ANSWER OF THE PRESIDENT. Thirty Days Extension of Time Asked for by the President and Refused. WASHINGTON, March 23. At 1 P. M. to-day the President pro tem. of the Senate vacated the chair and the Chief Justice entered and took his seat.

The Chief Justice rapped the court to order and directed the sergeant at-arms to make proclamation. THE PRESIDENT'S ANSWER.

The following is, in substance, the answer of the President to the articles of impeachment exhibited against him by the House of Representatives : For answer to the first article he says that Edwin M. Stanton was appointed Secretary for the Department of War on the 15th day of January, A. D. 1862, by Abraham Lincoln, then President of the these ends. United States, during the first term of his Presidency, and was commissioned according to the constitution and laws of the United States to hold the said office during the pleasure of the President; that the law of 1789. passed by the first Congress of the United States, creating the office of Secretary of War, provides that he shall perform his duties according to the second section of the second article of the constitution, in such manner as the President shall, from time to time, order and instruct, acting, according to uniform practice, as one of the President's advisers; acting also for the President in matters pertaining to the Department, sub-ordinate to the President,, who is made responsible by the constitution and laws for the tenure of office were not affected by the first .That although a case thus existed, calling for the exercise of the executive power of removal, under the constitution, and believing that Mr. Stanton's case was not affected by the first section of the tenure-of-office act, the respondent desired, if possible, to avoid any question of the broader question of the executive power conferred on the President by the constitution to remove the principal officer of one of the executive departments; that in these questions of difference between the executive and legislative department of the government, we desire that they should be in some proper way submitted to the judical department entrusted by the constitution with the duty of determining finally the construction and effect of all acts of Congress, and comparing them with the constitution itself, with a view of pronouncing them inoperative when found in conflict with that fundamental law which the people have enacted for the government of all their servants-and to First, that through the action of the Senate of the United States, the absolute duty of the President to substitute some fit person in place of Mr. Stanton, as one of his advisers, and as a principal subordinate officer whose official conduct he was responsible for, and had lawful right to control, might, if possible, be accomolished without the necessity of raising any one of the questions aforesaid ; and, second, if this duty could not be so performed, then that these questions, or such of them as might necessarily arise, should be judicially determined ;' and for no other end or purpose this respondent, as President of the United States, on the 12th day of August, 1867, seven days after the reception of the letter of the said Stanton of the 5th of August, hereinconduct of the Secretary of War. Further, before stated, did issue to the said Stanton and constitutional meaning of the word. In answer to the fourth article, he denies that he did unlawfully conspire with Thomas or others to prevent or hinder Stanton from holding office as Secretary of War, or that he was guilty of high crimes or misde-meanor. He denies that Stanton was Secretary of War at that time, and that he did not advise Thomas or any other person or persons to use any coercion to obtain possession of the Department of War; that no force was used by Thomas in obedience to the President, and was no agreement between him and Thomas to use any force whatever. The allegations of said article that there was an intent to use force is wholly unsustained.

Inasmuch as to 6th article respondent denies that he entered at any time with any. person or persons into a conspiracy to defeat the operation of the tenure of office law, and that there is no statement of the steps taken in pursuance of such alleged design.

In answer to the seventh article he denies that he attempted at any time to take posses sion of the property of the War Department; that he did not commit a crime and misdemeanor, and refers to other articles to show bis intent.

In answer to the eighth article he denies that he made an attempt to take possession of the order requiring him to turn over the War money and records of the War Department ;

and sincerely believed.

Furthermore, the views and opinions expressed by him in these speeches are the same as he had ex-pressed to Congress, and should be so considered. In further answer to the tenth article, in consideration of his duties to the people, he hath and has the right of, on occasion, expressing opinions to the people relative to the duty and character of Congress, the views, motives and aims of public men; and

That if the said not regulating the terrors of civil offices be held to be a valid law, no provision of the same was violated by the is-suing said order or by the designation of said Thomas to act as Secretary of War ad interim. In answer to the third article, he abides by his answers to first and second, so far as the allegations contained in them are perti-nent thereto. He denies that his order to Thomas amounted to an order in the legal condition. During the progress to the city every attention was devoted that kindness could suggest, and nothing was left undone that could in any wise alleviate the suffering.

[From the Petersburg Index.] The Catholic Church in America.

The wonderful progress of the grand old Catholic Church in this country is beginning to attract attention, and it is certainly deserving of it. There can be no doubt that every movement of mankind, which has permanent ly affected the race for good or evil, has had a religious basis. That part of his being which takes hold on eternity lends a portion of its perpetuity even to the vanishing shad-ows of his earthly existence, and redeems the insignificance of earthly life by linking it with questions touching his eternal weal. Of the theological questions which mark the diversity between churches, sects and denominations, we have nothing to say. But as a public journalist it is our province to deal with all the phenomena of social life as affect-ing the well being of the nation. Why is it that the old antipathy to Catholicism, which the American people inherited from their English and Scotch ancestry, seems to be passing away? There are many reasons for this-we call attention to only a tew-those having a more direct relation to our national

Mr. Jacob Strawn, who is spoken of hs "The Great American Farmer," who died at Jacksonville, Illinois, In August last, in his biography has recorded many excellent characteristics of his life. He met with great success in all his business operations, which is attributable chiefly to the following maxims, which we copy for the benefit of those farm-ers who are somewhat tardy in performing the operations of the farm: "When you wake up do not roll over, but

and the President no longer permitted the President to resort to him for advice, or to be, in the judgment of the President, safely responsible for his conduct of the affairs of the Department of War, as by law required, in accordance with the orders and instructions of the President, that the respondent then considered and determined that the said Stanton ought no longer to hold the office, and quotes the note to the Secretary, dated August 5th, 1867, requesting him to resign, also the answer of Mr. Stanton refusing to do so, "for public considerations of a high character ;" that the respondent, having regard for his responsibility, then held that it was impossible, consistent with public interests, to allow Mr. Stanton to continue to hold the office, and forthwith set about to decide what acts were necessary to cause him to surrender the office. The respondent believes it to have been practically settled by the first Congress, and acted on in many cases by each Congress and President from the first; that the power at any and all times of removing from office all executive officers, for cause is to be judged of by the President alone. This respondent had, in pursuance of the constitution, required executive department upon this question of constitutional executive power and duty, and had been advised by each of them, including the said Stanton, Secretary for the Department of War, that under the constitution of the United States this power was lodged by the constitution in the President of the United States, and that consequently it could be lawfully exercised by him, and the Congress could not deprive him thereof; and this respondent, in his capacity of President of the United States, and because in that capacity 1867. MISCEL LANEOUS. The True Story of Cinderella.

The story of Cinderella is familiar to every one, and yet there are few that treasure it up as in every respect true. But it has a foundation and a reality that really needs no fairy godmother, with her pumpkin and her rats, to make an entertaining tale. It is as follows : In about the year 1730, a French actor, by the name of Thevenard, lived in Paris. He was rich and talented, but he had no wife, and we may believe he had never loved any one. but gave all his affections to those ideal characters that he could represent so fine on the stage. One day as he was walking leisurely along the streets of Paris he came upon a cobbler's stall, and his eye was attracted by a dainty little shoe which lay there waiting for repairs. His imagination began immediately to form the little foot that must fit such a little shoe. He examined it well, but only to admire it more and more.

On going to his own house he seemed haunted by the little shoe. He fancied it trippling over his floors; he could hear the music of it tread-in fact, there was nothing among all his rich, elegant treasures that seemed to him half so beautiful.

He went to the stall of the cobbler again, but could learn nothing in regard to the owner of the shoe. This only increased his eagerness, and made him more determined to know to whom it belonged. Day by day he was disappointed ; but he was not discouraged.

At last the little foot needed the little shoe, and Thevenard met the owner, a poor girl, whose parents belonged to the humblest class. But the ardent actor thought not of caste of family. His heart had already pronounced the little one his wife. He married the girl, with no question of what people would say, and felt enough joy in hearing the tread of the light, nimble feet through his silent rooms, to pay for the sacrifice of people's approval .-This is the true story of Cinderella, and from which the child romance sprang.

GOOD ADVICE .- A certain Cham of Tartsry going a journey with his nobles was met by a dervis, who cried with a loud voice, Whoseever will give me a hundred pieces of gold, I will give him a piece of advice." The Cham ordered him the sum ; upon which the dervis said, "Begin nothing of which thou hast not well considered the end." The courtiers, upon hearing this plian sentence, smiled, and said, with a sneer. "The dervis is well paid for his maxim !" But the king was so well satisfied with the answer, he ordered bone and sinew of the world, and ought to be well treated.

"I am satisfied that getting up early, industry and regular habits, are the best medicines ever prescribed for health.

"When it comes rainy, bad weather, so that you cannot work out of doors, cut and split your wood.

"Make your tracks when it rains hard, cleaning your stables, or fixing something which you would have to stop your plow for and fix in good weather.

"Make tracks, fixing your fence, or a gate that is off its hinges, or weather-boarding your barn where the wind has blown off the siding, or patching the roof of your house or barn.

TAN BARA FOR POTATOES .- This subject is brought before the farmers of England, by a communication in the Mark Lane Express. M. R. B. Bamford claims thirty five years' practice and experience in this matter, and has issued a pamphlet giving his method of using it, which is in brief the following :-He does not cut his potatoes for setting, but sets them whole, and the largest , he can select. The rows are thirty inches apart, and the potatoes are put nine inches from each other in the row. The land is ploughed only eight inches deep, treads the manure firmly in the furrows, puts in the tubers, and covers them in with tan refuse, nine inches deep, instead of earthing up. In this way he reports that in 1857 he raised 675 bushels of potatoes-not a rotten one among them-to the acre, with nothing but waste tan as a covering. . This is of great importance, the tan refuse being of little or no value, and if it can be put to so important and advantageous a use as in this case, it should be widely known and practiced.

TO MEASURE AN ACRE. - We find the following going the rounds. It may be useful to some of our readers. "Land 301 square yards make one square rod; 40 square rods 1 acre. 640 acres one square mile; 4,840 square yards, or 160 rods, make 1 acre. In measuring an acre by yards, the usual practice'is to trace off 70 yards in length and 70 yards in width. This in a rough way, may be considered near enough for practical purposes; but as 70 yards either way make 4,900 square yards, it exceeds one acre by 60 yards. To determine an accurate acre it may be measured 70 yards in length by 69 1-7 yards in width. The same result may be arrived at by measuring 220 feet in length and 180 feet in width, or by measuring 731 yards in length by 66 yards in breadth.

RANCID BUTTER .- We long ago cut from an exchange the following receipt: "To a pint of water add thirty drops (about half a table-spoonful) of liquid of chloride of lime.

Nicholson, as a personal favor, some of the most raneid butter in his very extensive establishment, and it was bad enough for any stomach that had more sensibility than a wagon wheel. We doctored it as per receipt, and when placed on the table along with the good butter, very able judges could not determine which was the new butter. Spicit of Jefferson. BENJAMIN F. BEALL, Editor. CHARLESTOWN, VA. Tuesday Morning, March 31, 1868. THE IMPEACHMENT.

The questions connected with the impeach ment of President JOHOSON, and the conseguences which may flow from his conviction and removal, are of so grave a character, as to absorb all others. Reconstruction for the nonce, is scarcely spoken of, and when mentioned at all, only to be regarded as a part of the unholy scheme instituted for the continnation of power in the hands of the party that is now seeking, through unconstitutional means, to get possession of the Executive Department

One hundred millions of gold in the Treasury, and a Presidential election to come off might well be expected to furnish motives for action with any party whose career has been marked with unblushing fraud and wanton disregard of the true interests of the coantry. The radical party, with its present patronage, does not mean to leave any obstacle in the road to its complete success, and sooner than run the risk of defeat in November, its leaders will sieze the reins of government and drive the country to irretrievable ruin. And this they are about to do.

It is too late now to inquire whether this might or might not have been prevented. We are not of those who find it convenient to denounce the inaction of Mr. Johnson, and to say that he ought to have done thus and so, We give him credit for patriotism, and believe the present welfare and future glory of the country has been his aim, but from the very inception of his administration the odds have been against him and his hands, tied. It is true he has been allowed to talk well and write elegantly, but these innocent exercises of his, whilst they have doubtless been a relief to him, have not weakened his opponents or created the slightest diversion in their original and digested plans for the overthrow of the constitution. If action was needed, Mr. Johnson was but one man, and though clothed with high official trust, he was without any guarantee of support in the event he attempted to resort to force. His protests have been manly and vigorous, and at any period of the constitutional liberty to themselves and their osterity. They have lost that keen relish for free government that distinghished their ancestors. As long as they are left free to pursue their daily avocations and to reap and onjoy the fruit of their own labor, they really care but little about the government, or who manages it. This is the feeling of the majority, while, no doubt, there is a considerable mi-nority who are ardent lovers of liberty, and who would suffer and sacrifice much for it. When Wade comes into the White House and assumes the reins of government, Democrats may expect to feel the full weight of Radical power. If we cannot overthrow this tyranny at the ballot box, we see no other course than to submit. These considerations which we believe the political situation justifies, make the coming contest of more than usual importance.

IS VIRGINIA A STATE

The question whether Virginia is a State in the Union, says the Southern Opinion, seems to depend for its answer, in the Radical mind, entirely upon varying circumstances. within the year, are considerations which For instance, Virginia is a State in the Union for Underwood, both as a Judge and a Senator : but she is pot a State in the Union for anybody else, brought before Underwood on habcas corpus, and seeking relief from military imprisonment. That Underwood's documents may go free, Virginia is in the Union but that a citizen of the State may not go free, she is very much out of the Union. Yet the Supreme Court has plainly responded to the querry in the affirmative, and it should not be any longer a mooted question. In a very recent decision, following up former ones of the same tenor, that bigh body says that the "efforts to draw off eleven States from their allegiance to this Government, and the setting up of the so-called Confederate States Government were illegal, the States being still constitutionally in the Union." In like manner Congress, during the whole war, recognized Virginia as a State in the Union, by allowing certain men to represent her as Sepators : and it was not until the war was over that this representation (such as it was) was put an end to. It is certainly difficult to explain how Virginia was a State in the Union during the existence of a condition of war, and yet ceased to be such on the establishment of peace. Judge Fisher, of Washington, however, like Underwood, finds no difficulty in suiting the status of Virginia to the occasion, and he, in contempt of the Supreme Court, has decided that she is not a

WADE AND THE PRESIDENCY.

The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Gazette, writing on the 26 instant, says: A question of some magnitude, and one of especial interest to the Hon. Ben Wade, President, pro tem. in the Senate, i now being privately discussed among the Radical Congressman of the anti-Wade stripe. The sixth section of the second Article of the Constitution says that Congress may by in the Staunton Vindicator : law provide for the case of the removal by death, resignation or inability. &c., both of the President and Vice President, declaring what officer shall then act as President. &c. A question is now raised by those opposed to. of the Senate is such an officer as is contemplated by the Constitution. They contend that the officer must be an officer of the Uni-Senate or House. This same question was raised in the win er of 1793, and was debated during the en. ire session without a decision. The same liscussion was continued in 1794, when Mr.

Madison, then a member of the House of Representatives, spoke and voted against the oposition that an officer of either House f Congress was eligible to the Presidency under the clause of the Constitution quoted above. The bill as from the Senate passed the House by only one majority, Mr. Madison voting against it. The hostility to Mr. Wade in the Radical camp is very great, and no stone will be left unturned to prevent his reaching the Presilential chair. It is a fact that eminent ounsel have been consulted. Hon. Reverdy Johnson has given the opinion that the resident pro tem, of the Senate is such an officer as is centemplated by the Constitution. nd in this opinion Judge Woodward fully concurs.

The question is undergoing a lively intestigation by the parties in interest, with the advantage of the law as it now stands in Vade's favor. FROM WASHINGTON.

Murder in Augusta County.

One of the greatest outrages ever perpe trated in the Valley, occurred on Monday night, the 16th instant, at the residence of Mr. Christopher Stover, in Augusta county, when Mr. Stover was killed and Mr. Robert McCreary seriously wounded, by three or four armed and disguised men. The circumstances are given in the following letter published FISHERSVILLE, March 18th, 1868 Mr. Editor :-- I have just returned from the house of Mr. Christopher Stover, near the Greenville and Waynesboro road, and about 7 miles from the latter place, where one of the most brutal murders occurred, on Mon-Mr. Wade, whether the President pro tem. day night, the 16th inst., that has ever taken place in our county. Mr. Stover's family consisted of Mr. Stover, an old man in his 68th year, his wife and two grown daughters-his other children ted States, and not an officer merely of the Senate or House. House being married left the paternal roof some years ago. Messrs. William and Robt Mc-Creary and two Messrs. Kindig, with five. young ladies were on a visit to Mr. Stover's family on the night mentioned. About 9. o'clock some one knocked at the door and one of the ladies advanced to open it. A voice on the outside said, "don't let the dog bite." The door having been opened, a tall man, with pistol in hand, followed by two others similarly armed, entered, and said "be still ! the first that speaks I will blow his brains out." Mr Stover rose from his seat and said, "what is your name ? What do you want ?" The three advanced, calling to him to "sit still, or we'll blow your brains out." Mr. Stover then seized a small axe near him and struck at the tall'man, who dodged-the sharp edge of the axe grazing the right cheek and taking effect in the right shoulder. All seized the axe and twisted it out of his hands.

In the scuffle a cap on one of the pistols exploded. Just then one of the young men slipped out, but was seen by the murderers, who followed, crying "stop! stop!" and fired twice at him. When all were out of the house two additional shots were fired and all became quiet. Mr. M. R. Coalter, who lives but a few hun dred yards away, attracted by the pistol shots came over, and found Mr. Stover on the ground, within a few feet of his door, perfectly dead being shot through the heart. Mr. Robt. McCreary was found about one hundred yards off, shot through the right lung. He was shot at the door of the house when Mr. Stover was killed, and, in trying to escape, had gone as far as his strength would permit. He is having every attention, but it is feared his wound is mortal.

An old wagon whip was left in the yard by the murderers. On the axe and on the fence where they crossed, are drops of blood, supposed to be from wounds produced by the axe. The scoundrels are supposed to be white men, blacked to avoid detection, whose object government prior to 1861, would have been perfectly resistless.

But the seed which are now about to produce such a harvest of destruction were sown during the reign of Mr. Johnson's predecessor, and the present President may not be entirely blameless for the root they have taken. It was then that the constitution received those stabs from which it has not yet, and is not likely ever to recover. The first infraction, quietly submitted to, opened the flood-gates to general demoralization, until the dominant party found it convenient to base their legislation and consolidate their than the whole, No wonder, after this, that structure upon the ruins of, and outside, all measures of constitutional restraint. What all this is to lead to, it needs no keen prophetic sense to foretell;

As a matter of course Mr. Johnson will be convicted. No other result ought to be looked for. Like the military commissions which sent Mrs. Surratt and hundreds of others to the scaffold, the tribunal before which Mr. Johnson is arraigned, has been ornot be in keeping with the grand scheme of scoundrelism that is to make the government a despotism, or deluge the country with blood. But the end is not here ; the evil stops not with removal of the President. He must have a successor, and he must be one upon whom the revolutionists can rely, to carry out in detail, and to its very minutia, the programme that is marked out. What is that programme, and what the result of its faithful performance, are questions which we find admirably answered in the columns of the Doylestown (Pa.) Democrat, whose editor was a Provost in this town during its occupancy by Gen. Patterson. After a careful survey of the field, he has arrived at the conclusions presented in the extract below :--

We have often remarked in our columns that the Radicals have struck for Empire in this country, and we are still of this opinion. To attain it, they will use all the means that unblushing impudence and love of tyrannical power may suggest. Their object is to elect the next President at all hazards, and they will not scruple at the means. They do not intend the people shall have a fair ballot if they can prevent it, and they will take the proper means to prevent it. They know that, they stand in danger of losing the vote of the majority of the Northern States unless the ballot is given to the negroes. The measure is now before Congress, and we expect to see it pass before the adjournment. This bill enfranchises the negroes in all the States where they do not already vote, and they hope thereby to secure New York, Pennsylvania Ohio, and other States. Before the present session of Congress adjourns, a test oath bill will be passed, in some shape or other, which will exclude from voting enough Democrats, to give the Radicals a majority in all the close districts. This will enable them to carry every State and again to have a two-thirds Imajority in Congress. Our friends must not argue that the Radicals will not dare to do such outrageous things, that they will be afraid and all, that. They dare do anything that becomes necessary to secure them in power, and which is proved by the history of Another strange circumstance in this matter is, that a fragment of Virginia, composed of certain seceding counties, has been acknowledged by the Government as a State in the Union, has its senators and representatives in Congress, and is accredited in every way as an equal among the other States, few days ago, as to the action of the court in while Virginia herself is treated as an unorthe consultation room, was correct. COME TO GRIEF .- Some six weeks ago well-dressed gentlemen from the moral and enlightened North got off the train at Harper's Ferry, and took up his head-quarters at the Boarding House of Mrs. Kreps. Being "flush," he concluded to go into the "shaving" business, and consequently bought up a lot of paper on different parties at that point-among them a note for $500, which he obtained at the moderate discount of $100. Other operations he engaged in, with a keen eye to profitable investment, and was getting along swimmingly, until Saturday week, when. a small circular fell into the hands of Constable Yantis, giving a description of an absconding thief from the State of New York, and the Harper's Ferry note-shaver filled the description with photographic accuracy He was at once taken in charge, and parties in New York telegraphed to. 'On Monday they came on, and recognized the speculator as the gentleman who had stolen $1,450 about two months ago, and made his escape. On Tuesday they started with him on the return trip. Only a part of the money was recovered, and the notes which he had bought up. While at the Ferry he passed as George W. Parrot, representing himself to be a nephew of the inventor of the Parrot gun, but it turns out that his real name is George Robinson. A reward of $125 was offered for his capture, and a like reward for the recovery of the funds. The first was paid over to Mr. Yantis before he was taken away.

DEVILMENT AT DUFFIELD'S .- Some depraved creature, emulous of the reputation acquired by the "Moon Ghost" in Albemarle, has been attempting some fantastic tricks at Duffield's Depot in this county, but there is a suspicion that his object is to plunder the citizens of that vicinity, rather than to keep up a condition of alarm by systematic annoyances. The houses of Messrs Billings, Melvin and Kildow have been entered by this visitor. and as we are informed, various articles of furniture displaced and overturned, Noises have been heard at all hours of the night. indicating boldness, persistance and determination on the part of the thief, if such he may be called. BULL & SEWELL. It had never been our good fortune to meet these parties before the trip in question, but we are now happy to say that we have met them, and are surely convinced that they are the men to "keep a hotel." One must be hard to please indeed, if he visits their house and does not find everything to please the fancy and gratify the appetite. Their chambers are neatly furnish ed, and their beds clean, roomy and comfortable. The location of this house has always made it a favorite with the Valley people, and now that it is in the hands of those who have a care for their guests, we may look for, fections.

WALTER CROOK, JR., a thorough business man and clever gentleman, introduces his house to the people of this region through the medium of our columns. He is a manufacturer of and dealer in window shades venitian blinds, &c., and his store-room, 220 W. Baltimore street, is well filled with the articles named in his card. Parties desiring anything in his line should give him a call. VALLEY ITEMS.

From our Valley exchanges we clip the following items :---

- Quite a number of building lots hav again been sold in Harrisonburg. - John D. Heatwole has found, on Dry River, in Rockingham county, a kind of clay that makes a beautiful stone-china.

- A joint stock company with a capital of $8,000, is about to be organized in Winchester, to erect an extensive building for the purposes of the Dunbar Female Seminary. - On Thursday week, at Crab Bottom, in Highland county, Nat. Atchisor, from Barbour county, deliberately murdered Mr. Solomon Nicholas whilst plowing in his field, by shooting him three times. - An accident occurred in Kemper & Holbrook's Saw-Mill, near Port Republic, Rockingham county, on Wednesday the 18th inst., which Alcano Rogers, the sawyer, had his right foot cut off at the instep.

- An attempt to fire the residence of Dr. Wm. A. McCormick, in Winchester, was made a few days ago. Fortunately the fire was discovered before it had communicated itself to the wood-work. A lot of rags in a barrel under the passage steps had been fired.

THE IMPEACHMENT .- DATA, the generally well informed correspondent of the Baltiof the 26th as follows:-

There is a report to-night which comes from a respectable source, that Judge Chase, upon reflection and full examination of the constitution and the discussion upon its formation and adoption, has concluded his functions as presiding officer of the Senate, when trying a President on impeachment, are in the nature of those of a judge presiding upon the bench; that therefore it is his province decide all legal questions that may be raised by either the prosecutors or the accused in the progress of the trial. And it is further stated that this matter has been conit to regain and retain its hold upon their af- sidered and discussed informally by the Supreme Court judges, who coincide with the Chief-justice in the views above set forth.

The visits; as we have been told, have occurred on different nights, showing that it is some one who does not reside at a great distance from the point. We have heard different versions of the affair, but the above has more semblance of truth about it than any that has reached us. Soniebody wants to steal, and as soon as he finds such articles as suit his taste, he will take them, when there will be an end of it, unless he is discovered and sent to the penitentiary, where he ought to be now.

RUSSELL'S REAPER AND MOWER .- This superior machine, for which Messrs. D. Humphreys & Co., of this town are the agents, is now on exhibition in the Court-House yard. The general satisfaction which it has given wherever tried, the substantial manner in which it is constructed, its simplicity, and its lightness of draft, should commend it to our farmers, in these times when economy of labor is so essential. With our limited information of machinery, we hardly think it necessary to go into a detailed description of this Reaper. and yet it combines such obvious advantages as a Reaper and Mower, that we feel we are doing our agricultural readers a service in calling attention to them. The ease with which the machine is transformed from a reaper to a first class mower, the facility with which the Drop is worked while the machine is in operation, the smoothness of the working of the Reel, without jar-the peculiar not to give her hand to him who had journeyed arrangement for raising both ends of the Cutter-Bar to any required height, and the superior seat arrangement, at once easy and perfectly adjustable, without the use of a wrench, are all features which should and will doubtless attract the attention of the farmer. As this class of our community will have occasion to examine it before harvest, we direct of the sudden turn affairs had taken. It must them to Messrs. Humphreys and Hooff, who have given his faith in women a pretty heavy will take great pleasure in explaining the advantages of the Reaper. shock, to say the least, but he must remember that there is "many a slip 'twixt the cup and lip," and that nothing is certain except death. ELEGANT POTATOES .- For some days we have been feasting on a large basket of dechurch in this place on Tuesday, according to licious potatoes, sent us by Mr. HENRY Romen. They are of 'the "Calico" variety, There was a change of partners. The disthe seed were brought by him from Penncarded lover was the bridegroom, and the sylvania, and are certainly superior to any potato we have ever eaten at this season of the year. Among the lot sent us there is not one unsound or faulty potato. We learn that since. Mr. R. has about 150 to 200 bushels of these potatoes, which he will dispose of to farmers for seed. His address is Rippon, this county.

ACCIDENTS TO STOCK on the Winchester. Railroad are becoming frequent. On Wednesday last, Jno. Avis of Wm. had a fine cow injured, and on Friday, Jonathan Haines had a two year old heifer killed. We think the company would do well to put in cattle stops at the crossing of the Eeetown road, otherwise they may be made to pay damages for some of the oft-occurring accidents.

The dull monotony of our town was broken on Tuesday by a little episode which threw impeachment talk and excitement completely into the shade, and clearly demonstrated that truth is oft-times stranger than fiction. The facts are these : A young and rather prepossessing lady residing in the neighborhood of Bunker Hill, was engaged to be married to a gentleman living in Missouri. Tuesday last was the day fixed for the celebration of the nuptials.; The bridegroom and his attendants had arrived. Monday evening found a convivial party at the residence of the bride's father-among the number, the expectant bridegroom, his attendants and several near relatives, together with the youth and beauty of the surrounding country. And there was present, also, as an invited guest, a former affianced and discarded lover of the prospective bride. But there was in this nothing strange. The hours, on rosy wings, flew swiftly by .--It was a "merrie companie." The bridegroom, in blissful ignorance of "breakers ahead" was gliding smoothly and peacefully along in

WATCHES FOR THE MILLION!

ARRANDALE & CO.'S GREAT WATCH CLUB:

Everybody needs a good watch, and wishes to get it at the lowest possible price; a hördeof swindlers knowing this have contrived various ingenious de-vices to get people's money, and then either fail to send a watch, or send one that is worthless as a time-keeper. ARRANDALE & CO., have now perfected arrangements by which, for the small sum of fected arrangements by which, for the small sum of $10, a good and reliable watch may be CERTAINLY obtained. They have formed a GREAT WATCH CLUB on the following plan. Cortificates contain-ing the numbers of all the watches named in our wholesale list (which is sent to all applicants) are mixed up, enclosed in envelopes, and sold for 25 cents each. Every certificate is WARRANTED to be for a watch, and as will be seen on reference to the list, none are of less value than Ten Dollars, whilst some are worth $300. We undertake to send any watch drawn whatever may be its value for $10 and in order that every one may absolutely depend upon getting a first class time keeper, we guarantee that every purchaser of One Dollar's worth of cer-tificates shall receive at least one for watch No. 533
