all Nations awards to ELISHA S. SNYDER, of Charlestown, Jefferson county, Va., the highest premium Bronze Medal, with special apprehation, for the combination he has effected, and the practical application he has given the same, in his Laber Saving Machine for Threshing, Separating, Cleaning and Bagging Grain,—Hen. Theodore Sedgwick, President of the Association: Hon. Fenry Wager, Western N. Y. Chairman: Watson Newhold, Esc., Columbus, N. J.; Col. John W. Proctor, Danvers, Masa.; Major Philip R. Freas, Germantown, Penn.; Hon. Henry S. Babbit, Brooklyn, L. I., acting Sucretary in Class 9, Jury C.

Philip R. Frees, Germantown, Penn.; Hon. Benry S. Babbit, Brooklyn, L. L., acting Secretary in Class 9, Jury C.

My Patent Premium Threshing, Separating, Cleaning and Bagging Grain Machine, is for sale, which received the first premium at the Crystal Palace, New York, over all Threshing, Separating, Cleaning and Bagging Grain Machines on exhibition—thus proving ceachusively that simplicity in construction, cheapness in price, and durability in my machine, is being fully appreciated, and the old and new costly, inferior, complicated as parating Machine, in the celebrated Machine for Threshing, Separating, Cleaning twice, Screening and Bagging Grain by one simple operation. The greatest labor saving Machine in the world for separating all pure and impurities. This machine throws the straw to itself, the chaff to itself, the wheat in the bag, the screenings to itself, and the smut and cheat to itself. Everything has a place, and everything is in its place to suit the conveniences of the farmer. For aimplicity, durability, cheapness and capacity, it has no equal in the world. As for what hasbeen stated in the different papers concerning Mr. Zimmerman's Machine receiving the first premium at the Crystal Palace, New York, is false, and not true. It is also stated that Mr. Zimmerman received a number of pr. miums at ..., and other fairs. That I know nothing about —perhaps he did; but it is very easy to win the race, as the boy said when he ran by himself. But my honorable friends, U is was not the case at the World's Fair, New York. Mr. Zimmerman had a number of other boys to run with, besides himself, which node the race more difficult for him—so much so, that he, Mr. Zimmerman, was neither the first nor second—so you may judge where he was.

These are facts that cannot be defined. The undersigned would inform the public that his Farmers' Labor Saving Machine for Theshing, Separating, Cleaning, Sercening and Hagging all kinds of Grain, is for sale. Farmers wishing to buy the best machine in use, will address possible

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS. FOR GOVERNOR. HENRY A. WISE, OR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR,

FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL, OF APPORATOR.

The President's Message. The President's message, which has already be which the Press of the country has so lavishestowed upon it. It is an exceedingly ablitesmentike document, and its clear and lu detrie and the satisfactory manner in which it exposes the condition of the affairs of the natio oth at home and abroad, cannot fail to ensure its attentive perural, and commend it to all. There is a spirit of patronism running through the ole, while its tone though moderate and temperate enough, is yet firm and decisive, exhibiting ination to resist any compromise of our der all circumstances and at every hazard. Our onal rights are well defined, and asserted with the same boldness and fearlessness, which have charerized all the acts of the administration from the ning. In a word it is just such a document as ald come from the Chief Magistrate of this great public, who felt the deep responsibility resting on him, and fully appreciate the high position bich he occupied. The true policy of this government in its intercourse with the trans-Atlantic nans, of avoiding all entangling political connecffict with giving the widest possible range to foreign commerce, while our refusal to be laining a balance of power among themselves, in ally justified. Moreover, he shows from our presat attitude and our past history, that no nation need entertain apprehensions that we are disposed to encroach upon the rights, or endanger the security of other States; that our purposes are not, and never have been aggressive, nor subversive of the interests of any other nation; but that on the contrary, our ons, however extensive, and however rapidly made, in the course of the development of our nortal principles, and during our unprecedented progress, have always been acquired by fair and orable means, and have not been marker by that insatiable, and reckless rapacity, and disre gard of the rights of others, which bave characterired the course of some of the nations of the earth whilst wading through blood to empire.

The President, amongst other important sugges ions, recommends a revision of the tariff, and a reduction of duties on imports; also the increasing of the Navy, and Military forces and fortifications of the country, so as to meet the exigencies consequent upon our increasing foreign commerce, and rapid territorial expansion. He gives little encouragethe Parific Railroad, by the aid of the Congressional

And be justifies in an able and satisfactory man ner the bombardment of Greviown. His remarks upon this subject, are a beautiful commentary upon the unjust and reprehensible language of some of the press of the country at the time

With these few remarks, we will conclude by commending the careful perusal of the message to all those who have not yet read it.

Staunton Vindicator. We do not think this is the proper time to discuss a question that a Democratic Convention has already decided, but our friend of the Vindicator, has made some assertions which we consider erroneous ones. We have our doubts whether Hon. SHELTON F. LEAKE had a majority of the mass represented in Convention. On the contrary we believe that the Hen. Henry A. Wisc, even after throwing out all alternates, had a majority. We have not made a calculation, nor do we intend to, but we merely wish to remind our friend of the Vindicator of a few facts. Augusta County, in which there are - Democratic votes, was represented in Convention by fifty delegates, all of whom, with the exception of two were the friends of lion, Shelton F. Leake, Albemarle was represented by twenty-three or twenty-five, we do not remember, all of whom, one or two excepted voted for Sheiton F. Leake. Marison, and other coun-Ties were similarly represented, and cast their vote for the same gentleman, Now we think that we could name at least one hundred Delegates representing some half dozen counties, who did not represent more of the Democratic vete of Virginia, than ten men who represented six counties, and who voted for Mr. Wise. It is uscless discussing a point of this kind, from the fact that no good can come thereby to the Democratic party.

Report of the Secretary of the Navy. In the present critical condition of affairs, when all of the first European powers are engaged in a war that, in all likelihood, will be protracted, and when indications are not wanting to warrant the capprehension that we may be embroised in difficulties, we regard all that concerns the Amercan Navy as of vital importance, for, in the event of our becoming so embroiled, it is not difficult to see that the Navy would be our main reliance. We have therefore looked forward to Mr. Dobbin's report with much expectation and interest. Nor have we been disappointed in its character. It is able and satisfactory. It presents, in the clearest manner, the condition of the Navy. It shows what is needed in its different departments, and suggests the ade-

The Secretary expresses the opinion, in which we concur, that there should be a still further increase of the Navy. The protection of commerce, the guarding of our coast, the preservation of our rank as a nation, and the critical, if not menacing aspect of affairs, all concur to render becessary the proposed increase of our Navy.

The Secretary also recurs to the recommendation contained in his last annual message in favor of a retired list, which he enforces with convincing arguments. There are various other points in this report to which we will bereafter take occasion to refer. The rest of the rest of Christmas.

Monday next will be Christmas. How many youthful hearts are beating high in expectation of the tragical scenes that will occur during the week intervening between Christmas and New Year. It is the season of "good things," and as every person desires to indulge in them, we will tell them where they can find there. Blessing, has just returned from Baltimore with a most complete assortment of all kinds of toys, fruits &c., and of course he will have on hand, of his own manufacture, every variety of cake. Dr. Smith, has the choicest selection of annuals and wift books, and those persons who are intening Christmas presents to their young friends or "loved ones," would do well to call and purchase of him, for nothing is more appropriate for a present than a useful and beautiful book. All our merchants have full and fine stocks of goods, which they will be happy to dispose of to purchasers for any purpose they may design. By refference to another column it will be seen that all the merchants have agreed to close their stores on Christmas day. This is as it should be, for we think that of all nies who have a close time of it in this world, the employees of the anerchants have the closest, The Young Men's Dramatic Association. We had not the room in our last to notice the performance of the Dramatic Association of our place, and it is with pleasure that we refer to it now. It would be invidious in us to attempt to draw a deffinite distinction in the manner in which each acted his part. They all surpassed our expectations, and won for themselves, from the entire audience, the warmest congratulations. They are now rehearsing the "Charcoal Burner," and we can promise our citizens an unusual pleasure and gratification if they will attend the first night it is produced. Messrs. Dashall & Co's, Gift Enterprize We invite the attention of our readers to this ad-ertisement in another column. A fine chance is now offered for those who wish to test their luck-

Take a ticket, and you may draw a fortune. R7-Why is it that a Democratic journal, in a high lace, is winking at, and courting Know-nothingism? ing the wishes of the Hon, gentler the Democratic nominee for Governor?

The principle of "to the victors belong the spoils," is a sound one, and has been senctioned by the usage of nations from time immemorial, and white, in politics, we think the coasciousness of having done our duty should be a sufficient reward, we are opposed to bestowing the honors and the offices of government upon the members of the defeated party. If there is to be any promotion, it should be from the ranks of those who assisted in exalting the triumphant party, and none but those who have embraced very far from joining, or advocating the form of a political party, such as the Know Nothin whose sole and avowed aim is office. God forb that we should ever belong to a political organiza ples the secondary consideration What is the object, the avowed object of this oc-cult know nothing ism? Why that all persons of foreign birth, however moral, however intelligent however patriotic and however long they may have een citizens, and all persons of the catholic persuasion, shall be excluded from holding office under our

They are not even allowed to enter the lists as ompetitors against the natives and protestants for the honors of government. Can it be that in this race for honor and political position, which in a Republic, are supposed to be conferred upon the most virtuous, meritorious, and patriotic, the native and protestant dread-a competition with the foreign born and the eatholic? Their changes in a scramble for office and politica ionor are poor enough, but, to be excluded entirely is truly a haldship, and we fear the consequences of witholding the very highest incentives to good citi zenship, from so large and respectable a class of our people as is composed of catholics and foreigners by We have leard of office seeking, of prescription of turning out and putting in, of the plans that promise the greatest probability of success, but we never dreamed, in our philosophy, of the know nothing invention, of restricting the number of applicants, and thus increasing their chances for the honors and offices. Shame on him who would wear an unwou honor! When honors are easy they don't

How stands the know nothing party on the questions of the bank, the distribution of the proceeds of the public lands, internal improvements by the general government, the fugitive slave, law, the nebrasks law, and the acquisition of Cuba and the Sandwich Islands. It behooves the south at this time particularly, to consider well the principles of those who appeal to her for her vote, and she should never, never unite with a party that refused to pro claim its principles to the world, and especially when that party is of nothern origin, and flourishes most in abolition Massachusetts.

Has the South no cause to think that the abolition know nothing movement an additional difficulty in the way of the acquisition of Cubs, arising out of her religion being Catholic? and should the south not, in fact, look with suspicion upon every political movement having Massachusetts for its fatherland and Boston for its nativity?

But this speils party does not stop at the proscription of those of foreign birth, and of catholics, but to diminish the number of applicants for the honors and officers of government, they even proscribe the liebrews of the hebrews; the natives of the natives because they will not join them in this new invention for obtaining and monopolizing political honors and offices. All protestants and natives are called upon to abandon their long cherished principles, and to join this movement for office, or else, fall under the ban of proscription.

But where is all this to stop? When know no thingism shall triumph, if it ever triumph, who shall constitute the Levites? Shall it be the Methodist. Presbyterian, or Episcopal Church. If the Methodist, shall the Church north or south be the family of Aaron; and if the Presbyterian, shall it be the old or new school; and if the Episcopal shall it be the high or low church branch?

Truly these nothings are the spoils party per se, and well may we exclaim-Oh! mores, oh, tempora, when office becomes the first and last principle of a great political organization.

> Washington Correspondence. WASHINGTON, Dec. 8, 1854.

To the Editors of the Spirit of Jefferson-GENTLEMEN:-Presuming that your column will be filled with the President's Message, and other interesting public papers, always consequent upon the annual meeting of Congress, I shall have only a few remarks to make to you this week. But hereafter, in compliance with your request, I shall furnish you with a letter, regularly, every week, during the session of Congress, and such other times as their may be any matter of interest at the National Capital.

Your readers will judge of the Message for themselves. In my judgment it is no excellent document, sound in its principles, sensible in its suggestions, and marked with a wise prudence in its references to the delicate situation of some of our relations with foreign powers at this time. Foreign nations will learn more of the policy and determination of this government in the prudent tone of the message, than they would from loud talking and blustering. But of these matters more hereafter.

· You will notice the proceedings of the House, and perhaps begin to conclude, that instead of dedicating the short session to business, that the time is to be frittered away in discussions about Know Nothingism and kindred subjects. I fear such wil, be too much the case. There is a vast deal of private business upon the Congressional records, which bucht to be attended to, and in which hundreds and thousands of poor claimants, all over the country, are deeply interested. The people should hold every man in Congress responsible to public censure, who does not attend to the public business, but fritters away his time with long winded speeches about subjects, in which the people at large are not much in-

Your attention will be arrested, in examining the reports of the several Secretaries and heads of Bureaus, with the admirable condition in which the Public business is. In the respective executive departments of the Government perhaps the business was never so " near up to date" in the several departments, (at least for twenty years) as it is now, while it was awfully "behind hand" when this rdministration came into power. Whatever objection or fault the enemies of this administration may have to make to it, they must at least accord to it, the meed of just praise, and say that it has been preeminently a working administration. Your State Convention has placed in nomination men of sterling worth. There appears to be some dissatisfaction in certain quarters in consequence of the nomination of Mr. Wise, which I think is very impolitic. I may take occasion soon to give some reason why I consider the nomination of Mr. Wise as the most suitable one that could have been made Very Respectfully, Scottsville, Albemarle co., Va., March 27th, 1853.

Messrs. Mortimer and Mowbray—Gentlemen: have been afflicted for the past eight years with Dyspepsia, Rhounatism and Liver complaint, suffering all the while with pains in the shoulders, hips, back and sides—shifting from one side to the other—palpitation of the heart, loss of appetite, cold sweats at night, excessive costiveness, and great debility and weakness. I tried many same dies, which done me night, excessive costiveness, and great debility and weakness. I tried many remedies, which done me no good, but rather grew worse. Last fall I was advised to try "HAMPTON'S VEGETABLE TINC. TURE," and I am happy to say it cured me. I am now free from all pain, and in the enjoyment of perfect health, and take great pleasure in recommending the Tincture to all afflicted as I have been.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS FOR COVERNOR HENRY A. WISE, FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR. E. W. McCOMAS.

FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL, W. P. BOCOCK.

The President's Message. shich the Press of the country has so lavishstowed upon it. It is an exceedingly able like document, and its clear and lud style, and the satisfactory manner in which it poses the condition of the affairs of the nation, th at home and abroad, cannot fail to ensure its ttentive perusal, and commend it to all.

re is a spirit of patronism running through the while its tone though moderate and temperate enough, is yet firm and decisive exhibiting a nation to resist any compromise of our ty and national honor, and to maintain them e all circumstances and at every hazard. Our onal rights are well defined, and asserted with e same boldness and fearlessness, which have charerized all the acts of the administration from the ing. In a word it is just such a document as d come from the Chief Magistrate of this great lie, who felt the deep responsibility resting on him, and fully appreciate the high position sich he occupied. The true policy of this governent in its intercourse with the trans-Atlantic nawith them, is pointed out, and shown not to bffict with giving the widest possible range to foreign commerce, while our refusal to be within, and subjected to their plans of maining a balance of power among themselves, is illy justified. Moreover, he shows from our presat attitude and our past history, that no nation sed entertain apprehensions that we are disposed o entertain upon the rights, or endanger the security other States; that our purposes are not, and never have been aggressive, nor subversive of the interests of any other nation; but that on the contrary, our ons, however extensive, and however rapidly made, in the course of the developement of on portal principles, and during our unprecedent ed progress, have always been acquired by fair and rable means, and have not been marker by that insatiable, and reckless rapacity, and disregard of the rights of others, which have characterired the course of some of the nations of the carth, whilst wading through blood to empire.

The President, amongst other important sugges ons, recommends a revision of the tariff, and a reduction of duties on imports; also the increasing of the Navy, and Military forces and fortifications of the country, so as to meet the exigencies consequent upon our increasing foreign commerce, and rapid ment to the ardent advocates of the construction of the Pacific Railroad, by the aid of the Congressional

And he justifies in an able and satisfactory man per the bombardment of Greviown. His remarks upon this subject, are a beautiful commentary upon the unjust and reprehensible lauguage of some of the press of the country at the time

With these few remarks, we will conclude by commending the careful perusal of the message to all those who have not yet read it. Staunton Vindicator.

We do not think this is the proper time to discuss a question that a Democratic Convention has already cided but our friend of the Vindicator, has made some assertions which we consider erroneous ones We have our doubts whether Hon. SHELTON F. LEAKE had a majority of the imass represented in Convention. On the contrary we believe that the Hon. Henry A. Wisc, even after throwing out all alternates, had a majority. We have not made a calculation, nor do we intend to, but we merely wish to remind our friend of the Vindicalor of a few facts-Augusta County, in which there are - Democratic votes, was represented in Convention by fifty delegates, all of whom, with the exception of two were the friends of lion Shelton F. Lease, Albemarle was represented by twenty-three or twenty-five, we do not remember, all of whom, one or two excepted voted for Shelton F. Lenke. Madison, and other conn-Ties were similarly represented, and cast their vote for the same gentleman. Now we think that we could name at least one bundred Delegates representing some half dozen counties, who did not represent more of the bemocratic vete of Virginia, than ten men who represented six counties, and who voted for Mr. Wise. It is uscless discussing a point of this kind, from the fact that no good can come thereby to the Democratic party. Report of the Secretary of the Navy.

In the present critical condition of affairs, when all of the first European powers are engaged in a war that, in all likelihood, will be protracted, and when indications are not wanting to warrant the expprehension that we may be embroised in difficulties, we regard all that concerns the Amercan Navy as of vital importance, for, in the event of our becoming so embroiled, it is not difficult to see that the Navy would be our main reliance. We have therefore looked forward to Mr. Dobbin's report with much expectation and interest. Nor have we been disappointed in its character. It is able and satisfactory. It presents, in the clearest manner the condition of the Navy. It shows what is needed in its different departments, and suggests the ade-

The Secretary expresses the opinion, in which we concur, that there should be a still further increase of the Navy. The protection of commerce, the guarding of our coast, the preservation of our rank ws a nation, and the critical, if not menacing aspect of affairs, all concur to render iscussary the proposed increase of our Navy. The Secretary also recurs to the recommendation contained in his last annual message in favor of a retired list, which he enforces with convincing argaments. There are various other points in this report to which we will bereafter take occasion to

Monday next will be Christmas. How many youth ful hearts are beating high in expectation of the tra gical scenes that will occur during the week interven ing between Christmas and New Year. It is the sea son of "good things," and as every person desires to indulge in them, we will tell them where they can find them. Blessing, has just returned from Baltimore with a most complete assortment of all kinds of toys, fruits &c., and of course he will have on hand, of his own manufacture, every variety of cake Dr. Smith, has the election of annuals and gift books, and those persons who are intent on making Christmas presents to their young friends or " loved ones," would do well to call and purchas of him, for nothing is more appropriate for a present than a useful and beautiful book. All our merchants have full and fine stocks of goods, which they will be happy to dispose of to purchasers for any purpose they may design.

By refference to another column it will be ser that all the merchants have agreed to close their stores on Christmas day. This is as it should be, for we think that of all men who have s close time of it in this world, the employees of the erchants have the closest

The Young Men's Dramatic Association We had not the room in our last to notice the performance of the Dramatic Association of our place and it is with pleasure that we refer to it now. I would be invidious in us to attempt to draw a defi-nite distinction in the manner in which each acted his part. They all surpassed our expectations, and won for themselves, from the entire audience, the warmest congratulations. They are now rehearsing the "Charcoal Burner," and we can promise our citizens an unusual pleasure and gratification if they will attend the first night it is produced.

Messes. Dashall & Co's, Gift Enterprize We invite the attention of our readers to this ad-vertisement in another column. A fine chance is now offered for those who wish to test their luck-Take a ticket, and you may draw a fortune. Or Why is it that a Democratic journal, in a high

Alas ob Whiggery, how thou hast fallen.
The principle of "to the victors belong the is a sound one, and has been as notioned by the of ustions from time jumemorial, and white in ities, we think the coasciousness of having done of duty should be a sufficient reward, we are oppose to bestowing the honors and the offices of gover-ment upon the members of the defeated party. here is to be any promotion, it should be from the phant party, and none but those who have embraced its principles shoul be lead to honor. But we are very far from joining, or advocating the formation of a political party, such as the Know whose sole and avowed aim is office. God forb that we should ever belong to a political organiz tion, with which office was the primary and principles the secondary consideration.

What is the object, the avowed object of this o cult know nothing ism? Why that all persons foreign birth, however, moral, however intell however patriotic, and however long they may have been citizens, and all persons of the catholic persua-sion, shall be excluded from holding office under our

They are not even allowed to enter the lists as ompetitors against the natives and protestants for the honors of government. Can it be that in this race for honor and political position, which in a Re-public, are supposed to be conferred upon the most virtuous, meritarious, and patriotic, the native and protestant dread-a competition with the foreign born and the catholic?

Their changes in a scramble for office and politics honor are poor enough, but, to be excluded entirely is truly a haldship, and we fear the consequences witholding the very highest incentives to good citizenship, from so large and respectable a class of our people as is composed of catholics and foreigners by

We have leard of office seeking, of proscriptio of turning out and putting in, of the plans that promise the greatest probability of success, but we never dreamed, in our philosophy, of the know nothing invention, of restricting the number of applicants, and thus increasing their chances for the honors and offices. Shame on him who would wear an unwou honor! When honors are easy they don't

How stands the know nothing party on the questions of the bank, the distribution of the proceeds of the public lands, internal improvements by the general government, the fugitive slave, law, the ne braska law, and the acquisition of Cuba and the Sandwich Islands. It behooves the south at this time particularly, to consider well the principles of those who appeal to her for her vote, and she should never, never unite with a party that refused to proclaim its principles to the world, and especially when that party is of nothern origin, and flourishes most

Has the South Bo cause to think that the abolition know nothing movement an additional difficulty in the way of the acquisition of Cubs, arising out of her religion being Catholic? and should the south not, in fact, look with suspicion upon every political movement having Massachusetts for its fatherland and Boston for its nativity?

But this speils party does not stop at the proscription of those of foreign birth, and of catholics, but to diminish the number of applicants for the honors and officers of government, they even proscribe the hebrews of the hebrews; the natives of the natives. because they will not join them in this new invention for obtaining and monopolizing political honors and offices. All protestants and natives are called upon to abandon their long cherished principles, and to join this movement for office, or else, fall under the ban of proscription.

But where is all this to stop? When know no thingism shall triumph, if it ever triumph, who shall constitute the Levites? Shall it be the Methodist Presbyterian or Eniscopal Church If the Methodist, shall the Church north or south be the family of Aaron; and if the Presbyterian, shall it be the old or new school; sud if the Episcopal shall it be the high or low church branch?

Truly these nothings are the spoils party per se and well may we exclain. Oh! mores, oh, tempora when office becomes the first and last principle of a great political organization.

Washington Correspondence. WASHINGTON, Dec. 8, 1854.

To the Editors of the Spirit of Jefferson-GENTLEMEN :- Presuming that your column will be filled with the President's Message, and other interesting public papers, always consequent upon the annual meeting of Congress, I shall have only a few remarks to make to you this week. But hereafter, in compliance with your request, I shall furnish you with a letter, regularly, every week, during the session of Congress, and such other times as their may be any matter of interest at the National Capital. Your readers will judge of the Message for themselves. In my judgment it is an excellent document, sound in its principles, sensible in its suggestions, and marked with a wise prudence in its references to the delicate situation of some of our relations with foreign powers at this time. Foreign nations will learn more of the policy and determination of this government in the prudent tone of the message, than they would from loud talking and blustering. But of these matters more bereafter.

You will notice the proceedings of the House, and perhaps begin to-conclude, that instead of dedicating the short session to business, that the time is to be frittered away in discussions about Know Nothingism and kindred subjects. I fear such wil. be too much the case. There is a vast deal of private business upon the Congressional records, which ought to be attended to, and in which hundreds and housands of poor claimants, all over the country are deeply interested. The people should hold every man in Congress responsible to public censure, who does not attend to the public business, but fritters away his time with long winded speeches about sub jects, in which the people at large are not much in-

Your attention will be arrested, in examining the reports of the several Secretaries and heads of Bureaus, with the admirable condition in which the Public business is. In the respective executive departments of the Government perhaps the business was never so " near up to date" in the several departments, (at least for twenty years) as it is now while it was awfully "behind hand" when this rdministration came into power. Whatever objection or fault the enemies of this administration may have to make to it, they must at least accord to it, the nently a working administration.

Your State Convention has placed in nomination men of sterling worth. There appears to be some dissatisfaction in certain quarters in consequence of the nomination of Mr. Wise, which I think is very impolitic. I may take occasion soon to give some reason why I consider the nomination of Mr. Wise as the most suitable one that could have been made. Very Respectfully, FRANKLIN.

Messrs. Mertimer and Mowbray—Gentlemen:—I have been afflicted for the past eight years with Dyspepsia, Rheuniatism and Liver complaint, suffering all the while with pains in the shoulders, hips, back and sides—shifting from one side to the other—palpitation of the heart, loss of appetite, cold sweats at night excessive costiveness, and great debility and cakness. I tried many remedies, which done me o good, but rather grew worse. Last fall I was ad-sed to try "HAMPTON'S VEGETABLE TINCvised to try "HAMPTON'S VEGETABLE TINCTURE," and I am happy to say it cured me. I am now free from all pain, and in the enjoyment of perfect health, and take great pleasure in recommending

TOWN ORDINANCE HE following enactments have been passed by the Board of Trustees of Charlestown, and will be carried into effect for the first violation: A fine of $10 will be imposed upon any person who builds a fire out of doors for the purpose of killing hogs, or for any other purpose, whereby property of our citizens are endangered-said fine to be recovered by warrants before the Mayor or Recorder, on complaint of those endangered, or the Town Sergeant.
WHEREAS.—The peace and quiet of the good citizens of Cimerestown has, heretofore been frequently disturbed—even to alarm—by persons at untimely hours of the night, hallooing and whooping, at the hours of the night, hallooing and whooping, at the corners of the streets or alleys.

Be it enacted and declared by the Trustees of said town. That if any persons shall so offend in future, after the hour of 10 o'clock at night he or they shall be liable to a fine of not less than one nor more than five dollars, to be recovered by wrrant, before the Mayor or Recorder, on the complaint of those annoyed, or the Town Sergeant. Should the offender or offenders be miners or apprentices, the fine is to be recovered of the parent, guardian or master, as the case may be, and should a slave or slaves so offend, he or they shall receive not less than five nor more than twenty shall receive not less than five nor more than twenty stripes on the bare back, by order of the Mayor or Recorder and the master or mistress of such slave or slaves for the time being to pay all costs.

It is hereby further enacted and declared, That if any person shall hereafter run or strain a horse, mare or gelding, or other riding animal or ride or drive at gelding, or other riding animal or ride or drive at an unreasonable gait, either in barness or otherwise, in any of the streets or alleys of said town, such per-son (if free or an apprentice shall incur a fine of not less than one, nor more than five dollars, for every such offence—to be recovered by warrant before the Mayor or Recorder of the parent, master or guardi-Mayor or Recorder of the parent, master or guardian, of such free person or apprentice, as the case may be if such person be under the age of 21 years and if above the age of 21 years, against the person so offending. Lithe offender be a slave, and unless the owner of such slave or some other person for him will pay such fine and costs, the offender shall, by order of the Mayor or Recorder, receive such number of lashes as he may adjudge; not exceeding fifteen on his or her bare back and the owner of such slave for the time being shall nov all costs. on his or her bare back and the owner or such start for the time being shall pay all costs.

And it is further enucted and declared, That if any free person shall hereafter ride on any of the side pavements or sidewalks of said town whether mey be paved or not, he shall be fined not less man one, nor more than five dolls so for every such offence—to be recovered as above, of the master, parent or guardian, or of the offender if over the age of 21 years; and if a slave, to receive not exceeding ten lashes by order of the Mayor or Recorder, and the owner to order of the Mayor or Recorder, and the owner to pry all costs.

It is further enacted and declared, That it shall not be lawful to throw up or roll fire balls or fire, nor throw about crackers in the streets and alleys of said town, and the person or persons so offending shall pay a fine of not less than one, or more than five dollars, for every such offence—the fine to be recovered of the parent, master or guardian, if the offender be under the age of 21 years by warrant asaforesaid; and if the offender be a slave, to receive stripes not exceeding ten at the direction of the Mayor or Recorder, the owner for the time being paying all costs.

Be it further enacted, That a fine of $10 be imposed upon any person who may sell fire crackers, or any other description of fire works. Said fine to be recovered, as in every other case of violations.

Be it further enacted, That any Negro caught in town after nineo'clock at night, or any negro caught off his own premises, without a written permit from his or her owner, will be punished by stripes.

I request all good citizens to make known any violation of the above ordinance, in order that the law may be enforced.

We, the undersigned, being solicited to give our opinion as to the character and standing of the Insurance Company of the Valley of Virginia, have no resitation in saying that we have the utmost confidence in the ability and integrity of the President and Directors of that Company.

The fact that we have insured our own property in the Company, is perhaps the strongest evidence we can give as to our opinion of its merits.

Cure of Cours, Vertico, Resenation.—Cure of the venerable Dr. Dunn's son, of the city of Baltimore, a man well knewn, and whose testimony adds to the triumph of Humpton's Vegetable Tincture:

Baltimore, Feb. 9, 1952.

Mesurs, Mordiner & Mowbray—Gentlemen: It is with reat pleasure that I am able to attest to the general leading and curative powers of Dr. Hampton's Vegetable Tincture. Some time during last November. I was taken with a very bad and serious cough. I was advised as take Uod Liver Oil, and did so, but getting no better, I was induced to try your Tincture—I got one bottle, and before I bad taken it all, my cough left me. Permit he also to state, that for the last fifteen years I have suffered very much from acute Rheumatism and Vertigo, confining me at times to my bed. I am fully convinced that I owe my present g health to the use of the Tincture, and a kind P dence.

You are my friend, at liberty to use this as you may spends five hours of each day in the school room; but to be entirely punctual, he must leave home at 8 o'clock in the morning. A breef recess is all the chance he gets to "cruise" or "cut up" until he gets Braxton Davenport, A. R. Boteler, R. W. Baylor, Samuel Ridenour, and Samuel W. Strider. Samuel Ridenour, and Samuel W. March and August are the Jury Terms. When a vacancy occurs, the new incumbent takes the place assigned his predecessor. Since the classification in 1852, four vacancies have been filled, in consequence of removals from the District. the spirit of the age has got into our mothers and fathers, and Sam's parent shames him out of his laziness. He dashes into the street and with a hurra! is ness. He dashes into the street and with a hurra! is off among the other lads on a chase. But boys will tumble if they run hard, and pantaloons will tare if they are violently strained. By the time the tea-bell rings, or a little after, the young "rip" comes in with beads of sweat on his forehead, broken pants and a shoe sole off. Perhaps he has rubbed the skin off of his hand or blackened his eye in his rough play, but he'll not complain of them. Sam's poor mother is in distress. Her boy is a scape-grace, she is afraid. Poor woman, she sighs over her dull boy, and wishes he would take to his study as her neighbor's boy does, who is two years younger and two Harpers-Ferry, July 11, 1854 UNITED STATES HOTEL,

JUST ARRIVED.

NEW AND CHEAP.

The undersigned has just returned from the Eastern markets with the largest and most complete STOCK OF GOODS he has ever offered at this place, all of which has been purchased on the very best possible terms, and will be sold as low as any goods of the same quality can be in the Valley of Virginia, consisting in part of the following articles, viz:

Cloths, Cussimeres and Tweeds;
Fancy Cassinets, at very low prices;
Silk, Satin and Marsailles Vestings;
Italian, Cloth and Summer do;
A good assortment of Cotton Goods for Summer wear; is afraid. Poor woman, she sighs over her dull boy, and wishes he would take to his study as her neighbor's boy does, who is two years younger and two classes ahead of him. With the lighted lamps Sam matches up his new magazine, or the paper to read where the fire was. But little comfort gets he of his reading. The anxious mother hints and coaxes, and at last compels him to get his schoolbooks. At it he goes sluggishly, and at it works sleepily, but at last succeeds. He has learned his spelling lesson, with an absurd definition for each word; his Geography lession—which happened to be the names of the South American rivers; his Grammer—which was to remember a page of unintelligible formulas; his history—which was one compilation of dates; and his Aribmetic—any one of whose sums his father, though just from the counting-house, would hesitate to do without a slate. He pokes of to bed an hour past the time when he should go, and is up carly to go the same round again. Saturday he writs composition and copies, and steals a little play. Sunday, he blacks his shoes, goes to two meetings and two Sunday Schools, gets a sly taste of the Arabian Nights while pretending to be asleep, and so resis.

Now, mother, is this the way for your stout boy to get an education? Probably, in spite of your bad management, he will continue in health, obtain exercise enough by stealing it, and get along well.— JUST received and for sale, at the lowest seta prices, the following SCHOOL BOOKS: Newman & Baretti's Spanish Dictionary; Graglia's Italian do Robinson's Gesenius' Hebrew do GEO, J. RICHARDSON.
