CHARLESTOWN,

The Story of a Remarkable Man.

Just six years ago there died at a little town by the seaside in Sussex, England, a member of the English Parliament, who united in himself some of the most opposite and one would imagine, conflicting characteristics. He was the nephew of an earl; his mother was the daughter of a bishop; he was a descendant of a staunch line of Tory ancestry; associated in marriage connections with a dozen leading families in the peerage.

He had been the leader in the world of fashion, and the darling of singers and actresses; and yet with these qualities, he was at the same time the leader of the extreme Charinsurrection for the five points, since conceded in peaceable ways. He was at once a confidant and friend of Louis Napoleon and a champion of Mazzini. This remarkable man left no enemy behind; and despite his

DECEMBER 31, 1867. VIRGINIA. TUESDAY

NO. 18.

Mr. Green, the famous diver, tells singular stories of his adventures, when making search in the deep waters of the ocean. He gives some new sketches of what he saw at the "Silver Bank," near Hayti:

The Ocean Bottom.

The banks of coral on which my divings were made are about forty miles in length and from ten to twenty in breadth. On this bank of coral is presented to the diver one of the most beautiful and sublime scenes the eye ever beheld. The water varies from ten to one hundred feet in depth, and so clear that the diver can see from two to three hundred feet when submerged, with but little obstructist operatives : the pet of even the physical force agitators, who at one time contemplated | tion to the sight.

The bottom of the ocean in many places is as smooth as a marble floor; in others it is studded with coral columns, from ten to one hundred feet in height, and from one to eighty feet in diameter. The tops of these more extraordinary pursuits and companions, left lofty support a myriad of pyramidal pendants, each forming a myriad more, giving reality to the imaginary abode of some water nymph. In other places the pendants form arch after arch and, as the diver stands on the bottom of the ocean, and gazes through in the deep winding avenues he finds that they fill him with as sacred an awe as if he were in some old cathedral which had long been buried beneath old ocean's wave. Here and there the coral extends even to the surface of the water, as if the loftiest columns were towers belonging to those stately temples that are now in

There were countless varieties of trees, shrubs and plants in every crevice of the corals where water had deposited the earth. They were all of a faint hue, owing to the pale light they received, although of every shade, and entirely different from plants that I am familiar with that vegetate upon dry land. One in particular attracted my attention; it resembled a sea fan of immense size, of variegated colors and the most brilliant hue. The fish which inhabit these "Silver Banks" I found as different in kind as the scenery was varied. They were all forms, colors and visors, of the particulars of the death of a of the principal performers, behind the scenes sizes—from the symmetrical goby to the globe-like sunfish; from the dullest hue to the changeable dolphin; from the spots of the leopard to the hues of sun beams; from the harmless minnow to the voracious shark. Some had heads like squirrels, others like cats and dogs, some of small size resembled the bull terrier. Some darted through the water like meteors, while others could scarcely be seen to move. To enumerate and explain all the various kinds of fish I beheld while diving on these banks would, were I enough of a naturalist so to do, require more than my limits allow, for I am convinced that most of the kinds of fish which inhabit the tropical seas can be found there. The sun fish, star fish, white shark and blue or shovel nose shark were

There were also fish which resembled plants, and remained as fixed in their position as a shrub; the only power they possessed was to open and shut when in danger. Some of them resemble the rose when in full bloom, and were of all hues. These were the ribbon fish, from four to five inches to three feet in length; their eyes are very large and protrude like those of a frog.

Another fish is spotted like a leopard from three to ten feet in length. They build their were in delight when they were stopping at houses like beavers, in which they spawn, and the male or female watches the egg until it hatches. I saw many specimens of the green turtle, some five feet long, which I should think would weigh from 400 to 500 pounds.

The Moon Ghost Mystery.

There seems to be a disposition on the part of editors abroad, and their correspondents, to exaggerate everything we say in regard to the mysterious affair going on at the residence of Mr. Moon, near our town.

The man, or men, made nightly visits at the residence of Mr. Moon for months, much to the annoyance of Mr. Moon's family, before we alluded to the subject in the Register. Indeed, we were requested by Mr. Moon not to speak of the matter through the paper .-We at his request, studiously avoided writing or publishing anything in relation to the mystery, until other papers made erroneous state-ments, gathered from correspondents, who misrepresented the whole affair. Finally, we published the substance at least, of the movements on the part of the daring intruders, up to a certain date; and since that time have given a weekly report. The following are the particulars of what occurred during the

On Saturday night last, two gentlemen were in company with Mr. Moon, at his residence; it was exceedingly cold, and the ground was covered with snow. Inasmuch as Mr. Moon had not been annoyed by lights or noise, or the presence of "the mysterious man," the company enjoyed themselves by the fireside until midnight, in social conversation-the two neighbors being much fatigued from the labors of the day, proposed to lie down by the fire and take a nap, which they did, Mr. M. retiring at the same time to his chamber on the second floor. Before retiring, Mr. H one of the guard, locked all the doors, leaving the key of the front door on the inside. About an hour after all the parties had retired, Mr. Moon being unwell, got up and went down into the dining-room for the purpose of getting some medicine, when he discovered the large family Bible and other articles had been taken from a table and placed on the floor, and a damask cloth, which had covered the table, was missing. On awaking the guard and examining the doors, it was ascertained ing over the pulpit, and looking earnestly in that some one had opened the back door with a false key, taken out the key of the front door, walked close by the guard, stolen the damask cloth, gone out at the back door and looked it as he made his exit. His object in taking out the front door key must have been to enable him to escape through that door in the event he should be approached from the opposite side of the house. It is evident that he entered at the back door, as but one track could be seen in the snow in front, and that was made by one of the guard. Paths, well trodden, led from the back door, and it was impossible to track him.

Major General Hancock and the Writ of Habeas Corpus.

The New Orleans Picayune describes an interesting interview between Major General Hancock and the Chief of Police of that city. The latter official, it appears, had certain prisoners in his custody, and had determined to disobey a writ of habeas corpus issued from a civil court. The account in the Picayune thus reiers to the interview : General Hancock stated to Major Williamson, Chief of Police, that he had learned that a writ of habeas corpus had been issued. and that owing to some illegality it was probable that it would not be obeyed. That writ, Mr. Chief of Police, (remarked General H.,) must be obeyed. I will hold you responsible in this matter. Those prisoners must be produced. I believe you will produce them, but I will myself take the necessary precaution that they be produced. I have issued an order that the writ of habeas corpus is to be observed, and it shall be. I am here to protect the dignity of the government, and the rights of the people as to life, liberty and property must be preserved. So long as I am in power here, the law shall be respected.

I know nothing, Mr. Chief of Police, about this case; do not know what these men are charged with, but it is sufficient for me to know, and you to know, that a writ of habeas corpus has been issued, and that writ shall be respected. I will sink the boat in the middle of the river with cannon that takes these men on board, and intercept any train of cars that carries them. If the law is not observed, who and what is safe? I may be taken away, you may be, any of us may be. Justice must be upheld. I hold you, therefore, Mr. Chief of Police, responsible for the delivery of these men before Judge Theard, in obedience to that writ.

The Picayune adds:

The General then took his departure, and we felt as though we had been listening truly to the defender of law and dignity of government. We don't remember of ever having witnessed a more impressive scene.

dispatch, heretofore published, announced the sad intelligence that the Hon. Cornelius Hamilton, Representative in Congress from the Deleware district. Ohio, was killed at his home in Marysville, Union county, on Sunday morning, 22d inst., by an insane son .-The Washington Chronicle says:

Mr. Hamilton was elected to the Fortieth Congress as the successor of Hon. James R. Hubbell. He was one of the most wealthy and influential men in the county in which he lived, and was especially known and loved for his deep interest in all benevolent enterorises, and his kindness toward the poor of he neighborhood. Politically he was a very thorough radical, a man of strong convictions, and firm in his adherence thereto. He served some time as a member of the State Legislature, in which he was a cotemporary of Judge Chase, and under the administration of Mr. Lincoln he held an important office in the revenue service. His age at the time of his melancholy death must have been about fifty years. He leaves a wife and six children, whose deep affliction in this sad bereavement is intensified by the terrible manner in which it was brought about, and the hopeless insanity of him through whom it occurred.

DISSATISFACTION OF SOUTHERN RADI-

CALS .- The Southern radicals, it seems, are very much dissatisfied with the action of the republican executive committee in fixing so carly a date as the 20th of May for the meeting of the Republican Presidential Nominating Convention. The Washington Star says:

"They say it is scarcely probable that the Southern States will be admitted to representation in Congress before that time, and as the committee has decided that only such States as are represented in Congress shall be entitled to send delegates to the National Convention, they are virtually debarred from all participation in the choice of candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency. It is alleged that this action upon the part of the committee was taken with a view o secure the nomination of Gen. Grant, as it is known that a majority of the Southern radicals are in favor of Chief Justice Chase tor the Presidency. The project of holding a separate convention is seriously contemplated by the leaders of this dissatisfied class of republicans."

GREETING .- There is something pleasingy significant in the fact that when man meets man, the first impulse excited is one of good will. All forms of greeting—some of them, it must be owned, a little grotesque—are overtures, or at any rate profess to be, of kindly regard. Whether made by words or gestures, or both, they are meant to convey between those who use them, friendly desires. Making every deduction requisite on the score of custom and the like, it is agreeable to believe that the wish which makes the earliest appearance when people meet is for each ther's welfare-the first flash of soul which follows contact is one of love. It bespeaks the brotherhood of race. It shows that down below the surface there is an under current of mutual sympathy and disinterestedness, let the ripple or the roughness, the swirls or the eddies, be what they may above. When our nature goes out to the tent door to recognize the charities, and "Peace be with ou," is the meaning of the salutation which it breathes.

If a letter-writer from Lima, in Peru, is to be believed, there is a region forty leagues from that city, called the Valley of Juaca, where the climate "restores consumptive persons to health as certainly as night follows day." No other medicine is required except the pure air of the valley. Hundreds of persons are said to go from all parts of Peru yearly to be cured of this terrible dis-ease; and although the writer anticipates that medical men " will smile at the idea of consumption being curable," he still avers that every that every invalid-excepting only those in the last stage of the malady re-turns physically sound, after a residence in Juaca of from one to two years. This state-ment ought to interest medical readers and those who may be afflicted with const enough to induce some inquisy into the truth or falsity of it. - New York World.

- An old "gaol bird," who has been convicted just one and twenty times, pleaded guilty at the Middlesex (England) Sessions, on the 19th ultimo, to stealing a mackintosh, and when asked what he had to say for himself, replied: "Well, my lord, I rather pre-fer prison life to being in the streets. I have had more than twelvs years in prison. I cannot get employment, for the police hunt me down." Being sentenced to ten years' penal servitude, he observed laughingly, "Well, I did not think I had so long to live.

You are a smart old fellow. I hope I shall see your lordship when I come back, and that you may give me ten years more, I would sooner be in prison than about the streets. I have got several places of employment, but the police have bunted me out of them."

- As a gladiator trained the body, so must we train the mind to self-sacrifice, "to endure all things," to meet and overcome difficulty and danger. We must take the rough and thorny road as well as the smooth and pleasant; and a portion at least of our daily duty must be hard and disagreeable; for the mind cannot be kept strong and healthy in perpetual sunshine only, and the most dangerous of all states is that of constantly recurring pleasure, ease, and prosperity. Most persons will find difficulties and hardships enough without seeking them, let them not repine; but take them as part of that educational discipline necessary to fit the mind to arrive at its highest good.

RETROSPECTION .- The present year will soon expire and 1867 will soon be numbered with the years of the past. We are now on the last lines of the page, and a new leaf will soon be turned over. Whatever we have said or done must remain. The mistakes we have made, the errors we have committed, the impressions we have produced must stand as they are. How solemn is the thought, that the past never returns. Opportunities lost must continue lost. Advantages gained are ours, and we have only to hold fast to what we now possess and improve on the errors, mistakes and indiscretions of the past.

He says: "If the proposition is to put into your constitution the educational test in 1871, to apply only to those who come of age at that date, are naturalized, or take up their residence in your State, it would be in accordance with the oft-quoted provision in the constitution of Massachusetts." VOL. 20. PROFESSIONAL CARDS. POETICAL. THE SKEIN. DANIEL B. LUCAS. Attorney at Law. BY ROBERT BUCHANAN. Slip, yes, slip your skein, my Kitty,
O'er my hands, and wind, and wind
All the while, with little pity,
Tangling, tangling, heart and mind:
Kitty! eyes upon the woo!
Not on me, my beautiful!

Now you droop your eyes completely, Winding, winding dreamily; Wherefore, wherefore smile so sweetly

Ah! the rosebud fingers flitting
Swift about the colored ball!
How my heart beats time while sitting;
Still I try to bear it all;

Kitty, do you know or care
Tis my heart you're winding there?

Kitty, I am in a vision!
All the world to mist doth die;
Only in an air Elysian,
Little fairy fingers fly;
Surely, if they flit too near.
I shall catch and kiss them, dear!

Tangled! pout not, frown not, Kitty!
Though I gladly bear the pain;
For your anger is so pretty,
It may make me sin again.
There! 'tis well! Now. wind and wind,
Tangling further heart and mind!

Now, 'tis done! the last thread lingers

Sadly from me, slow to part; Can'st thou see that in my fingers

I am holding up my heart? Wind and wind! I do not dare! Smile or frown! and I will bear!

Ah! so fast and quick you wind it,

I no more can keep it mine;
Do you wonder that you find it
Throbbing now, close, close to thine?
Tangled, tangled, are the twain—
Kiss, kiss, kiss them free again!

He had been dead apparently more than a week, and from the manner in which bank notes, bonds, deeds and bank books were lying upon the floor about him, it was evident the beggar and miser had died in a struggle counting his hoarded wealth .-In his bony fingers he held a bank book showing a deposit of $700 in banks at North Adams and Pittsfield, while two $50 bills served as a pillow for his head, and deeds of property in Pittsfield and Government bonds

Prentice :-"There is but a breath of air and a beat of the heart betwixt this world and the next .-And in the brief interval of painful and awful suspense, while we feel that death is present with us, that we are powerless, and he all owerful, and the faint pulsation here is but the prelude of endless life hereafter, we feel in the midst of the stunning calamity about to befall us, that the earth has no compensating good to mitigate the severity of our loss. But there is no grief without some beneficent provision to soften its intenseness. When the good and lovely die, the memory of their good deeds, like the moonbeams on the stormy sea, lights up our darkened hearts and lends to the surrounding gloom a beauty so sad, so sweet, that we would not if we could dispel the darkness that environs it."

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION.

The State Convention of the conservative party of West Viaginia, advertised for the 8th of January, like that recently held in the old State, is a prospective success. Through out the State the party seems animated with the determination to succeed, and with this spirit actuating it, the want of efficient and complete organization is fully experienced .-Heretofore no effective organization of the conservative masses of West Virginia has existed and as a consequence, radicalism has been allowed to perpetrate its outrages upon the rights and interests of the people without any systematic resistance. Here and there a political aspirant, disgusted with the tyranny of Boreman, and sickened with the proscriptive and intolerant legislation of the so called representatives of the people, has raised his voice against this cruel and vindictive spirit of oppression, but this only to find himsel? decitizenized at the next election by the Gu- have of necessity been a little blind to the bernatorial appointees on the Boards of Registration. These decapitations have generally been submitted to with a meekness that has emboldened the party in power, until their legislation has been directed almost with the sole view of perpetuating and confirming their reign of tyranny and terror, whilst the great interests of the State, which clamor for consideration, are neglected. Every public enterprise is blurred with a party caste, and nothing can receive the favor and sauction of the dishonest officials of the State, except it promise a tendency to strengthen radicalism. A registration law, intended to embrace within its scope all who sustained the government in the four years' conflict with the Southern States, is so perverted in its practical interpretation by the township registrars or county boards of registration as to give citizenship only to those whose fealty to radicalism is unquestionable, and whose devotion to the

that was made a count in the indictment against the King of Great Britain, by our revolutionary fathers, is a distinguishing feature of West Virginia government. Nearly four-fifths of the taxes of the State are paid by men who are shorn of the elective franchise, and who have no voice in the selection of their representatives. Thousands of these are men who never drew a sympathetic breath with the rebellion, except perhaps so far as the safety of friends and kindred engaged in it were concerned, and many even are divested of their political rights who fought in the federal armies. This disfranchisement is not because it is believed or imagined that their permission to exercise the rights of citizenship would endanger the great interests. of the State, but simply because the day of their enfranchisement would witness the overthrow of radicalism, and forever loosen the grip of certain officials upon the public pursestrings. So palpably dishonest, so utterly destitute of principle, so devoid of all that is just and right, is the foundation upon which this party rests, that it dare not submit its fate to the people, but must needs tie the hands of its opponents, while the scum and rabble the ignorant and irresponsible, are turned loose to prey upon the rights of those who ought to be entrusted with the guardianship of the public interests. The jury lists for the trial of important causes are composed in the main of men who are destitute of appreciation of the solemnity of an oath or the responsibility of jurors, and in nine cases out of every ten, where an issue is joined between a radical and a conservative, the decision is in favor of the radical, without regard to the evidence adduced or the plain provisions of law upon which the issue may be based .-Thus, what are improperly styled courts of justice, are but parts of the grand machinery | tional qualification for voting, such as the which is kept in perpetual operation for sustaining the vitality of radicalism, and without which it would soon be found-if not dead, at least in articulo mortis.

Thus the executive, the legislative, and the judicial departments of the State government are wielded not for the public good and for the general welfare, but only to keep in power a set of public plunderers with whom justice is a mockery and patriotism a thing are now denied that right. The educational for feathering the radical nest.

We understand it to be one of the purposes of the convention projected for the 8th of January, and which will assemble in the city corruption and misrule. As this is its object and aim we give it our hearty support, and effect the refult so devoutly to be wished, and recent elections in the Southern States; at that the next State election may usher the dawn of a better and a brighter day for West Virginia.

For these, and the numberless other blessings that have attended us, deep and fervent gratitule is becoming.

Our political condition is no worse, if indeed, it is not better, than it was twelve months ago. The sky which was so dark at party is sufficient to override all scruples of the commencement of the year, has been measurably relieved by the indications of returning reason at the North, and hope,

> "Which springs eternal in the human breast," has been greatly revived. We stand then, upon the threshold of 1868. with brighter prospects and more consoling anticipations. During this year much is to be done. Beside the usual "seed time and harvest" for which we are to make preparation, the country is to pass through the excitement of a Presidential election. Providence seems to be controlling the political elements in a way that promises repose to the country, and the hope is that before the close of this year, the raging sea of fanaticism will be calmed, and the fuel that has fed the flame of hate will be withdrawn. So mote it be.

What are General Grant's Views?

The wide currency given to a letter supposed to have been written by General Dent, the brother-in law of General Grant, in which it was stated that there would appear in the January number of the Galaxy an article containing the views of the latter upon the issues of the day, will attract general notice to "The Political Outlook," printed in the aforesaid issue of that magrzine. In the article in question, the writer urges as the conditions of the success of the Republican party in 1868 the reformation of our internal revenue system, the nomination of General Grant for the Presidency, and the following outline of a platform, which is probably the portion referred to in the letter attributed to "Concerning reconstruction, it must adopt something like the following programme, and apply it to the States which will ask admission under their new constitutions: (a) Universal amnesty; (b) Equal rights to the white and black races before the law; (c) Impartial, not universal suffrage; (d) an educaability to read and write and solve a problem by the rule of three to the satisfaction of an impartial tribunal appointed by the General Government; (e) A provision to be inserted in every State constitution for the compulsory education of the whites and blacks in the Southern States. This programme, or one of similar import, ought to be satisfactory to the entire Southern people, both whites and blacks. Universal amnesty would permit all the whites to vote, whereas great numbers test would give the rehabilitation of the Southern States to the white majority, with whom the North, excepting an inconsiderable faction, wish it to be. Equal rights with the whites before the law would be secured to of Wheeling, to concert measures for the annihilation of this triple-headed monster of tion, an equal voice in the choice of rulers.— Fach race, furthermore, would be stimulated to educate itself as soon as possible. The Republican party cannot hope for success if carnestly hope that the means devised may it uphold negro suffrage as developed at the the same time it cannot afford to be untrue to itself and renounce its negro wards. By adopting, through its representatives in Congress and its State and National Conventions, such a compromise as the one just proposed it will yield no principle, will bring the Southern States into full relations with the Union, and secure its success at the Presidential election under the leadership of Gen-

The unfortunate and intolerant policy of radicalism, has ruined the Southern country, and that fair land, once blooming as the rose, now sits sorrowing and in anguish. Last year will be sealed. > A rapid run over parts of Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee, has afforded me some insight into the condition of the freedmen that may be interesting to the public. In New Orleans I learned at the headquarters of the fifth military district that official information satisfied the commanding general that fully one million whites and blacks in the district were without means of subsistence through the winter, and nothing but an appropriation by Congress would save thousands from starvation. Most of those in want are in Louisiana. Texas, which suffered but little from the war has been fortunate in raising good crops, and in that State both whites and freedmen will be able to keep starvation from their doors. In Louisiana, especially the upper parishes. the condition of the freemen is indeed de plorable. Their contracts for the year have ended, and the majority have saved nothing. On the point of starvation, they have organized into bands and are killing the stock of the planters indiscriminately. When they cannot find cattle they steal mules, run then over to Mississippi and Texas, and by their sales raise the means wherewith to subsist. Throughout Mississippi the negroes are also quite destitute, and but few have provisions, or money to buy a sufficiency to subsist until Chris mas. Here, too, they are or ganizing to make raids upon the whites and supply themselves and their families. In several counties they have held meetings in their churches, drilled, elected their lead. ers and effected a thorough organization. * * Several with whom I have conversed candidly admit that the blacks are in a state of starvation, and that in their meetings they have passed resolutions and bound themselves to stand by each other in procuring provisions from the flocks of the planters. In some cases where raids have been made upon the stock of planters, the negroes have been shot by the former, who are very generally arming to protect their property. A few days ago, above here, on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, the carcass of a cow was found partially skinned, and the dead bodies of three negroes lying near it. They had evidently been surprised and killed by the whites.

The present policy of Congress is hastening on a war of races that will result in more atrocities thas those of St. Domingo. The whites of the South may for a while submit to the suffrage of the negro, but when the time comes that these raids upon their stock are general, and their own families are reduced to want in consequence, depend upon it they will rise to exterminate the negroes. All planters with whom I have conversed say that next year they will only plant grain enough to subsist their families, and they will do it by their own labor; that the negroes are so wrapt up in the enthusiasm of politics that they will not work; that those who do work squarder their earnings as fast as secured, and take no thought of the morrow. Were the Radical committee of Congress to send down funds for the subsistence of the unfortunate negroes, instead of carpet bag emissaries and perambulating firebrands to stir up strife, they would render good service in the cause of humanity. You will recollect that a plot was discovered here some weeks ago to plunder this town. Major Norton, of the Twenty-fourth infantry, arrested some six or eight, but they were discharged for want of proper proof .-The troops have been since withdrawn, and the people have armed in expectation of an attack before Christmas. Yesterday five hundred negroes, whose families are very destitute, were discharged from plantations within five miles of Norton, a small town on the Vicksburg and Meridian railway.

A Gloomy Picture of New England. Under this head the Boston Commercial

Bulletin says: In no part of the country is industry at so low an ebb, capital so unremunerative in its investments, and their joint products so poorly paid for, as here in New England at the esent time. The specialities of our skilled labor, which were once a source of wealth to the capitalists and profitable employment to the people, are now a drug in the market, and refuse to go into consumption at any price. They are relatively much cheaper than the agricultural products of the West and South, or the raw material products of the Middle States: Not only are our manufactories closed or running on short time, and our mechanics and laboring men by thousands thrown out of employment, but our commercial classes are suffering immense losses from the stagnation of trade and shrinkage in merchandize values. The latter are obliged to "carry" not only the products of New England commerce and industry, but also, to a greater extent, those of every other section of the country. Hence, upon their shoulders the depreciation in prices principally falls. And the situation with us is rendered still more severe and trying, from the fact that our foreign commerce and its dependent interests continue in a depressed and crippled condition. In fact, the noble race of importing and shipping merchants, once the pride and boast of our New England seaports, whose ships ploughed the waters of every sea and poured into our markets the wealth of every clime, are now, alas! falling into comparative decay. Our mercantile marine, swept from the ocean during the late war, involving a loss of millions of capital, not only shared by any other section of the country, shows no signs of recovery from the blow. The high cost of labor, and the unfriendly policy of the Government in imposing a tax on tounage, and discriminating against ship building materials, have prevented any attempt to repair that heavy loss .-Our ship yards all along the coast, once resonant with the lively chorus of the axe and hammer, are now silent and solitary as our graveyards. The Canadian reciprocity treaty. which once brought a large and profitable trade to our seaboard markets-including cheap lumber for ship building-has been suicidally abrogated, and the raw products of Canada and the maritime provinces which were sent here to exchange for our West In . dia goods and home manufactures, now pass by us to other markets. This is a faint picture of the Eastern situation, and of what New England has been called to suffer on account of the war and its sequences.

Some Startling Statements by a Radical Senator.

Mr. Sprague, of Rhode Island, rarely obtrudes himself upon the Senate; but his remarks of Friday last on the repeal of the consideration than nine tenths of the platitudes which the dominant party in that body prefer to inflict upon the country. He invoked attention to the prostrate condition of American industry, and more especially of the great staple, cotton, now being destroyed by he unwise legislation of Congress. Mr. Sprague is, as all know, a large manufacturer. and he is also a large cotton planter. He ought, therefore, to be master of his subject. A statement from him, that the British manufacturers were now able, by their skilled labor and machinery, to produce from the short, dry, and once despised staple of India cotton a produce equal to that obtained by us from the American staple, must have been startling to hearers unwilling to learn any other lesson than that of an insensate hate. Mr Sprague told them that he feared they had lost this great interest for ever; that the control of the question had passed from their hands. He even feared the competition of India cotton in American markets. As for Sea Island cotton, he believed that in two years it would only be produced as a rare plant in some gentleman's garden. At this day Egypt tian cotton was used in seven eights of the articles in which Sea Island cotton was formerly employed. The plantations of the South were not worth one twentieth part of what they were before the war. After these statements, Mr. Sprague might well assert, that while England conquered territory for the purpose of producing cotton, the dominant party had conquered territory merely to de-

Such is the expose of a practical man and a representative of the industrial interest of the country on the floor of the Senate. If it had been made in a British House of Commons, or had been delivered even a few years ago in the American Senate, such an appeal would have excited profound attention. But what is the destruction of a great national industry to the Radical party immersed in schemes of President making? Their cry is, perish commerce, perish manufactures, perish cotton, perish the poor negro, who depends on this last industry for his daily bread, rather than sacrifice one jot or title of the revenge by which this party proposes to perpetuate is power. But while these truths may fall on closed ears in the Senate, they will not pass unheeded by the great business and mercantile classes of the country. These, and all thinking and patriotic men will inquire what party is responsible for this state of things, and they will see that the expulsion of these bad men from power is the first step towards relieving the public distress .- Nat.

THE REVENUE. The Abolition of Taxation.

Hon ROBT. J. WALKER, who has perhaps o superior in this country as a financier, has recently written a letter on the subject of our overnment finances to a gentleman in Cleveland Ohio, which was read during the sitting of the late Manufacturers Convention in that city. In this letter, the writer says :-My views on the subject of internal revenue and taxation have been already very fully expressed in my address to the American people of 30th of November last. I can only repeat the opinion there expressed, that the whole system of internal revenue should be abolished at once, with the exception of taxes on national banks, on wines, on malt and spirituous iquors and tobacco. Our system of internal taxation is destroying the industry of the country, and should be immediately repealed. On this question there should be no delay, as it has already been so oppressive, and has produced so much disssatisfaction among the people, as-if longer continued-to threaten us with repudiation and all its disastrous con-

The tariff question can be postponed until he next session of Congress, when, the excitement of the presidential canvass having terminated, we may all consider the subject more dispassionately, and with a view to such an arrangement as, whilst yielding the largest possible revenue from that source, will be attended with all the incidental benefits to our industrial pursuits that can properly be derived from any just system of duties on

On this question, in view of our large public debt, and the necessity of the punctual payment of the interest thereon, there is, under existing circumstances, a great identity of interests between the producers and the consumers. Should the tariff be so imposed as to be destructive of revenue it will force a return to internal taxation, with all its influences. Permit me to say, however, that the most oppressive tax now imposed upon industrial pursuits is an irredeemable and depreciated paper currency. Grievous as is our present system of internal taxation, it is far ess oppressive than the burden imposed by a fluctuating and depreciated medium of exchange. This tax, especially upon industrial pursuits, may be measured with a near approximation to the actual results by the difference between the value of gold and our paper currency. It this is 33 per cent., the tax is equivalent, in its operation upon domestic manufactures, to a deduction of one third from their affinal net profits; and, if longer continued, as the history of the world has shown, must prostrate all our industry which comes in competition with foreign produce. While, then, I am for an immediate abolition (with the exceptions before stated) of our whole system of internal taxation, I would postpone the consideration of the tariff until he first Monday of December next. The Killing of Mr. Hamilton.

MARYSVILLE, Ohio, Dec 23 .- This vil lage and community are enshrouded in a mantle of gloom by one of the most horrifying tragedies known in the annals of crime. by the death of Hon Cornelius S. Hamilton, member of Congress from the eighth congressional district of Ohio, by the hand of his eldest son, Thomas C. Hamilton, a vonth of eighteen. The facts in short are about as follows: The son Thomas was a remarkably good and steady boy. About three weeks ago he became uneasy about himself, and wished his father to come home. His mother also being concerned about him, wrote Mr. Hamilton to come home. He came home. and on Saturday last instituted proceedings in the Probate Court to send the boy to the Insane Asylum, but did not get the papers in time to send him on Saturday Sunday morning at about 9 o'clock, Mr.

Hamilton said to his two oldest boys. Thomas and John, they would go out and "feed."-The three went out, the father carrying some corn-fodder, a distance of ten or fifteen yards, and throwing over in the barn lot, the younger (John) going over and distributing it to the stock as the father directed. Mr. Hamilton then bade John go and prepare for Sunday school. He did so, leaving the father and Thomas picking up and scattering corn and stocks. He testifies that he looked back when part way to the house, and that Thomas was watching him. He had got to the house and partly prepared to go to Sunday school when the mother went out on the porch and saw Thomas coming to the house alone. She inquired where was father? He picked up an axe and made for the mother. John, seeing this demonstration, screamed, and diverted Thomas from the mother to himself. He ran into the house, first into the dining! room, then to the hall, then into the sittingroom. Here Thomas came upon him. John ran past him, and slipped and fell about the time he reached the door, Thomas making a blow at him, which took effect in the left shoulder, and partially stunned him, but he crawled out of the house. Thomas then made pursuit of the mother, who fled across the street to Mr. John Guthrie's, a distance of about two hundred yards. Here he was met by Mr. Guthrie's family and Mr. F. Wood. superintendent of the public schools of this place, who bid him put down the axe-he carrying it in an elevated and menacing attitude. He assumed a more threatening manner, and made at Mr. Wood, who retreated into the house. Thomas followed to the door with the uplifted axe. He then returned to the street, where he was met by M. C. Lawrence, Esq., who inquired of him, "Where is your father?" suspecting foul play. He, with an unlifted down and across the street, Thomas following. locomotive driving-wheels, have been made two small sisters a distance of one hundred yards or more, and was calling to Mr. J. C. Botkin, who had been attracted by the cry of distress, "Save my two little sisters." Mr. Botkin reached the two sisters and took them Search was now made for the father, and

THE ANGOLA DISASTER.

Account of the Accident by a Survivor. The Utica, New York, Herald, of December 22d, cas the following particulars of the late terrible disaster on the Lake Shore Railroad, as furnished by a survivor of the calamity:

The 16 o'clock train from the West last Saturday night brought to Utica Mr. Amos H. Thomas and wife, and two of the victims of the late terrible railroad accident on the Lake Shore railroad. They are so badly infured that they were obliged to be carried on matresses to their residence, No. 20, Breeze street. Mr. Thomas' injurica are principally across his hip and stomach, and although bad, are not as severe as those received by his wife. Mrs. Thomas was most severely bruised from head to foot. Mr. Thomas and his wife were in the last and ill-fated car, from which, it is said, but three out of fifty passengers escaped alive, and they were two of these. Mr. Thomas thinks, however, that five passengers did finally escape alive from this car, one of whom has since died. He occlipied the fourth seat from the front, and his wife eat in the third, directly in front of him. The first thing he heard was the bumping sound of the wheels coming in contact with the ttes, and at once knew the car had run from the track. Nearly all the passengers in contact with the trees, and at once knew the car had run from the track. Nearly all the passengers in the coach immediately jumped upon their iest, and as the car swayed to and fro they would rush to whichever side was uppermost to prevent its over-turning. This continued for perhaps ball a min-ute, and then the car struck the bridge, being still that the coupling, being insufficient to sustain the great strain upon it, I roke, and the car went, end first, crashing down the side hill, the lower end just reaching the edge of the creek.

Belore the car fell nearly all the frightened passengers were standing in the aisles, Mrs. Thomas alone keeping her seat. Her bu band was in the aisle, but still holding his seat with a firm grasp. When the car took its fearful plunge the fact that Mrs. Thomas was sitting in her seat and her bushand firmly clinging to his own, alone saved their lives and prevented them from being buried among the hot stoves and burning seats, and crushed an roasted mass of human beings in the rear end of the car. How Mr. Thomas came out of the car, he is utterly unable to tell. He states that he was not unconscious; that he found himself in a single instant after he was thrown from his feet lying upon his back, the roof of the car entirely swept away, the car itself literally broken into a thousand pieces, and he himself looking streight up into the sky!—
It seemed to be all done in a few seconds of time.
He found himself with heavy pieces of the wreck laying across his legs and pressing one of them up-on a sharp, broken iron which entered his clothing near the thigh. His first thought was for his wife, who he discovered was lying near, but before he was able to render her assistance, she had been taken out and cared for by a citizen of Angola. At his feet lay a man bleeding profusely from a wound in his head, but who was able to free himself from the debris, and then had strength sufficient to assist Mr. Thomas, until at last the latter was able to crawl out of the wreck upon his hands and knees, and thus make his way up the bank. He was taken into the passenger car that stood upon the track, and afterward removed to a private house and medical aid procured. Mrs. T. was rendered insensible by the fall. The first she remembers was feeling the blood running down her face Casting her eye toward the lower end of what was once the car, she sengers were so covered with the ruins that they could not be seen The fire was so near that she must make an effort to escape or burn. In trying to rise, her injuries were so severe the effort ren dered her insensible again. She would probably have added one more to the list of the dead from is shocking disaster had not a citizen of Angola, seeing her fearful position, come to her rescue.—
After making the effort to get up, she remembers hothing more until she found herself in a private house A succession of lainting fits followed, and as she recovered from each she declared that she was entirely unburt, and it was only some time after the accident that she w s convinced she had received injury. It was probably two hours after the accident before inedical aid could be procured Two physicians were aboard the train, whose atten ions were fully occupied with those more severely injured . A large bundle lay upon the ground that had ev-

A large bundle lay upon the ground that had evidently rolled from the second passenger car. This had been passed over and pushed about by people bearing the wounded. At last their attention was attracted by hearing a smothered cry proceed from it. The clothing was unwrapped, and, behold, there lay an infant about six months old, digging its chubby fists into its crying eyes, unburt, and without a single scratch upon its body. Its mother was accompanied by a gentleman, who afterwards died. She was still insensible last Saturday morning, two days after the accident. -Upon the subject of disorder in the South, the Mobile Times says it is natural for Southerners to hold the negroes responsible for lawlessness and crime in the South, and for Northerners to hold the "unreconstructed" whites responsible for the same. It observes. however, that there is a class of bad white men in the South, some of whom were born there, while others are from Northern or Western States. It says these men were measurably repressed in a settled society, but that they now find vent for their vices and passions "in the chaos of the present time."

One cause of regret that the holiday season is so near its termination, is the fact that it will bring about the re-assembling of the Rump Congress and the Mongrel Convention of Virginia. The recess which they took has been a decided relief to the country, and if for no other reason, we would gladly see the holidays prolonged.

GEN. MEADE AND GEN. POPE .- The Washington correspondent of the New York

It is understood that Gen. Meade, while in Washington had a long interview with the President relative to his appointment as the successor of Gen. Pope. Mr. Johnson, it is said, told him that he should assign him to that command, whereupon Gen. Meade intimated that he had no desire whatever to assume the responsibilities of such a post and that he would much prefer not to have anything to do with politics and reconstruction. The President, I am informed is fully determined to remove Gen. Pope, and is now looking out for an available man to name as

MR. AND MRS. SUMNER .- The some time ago report that Mrs. Sumper was to come to Washington to preside in her husband's establishment has failed of verification, and the Home Journal of last week has the following, indicating that there is no likelihood that such will ever be the case:

"We have good authority for stating that the differences between Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sumper, which have caused so much unpleas ant gossip and scandal, have been finally set-tled by a permanent separation, with the mutual consent and desire of both parties and their best friends. The direct cause of this separation is simply the certainty—discovered only too late—that there exists between the parties, an incompatibility of temperament and opinion upon certain social their living happily together as man and wife.'

DARING ROBBERY .- There never has been a more bold and daring robbery committed in this community or elsewhere, than that perpetrated at the store room of S. A. Hamburger & Co., on Main street, on Monday night last. The persistent efforts made by the thieves to force the side door of the building in which the store is located, clearly proves the determination of the parties to succeed in their work of plunder. The instruments used to effect an entrance could not have been the regular tools for burglarious purposes, but must have been such as were most convenient to those who made the bold attempt. Parties who have examined the door think that the efforts to force it were made with a common plough-coulter, from the indentations made in the panneling -Failing to secure an entrance at the door, the side window was tried, and was finally forced to yield. The shutter of this window was an ordinary slat shutter, but lined inside with sheet-iron. The bottom of the shutter was broken off and the sheet-iron rolled up, so as to allow the body of a man to enter, and the window-sash and lights was smashed, thus removing the last obstruction to entrance. To have accomplished all this a considerable amount of noise was certainly made, and yet the thieves escaped detection. The loss of the firm is estimated at from $400 to $500, and up to this time nothing has transpired to expose the perpetrators.

MR. EDITOR :- As the Spirit of Jefferson circulates here as well as in other parts of the world, I hope you will have no objection to being informed, occasionally, of the doings of a literary society in our midst. The exercises of the Gerardstown Lyceum on Friday the 13th just., upon taking possession of its new hall, recently completed in this village, were quite varied and interesting.

The exercises for the evening were opened by the "Glee Club," with a song After this our worthy President, Prof. J. S. Greenlee, made some very pertinent and happy remarks, and was followed by our esteemed se cretary, J. B. Morgan, who read an appropriate dedicatory poem, full of pathos and sentiment. Some of the younger members followed in declamation, displaying considerable proficiency in the polemic art. The next in order was the regular debate, parti cipated in by G. W. McKown, C. Campbell, Resolved, That in the death of Mr. Berry, J. P. Stump, G. W. Daniels and R. S. Eithe profession has lost an able and upright | chelberger. The young debaters, by common consent, acquitted themselves handsomements, the community a highly esteemed, ly, eliciting considerable applause. C. Hollis read an essay upon "Knowledge and its Advantages," handling the subject with a skill hardly to be expected from so youthful an essayist. J. P. Stump read an essay upon " Litting the Veil, or a Glance into the Future," which was very instructive and entertaining to all. The exercises were concluded by a lecture from G. W. Daniels, on the "Foot Prints of Time." The subject elicited

It will be seen from the above, Mr. Editor, that living as we do, in a community somethe memory of our deceased friend and broth- what retired from the bustling world, we yet avail ourselves of all legitimate means of mental and moral improvement. The young men of our neighborhood practice all the the usual badge of mourning for the period virtues, and are unusually exempt from most of the vices that pertain to more densely populated communities. They strive to emulate the good and eschew the evil, and instead of frittering away the unoccupied moments of life in vain and frivolous pleasures, they are endeavoring to lay up a varied as well as useful store of knowledge, and thus to fit themselves for the higher and sterner duties

> SIGNS AND WONDERS-THREE SUNS ARISE AT ONCE .- A gentleman who arrived in the city yesterday from Lee county, informs us that the people of that section were thrown into great panic and paralysis a few mornings ago by the wonderful spectacle of three suns rising at the same time. The central orb was encircled by a beautiful rainbow. and surmounted by the fragment of another iris which extended on either hand above the attendant suns. The two surplus suns were, of course, but reflections of the bona fide sun on the clouds, and atter a brief space these suddenly dissolved and vanished, leaving the real Sol solus. But the people of the county who had never heard of so strange a phenomenon, were satisfied that the world was on the crumbling verge of extinction, and that the hog business in which they are so largely interested, was about to experience a thorough and final prostration. The spectacle is said to have been sublime and splendid be yond description, and inspired admiration even in the breasts of those who regarded it as the portent of awful supernatural developments .- Lynchburg Virginian.

CURE YOUR HORSES.

Some two or three mouths ago, a middle aged gentieman, hailing from old Kentucky, came to this place, and by handbills and otherwise aunounced himself a VETERINARY SURGEON, a graduate of a well-known Southern Veterinary College. We felt, as we still feel, quite satisfied that a gentleman in this capacity, who understood (opposite the Carter House, lately Dichi's Marble Yard,) where I will be pleased to wait on them and PHOTOGRAPH their faces as faithfully as the Camera, assisted by a properly managed light, can do. Call and try me, and I will do my best to please.

ALLEN F. HALL.

Augustication of Charlestown lambda and success in the veterinary art. That proof we them very bad with and other diseases, have been placed under his treatment, and the cures that he has effected, and his rapid progress in the cure of others still under treatment, have been somewhat remarkable, and given entire satisfaction to the owners. This statenent is fully concurred in by several gentleman of whom we have inquired, among whom we may mention, John H. Strider, halltown, Jefferson co., W. Va., Jas. T. Reed, John H Reed, C King, S V. Yantis, S. A. Cox, John J. Stevens, John E. Erwin, J. W. Neer, D. J. Young, Capt. U. S. A., Harper's Ferry, W. Va.

Most of these gentlemen have had horses under the care of Dr. Mitchell, and have cheerfully allowed the Doctor to refer to them touching their opinion of and confidence in his scientific know-ledge and practical skill in the speedy and success-tul removal of the various defects with which that valuable animal, the horse, is so frequently afflicted.

Of Dr. MITCHELL can be found at the Shenandoah House, Harper's Ferry, West Va.

GET THE BEST!

TIME SAVED IS MONEY MADE! THE very best Sewing Machine now in use is the WILCOX & GIBBS NOISELESS FAMILY SEWING MACHINE, which by its rapid motion and by its noiseless operation does not shock the nerves, but its work glides away from under the needle with magical swiftness, leaving the operator in a state of satisfaction and relief that so much habeen accomplished in so little time without labor; for there was no perplexity to get

THE NEEDLE SET; no wondering how to get the two tensions arranged just right; there was no ceaseless clatter to dis-turb, nor was there the dreaded reversing of the motion, causing a total disarrangement of needles, bobbins, and shuttles, after a half hour spent in GETTING READY;

neither was there the exhausting labor to run consequent upon much and complex machinery; there was none of these difficulties, for in the "Letter G" all these have been done away with; and as better satisfaction can be had by seeing its operation, we advise persons needing just such a machine, to call at the residence of Mrs. Ann E. Monroe, Charlestown, where one can be seen in operation, or send for samples of work and circulars to
