A Bitter Radical comes to Grief.

The latest sensation item in military circles this department is the order of General Schofield, issued on Thursday, for the arrest of Charles W. Buttz, of Norfolk, upon the cause a shudder of horror whenever their | charge of defrauding and swindling soldiers memory is recalled. But of all these brutal of the United States army out of their earnacts, the burning of the private mansions of | ings. The order was sent to Norfolk with Edward Jennings Lee, Esq., and Col. Sooner or later all such men will show the cloven foot.

Pomeroy vs. Johnson.

In a recent number of the La Crosse Democrat, Brick Pomeroy discourseth thusly: Jackson won by boldness.

Johnson has lost through weakness and fear. We despise Sheridan, yet he is more of a man than Andrew Johnson, for he is bold-he is a man and not a mass of jelly, even if he is a drunken despot. Johnson will stand kicking. He has been cuffed and kicked by cowards-he has been cowed by thieves- has been driven by a few bold Congressmen-he has been wheedled by flattery -put off by promises-has run from the spoon-thieves and cotton-stealers of Lincoln's. administration, and as a President of forty million people for his lack of boldness, deserves to be kicked and insulted by Butler, Banks, Sheridan, and all other thieves, sots, and robbers, who may come along.

Oh for a MAN in the place of Johnson! a MAN who would defend liberty, arrest villians, preserve his dignity, and not stand like a dead post about which every thief can whip the mud from his breeches.

TENURE OF OFFICE LAW.-In respect to this misearble law which is a sort of defence for robbers of the public treasury, who had been foisted on this government before the accession of Mr. Johnson to the Presidency, we copy the following from the New York Tribune, the organ of the Radical party of the United States: The tenure of office law has had an unand soldier, your men to fight in the ranks of expected result, which we hardly know whethwar, but to sevarate yourself from all danger, er to call deplorable or comical. FURTHER DEVELOPMENTS.

The development of the conspiracy against he President of the United States, says the National Intelligencer, is growing hourly .-A large portion of the evidence of the criminality of the conspirators we do not at present deem necessary or expedient to publish .-There has evidently been somehow a providential break in the great conspiracy, and each one of the subordinates is trying to save himself by an early confession. The testimony already accumulated is fearful. The parties implicated may seek in vain to hide their heads behind the epithets of partisan newspapers, but this will avail them nothing. Their guiltiness is acknowledged by their confederates, and they must abide the issue, and consent to be held up to public scorn and execration, as well as punishment for their attempted crimes.

The chief of the Bureau of Military Justice, the trusted and valued friend, counsellor, and coadjutor of the treacherous Secretary of War, who has been plotting the ruin of the country in this matter, appears to be deeply and irrevocably implicated in this conspiracy with his old associate and manager of testimony-Conover alias Dunham.

The original of the following letter, in the handwriting of the Reverend Mr. Matchett. will be produced whenever necessary. We have seen it, and had it identified by more than one witness as the handwriting of the reverend associate and aider and abettor of perjury and conspiracy. It will be seen that this letter, confidentially addressed to the chief of the Bureau of Military Justice, shows a guilty complicity with Conover, the great manager of perjured testimony, particularly n reference to this case. It is evident that there were some apprehensions in reference to etters and documents that might be used .-It was desirable, on the part of the conspirators, to get them back into their possession therefore the terms were made with Conover's wife- Mrs. Dunham-that "the letters and documents were to be retained by us"-that is, by Matchett, Holt & Co. Matchett is understood to be the clerk of the Assassination Committee. He is the man who was sent to bring on the professional witnesses, who were to be examined by Ashley and Butler, to see if they and their testimony would suit the surpose. From this letter it is evident that ne was acting under the instructions and as an agent of the chief of the Bureau of Military Justice. The letter bears internal evidences of its authenticity, but if that should be doubted, it can easily be proved. Neither Holt nor the reverend Matchett, the operator and manager of the gang of perjured witnesses, can deny its authenticity. The letter is as

"WASHINGTON, August 3, 1867. "Dear Sir,-I received the 'copy' safe, for which I am obliged. The case stands as yet untouched waiting, I judge, for the termination of the trial now going on. Mrs. D. still is waiting the result, and hopeful. The terms are as I stated; the letters and documents to be retained by us, and letters gotten for us in either case. She visited me yesterday, and seemed quite cheerful with prospects of the case, as your letter and Mr. Riddle's has given her great confidence that you are not the persecutor you have been represented, and that if she sould fail there (in getting the pardon,) she shall not fail finally in getting him out, at least under a change of office.

"I am trying, as ordered by Judge C., to get the letters. I think we shall at length ucceed. I think Mrs. D. begins to show symptoms of 'returning reason,' and that her husband was guilty of a great crime, and ought justly to suffer a little! Your endorsement seems to have settled her mind very much, and she feels that you have done all you could and all you ought to do. She is satisfied perfectly. I think they both feel that there is both dignity and power in the law yet, and that it is dangerous work to treat it with contempt. I believe it will be all for the best that he has gone up for awhile. She knows not how long. I do, if she will bring me the letters.

"I will inform you of any movements the moment necessary. I am, very truly, "W. B. MATCHETT."

MY MOTHER.

Long years have passed of toil and strife,
And darker grows the path of life,
As up the rugged steep I climb,
And pause to hear the ling'ring chime,
Of mem'ries from the olden time,
My mother, my aweet mother,

Thou told'st me how my Saviour died,

On bloody Calvary crucified,
How Mary wept his cross beside,
As agonizingly he cried,
And darkly flowed the crimson tide,
My mother, oh, my mother!

Thy lessons were not taught in vain,
Their sacred seed I still retain.
That in my heart will germinate,
And though the harvest be but late,
'Twill bless thee in my last estate,
My mother, my dear mother.

Once more, once more, I crave to rest,
A child upon thy leithful breast,
And at thy feet in prayer to bow,
And teel thy hand upon my brow,
With many deep lines farrowed now,
My mother, oh, my mother.

Long years have passed, alas! what years, Of blighted hopes and blinding tears, And on his lonely wandering way, Thine absent son doth nightly pray, God's blessings on thee far away, My mother, my sweet mother.

I had anxiety to see polygamy in the house-hold, but have failed: Not only are strangers practically denied acquaintance with plural wives, but the subject is never a welcome one in conversation. I have talked to many Mormons who are polygamists, and in every instance when I asked respecting their wives, they responded as if I had introduced to them some painful and delicate scandal about their families. I found one who claimed, and I learned justly, to have two wives in one house, and all happy, but only one. In most instances each wife must have a separate house to hide herself from mutual humiliation and shame. To all who introduced the subject to me, I asked the question, "Did your first wife cheerfully consent to your marriage to another?" and in not a single instance could an affirmative answer be given. Mormon or Gentile, with one accord, they revolt against it. They must cease to be women and descend into the scale of brutes, or even lower still, before the wives of Salt Lake can voluntarily consent to such appalling degradation. One-third of the entire male population of Utah is now practicing polygamy, and in Salt Lake City the proportion is larger. It hangs like a terrible pall upon the mothers, wives and daughters of the Saints. Not only those who have been enfolded in its slimy embrace mourn from day to day their hard lot, but those who have thus far escaped its pollution, know not how soon the spoiler may enter firesides, and harrowing anxiety dim the luster has been said and written about it, but a full of their eyes and trace its shadows upon their picture of the iniquity has never yet been faces .- Cor. Royal Courtship.

Queen Victoria's book, giving the life and character of the late Prince Albert, attracts the greatest attention in England, and will' be read with interest everywhere. Her affection for his memory, has induced her not ministrator and leader of surpassing attainonly to abandon much of the mystery which usually environs a throne, but even to sacrimy grasp, than those I have already enjoyed room. He was nearly or perhaps quite alone fice something of the privacy which is offen at the hands of my countrymen, I feel that I | when I entered, but almost instantly several | cherished in private life; and we have full details of the courtship, &c. This volume is sons, secretaries, etc., were seated around the but the first of a series in which the whole little office. I learn that he never sees any life of the Prince will be described; but is carries us as far as the first year of the Queen' marriage and the birth of the Princess Royal. It appears that, as usual with young ladies. the Queen coquetted a little with the Prince talked about delaying the marriage, and all immediate friends. He greets the visitor that. In this connexion we find the followwith serene dignity but faultless courtesy, ing naive confession :

"Nor can the Queen now think without indignation against herself, of her wish to keep the Prince waiting for probably three or four years, at the risk of ruining all his prospects ber of his wives and children, and their for life, until she might feel inclined to marry. And the Prince has since told her that he came over in 1839 with the intention of telling her that if she could not then make up her mind, she must understand that he light auburn hair, and a heavy crop of sandy could not now wait for a decision, as he had done at a former period, when this marriage was first talked about. The only excuse the Queen can make for herself is in the fact that prominent, his lips thick and firmly set, and the sudden change from the secluded life at the whole give him the appearance of a man Kensington to the independence of her position as Queen Regnant, at the age of eighteen, put all ideas of marriage out of her mind, which she now most bitterly repents. A worse school for a young girl, or one more detrimental to all natural feelings and affections cannot well be imagined, than the position of a queen at eighteen, without expetop; tapering gradually to the crown, giving rience, and without a husband to guide and support her. This the Queen can state from painful experience; and she thanks God that none of her dear daughters are exposed to

What Prince Albert himself felt on the subject we can learn from his own letters .-He thus wrote to his grandmother:

"The subject which has occupied us so much of late is at last settled. The Queen sent for me alone to her room a few days ago, and declared to me in the genuine outburst a mimic, and often resorts to mimicing as his of love and affection, that I had gained her whole heart, and would make her intensely happy if I would make her the sacrifice of sharing her life with her; for she said she looked on it as a sacrifice; the only thing which troubled her was that she did not think she was worthy of me. The joyous openness of manner in which she told me this quite enchanted me, and I was quite carried away by it. She is really most good and amiable, and I am quite sure Heaven has not given me into evil hands; and that we shall be hap-

> Since that moment Victoria does whatever she fancies I should wish or like, and we talk together a great deal about our future life, which she promises me to make as happy as possible. Oh, the future! does it not bring with it the moment when I shall have to take leave of my dear, dear home, and of you? I cannot think of that without deep melancholy taking possession of me. It was on the 15th of October that Victoria made me this declaration, and I have hitherto shrunk from telling you; but how does delay make it better?"

To his college friend, Prince Lowenstein, he wrote thus: "Yes, I am actually a bridegroom, and about the 4th of February hope to see myself united to her I love. "You know how matters stood when I last saw you here. After that the sky was darkened more and more. The Queen declared to my uncle of Belgium that she wished the affair to be considered broken off, and that for four years she could think of no marriage I went, therefore, with the quiet, but firm resolution to declare, on my part, that I, also tired of the delay, withdrew entirely from the affair. It was not, however, thus ordained by Providence; for on the second day after our arrival the most friendly demonstra were directed towards me, and two days later I was secretly called to private audience, in which the Queen offered me her hand and heart."

INVESTMENTS IN THE SOUTH .-- An in-

THE CABINET CHANGE.

President Johnson has at last nerved himself up to the discharge of a duty which he owed to the country and his own self-respect. In rebuking the insolence of Stanton, and suspending him from the discharge of his official duties, he has only performed an act which had been rendered absolutely necessary for the vindication of his-own honor and the unity and concurrence of his advisory council. The retired Secretary of War was an incubus upon the administration, and was ready at all times to thwart any patriotic efforts at conciliation that might be made.-With the brutality of a Hayneau, the bloodthirstiness of a Robespierre, and more than the ability of a Talleyrand, he had made himself the Bismarck of this government, and was wielding his power and the influence of. his massive brain to crush out and annihilate the political existence of more than a third of the population of the country. That his presence in the cabinet was tolerated so long,. speaks well for the amiability of the President and the forbearance and christian fortitude of Mr. Seward; whilst his removal at this late day excites the apprehension that the President has been influenced more by personal than by patriotic considerations. The contumacy of Stanton had become intolerable, and his usurpations insufferable. The President's personal pride was touched, and with a heroism that should have had its manifestation two years ago, he has ventured to exercise a Presidential prerogative. Perhaps, better late than never.

The natural inquiry is, has the situation been improved by the removal of Stanton, and the assignment of Grant as his successor? The mutual compliments of the incoming and retiring Secretaries do not seem to warrant the indulgence of any very exalted expectations. - If Grant approves the zeal, patriotism, firmness, and ability with which Stanton has discharged the duties of Secretary of War, it is not illogical to conclude that he will make his predecessor a model for imitation, and that he will square his official disrobed of sincerity, demanded this complimentary recognition of distinguished services, and that the Commanding General in this outgushing testimony of approbation, only meant, in the humanity of his nature, to soothe the exit from position of the decapitated Secretary. Which of these two conclusions may prove correct, will be left for time to disclose, and until developments justify the hope that all is for the best, the Southern people would do well not to become jubilant

In nothing that we have seen upon the subject, is the contrast between the President and his late Secretary more forcibly and truthfully drawn, than in the following from the West and South, of Cincinnati, which was written in anticipation of the change al-

"The superiority of a reality to a sham was never more apparent than in the contest now waging between the President and the Secretary of War. Stanton is a power in peace or war. He is the one who upheld the war. He did more with his single brain than Lincoln with all his Generals to destroy the South .-He took in the true idea from the start, that it was to be a revolution of both society and government. He acted on that idea with persistence, system and audacity, day and night, and he made himself and his office the source from which Northern power proceeded with overwhelming force. Johnson is not any body; he never was of the least use to the party that elected him, and he has been a most serious disability to the Democracy, which foolishly thought of adopting him .-He is a man of words, and not of deeds. He bas neither order nor energy, nor a moment's release from his egotism and vanity. He alto gether lacks courage, and the knowledge of men, and especially of principles. He is a simulacrum; the West and South has given the best definition we have seen of Andy Johnson-a small man in a large place.

"Stanton is entirely too many guns for him, although the telegraph says the President has put his foot down. Old Hickory would have raised his in the same circumstances but the two men are from Tennessee, and that is their only resemblance. Johnson signed the tenure of office bill, which makes it the law that the Secretary of War and all the Cabinet are only responsible to Congress, and may carry on the Government in spite of the President, till the Senate removes him by impeachment, as they will do. Father back Johnson abdicated when he failed to call on the Southern States to send their representatives, and with them and the Democrats make a Constitutional Congress. But that, his own meddling with those States had forbidden, and we find him caught in a net of "Stanton is the incarnation of the Radicals he is not so much Secretary of War as he is the real representative of the dominant party. A man in position, and not only in position but a man of such intrinsic force that he could have done the same thing for the South he has done for the North. A most formidable man is Stanton: such a man or devil as the South could not match, and therefore perished. Johnson had better not fling his own head at Stanton's or he will lose it.'

In 1854, when Brownlow was a proslavery fanatic, he spoke thus:

"Fellow-Citizens :- I heard all the particand I came along this morning by the smoking remains of one of those breathing holes of hell, and I think you served the owner right too. Whenever you get to burning ne-groes or dram shops, count me one; I'll help gro, than to heaven with a white rebel."

OUR BIG SHOW.

As our readers were informed in our last ssue, we spent the latter part of the week previous in visiting the county-seats of Berkeley and Jefferson. We propose in this issue to entertain all whom it may interest, in recounting some of the incidents which came up in our extended tour, and to relate graph ically, if net handsomely, at least a few of the scenes that passed panoramically under our observation. Leaving our own historic townwith one of Spotts' best teams, we took the old familiar track, which thousands have traveled before us, and by 10 o'clock we reached, what might be the seat of justice of Jefferson county, but which is rather the seat of oppression, corruption and misrule. In our route we halted at Duffield's-a station for which we have always entertained decided partiality, because of the unsurpassed liberality of its people in their support of our paper. Their appreciation of our efforts to publish a fearless and independent journal, has endeared the neighborhood to us, and we reckon it as chief among our favorite localities. But, as already stated, we arrived at Shep-herdstown at a comparatively early hour, and were there to witness the grand entry of Jack Robinson's great circus and menagerie, with all their paraphernalia of spotted horses, painted cages, and tooting horns. This grand show has evidently involved a heavy outlay of 'stamps," and we question whether the proprietor realizes a remunerative interest on his nvestment. Be that as it may, Shepherdstown was feverish on the subject, and hundreds were gathered on the side-walks, and in the doors and windows of the houses, to gaze upon the imposing pageant as it passed up the main thoroughfare of the town, preceded by an elegant brass band. But it is not of Jack faltering loyalty. And our old, standing can-Robinson's show that we mean to write, for however choice may have been his collection from the wide domain of the animal kingdom, he had nothing that could rival our grand Gyasticutis-either as a natural curiosity, or in the performance of intelligent rascality .-Robinson had mules and monkeys, trained dogs and speckled cocatoes, and a vast many other wonderful and curious specimens, but the gyasticutis was more than equal to the whole combination. The research of naturalists from the present time to the dawn of millenium, will fail to discover another animal with so many of the requisites of success, with so little capital of brain or courage. In acts by the standard of this model. On the his animalistic formation he seems to be a cross other hand, it may be possible that courtesy, between the fox and the monkey-possessing as if by inheritance the knavery and cunning of the one, and the easy familiarity of the other, but so developed as to surpass both his supposed progenitors. This unique specimen, rich in all the essentials of a first class animal was not caged, but passed harmlessly back and forth with the multitude, apparently amused at the extravagance and absurdity of adventurers in traversing the sands of Asia and searching the wilds of Africa for the savage denizens of the forest, to haul round the civilized world in gorgeous cages for the entertainment of humanity in its advanced stages, while at home could be found animals of a rarer breed, taking the starch out of the sails of the grand trick horses and trained guinea pigs, and surpassing in sliminess the Plesiosaurus, or great sea serpent. Next to the gyasticutis in the zoological department of the "local show" of trained animals of radicalism, was his man Friday, or Massachusetts Labyrinthodon, who by a singular freak of outraged fortune, carries the keys of the county-prison. This animal finds his counterpart in a roach-backed cow exhibited by Mr. Robinson, and which that experienced zoologist has given the very familiar name of the "Valpus." The following minute description of this latter animal we find in Southall's Zoological Dictionary, to which we are also indebted for some of the names which we this week apply to our collection. Southall says of this animal that it has the claws of a dragon in the place of hoofs; has a short, stout horn in the middle of the forehead, and a second superb horn, springing from between the ears, of the shape of a circumflex accent, and sweeping back in the most dramatic style, as if nature had wound up the animal with some grand flourish of its creative pen.

The third specimen in the local collection was the zoum McKevitteum, a rare animal, and which, according to Southall has the head of a buzzard, the body of a rat, and the wings of a leather-wing bat, and is about the size of a well-grown gallinipper, with a proboscis well adapted to blood-letting. This animal has a dyspeptic physiognomy with a serofuletie expression:

Next in order comes the grand Swan-Pond bison, or Byersbulleum, an animal that is represented to be exceedingly vicious in its propensities, and decidedly canine-ical in its affections, setting greater store to the ear of a pup than to the eye of a bull. It is said that this animal is capable of forcing the strongest church-lock by a single switch of his caudel

The last specimen to which we can refer without overleaping our limits, is the Prosecuterex, or Caroli Stubbsidum, and here Southall fails us, and we are obliged to fall back upon our own imagination for a description. We know not unto what animal we can liken him, unless it be the bronte zoum be one of the most imposing structures in the giganteum, which Southall says feeds mostly on oysters, but is very fond of pound cake and frozen milk, and that it can walk, swim or rise in the air. The rising part, we presume, is not to be taken literally, but refers to the "soaring of the fancy."

During the night of Friday, we remained at Shepherdstown, but next morning took up the line of march for Martinsburg, whither Robinson had preceded us. What we saw here, will be noticed elsewhere.

JAMES WASON, Esq., one of the Editers of the Hagerstown Mail, died very suddenly in Hagerstown, on Wednesday morning, disease of the heart, aged 47 years. -He was for many years Register of Wills for Washington County.

LOCAL POLITICS.

The grand Sanhedrim of radicalism met n Shepherdstown on Saturday, the 10th .-The object of the meeting was the nomination of candidates to fill the offices of Senator. members of the House of Delegates, and County Superintendent of Public Schools made vacant by the expiration of the terms of some of the present incumbents. The partiality of the party for rascality had in advance fixed upon the renomination of Chapline for Senator, and it only remained for the what had already been determined upon .-With all his faults, he has been swallowed by his party, and the dose has no more effect upon their gutta-percha stomachs than would the administering of a dose of Seidletz powders. They are indifferent to his false-checkhis numerous delinquencies. Well may we conclude "like leaders, like people." In the nominations for the House of Del if not to possession of brain, has been paid .-David Billmyer has been put on the track for a second heat. What he did in the last Legislature to entitle him to a return is more than we have been advised of. As a colleague to Mr. B. the convention has recognized the acres. meritorious claims of Mr. Edmund Chambers, and given him a place on the ticket. We have never heard aught alleged against the private character of Mr. C. Like our friend John Spangler, he is only distinguished for the muleality of his disposition. Now we cannot but express our chagrin at the want of respect shown the ticket put forward by us nearly a month ago. George Anderson deserved consideration for his undidate, of ante-bellum days, why was he overlooked and his claims thrust aside? When we remember the fate of Capt. Smith, we are reminded of our grasshopper song, the first verse of which we append :-

A grasshopper sat on a sweet potato vine, On a sweet potato vine On a sweet potato vine, Whenan old turkey gobbler he walk-ed up behind He walk-ed up behind He walk-ed up behind,

Off the sweet potato vine
Off the sweet potato vine,
And he yanked him off the sweet potato vine. There are said to be 357 verses in this song, and all alike except the first and last, and they are like the rest. The song originated in this way: A grasshopper was reposing on a sweet potato vine, one beautiful morning in August, meditating upon the unconsciousness of the melancholy fate await- white tyranny for a black tyranny. This ing him, when he was suddenly "yanked off" by an enormous turkey gobler, and his days

Smith to be the grasshopper, quietly sunning himself on the sweet potato vine of radicalism, ready to jump at anything that is offered, whilst just in his rear, Mr, Chambers is approaching in the form of an immense turkey gobbler, about to "yank him off," they will have a picture similar to the one presented in our grasshopper song. What the Captain designs doing in the matter, we have not heard, but we advise him to fall back upon his old independent dodge.

For the position of Superintendent of Public Schools, the convention has presented. the name of Capt. Jas. W. Grubb. Who he is, or where he came from, the devil and the radicals only know, for he is certainly a new. arrival. We have heard of Grubb-worm, but never before of Capt. Grubb. Stubbs and Grubbs-je-whillikens-arn't these radical becoming poetical. Oh for a laureate to wreathe in appropriate verse the melodious names of Grubbs and Stubbs that they may go down to the ages as immortal as the heroes of the Iliad.

MARTINSBURG.

No town in the whole Valley, if in the State, has undergone greater improvement and more rapid development, within the past few years than Martinsburg. Notwithstanding the exorbitant taxes to which they are subjected, her citizens seem equal to the emergency, and with an an enterprise that is truly commendable, are enlarging the boundaries of the ancient town, and are erecting handsome and substantial buildings within her former limits. Her streets are in good condition, her sidewalks smoothe and regular, and her general appearance neat and comely. We are glad to note this progress, regarding it as we do, as an indication that her people are looking for the early dawn of better days-politically and socially.

On our recent visit to the town, by invitation we hurriedly examined the elegant and pacious new hotel, recently crected by Mr. JOHN FELLER, at an expense of nearly $15,-000. The proprietor seems to have had an eye solely to the comfort of his guests in the construction of this house, which is furnished in a style equal to the finest city establishments. We hope he will receive, as we are sure he merits, a liberal support from the

On Burke street, near the corner of Queen, Mr. Louis Sheu is erecting an elegant glass front building, which is to be run up to the heighth of four stories, and is to be divided into three stores, a dwelling, and immense hall 30x70 feet. When completed, this will own. Mr. L. is represented to be one of the most enterprising citizens of Martinsburg. We understand that it is his intention to tear away the old and unsightly frame building on the corner of Queen and Burke streets. opposite the Everett House, and erect in its tead a handsome and substantial brick edifice. This improvement is contemplated during the next season. Further down Burke street, in the direction of the railroad, we noticed another fine three story brick building in course of erec-

Everywhere the evidences of thrift and presperity are manifest, and in the course of a few years the whole face of affairs will be changed, provided radicalism does not suppress the present spirit of enterprise.

CONFISCATION.

In some form or other, the radical party seems determined to fasten a confiscation law upon the Southern States. As the latest move of this kind, the New York Fimes says that a bill is being: prepared by promipent loyal men of the South to enforce the present confiscation laws, and so modify them as to resurvey all of the seceded States in the same manner as the public lands are surveyed and to grant pre-emption rights to the freedmen and Union soldiers. Three hundred millions of dollars of the proceeds arising from convention to make a public declaration of the sales are to be used in reimbursing loyal men for property destroyed and confiscated by the Confederate Government, the balance will be set aside for paying pensions to disabled Union soldiers. The bill provides that after the survey is made the land shall be offered for sale to the freedmen and discharged ing, his whiskey-smuggling, and all other of Union soldiers at the rate of $1.25 per acre, payable in twenty years, at an interest of six per cent. per annum. Other parties to be allowed to purchase at twenty five per cent. egates, some respect to honesty of character, | cash, and equal installments for three years, at six per cent. interest. The last section provides that disloyal persons shall be allowed to retain property to the amount of $5,000. provided the limits of such property do not exceed one of the legal sub-divisions of 160

A Change of Position.

The New York-Herald, which for the past year has supported with zeal the radicalism of the rump Congress, now sees danger in the grand programme laid down for the re-habili ation of the South, and expresses alarm at the probability of negro ascendancy in the ten un-reconstructed States. The recent removal of Secretary Stanton and the startling Conover developments, may have some connection with its speculations, and are at least calculated to invest them with additional importance. Bennett is the best political weather-gage in the country, and the fact that he is gradually changing front, indicates a reaction in the public sentiment of the country. From a recent number of the Herald we take the following article :-

"The country is justly alarmed at what has already become evident in the realization of the Radical party programme. It is clear that this programme means no less than nigger supremacy in ten States, and the consequent division of the country on a worse basis than that which led to the rebellion. We fought to free the nation from party domination, guided by slave-holders, and we fall under a domination based on the votes of the slaves make them our masters. We exchange a was not what the people meant when they gave lives without limit and money without stint to prosecute the war. Even those who desired to free the slaves would not have Now, if our readers will just imagine Capt. | made them masters of the polical destinies of any part of the nation; yet something very near to this must be the result of the policy of those Radical leaders of whom Mr. Stanton is the type.

* * "We degrade and adulterate the national life by introducing into it half a million servile, semi-brutal voters-all, that the supremacy of an arrogant and dangerous faction may be secured and made permanent. And this, indeed-this making of nigger voters and driving the white men of the South from the polls-is the whole result of the war as Radical leaders see it.

"But the people are awakening to the true erception of this great matter, and it needs no extreme prevision to know that the nation will eventually trample under its feet every vestige of the party that holds such ideas and has led it into this false position. The plain question for Mr. Johnson is whether he has the courage to take the current of this national tendency and make a bold fight with Congress and the Radicals, now that they are in the wrong-to fight when he may have the people on his side, with the same spirit with which he assailed Congress when its acts were in harmony with the national will. If he has, the case is plain before him. He must make a clean sweep of all the present personnel of

The Herald goes on to urge a removal of all the generals in commane at the South,-What all this means, we cannot say! Is there to be another war between the President and Arrests.

During last week, two prominent citizens of Virginia were arrested upon the authority of indictments issued from Judge Underwood's court, now in session in the city of Richmond. The first of these was Judge Henry W. Thomas, of the Alexandria District, on the charge of violation of the civil rights bill, in refusing to admit negro evidence in a case pending before him in his official capacity.

The other party arrested, was the Hon. John S. Pendleton, of which the Dispatch gives the following account:-

"Deputy Marshal Duncan on Monday las arrested Hon, John S. Pendleton, in Culpeper, on an indictment found by the United States grand jury for perjury in registering. The Marshal tound him quietly fishing on the river bank, and perfectly uninformed as to the indictment. He expressed himself when arrested very bitterly against the men whom he alleged were at the bottom of his indictment. He expressed himself especially against Botts.
The Marshal, in this case, as in that of Judge
Thomas, confiding in Mr. Pendleton's word of honor, allowed him to come down not under arrest, and he reached the city yesterday

TERRIBLE OUTRAGE .- We learn that on the 28th of July, Thomas Johnson, son of Oakey Johnson, while at work in his field in Grayson county, Va., was taken up by a party of negroes, tied and carried a short distance to where another party of twelve negroes and white men were laying in wait. Here Johnson discovered that the villains had another white man tied, with nothing on him but drawers and shirt, supposed that they had dragged him from his bed; and he believed that they intended to hang both of them.

Johnson made his escape while two of these villains who were guarding him were a sleep, they having been up all the night before.— What became of the other man he knows not but firmly believes he was hung by these villains. This gang of murderers are from Tonnessee; Johnson had lived in the same State.—Wytheville Dis.

GOOD YIELD .- The Staunton Vindicato says: "We are informed that Mr. Wm. Moorman of this county had one field of 11 acres in wheat this year, which yielded an average of 40 hushels to the acre." LOCAL MISCELLANY.

AN INTERESTING MEETING .- One of the most interesting, of the numerous wood's meetings held in this county during the present season, was commenced at Wiltshire's School-House on Saturday last, under the control and direction of Rev. J. W. Tongue paster in charge of Jefferson Circuit, of the M. E. Church, South. We were not presen at the commencement of the meeting, but had the pleasure of attendance on the services conducted during the day on Sabbath: The crowd on that day was very large, and to the credit of the neighborhood be it said, was the most respectful and attentive assemblage for its numbers, that we have ever witnessed On Sunday morning the pulpit was filled by Rev. Mr. Coe, of Shepherdstown, who entertained the crowd with an able sermon on the power of Faith, basing his remarks upon the important question propounded by Nicodemus to the Savior. "How can these things be?" In the elucidation of his subject, the argument of the speaker was clear and convincing, and his illustrations forcible and pointed. In the afternoon, Rev. Mr. SHEP-HERD, of the Baptist Church, preached on the subject of "Heavenly Recognition, or the identification of the departed in glory." It has rarely been our pleasure to listen to a sermon more thoroughly possessed of deep and touching pathos, with an admirable blending of the real and the imaginative, than the one under reference, whilst the animation with which it was delivered greatly heightened its effect, and added to its appreciation. But one drawback we heard suggested to this excellent sermon. This was the narration of personal incidents at the close of the discourse. With a few, these incidents have some effect, and serve to start the unbidden tear, but with the great mass of the people they fail to make the impression desired and intended. night, services were held in the School House. when Rev. Mr. Tongue preached from the text, "If the righteous scarcely be saved, how shall the sinner and the ungodly appear?"-In this discourse the position of the unbeliever was driven home upon his mind in language and with an energy that was well calculated to startle. The services of this meeting were continued during yesterday.

THE LADIES' FAIR for the benefit of the Presbyterian Church in this town, which came off during the last week, was, considering the inclement weather, the most decided success of any similar undertaking in our community. From the first night of its commencement to the hour of its termination, the much needed and refreshing rain fell in copious showers, with scarce an intermission, thereby preventing many country people and others from a distance from attending, much to their regret and the aggregate loss of contributions to the general fund. Notwithstanding these facts, however, we are pleased to learn that the nett proceeds of the Fair amount to about $560, with some very rare and costly articles unsold, and which are to be sent elsewhere for disposition. Everything passed off most agreeably, and its whole conduct and arrangement reflected the highest credit upon the good taste and indefatigable perseverance of its managers.

IN THE DEMISE OF Mr. GRAFTON HOW-ARD, of this town, which occurred on Sunday morning last, in the 67th year of his age, the community has lost one of its most worthy, honest and estimable citizens, and hisbereaved family an affectionate father and devoted husband. Originally from Frederick county, Md., he took up his residence in our midst some thirty years since, and in all the business relations of that period, and the intercourse and amenities of life we have never learned that he made an enemy. AN ENTERPRISING FIRM .- Among our numerous advertisers, we know of no house more worthy consideration, than that of Messrs. HILLEARY, WILSON & JOHNSON, at Summit Point in this county. Having become the purchasers of this valuable Depot property, all necessary arrangements have been made for the purchase, or forwarding on commission, all grain or produce of any kind, with which that rich neighborhood and its tributaries abound. The members of this firm are gentlemen of ample means, liberal, energetic and business like, in the true sense of the term, and the large amount of produce going forward from this point, is but a just tribute to the fair-dealing, energy and enterprise of its members, and the harbinger of rich rewards in the future.

COAL .- We are pleased to notice, as a matter of timely precaution, that many of our citizens are already procuring their winter supply of coal, both Anthracite and Cumberland. The latter is selling here at $6.50 per ton-run of the mine. Were it not that the Baltimore & Ohio railroad charges as much freight on coal from Cumberland to Harper's Ferry, as it does to Baltimore, the price would be considerably reduced. Is there no corrective for such manifest injustice?

Pic-Nics .- The season is propitious for these festive meetings, and we are pleased to see our people ready to embrace it. A "Grand Pic-Nic and Barbecue" is to be held at Shannondale Springs, on Thursday, August 22, and from the inducements offered by its proprietors, and the character of its managers, it will doubtless be all and more than is promised. Division No. 2, Sons of Temperance, of Harper's Ferry, will hold a Pic-Nie at the Flowing Spring, on Thursday, 5th proxime, which will no doubt be largely attended. An extra train of cars will leave Harper's Ferry at 10 A. M., for the accommodation of its citizens. All friendly to the order, and desirous of participating in the pleasures of the day, are requested to be present, with the "Basket" as an adjunct, necessary to the occasion.

CAMP MEETING .- A camp-meeting under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal Church, is to be held near Bunker Hil Berkeley County, commencing on the 29th

Business AT Home .- With the Alexandria Gazette, we have uniformly maintained that "to support and encourage one's own people first, in their labor, skill, and indusry, is the way to make a united, prosperous and flourishing community. To pass by and glect the claims of our own merchants, mehanics, manufacturers and professional men, is to depress their energies, blight their prosects, and do real injury to our neighbors and riends. Business of all kinds is most flourishing and constant in any city or town where those who conduct it are encouraged by those in whose midst they live."

-The Circus has come and gone and left our country minus about $1,000 or $1,200. It might have been a "big thing" elsewhere, but it was a poor thing here. The crowd in town on that day was very great, but there was no disturbance of any kind.

Accidents.

-The St, Louis Republican says that a most shocking accident occurred on Tuesday about dusk, resulting in the death of Mr. John Shaffer, and industrious farmer, residing about twelve miles out from St Louis, Mr. Sharffer had just purchased a new threshing machine, and was superintending the thrashing of several stacks of wheat. The machine was observed by Mr. Sharffer to be on fire from fraction among the wood works, near the cogs, and he was making an effort to extinguish the fire, when his leg, by some means, was drawn into the machinery and torn completely off near the thigh. One of the men rushed up and pulled him out, or his whole body would have been crushed and torn into atoms, as the machine, driven by eight horses, was operating with tremendous power. The unforunate man lived about an hour after the acci-

Barnum's Museum, when the proprietor of the gallery, Edward Jones was alm ly killed. It appears that a party of young men had just concluded a shooting match, and after their departure Mr. Jones walked back to the target, and was busily engaged in obliterating the bullet marks with a paint brush. As he was thus employed, a young man appeared at the counter and expressed desire to fire a rifle at the target. The boy in charge of the weapons handed the visitor a rifle, who, evidently without noticing Mr. Jones, placed the gun at his shoulder and pulled the trigger, sending the bullet through the unfortunate man's right breast. Mr. Jones only lived a few minutes after receiving the shot. The occurrence created conted in the building, when the cause of the disaster quietly slipped away before he could be identified by the boy, who had fainted on eeing the effect of the shot.

The National Intelligencer says :-Sneers of the Radical press in reference to the delay in the removal of General Sheridan are quite out of place. It seems that, so far from the delay being the result of any change of determination as to him, it is referable solely to the caution proper to be observed in designating his successor. In this connection we may say that telegraphic dispatches from we may say that telegraphic dispatches from this city announcing the probable appointment of General Rosseau is incorrect. They doubtless grew out of the fact that his presence has been requested at Washington.—

OBITUARY. At the residence of her father, Geo. W. Grayson, 27 years.

Gifted with rare intellectual endowments, combined with an amiable, self-sacrificing spiris, the deceased was an ornament to society; and filled with characteristic gentleness, and christian faithfulness, the triple relation of daughter, sister, friend. But the triple relation of daughter, sister, friend. But Death, inexorable lawgiver, the "husbandman that reapeth always, out of season, as in season," bath loosed "the silver cord," and stricken low the loved of many hearts; but her spirit untrammelled, haspassed up to the peaceful haven where "billows never beat nor tempests roar." She obeyed the divine injunction, "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth," and when her footsteps were entering the dark Cimmerian vale, could say with confidence, "I am this moment ready to meet the Messenger, for I feel that my sins are all forgiven through Christ." By faith she seemed to catch a glimpse of the unrevealed glories of the spirit land, and with a radiauce too pure for earth illuming her countenance, she exclaimed, "They are there!—the angels!—I see them!—the green pussave the throne;" then with great animation she gave utterance to these immortal lines.

"Vital spark of heavenly flame." The lips that breathed of heavenly visions, ere long were scaled in the silence of death; but the freed spirit, without a cloud to obscure, now walks in the light of the Lord.

Died on the 6th of August, at his boarding-house, No. 673, Third Avenue, New York, of choleratiedisease, Patrick M. McGaaw, after a few hours sickness. Thus in the very prime of life and the vigor of young manhood, aged about 25 years, has our young friend been removed from earth. The manly and honorable bearing of the deceased had endeared him to a large circle of admiring and warm friends, who are deeply grieved at this affliction, and who sincerely sympathize with his bereaved Mother and relations in their loss. It is a great consolation to know that in the hour and article of death, our young friend had the truest and kindest attentions of many warm friends, and the solaces of Religion and the administration of all the rights of the church by a loving pastor.

Poor little "Muggins" was almost as well known as his respected father, or any man or child in the Valley of Virginia. His demise was sudden and unenpected to all, and his fond parents and attached brothers may well exclaim, as they meet the flowing "rivulets to the ses," that it was the wont of "Muggins" in winter or summer to carees:

"Flow down, cold rivulet to the sea,

A thousand moons will quiver,

All persons who wish to be supplied with this unequalled Drill, should leave their orders with us early, as numbers were left out last year on account of being too late. Persons need not be afraid to risk these Drills because of the false statements which have been made of the Gums swelling, and other statements by the friends of other Drills. Those who have tried this Drill, are ready to testify to its superiority; and we ourselves ready to testify to its superiority; and we ourselves have used the Drill for years to our entire satisfaction, and will warrant them to do perfect work in the roughest and most uneven land.

Duffield's, August 6, 1867. Buckeye Grain Drill GRASS SEED SOWER.

THIS celebrated Drill and Seed Sower has become so well established and is so favorably known throughout the States of New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Kansas, that it is universally conceded to be the leading Drill in the country; and the fact that the demand for the "Buckeye" is greater than for all the other Drills put together in the West, is conclusive evidence of its superiority.

It has a Rotary Feeder, which carries the grain down and forces it through the apertures in the bottom of the hopper. Will sow all kinds of grain and grass seeds in any desired quantity without any change of bottom or gearings. It Never Bunches the Grain, I ut distributes it in a constant stream, which is not done by most of the other Drills. Never Breaks the Grain, which is important, for if broken it will not grow and is certainly lost. Plaster and Guano Sowers are attached when desired, and are second to none in the world. The Buckeye is provided with a Land Measure or Surveyor which measures and registers the number of acres as the measures and registers the number of acres as the seeding progresses.

'To This Drill will be on exhibition at the Carter House, in Charlestown, on Saturday, August 17th.

The silent moon rolled on above,
We could not tear ourselves away,
We heeded not the flight of time,
But lingered till the dawn of day!
Oh, hallowed night to memory dear,
When she for life became my own,
And wildly sobbing on my breast,
Declared she "loved but me alone!"

That happy hour which made us one Has vanished down the vale of years Whose onward flight the more and more My Lucy to my heart endears.

Sweet Lucy Loyd was young and gay,
When she became my own true bride,
Ani vowing there to love me well, Stood at the alter by my side.

Her name, her heart became my own And though since then some threads of gray Have crept among her tresses brown, To tell how fast time slips away; Still Lucy Loyd, my darling one,
As young and lovely seems to be,
As when in all her youthful bloom
She gave her trusting heart to me.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A Fair Burglar.

A Dresden correspondent of the Cleveland Plaindealer thus writes of what happened to him on awaking in the morning, after a night's sleep in"private quarters:"

You can imagine my terror when, upon early day, our door was opened and a female form slowly and carefully glided into our room, and coming to the head of my bed took off from the bed-post my vest. I saw it all with one eye partially opened; but what could I say? I dared not make a noise, for I could not be understood if I spoke. She felt for my watch and drew it out, carefully disengaging the chain hook from the button-hole. A cold chill came over me, but I remained as quiet as a stone. She laid the watch upon the table; next she took my coat in which was my little stamps circular notes, bills of exchange, memorandum book, passport, etc. These she gracefully drew out and placed upon the table. Next came my pants from close beside my bed. These she took. Next my overcoat, which hung upon the rack .-Then she proceeded to the opposite side of the room and performed like ceremony with the apparel of my companion, when, with all this load of integuments, together with our boots, she disppeared from the room. As she closed the door, we both arose upright in bed and wondered what all that meant. We had each observed the operation with a single eye, and equally fearful of making an alarm. Then I was sorry that I had not found some poor blind, miserable fellows, many thousand miles from home and not a thread to put on. families, how they had clothing and to spare, but-well, a thought occurred to me that perhaps this was the way they got so many statutes for their public parks and museums and building. Perhaps they take just such specimens as we are and set them up. The perspiration ran down my back, and I was in a cold sweat. I felt bad. If she had left my watch and my money, what good is all this without wearing apparel. I have been in places where I wanted food, and had plenty of money, but I could not buy a mouthful .-Now I am in a place with money and no clothing. After these horrid torebodings had perplexed my soul for a half an hour, the door again opened and the same female entered with all our wearing apparel nicely brushed and cleaned, and our boots with the glossiest kind of a black. It is a custom of the country, that's all, and I feel better now.
