Apportionment of School Fund.

The annual apportionment of the distribu-tive Free School Fund of West Virginia, has been made by the State Superintendent. Owing to failure to make the enumeration of youth for 1866, there were some twenty counties which failed to receive their distributive share for that year. For the same reason Kanawha failed to receive its proper tion for the year 1865. By special acts last winter, the Legislature directed the State Superintendent to distribute to such counties the sums they were thus deficient, on the basis of a subsequent enumeration. This distribution has also been made, and is as been diligently compared with the official copy, and may be relied on as accurate, says

How many a glorious name for us,
How many a story of fame for us,
They lett!—would it not be a shame for us
If their memory part
From our land and heart,
And a wrong to them and a blame for us?

No! no! no! they were brave for us,
And bright were the lives they gave for us;
The land they struggled to save for us
Cannot forget
Its warriors yet,
Who sleep in se many a grave for us.

No! no! no! they were slain for us, And their blood flowed out in a rain for us; Red, rich, and pure, on the plain for us; And years may go

MARY MOORE.

A Pleasant Love Story.

All my life long I had known Mary Moore.

OUR DEAD. This, says the Memphis Avalanche, is the title of one of those truly national lyrics Father Ryan has contributed to immortality through The Land We Love, and it is of that brilliant nature which will lash forth with "The Sword of Robert Lee"; Do we weep for the heroes that died for us,
Who, living, were true and tried for us,
And, in death, steep side by side for us?
The martyr band
That ballowed our land
With the blood they poured in a tide for us.

Ah! fearless on many a day for us.
They stood in the front of the fray for us,
And held the formen at bay for us;
Fresh tears should fall

Forever-o'er all Who fell while wearing the gray for us.

Savannah, April 21.—Frisbie & Mason's cotton warehouse was totally destroyed by fire last night. From 500 to 600 bales of cotton were burned. There was no insurance on the building. P. H. he had spent years of study and labor. On enfering the parlor, his eyes, were suffused it upon the tip of my finger.

To the eyes of others it was but a small, plain circlet, suggesting thoughts, perhaps, by its elegance, of the beautiful white hand object of so many thoughts a kiss as fond as that of a parent. Fate had willed that this meeting of the artist and the production of his great artistic talent should be the last.

And while I stood silent a strange apparition grew up before me; from behind the servant peered out a small golden head, a tiny, delicate form followed, and a sweet childish face; for love still lives above. with blue eyes, was lifted to mine—so like to those of one who had brightened my boyhood, those of one who had brightened my boyhood, that I started with a sudden feeling of pain.

"What is your name, my pretty?" I asked while the wondering servant held the door.

"And what else?" I asked quickly.

She lifted up her hands to shade her eyes.

I had seen that very atting the in another, in my boyhood, many and many a time—and answered in a sweet, bird-like voice—

My heart sank down like lead. Here was an end to all the bright dreams and hones of

"Did you wish to see my father, sir?" I looked up. There stood a pretty, swee faced maiden of twenty, not much changed from the dear little sister I had loved so well. I looked at her for a moment, and then stilling the tumult of my heart, by a mighty efort I opened my arms and said-

"Lizzie don't you know me?" Our mothers were old playmates and first cousins. My first recollections are of a boy, in a red frock and morocco shoes, rocking a "Harry! Oh my brother Harry!" she cried and threw herself upon my breast. She wept as if her heart would break.
"I could not weep. I drew her gently incradle in which reposed a sunny haired, blue eyed baby not quite a year old. That boy was myself—Harry Church; that blessed ba-by was Mary Moore.

Later still, I see myself at the little school house, drawing my little chaise up to the door that Mary might ride home. Many a beating have I gained on such occasions, for other There was a rush and a cry of joy, and then my father and mother sprang towards me, and welcomed me home with heartfelt tears. Oh, strange and passing sweet is such a greeting to the way worn traveler. And as I held my dear old mother to my heart, and boys besides me liked her, and she, I fear, was something of a flirt, even in her pinafore. How elegantly she came tripping down the steps when I called her name. How sweetly grasped my father's hand, while Lizzie clung beside me, I felt that all was not yet lost, and although another had secured life's choicesther blue eyes looked at me. How gaily rang out her merry laugh. No one but Mary could

There were four other inmates of the room ever bring her heart so soon to her lips. I followed that laugh from my days of child-hood till I grow an awkward, blushing youth —I followed it through the heated noon of who had risen on my sudden entrance. One was the blue eyed child whom I had already seen, and who now stood beside Frank Chester, clinging to his hand. Near by stood manhood-and now, when the frosts of age are silvering my hair, and many children climb upon my knee and call me "father;" ind that the memories of youth are strong, Lizzie Moore, Mary's eldest sister, and in a distant corner, to which she had hurriedly retreated when my name was spoken, stood a tall and slender figure half hidden by the heavy window curtains that fell to the floor.

"And have you seen my little girl?" he added, lifting the infant in his arms and kissing her crimsoned cheek. "I tell you, Harry, there is not such another in the world. Don't you think she looks very much like her mother used to?"

And thus I settled the future of a young lady whom I had not seen for four years. I never thought of the possibility of her refusing me—never dreamed that she would not condescend to accept my offer.

But now I know that, had Mary met me then, she would have despised me. Perhaps in the scented and affected student she might have found plenty of sport; but as for loving the scenter of the sake of old times and because you were not at the wedding, I will

I sank body and soul, beneath this blow. I sank, body and soul, beneath this blow. And hiding my face in my hands I leaned against the door, while my heart wept tears of blood. The little one gazed atme, grieved and amazed, and put up her pretty lips as if about to cry, while the perplexed servant stepped to the parlor door, and called my sister out to see who it was that conducted hims self so strangely. I heard a light story of the world as the foremost man of his time.—With the fiery eloquence and indomitable spirit of Chatham, he was free from the egotism and weakness which disfigured the character of that great minister. Thrice was he called upon to still the raging of faction and avert civil strife, and thrice did he stretch forth his arm, as it were, over the troubled waters, and they obeyed him. One of the Legislators.

The humorist of the New York Legislature is one John Oakey, member from King's county, and the way Mr. Oakey does things may be inferred from the following report of a speech made by him on the lill for the erection of a new Capitol building in Albany:

I found one kept by a French night cap, and a mammoth was too if the state of the state terfall, the widow of a defunct gentlema terfall, the widow of a defunct gentleman, heavy in West India goods. I asked the widow of said defunct if she desired another boarder. She replied "that depends on circumstances." I informed her that I was a member of the Legislature. She became as cold as an ice-burg, and informed me that respectable boarding houses did not desire patronage from Assemblymen or colored people. She shut the door and I retired. I sought another lady. She was more complacent, and said she did not mind boarding one or two Assemblymen, provided they would pay in advance, or give security. OUR BIG SHOW.

When, on Tuesday last, we closed our exhibition of the leading characters of our political menagerie, we indulged the hope that we should not be under the necessity of re-introducing any of the "trained animals" who added such lively interest to our first exhibition, and that we should be able to present an entirely new programme, with new features of interest, and with new characters to sustain the several parts of our second entertainment. In this, however, we have been disappointed, but we are determined that this disappointment shall not detract from the merits of our show. A good performer will bear a second introduction, and the one we propose trotting out this week is certainly entitled to be considered the liveliest in our whole collection, and as we present him in an entirely new role, we feel satisfied that a discriminating and appreciative public will not feel that anything is lost by the slight delay which this repetition causes in the introduction of new characters. Our readers have anticipated us, doubtless, and already understand who is to contribute to their enjoyment on the present occasion :

JOSEPH AS A MERCHANT. Versatility of talent is an essential requisite with every candidate for public favor, and this requisite our subject possesses in an eminent degree, "No pent up Utica contracts his powers," and whether we regard him as merchant, lawyer, legislator, X-communicator, or mayor of the county seat, he is the same successful genius, whose star is never dimmed, and whose glory is not to be obscured by courts or juries. But we must not be too hasty in our introduction. It is of Joseph as a merchant that we now write. In the year 1864, when goods were scarce, and there was great difficulty in obtaining percontending hosts, our hero purchased a stock of goods from the house of Renehan & Kirwan, corner of Howard and Baltimore streets, Baltimore, in the State of Maryland. We must be excused for being thus particular; a ring-master must be careful to introduce every point necessary to the interest of his exhibi- Ferry and Bolivar townships, they have sumtior. These goods, which amounted in value | moned nearly the whole body of conservative to something over $600, were brought to this county, and disposed of-perhaps to rebelswe have no means of proving to the contrary. HOW HE DIDN'T PAY FOR THEM.

Anybody can buy goods-but the paying for them. "Thereby hangs a tale!" But just here, our subject was quite equal to the emergency. He gave a check on a bank in them it was sent on to the bank, which, in | Kevit's regard: its ingratitude, protested it. And why?-Because the party giving the check was unknown to the officers of the bank, and had no funds on deposit in the institution. Evidently a set of rebels have control of the Hagerstown concern, and reconstruction is sadly needed there. They might have honored that check, and not thus attempted to blur the fair fame of the Senator from this dis-

JOSEPH AS A SUITOR.

The firm of Renel an & Kirwan had to refund to Nicholson, the banker, the amount of Joseph's check. In consequence of this they employed counsel here, and ordered suit to be brought for the recovery of the amount specified in the check. This suit was brought one year ago. A continuance was asked by the defendant, and a lenient court granted it. In October the case again came up. To prevent payment an attempt was made to cast suspicion upon the loyalty of the Baltimore House. The known loyalty of the defendant led to the hope that he might evade or avoid payment, by proving that the house with which he dealt, when the country was struggling for the maintenance of its existence. was a "rebel concern." Upon this plea the effort was made to non-suit Renehan & Kirwan. But to no purpose. They came out of the fire like burnished gold, and as the case now appeared, evidently had underholts on the said Joseph. Another continuance was

THE CASE AGAIN UP.

For the past three weeks our Circuit Court has been in session hard by the flowing waters of the majestic Potomac, and during the session, this interesting case was again called. The jury for its trial had even taken their assigned places, and all seemed ready for the opening of the ball. But lo! a discovery

PAPERS ABSTRACTED.

The papers essential to the trial of the case-the check and the notice of protesthave been abstracted-are gone, nobody knows where. They were filed in the suit with the custodian of such papers, the Clerk of the Court. Upon him some uncharitable reflections might rest, inasmuch as he is a kinsman of the defendant, but he acquitted himself handsomely by making affidavit that said papers had been filed in the case. Joe. without waiting for an accusation, imitating the example of the bank, "protests." The bank wouldn't take his paper, and he didn't take the bank's papers. Of course notwhoever imagined that he would. Dare any man intimate that our Senator would do such

AS THE CASE STANDS.

Finding himself without the necessary testimony to the success of his cause, under the ruling of the court, the counsel for plaintiff withdrew the ease, to renew it at the next term of the court, when judgment will no doubt be given against Joseph for the amount of the check. - rated come within that scope? It looks so to us, but we may not take a correct view of the matter. The giving of that check, when there was no funds in the bank to meet it, was certainly a youthful indiscretion-and one which may cause our Senator trouble if Gov. Swann determines to enforce the laws of Maryland. It might become an ugly affair if said Governor should construe the transaction, as some uncharitable people will, as obtaining goods under false pretences-and acting upon such construction, should make a equisition upon the Executive of this State for the corporeal part of said Joseph. We should lament such a result, for in that event, our business as a showman would be broken up. We can't carry on our menagerie with out this specimen, but still we should acquiesce if the ends of justice require it.

OUR NEXT. Our next exhibition will embrace a collection of the leading radical curiosities in Av erill township, and we expect to have some rare specimens. That our "show up" of these officials may be accurate, we shall visit Smith field and Leetown during the present week to gather such material as will enable us to present a rich treat. Parties who may be in possession of "good points" are requested to communicate them to us on this trip.

A WORD TO THE REGISTER. We waat our friend of the Register to advertise our "big show," which he can best do by copying the above article. He must either take sides with us, or come out openly as a Chapline organ. His half-and-half course does not suit us. If he fails to join us, we shall appeal to his conservative patrons to drop his paper and take ours. So, look out

MORE RASCALITY. There is evidently some new political rascality meditating at Shepherdstown, and we are half inclined to believe that it has reference to our county-seat question. The Chaplineites, finding that the location of the county-seat at Shepherdstown, is causing dissatisfaction throughout the county, are making a move towards having the sense of the voters tested with reference to its removal. To this mission to bring them to this county, where | end they mean to trim the registrar's books the fortune of arms vacillated between the of all whom they have cause to suspect are not with them in their rascality.

Several of the voters of this township have been served with notices to appear before the Board of Registration and show cause why their names should not be erased from the roll of qualified voters; and in Harper's voters to appear at Shepherdstown on the first Monday in May, to prove to McKevit and his clan that they are now, and have ever been loyal, according to the radical interpretation of that term. They evidently design the complete extirpation of the conservative party in this county, and do not mean to halt short of that result. Below we present a list of Hagerstown. Duke, the notice requires him to appear and show that he is a qualified voter in " Averill' township, something which he has never claimed to be, living as he does, in a remote part of the county from said township. But with McKevit and his party it is all the same. They know Duke is a conservative man, and they do not mean that he shall have a voice in any future elections.

Sam'l Linton

Another mean thing of which this Board has been guilty, deserves notice. They have sent instructions to the registrar of Charlestown township, not to enter the name of Judge Kennedy upon his books. They do not intend to be bothered with him as a voter, and hence these instructions to their subordinate. not to place his name on the books at all .-And this is one of the beauties of the Wes Virginia system, for which we should feel ourselves indebted to this Chapline partya party which was christened in rascality, and which has grown up in the grossest dishquest

We hope for a day of reckoning. Will ever come? We believe it will, and then of then-but we forbear,

THE VIRGINIA BANKS.

In the Senate of Virginia, on Friday last the unfinished business of the previous day being the bill to compel the banks of the State to receive their own issues in liquidation of their claims was taken up:

Mr. Keen advocated the adoption of the w, while Mr. Ould opposed it as a measure or the benefit of speculators, who have ought up the notes at a greatly depreciated price, and they were anxious to have the banks compelled to receive those notes in yment of their dues. Mr. Keen and Mr. Robinson denied that it was a speculator's bill, but claimed that it was a measure of justice to the people holding the notes of the banks.

Mr. McRae contended that it was a ques-tion with which the Senate had nothing at all to do, but must be settled by the Courts .-The law would be retrospective, and as such would not be respected by the Courts Mr. Ould said the bill would be destructive to the interests of the people, as it would induce them to go out in the community and buy up the bills of the banks at high rates only to find them worthless when they come o make payment to the bank.

The vote was taken on the bill, and it was ecided in the negative-ayes 10, noes 16. Already a case adverse to the Bank of the Valley has been decided in the Circuit Court of this county; but upon it, the Bank has already, or designs to take an appeal, and the case will be carried up to the Court of Appeals of West Virginia. Upon the decision of this case before that tribunal much depends. and it behooves those against whom the Bank holds notes to see that able counsel is employed to defend the interests of the people before the Court of Appeals. A decision in this case will cover the whole ground, and as hundreds of our people are interested, we suggest that there be some understanding and concert of action to have the case fully and fairly represented. If the Bank of the Valley gains this suit, the people of Jefferson and Berkeley counties will be compelled to pay their indebtedness to the Bank in the present currency. If the Court of Appeals should sustain the verdict of the Circuit Court of Jefferson, then the Bank would be compelled to receive its own paper-which we think would be just and right.

THE SUFFERING IN THE SOUTH.

We have not the means of ascertaining the extent of what has been done, or what is yet being done, by the people of this county, in behalf of Southern sufferers. We only know sumptions of law in favor of every man, and behalf of Southern sufferers. We only knowthat a large amount of corn, bacon, and other necessaries have been centributed and forwarded; but whether the efforts of our people have relaxed, we are not prepared to say .-We hope not. Much may yet be done for he comfert of these poor sufferers. In con nection with this subject, we present the following extract from a letter of Lieut. Gen. GORDON, to a gentleman of this town. The writer is well known to the people of this Valley, and we trust his plain statement will have its effect in renewing the efforts already made by our people:

"I was glad to hear from you, and truly thankful that the good people of your sectio have been blessed with good crops. We did not expect a section that had suffered so much to do anything to relieve the sufferings of this; but we are only the more grateful as it comes from the already impoverished.

There is a great deal of suffering beyond doubt, in our State; but much has been done already to feed the hungry. Many still suffer, however. Among those most needy, are families whose circumstances before the war, gave them positive luxury. Some of these too proud to make known their condition, have endured the worst privations. I have now in nearly grown-who before the war lived in the greatest comfort, but who now labors constantly for food, and is scarcely able to feed her little ones. Those poor before the war, are in many instances actually on the verge of starvation. Many are being supported by the uncertain charities of their almost as poor neighbors. But it is not essential that I say more. Your good people cannot give in a better cause, and to a people more needy.— If you decide to send a small supply to me at

TO THE LADIES. The influence of woman is coeval with time and bounded only by the limits of the world. Beginning in Eden it has retained its power unimpaired to the present day, and the sex still wield a spell more potent than was contained in the wondrous lamp of the genii; for they can sway the hearts and minds of men by a magic all their own, and yet while exercising a power which is little short of despotic, so gentle is their rule that none of their subjects wish to break the silken chains which bind them prostrete at the throne of purity and loveliness.

[We didn't write the above, but the man who did, has exactly expressed our opinion of the sex, and in finer language than is contained in our lexicon. MR. EDITOR :- A most extraordinary paper has been served on me. It requires mo to appear in Shepherdstown, the very incon venient and almost inaccessible location of our county seat, to prove that I am a qualified oter. Pray, sir, enlighten me as to this sin-ular summons. "A qualified voter!" Why was a qualified voter, and voted for Pr ent before some of those who propose to sett the right of franchise in these parts were born. I am getting old now, with little left to love but my country. But I cannot; old and foe-ble though I be, allow my right of voting to be interfered with, without knowing why.— My notions, I am afraid, are becoming a little old fashioned. I believe the man wh has the right to vote and does not exercise i is a useless citizen—a rotten branch on the olitical tree. And the man or the hudy o men, be they simple citizens, or clothed with authority, who attempts to interfere with ht, are not only traitors, but traitors of the deepest dye, since they strike at the very corner stone of our republican structure There was a time, before the war, when the qualification for the right to vote was citizenship. But, alas! how times have changed .-I am a citizen, a property owner even, and as true and loyal in every pulsation of my heart as any man that breathes; and yet, now at the end of my days, I am invited to travel across the country, to its remotest and most inconvenient corner, to prove that I am a nalified voter. But, in addition to the proofs which are within the knowledge of the Board of Registrars, namely, that I am a citizen—have answered satisfactorily every question that was put to me by their local registrars—taken every oath that the law calls for, and the en-try of my name in their books, as a voter, what preof do they want, or can I offer that I am a qualified voter. A certain rumor I have heard, but it is too shocking to be anything but a rumor. And yet, it comes to me through friends that are well informed. It is, that to be properly qualified to vote, you must be of what is termed "the right stripe of politics;" and that the summons served on me is simply that I should "prove my loy-alty." The man does not live who can truly lift his finger in disparagement of my loyalty Nor, let me add, would it be safe for him t do so, old as I am. But to be called on to prove my loyalty is not only a novelty, but presents a difficulty which might appal the purest patriot in the land. Does any one charge me with disloyalty? Then what are the specifications and proofs? I shall, I promise you, lose no time in meeting them. But to prove my innocence of a crime that I un-derstand no one has charged me with, is absurd, because it is impossible. Innocence, no one," to use the very words of Henry Clay, "has a right to put forth a positive assertion, that a political crime has been committed, unless he stands prepared to sustain by satisfactory proof of some kind, its actual existence." And again he says, "if the accuser of a political offence is absolved from Wm. A. Chapline vs. E. M. Lar solved. Such a principle practically carried into society would subvert all harmony, peace and tranquility. None-no age, nor sex, nor rofession, nor calling, would be safe against s baleful and overwhelming influence. It would amount to universal license, to univer-

I am very much inclined to think that an explanation of this matter lies in the interpretation of the word "loyalty." And that while loyalty to the Union and the Constitution, and to the best interests of the whole posed persons, who at present control affairs

On the first Monday of May, if it please God, I shall be in Shepherdstown. According to law, as sound lawyers inform me, a man cannot be called on to prove a negative, and my mind a very accomplished widow lady, logicians, I know, go so far as to assert, that with three children—one of them a daughter a negative cannot be proved. But I shall have with me such evidence of my civil and political character and conduct, that if disqualified, I shall at least know the reason why, and Stubbs for plaintiff; Faulkner for deand of reading it in the blushes of the triumvirate who have to settle the question.

In conclusion allow me to make a remark or so of a personal pature. I understand that Judge Kennedy and Mr. Yantis are among those summoned. A young kinsman of mine, an officer in the Union army, was quartered at Judge Kennedy's house during the war .this place. I will distribute it to the most He is in the habit of speaking of the Kendestitute." them: "Both," he says, "are good fellows, Andrew is a rebel, but the Judge is a thor-oughly loyal man." Moreover, I have more than once heard Mr. Alexander Kelly, of Harluring the war, on account of his devotion to the Union cause. Mr. Yantis I have known long and well; and if he is not a loyal man, there is not loyal man in the State. It is alleged, I understand, with what truth I know not, that he sold goods to rebels during the war. Well, what of that? Killing is not always murder. And in this particular espect I should like to see the man, whattis. While, as for myself, were I on my dy-ing bed, my last gasp would breathe unutter-able, unqualified devotion to the ishers, Messis. Selby & Dulaney, of Baltimore, have placed us under obligasions for a copy of this valuable book-valuable because of its local interest, and because of the high esteem in which the distinguished subject of t was held by our people. The book is written by the Chaplain of Ashby's Old Brigade, Rev. JAMES B. AVIRETT, who seems to have brought to his task, a ready pen and an appreciative judgment. It embraces not only a life of Ashby, the Prince Rupert of the South, but well written, and we presume accurate sketches, of some of the more prominent actors with him in his brilliant career. An exchange in noticing the work, happily says :- "To an ex-Confederate, especially to a Virginia Confederate,—no record could be charged with an interest deeper and dearer than the story of Ashby's life and death. The gallant dragoons who rode behind his plume,—the beaux sabreurs who rallied about the flags of his command, these will go down to the ages, as Rupert's cavaliers, and the horsemen of Claverhouse have come to us. These men will have crumbled to dust, and their good blades will have been corroded by the rust of long generations, when the names of their "gentle and joyous" fights will shine among the proudest recollections of that brave struggle, the shadow of whose miscarriage lies now so heavily upon us."

The execution of the work is admirable and reflects credit upon the house by which it has been published. It is superior to any printing we have seen done in the South, and the binding is decidedly handsome and sub-

The Coming War.

- All the indications in Europe, observes the N. Y. World, point to a war this summer be tween France and Prussia. The speeches in and out of Parliament, the newspapers, the nedys, and making this distinction between state of trade, the stock lists-all furnish evidence that the conflict is inevitable. Not that the Emperor Napoleon wants to fight; he would avoid it if he could with honor. Perper's Ferry, an undoubtedly loyal man, speak sonally, he is far from well; his army is not prepared; the French needle guns are not yet ready, and the Exposition is under way; but events will not wait. The French people are in a passion of wounded national vanity, while Prussia is insolent, imperious, and evidently determined to force a fight. Bismarck seems to be of the opinion that blows from without are essential to the consol idation of the great German power he has called into being. He insists that France ever his opinions, who had the opportunity, shall not have Luxemburg, his King threatand yet can to-day throw a stone at Mr. Yan- ens the French Emperor in a speech from the throne, while the needle guns swarm 'on either bank of the Rhine.

But if war takes place, what then? On which side will victory incline? The event alone can answer these queries. It is only certain that the French Emperor has had a run of ill-luck for the past two years, while ortune has tavored his rival. Russia also seems to be not unwilling to take dvantage of the Luxemburg imbroglio to seize Constantinople. At any rate 1867 pro-mises to be memorable in the annals of Eu-

Pardon of Jefferson Davis.

The Rev. Mr. Bagley, formerly a mission y to Japan and India, is said to have paid a sit a few days ago to Mr. Jefferson Davis, at Fortress Monroe, for the purpose of induhe letter stating this fact, adds:

Mr. Bagley believed that if a regular applation should be made by Mr. Davis, he could support it with a petition presenting such an array of influential names, a large proportion them from the Radical Rev that the movement would be as successful as that made by him in the case of Governor Vance, of North Carolina. Mr. Dávis, however, declined accepting the proposition. He said to ask for pardon was a confession of guilt, and that such an application would pre-judice his ease at the trial, which he was given to understand was close at hand. Mr. Bagley, nothing daunted with the ill-success he met with at Fortress Monroe, went to Washington and called on the President to ascertain whether a pardon would be grant-ed to Jefferson Davis without an application, if petitions were presented of a satisfactory character. It is understood that Mr. Bagley was equally unsuccessful at the White House, In the exercise of the pardoning power, the President has been guided by an inflexible rule-never to grant a pardon on petitions unless such petitions were accompanied by an application from the individual seeking the executive elemency. The Attorney General's office has now on file a huge budget of etitions, signed by hundreds of people. North and South, praying for the release and pardon of Jefferson Davis, all of which are of no avail, owing to the before mentioned rule.

Radical Proscription of Working Men

A thousand men are walking the streets of Portland, Conn., asking for employment who were discharged by Radical employers for daring to vote the Democratic ticket at the late election in that State. The Hartford Times thus speaks of the effort made by the Radical party to control the working men, and the owners that they would no longer work.

In Portland the most shameful coercion of working men has for years been practised by the Republican employers. Men were told by open proclamation that they would lose their situations if they dared to vote the Demoeratic ticket. That shameful course gave In the trespass case of E. Tiedman vs. Jas. the town last year to the Radicals, but they W. Glenn, as given in our last issue without met some difficulty in repeating the programme this year, for the working men orgarized a Protective League, and announced their purpose to vote. Most of them did vote; and they carried the town, gaining 60 or 70 votes.

For this assertion of their rights as freemen, the quarrymen were notified by the quarry owners that their services will not be required for the year to come.

We have chronicled the fact that the Reublican managers of the factories in Rockville have discharged fifty of their employees because they voted the Democratic ticket .-They put it on the ground that they were Leauge; and say they will turn away every making twelve hours; and cut down their tion of men who differ with them in politics, Johnson man for the principal office the Senshows how insincere the Republicans were in and champions of the working men. It does those New England slave-drivers expected it would; for the names of fifty new members were enrolled on the league the very night following the day of this proscription. Many of the discharged men have dependent families and need assistance:

The Sentiments of a Freedman.

In response to a call Meses Hodges took the floor. He spoke in a manner earnest, sincere and impressive. He said, I am a unlearnt man, not used, to speaking but I know what I feel and think. I was born in Georgia. I am a Southern born man and expect to die here. I was once a slave, had to obey a master, I am a freedman now and must obey the laws of the country. I have no ill-feeling against the white man because I once was a slave; I hope the white man has no ill feelings towards me because I am free. So far as I know and have seen, I find no bad feeling between us. When I was a slave I was not abused. Since I have been free no one has tried to wrong me in any way. I have lived in this town six years, and I never had a cause to complain of any one. I find that my straightest steps are my best ones, I know that a man that acts right will have re-

I am willing to trust my white friends -I know them. I am a Georgian from the bottom of my heart-yes, from the sole of my foot to the crown of my head. I wish to ny colored friends. We all live here, and expect to live here. I know we can get along in a kind and friendly manner, and be a help to one another, and believe we will. When I live among people and know them and find them kind I am willing to trust them. I trust people I know.

WASHINGTON, April 9. To be able to write the full history of appointments, confirmations, rejections, and the by-play accompanying each, would be to produce a chapter of political history which for its statement of intrigue to advance personal ends, at the expense of principle, could not be surpassed by the corruptions of any previous period: The following are but fair expense of what is now constantly transpiring.

two Radicals, and they have complete control within wheels in the political action, of the cliques which abound in this State than in any other. The fight over three offices in one district will suffice to show how things are managed where the two Republicans, Conkling and Morgan, have the final settlement of matters. The struggle over the postoffice, and the assessor in the third (Brooklya) District, has been prolonged and bitter. Senator Conkling has a friend there, a State Senator who was very active last winter in securing the election of Conkling to the Senate. Conkling preposes to pay him by giving him the posteffice. Senator Morgan has a man for Collector, who, in 1862, after being elected as a Democrat, turned Republican on condition of being made Speaker of the House, and whose vote made Morgan United States Senator. Morgan says he must pay this man. Mr. Johnson says to the Secretary and the Congressmen that they are welcome to fight the matter out among themselves. There are about thirty prominent candidates for these offices, and nearly all of them are here actively engaged in the dis-graceful bargaining. The course of Presi-dent Johnson in the case has been far more praiseworthy than that of the Republican nabblers engaged, for upon the recomendation of Gen. Grant, Mr. Greeley and Mr. Lincoln, the late postmaster, he appointed General Roberts, a distinguished soldier in the Army of the Potomac, a sound Republican, a man of excellent character, and now uffering from a running wound received in the war, and yet Senators Conkling and Morgan had him rejected because he was not in the ring. Nothing further is necessary to show how the affairs of New York are manradicalism of Senators Yates and Ingersoll is of the strong kind. Yet these two gentlemen were as active as they possibly could be in securing the confirmation of an out and out Johnson man named Kellogg, in place of an excellent gentleman and most excellent officer, who tendered his resignation last sum-mer when the President deserted the Union party, and he was confirmed. Now none doubt the radicalism of Messrs. Yates and Ingersoll; but the case is a fair example of how affairs are being managed by the Senate But this proscription proved too bad a dose which has all the power in its own hands. even for the Republican working men, on Just previous to the adjournment, while prominent Western Radical Senators sent to Colonel Thorpe, of this city, whom he supposed to have ready access to the President and asked him to try to arrange with the President for an interview with the Senator. so that the latter could go to Mr. Johnson and get some offices from him, promising that in case the President would receive him with due consideration, and give him the offices he members of the Rockville Workingmen's wanted, he would in return use his influence indirectly for the Administration. This offer operative in the various mills who belong to was made to Mr. Johnson. The answer was that league. They have at the same time not flattering to senatorial pride. The President sent back word that he did not want his support unless it could be conscientiously given. With this came in the name of a

One Senator-very radical-at the East, goes personally to the President and the Deartments, and as he opposes impeachment in all its phases, and is ever ready to defend Mr. McCulloch on the floor of the Senate, he gets all things arranged to suit his conservative visions. Another Western Senator supports all such conservative nominations as those of Rousseau and Meredith. Both of these gentlemen have Presidential aspirations. Senator Stewart opposes Meredith and all other candidates for Surveyor General of Montana, not because Meredith is a Johnson man, but because Senator Stewart has a brother who is an applicant. Senator Cole moves the reconsideration of Kilby Smith's confirmation, because he too has a brother in the to the following sentiments, which are as cred- field, Blaine, of Maine, has all things as he in the proper-quarters that he concurred with the President in his policy, and was only vo-ting to keep peace with his constituents, and that when he had them fast he should act as he saw fit. Judge Spalding's reward is not confined to his own district, but his advice is followed regarding other sections of Northern Ohio. And so day after day the sickening spectacle is presented to the eyes of all who care to see. Such facts need no word of comment. Every honest reader will make such as the case demands.

A most dreadful and inhuman act was committed by a boy in this township, near Wolf's station, on the Northern Central Railroad, on Monday the 15th inst. The name of the young monster is Frederick Hufstott. While is mother and elder brother were absent from nome, he attempted to take the life of his two little sisters and a child in the cradle; by shooting them with a revolver, which happened to be in the house at the time. Two barrels of the piatol were loaded with powder and balls, and another with powder only. In firing the first shot he inflicted a flesh wound of the scapula of one of the girls—the sec-ond shot took effect in the neck of the other the third load containing powder only, he discharged in the face of the infant. The injuries are fortunately not of a very serious character, and good hopes of the recovery of the children are entertained. The boy has always been a very bad and desperate character. He is about thirteen years of age Convention. This is remarkable when they army. Much excitement prevails in the sessing, as they claim, "education and abilinot been arrested at our latest advices.

Shortly after she again telegraphed her agents to purchase a large amount, but they replied in the same manner that the market was very much depressed and they would not advise her to buy. For answer she repeated her order, and by the late advance in prices has been enabled to have $40,000 placed to her

—The following picture of the Radical party is from the pencil of Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. The likeness is striking:

The men at Washington and Albany sold their country; they sold their humanity and their honor, and the trusts that were put upon them by their constituents. They were debauchers of the young; they were the traitors; they that lifted the sword were not half so much traitors; they that despoiled the old banner and trod it under foot; they that fired upon the government of the United States were not so much traitors as were those vermin who were crawling under the foundations and destroying by corruption the vital power of the government.

-President Johnson has accepted an invi-tation from the citizens of Raleigh to be present at that place about the middle of May, at the laying of the corner stone of a monument in memory of the President's father .-He will be accompanied by Mr. Seward and one or two others of the Cabinet. They will go via Richmond, and may extend their trip farther South.

REPARATOR CAPILLI.

For restoring hair upon bald heads (from whatever cause it may have fallen out) and forcing a growth of hair upon the face, it has no equal. It will force the beard to grow upon the smoothest face in from five to eight weeks, or hair upon bald heads in from two to three months. A few ignorant prictitioners have asserted that there is nothing that will force or hasten the growth of the hair or beard. Their assertions are false, as thousands of living witnesses (from their own experience) can bear witness. But many will say, how are we to distinguish the genuine from the spurious? It certainly is difficult, as nine-tenths of the different preparations accertised for the hair and beard are entirely worthless, and you may have already thrown away large amounts in their purchase. To such we would say, try, the Reparator Capilli; it will cost you nothing unless it fully comes up to our representations. If your Druggist does not keep it, send us one dollar and we will forward it, postpaid, together with a receipt for the money, which will be returned you on application, providing entire satisfaction is not given. She restores to happiness those who, from doleful events, catastrophes, crosses in love, loss of relations and friends, loss of money, &c., have become despondent. The Arkansaw Traveler.

A lost and bewildered Arkansas traveler approaching the cabin of a squatter, about forty years ago, discovered the proprietor seated on an old whisky barrel near the door, partly sheltered by the eves, playing a fiddle, when the following dialogue ensued—the squatter still continuing to play the same part over and over :-

Traveler-Halloo, stranger? Squatter-Hello yourself.

T-Can I get to stay all night with you?
S-You kin git to go to h-ll:

T—Have you any spirits here?
S—Lots of 'em. Sal saw one last night by that thar ole holler gum and it nearly skeered her to death.

T-You mistake my meaning-have you any liquor?
S—Had some yesterday, but Ole Boss hegot in and lapped all uv it out'n the pot.
T—You don't understand, I don't mean pot liquor. I'm wet and cold, and want some whisky. Have you got any? 8-Oh, yes-I drank the last this morn-

T-I'm hungry, havn't had a thing this morning, can't you give me something to eat?

S-Hain't a d-d thing in the house. Not a mouthful of meat, or a dust of meal here. T-Well, can't you give my horse some-

S-Got nothin' to feed him on. T-How far is it to the next house. S-Stranger, I den't know. I've never been thar. T-Well, do you know who lives here? S-I do.

T-As I am so bold then, what might your name be? S-It might be Dick and it might be Tom, brt it lacks a d-d sight of it.

T. Sir, will you tall me where this road goes to? S. It's never been anywhere since I've been here; it's always thar when I git up in the morning

T .- Well, how far is it to where it forks? S. It don't fork at all, but it splits up T. As I'm not likely to get to any other .

house to-night, can't you let me sleep in yours, and I'll tie my horse to a tree, and do without anything to eat or drink? S. My house leaks; thar's only one dry spot in it, and Sal sleeps on it. And that thar tree is the ole woman's persimmon; you can't tie to it 'case she don't want um shuk off. She 'lows to make beer out'n um. T. Why don't you finish covering your house and stop the leaks?

S. It's been raining all day. Well, why don't you do it in dry weather?

S. It don't leak then. T. As there seems to be nothing alive about your place but children, how do you do S. Putty well, I thank you, how do you

T. What do you do for a living her? Keep tavern and sell whisky. Well, I told you I wanted some whisky. S. Stranger, I bought a bar'l mor'n a week ago. You see me and Sal went shars: Arter we got it here we only had a drink be-tweenst us, and Sal, she didn't want to use hern fust, nor me mine. You see, I had a spiggin in one eeud, and she in tother. So she takes a drink out'n my cend, and pays me the bit for it; then I'd take un out'n hern, and give the bit. Well, we's gitting mong fustrate, till Dick, d-d skulking, skunk, he bourn a hole on the bottom to suck at, and the next time I went to buy a drink, they wurnt none thar.

T: I'm sorry your whisky's all gone; but, my friend, why don't you play the balance of that tune? It's got no balance to it. I mean you don't play the whole of it. Stranger, can you play the fidul?

Yes, a little, sometimes. S. You don't look like a fiddlur, but ef you can play any more onto that thar chune, you kin just git down and try. (The traveler gets down and plays the whole of it.) S. Stranger, take a half dozen cheers and sot down. Sal, stir yourself round like a six horse team in a mud hole. Go round in the holler where I killed that buck this mornin', cut off some of the best pieces, and totch it and cook it for me and this gentleman, directly. Raise up the board under the head of the bed, and git the ole black jug I hid from Dick, and give us some whisky; I know thar's some left yit. Til, drive ole Bose out'n the bread tray, then clime up in the loft, and git the rag that's got the shugar tied in it. Dick, carry the gentleman's hoss round under the shed, give him some fodder and corn, much as he kin eat. Til. Dad, they ain't knives enouff to sot the table.

S. Whar's big butch, little butch, old case, cob-handle, granny's knife and the one I handled vesterday? That's enuff to set any gentleman's table without you've lost um. D-n me, stranger, ef you can't stay as long as you please, and I'll give you plenty to eat and drink, Will you have coffee for supper? T. Yes, sir.

S. I be hanged of you do tho,' we don't have nothin' that way here, but Grub Hyson, and I reckon it's mighty good with sweetnin'. Play away, stranger, you can sleep on the dry spot to night. T. (After about two hours' fiddling.) My friend can't you tell me about the road I'm to travel to-merrow? S. To-morrow! Stranger you won't git out'n these diggins for six weeks. But when it gits so you kin start, you see that big sloo over thar? Well, you have to git cross that, then you take the road up the bank, and in about a mile you'll come to a two acre and a half corn patch, the corn's mitely in the weeds, but you needn't mind that, just ride on. About a mile and a half from there you will come to the d-dest swamp you ever saw struck in all your travels, its boggy enough to mire a saddle blanket. Thar's a firstrate road about six feet under thar. T. How am I to get at it? S. You can't get at it pary time, till the wether stiffens down sum. Well, about a mile beyant, you come to a place whar thur's two roads. You kin take the right hand ef you want to, you'll foller it a mile or so, and you'll run out; you'll then have to come back and try the left, when you git about two miles on that you may know you are wrong, fur they ain't any road thar. You'll then think you are mighty lucky of you kin find the way back to my house, whar you kin come and play on that chune as long as you please.

- A teacher said to a little girl at school, "if a naughty girl should hurt you, like a good little girl, you would forgive her, would

We have lately purchased very largely of these Bankrupt Goods, at such extremely low prices that we can afford to send awny Finer Goods, and give better chances to draw the most valuable prizes than any other establishment doing a similar business. GUR AIM IS TO PLEASE, and we respectfully solicit your patronage, as we are confident of giving the utmost satisfaction.
