Tuesday Morning, April 21, 1868. Female Gambling Hell in New York-Terrible Picture of life in the American Metropolis. In Twenty-third street, near Madison avenue, is a gambling house, patronized ex-clusively by females. With the kind permission of your readeas we will visit it. It is a modest, unpretentious-looking house the entrance scrupulously clean, and presenting no different appearance, externally, then those adjoining, save the blinds are all tightly closed. Ringing the bell, we are admitted by the strength of the st mitted by a gorgeously appareled woman, who acts as janitress. On one side of the hall is a superb painting of Ledo and the Swan, on the opposite side is another painting, equally good, of Venus rising from the sea. Ascending the stairs, we are ushered into the parlors on the first floor. They are elegantly even luxuriously furnished. The person who fitted up these rooms must have had exquisite taste. The paintings hanging on the wills are rare and valuable, but the most conspicuous, and the one that first strikes the eye and rivets the attention, is the painting by Ary Schaffer, of the gambling scene from Bulwer's August Belmont has offered $20,000, and been refused.

Seated around the room and at the gaming table are a number of ladies, all of whom are dressed in the height of fashion. The players are flushed with excitement, but the dealer, in her Pompadour waist, half revealing, half concealing an ample bust sits calm and collected, and rakes in the "chips" with the utmost sang froid. Ever and anon some player, when a heavy bet is lost, calls for wine, which is speedily supplied by an attentive and demure looking Hebe. Demure! Yes, but it is the demureness of a cat. Offend her; and she will qwickly show you that she has claws. The lady, at the center of the table, sitting between Anonyma and Aspasia, is the wife are adjusted on a firm and substantial basis of one of the most wealthy merchants. I of Right and Justice, and these Blood-Sucks could tell you her name, but tales must never | who have long been preying upon the vitals be told out of school. Observe that young of the people, will be returned to their pro-lady, with a bonnet no larger than a cockle per level and carry out the scriptural prophshell, and Bismarck brown ribbons the one who is now taking off her diamond ring to stake, and which she will lose as sure as eggs are eggs, is the daughter of an ex-Judge .-Ah lour wealthy merchant's wife is a loser; see, she rises from the table biting her lips till blood comes to conceal her emotions .-Come, let us away. Such scenes do not make our opinion of poor, weak human nature the more exalted. Is it any wonder that we so frequently see rewards offered for lost diamond rings, necklaces and bracelets? If we had the power of Asmodeus, we would see these "lost" articles in the safe of some gentleman who has for his sign the old Lombardy elm of three balls. The thirst for gambling will be satisfied, and money must be obtained: Yes, yes, Hamlet was right. "There are more things in Heaven and earth than are dramed of in our philosophy."

[From the Columbus (Miss.) Sentinel.] A Mississippi Tragedy.

We noticed a few days ago the killing of a man named Barrier, by a man named Wilson, at Philadelphia, Neshoba county, Miss. Since then we have heard the particulars from a member of the Columbus bar, who has recently been near the scene of blood, and the facts make it one of the most terrible tragedies that has ever occurred in this section.

It seems that young Barrier was engaged to be married to one of the most respectable and beautiful girls in the county. The day before the day set for the marriage, Barrier met young Wilson in the street, and requested him to go with him to the Probate office to get his marriage license. He did so. The license was obtained and Barrier left the office. Wilson, also, clandestinely obtained a license to marry the same girl. The company had assembled at the time and place appointed for the celebration of the nuptials, and just as all things were ready, the lady was reported very sick. Chloroform, morphine and other opiates were administered to her, and in a few hours she was sufficiently revived and the marriage vows were taken. None knew at that time the cause of her sudden sickness. It was afterwards ascertained that Wilson had sent her a message not to marry Barrier. The communication so much affected her, that she became ghostly pale and fainted. After the ceremony, as is the custom in that region, the new husband carried his bride to his humble home. That night the pair, after having retired to the bridal chamber, were aroused by several friends of Wilson, and one of them demanded an interview with the bride. She saw him, and in a few minutes informed her husband that she intended to return to her father's home at once. She left with Wilson's friends, and went back to her father's house. Immediately afterward she filed a bill for a divorce, alleging that she married Barrier, while under the influence of opiates. A few days after, the Circuit Court was to meet, and on the first day of the court a large he has, then I will vote for the articles of crowd collected at the county town. Before noon the crowd were seen rushing to one point, where something unusual was transpiring .-Barrier was attracted, and approached the scene of excitement, when he discovered Wilson beating with a large stick the ministerformed the marriage ceremony between him- ed, and I will vote for the articles of impeachself and Miss White. As he approached, ment. Has he established absolute military you take up this difficulty ?" Barrier replied: I do!" At this revolvers were drawn and five shots exchanged. Barrier was killed dead upon the sdot, and Wilson dangerously, but not mortally wounded. Thus ended this terrible tragedy of real life. What must be the feelings of the illfated widow, Mrs. Barrier? Terrible beyond description! Truly may it be said, truth is

MISSOURI CORRESPONDENCE.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 8th, 1868.

Mr. Editor:—I will drop you a line or two to renew our acquaintance and give you few items of general interest.

Tuesday was election day for city officers here, and the loil of the various stripes were congregated for the purpose of manifesting their high prerogative of American citizens the right of franchise. As negroes, women and rebels are on the proscribed list-one of which of whom am I, I took no part in the proceedings, and fell content to sit down in my office and think easy—"Lay on Macduff."
Well, Macduff did lay on—for while the sons of Erin kept at bay the Hessians of Hesse Carmel, Hesse Darmstadt, &c., the manor born completely cleaned out the vandals of the North, Oliver Ri. Rap Twist—the wooden nutmeg candidate, being beaten by Mr. Harris—native—by a majority of one hundred and ninety-three. This wholesale robbery by the democrats, (for such it will be termed,) in stealing these city offices from Rads, seems to be affecting their gizzards terribly. They now see "the shadow of coming events," and amidst their revelry has suddenly appeared the ghost of the murdered Banquo. The editor of the radical organ here appears to have lost his best friend, and his countenance is in sackcloth and ashes .-Oh, it is hard for them thus to let go the purse-strings. They have toiled not, neither have they spun, yet they have lived in the greatest profusion on the honest earnings of others. Poor Twiss seeks comfort in Wolplay of "Money," and for which, it is stated, sey's solloquy-I fear he will be compelled to retire to the vicinity of the Plymouth Rock, and in the home of his witchcraft ancestors again employ his ingenuity on wooden nutmegs, and await until another upheaval of the sea shall bring his party to the surface. The Democrats are quite exultant over their success, and it augurs well for the growth and prosperity of this new and rapidly growing city. Many persons have heretofore been deterred from coming, because the city government was in the hands of a party whose sole object was to fleece the people. Our neighbor, Leavenworth has also gone largely Democratic. It seems the people everywhere are returning to their senses, and I have ecy, "The dogs have returned to their vomit again, and the sow to her wallowing in the

The Missouri river is now in fine boating order and the frequent whistling of the steamers, cars, shops, &c., give a business sound to the city. The Great Bridge is progressing finely and will undoubtedly be a success.— The spring trade has opened and the merchants are busy. I was agreeably surprised by a visit from one of your townsmen, Mr. G. C. He tells me he intends opening out in the mercantile line soon, and from his intense anxiety for a speedy return, I should judge there will be a partner in the firm. We ran over many old scenes, called up familiar faces and places, until I, lost in revery, winged my way back to the home of childhood and youth, and cancelled all the rest. How often thus it happens, that as we are wending our way slowly through life, our eye intently gazing forward, striving to penetrate the darkness that lies before us; a familiar voice, a well-remembered song or object suddenly diverts our attention, and we halt in our journey and sit down to review the road over which we have travelled. Oh, it is a pleasing occupation, from which we rise refreshed in spirit, for there is no one, however dark and gloomy may have been his pilgrimage, who cannot descry some islands in the stormy main, some footprints in the sands, at which his heart can take courage to renew the journey before

I was pleased to hear from Mr. C. of the rapid growth of Charlestown since my departure, and if all he informed me was in course of construction, be carried to completion, you will soon boast of a city of no small

Nature has thrown off the dusky wrappings of winter and the revolving suns have again brought back the mild season of spring to our hills. The landscape wears the vernal hue, and the forest is spreading her mantle to shelter the weary traveler and the panting beast. Already the young folks are leaving their winter abodes and gamboling on the green and pic-nicing in the groves. I was invited to one of these gay assemblages last Saturday, but from reasons I deem prudent not to tell, I forbore availing myself of the Hon George W. Morgan, member of Congress from Ohio, delivered an excellent speech on impeachment, on the 29th ult. We quote the following pithy and incisive paragraph. Every sentence is a center shot : "Prefer articles of impeachment against the Chief Magistrate of the Republic, and for what? Has he arrested and imprisoned citizens without trial and without defense! If impeachment. Has he struck down the liberty of the press? If he has then I will vote for impeachment. Has he denied to ten States of the Union their rightful representation in Congress? If he has, then he is guilty of a flagrant violation of the Consti-Mr. Seal-who, a few days before, had per- tution, and should be arraigned and punish-Wilson turned and accosting him said: "Do | despotism over the States of the South on the pretext of conferring upon them republican forms of government? For if he has, then then he is not only a ruthless violator of the Constitution, but a tyrant and he deserves to ty of the white race in the South in order to establish negro despotism over white men,. description! Truly may it be said, truth is women and children, loyal and disloyal alike? stranger than fiction. There is in this a For if he has, then he has not only frampled stranger than fiction. There is in foundation for a thrilling romance.

If we cannot be accounted to live but at such times as we enjoy ourselves, life will be found to be very short; since were we only to reckon the hours we pass agreeably a great number of years would not make up a few months.

For if he has, then he has not only frampled upon the Constitution, but committed a crime against nature by reducing the highest race in the world to the servitude of the lowest, and each imagining i would be herself. "I will take a peep at thost beauties," thought the violet, not presuming to attend the meeting. "I will see them as they pass."

But as she raised her lowly head to peep out of her hiding place, she was obserted by the judge, who immediately pronounted her the judge, who immediately pronounted her the imost beautiful, because the most most beautiful, because the most most beautiful, because the most modest.

POETICAL. ERIN'S FLAG. BY FATHER BYAN:

Unroll Erm's flag! fling its folds to the preeze!
Lett float o'er the land, let it flash o'er the seas;
Lift it out of the dust—let it wave as of fore,
When its chiefs, with their clans, stod; around

That never! no! never, that Banner would yield
So long as the heart of a Celt was its slield;
While the land of a Celt had a weapon so wield,
And his last drop of blood was unshed on the field Lift it up! wave it high!— tises brigh as of old! Not a stain on its Green, nut a blot on a Gold. Though the woes and the wrongs of the hundre

Though the clouds of oppression en roud it in gloom,
And around it the thunders of tyranny, com.
Look aloft! look aloft! lo! the cloud's trifting by
There's a gleam through the gloom, there's a light in the sky?

Tis the Sunburst resplendent—far, clashing or high! Erin's dark night is waning, her day d wn is nigh

Lift it up! lift it up! the old Banner of Green,
The blood of its sons has but brightened its sheen
What!—though the tyrant has trampled it down,
Are its folds not emblazoned with deeds of renown i
What!—though for ages it droops in the dust, Shall it droop thus forever? No, no! G d is just!
Take it up! take it up! from the tyrant! foul tread.
Let him tear not the Flag—we will so tch its last

And beneath it we'll bleed to the first shreet. And beneath it we'll bleed as our fore there blee And we'll vow by the dust in the gravesof our dead And we'll swear by the blood which the tyrant ha And we'll vow by the wrecks which the o' Erin spread; And we'll swear by the thousands who famished unfed,

Died down in the ditches—wild howling for bread;
And we'll vow by our heroes, whose spires have fled,
And we'll swear by the bones in each of finless bed.
That we'll battle the tyrant through langer and dread; That we'll ching to the cause which we'll ching to the cause which we'll bry to wed, 'Till the gleam of our steal and the spock of our Shall prove to our foes that we meant whit we said— That we'd lift up the Green, and we'd tear down

But its folds, like their hopes, are not faded no Like a weary-winged bird to the East at the West It has flitted and fled, but it never shall rest, 'Till pluming its pinions, it sweeps o'e the main. MISCELLANEOUS WARNING TO SUNDAY FISHERNEN .- The Bedford Chronicle is responsible for the following, which the reader can believe as much of as he may please: For many pars a man (his name we could not learn) living on Staunton river, has been in the ha lit of fishing only on the Sabbath. About three weeks ago he wended his way to the place at which he usually commenced his angline and after being very successful in his sport, he became tired and concluded to return to his home: but he was informed by a voice coping from the water that his fishing on the holy Sabbath was at an end; that he should remain in his tracks until the last day; but he should not suffer for food or drink, neither from heat or cold; he should converse with to one but his wife, and not receive food or covering from any one. After he had been been been for several days a number of his neigh ors turned out in search of him, and when found, attempts were made to move him from his steadfast position, without any su cess, notwithstanding he was standing in sand—spades were then procured to remove the fand from beneath his feet, and at the firs attempt blood issued forth from beneath hit a, another attempt with the same effect when ais friends left him in his lonely and solitary position.

"We do not vouch for the trut bulness of the above, but present it to our relders as it was told us, by a gentleman of respectability and high standing.

A BOY TWELVE YEARS OLD KILLS FULL-GROWN PANTHER .- On Bard the steamer Kanawha Belle last week we saw the skin of a full grown panther hapging in the cabin. It was killed among the mountains of Nicholas county, West Virginia, by a boy named Mike Fitzwalter, ged only twelve years. The little fellow wie on his way, to school when he spied the pather in the forks of an old tree, in the act if springing upon a deer. The boy ran back to his home to get his father to shoot the animal. He found his father absent, but nothing daunted, took down the old family piece hat hung over the door and ran back to wheel he had seen the panther. The deer had lone, but the dread animal remained. Taking deliberate aim, he pulled the trigger. The trusty gun failed him not, and the patther fell-dead. Such an act of heroism i one so young is seldom seen. The friend of the boy gave him fifty dollars as a rewird for his awha Belle .- Gallipolis Bulletin.

HAPPINESS .- He cannot be an unhapp man who has the love and smiles of a woman to accompany him in every department of life The world may look dark and cheeress without-enemies may gather in his fath-but when he returns to his fireside, and feels the tender love of woman, he forgets his troubles. and is comparatively a happy main. As the shad season is at hand the fillowing description of a process for the at ficial propagation of this valuable fish will B read with interest. It i taken from the He roke Transcript:

we spoke of the attempt then being man

the falls to propogate shad by artificial m ins, by Mr. Seth Green, of Mumford, N. Y. and that it was proving successful. At this late' the method of artificial culture of fish is a fact, and already millions have been has hed and let loose in their native element. Mr. Green is a native of Rochester, N. Y. and is one of those tough, sinewy mey, who has devoted nearly his whole life in tramping with gun and fishing rod through the wild country of Vestern and Northern New York. Some to years ago he became con-vinced that by cultivation the waters could be made as productive for man's estate, as the tilling of the soil, and with far less physical effort, since which time he has devoted himself to the study of fish and their habits. Three years ago lie purchased in Caledonia. New York, a large creek, the waters of which were supplied from a living spring, and began the propagation of trout with very great success, and now supplies the country far and near with this favorite fish of the American waters. He has long possessed a desire to come here and try his luck in raising shad and finally, after repeated correspondence with the State commissioners, came at his own expense and began operations, with what success any one can see for themselves by visiting the scene of his exploits on the other side of the river. The Shad are co ght in the night, in seine, and by gent manipulations stripped and the spawns plat d in breeding box is, of which there are rome dozen or more, a d are impregnated by squeezing upon it the milt of the male shad. The eggs in the first stage, or after about twelve hours, resemble white beads; in twenty-four hours they become transparent; in thirty-six hour the fish takes form inside the egg, and its hovements are plainly discernable through the thin covering, its eyes being the most Hainly seen; at the end of forty-eight house the fish breaks loose and can be seen darting hither and thither in the water, at this stage it has attached to its body a sort of transparent bladder, from which it obtains sustenance for some days. During this trial of artificial propogation one interesting fact has been developed, and that is, that within from forty-two to forty-eight hours after the spawn has been taken from the mother fish, it has hatched millions of lively young shad, when heretofore it has always been supposed that it required one or two weeks time : and what is more important 95 per cent. of the spawn is hatched with perfect success, while if the shad are allowed to make their deposits in the river not more than five per cent. are ever hatched, being destroyed by other fish, the change in the temperature of the vater, and sediment washed in from cultivated ands. This last fact is one of the chief objects of the experiments, and also to impress upon our fishermen that by a little labor garing the last run of shad they can re stock the riv-er and increase the run the ensuing year many times. Mr. Green will probably let loose in the river very soon, with what are already gone, more than, 100,000,000 little fellows, who will seek the salt water and in due time return to their breeding places .-

The river can be stocked with salmon in the Mr Green is now experimenting on the best method to construct breeding boxes .-As they are now made, the fish have to be removed soon after hatching. and decreasing the labor accordingly. He is quite willing to show visitors the process of artificial propogation, and exhibit samples in the various stages of incubation. It is a success of the greatest importance, and with reasonable protection and the expenditure of a few thousand dollars for a few years, the time and money would be returned twenty-fold, for there seems to be no limit to the increase of shad that could be made if the States would take hold of the matter and help along the enterprise. Thus would the waters of the broad Counciticut become resources of revenue, and the pople be greatly benefited thereby.

How to GET SLEEP .- This is to many persons a matter of the highest importance. Nervous persons, who are troubled with wakefulness and excitability, usually have a strong tendency of blood on the brain, with cold extremities. The pressure of the blood on the brain keeps it in a stimulated or wakeful state, and the pulsations in the head are often painful. Let such raise and chafe the body and extremities with a brush or towel, or rub smartly with the hands to promote circulation and withdraw the excessive amount of blood from the brain, and they will fall asleep in a few moments. A cold bath, or a sponge bath and rubbing, or a good run, or bravery. The skin may be seen of the Kan- a rapid walk in the open air, or going up or down stairs a few times just before retireing, will aid in equalizing circulation and promoting sleep. These rules are simple and easy of application in eastle or cabin, and may minister to the comfort of thousands who would freely expend money for an anodyne to promote "nature's sweet restorer, balmy

Take Care of the Tools.

American farmers have learned much, but they have yet much to learn. As a genetil thing they may be classed among the economical—that is, in certain directions. They are not addicted to extravagant dressing; neither do they usually indulge in many of the luxuries which persons in other callings, whose means are far more limited, allow themselves; still, some of them are far from being as prudent and economical as they should be in regard to the care of their farm implements. The purchase and repair of these absolute essentials to agriculture, constitute one of the heaviest sources of taxation to which the farmer is subjected. To obviate this tax as far as possible, he is called upon to exercise wise discrimination, and in no way can he manifest it so advantageously to himself as in the proper care of his farm tools. An experienced writer on this subject says :

"There are a few simple rules in regard to the care of implements, which in most cases can be readily and always properly observed. First. Every farm should be provided with a tool or implement house of sufficient dimensions to accommodate every tool or implement on the premises. Second. It should be a fixed and unalterable requirement, that whenever a tool is done with, it should be put in its appropriate place in the tool-house. Third. Before put away, it should be carefully examined, to see whether any parts are broken or damaged, and if so, the very first leisure moment should be appropriated to repairing it. Fourth. No tool should be put into the house in a dirty condition. A very few minutes will be required to clean off the dirt, which will prevont the rusting of the iron, as well as damage to the wood. Fifth, All the polished parts of an implement, as the share, mould board and coufter of the plow, and the blade of axes, mattocks, and mowing machines, &c., should be oiled to prevent rusting. They will then be ready for use at any moment.-Sixth. Every wooden part of an implement shoulds be painted at least once a year, and such as are repaired for out-door use, as plows, harrows, &c., twice. Rainy days can be appropriated to this purpose. One dollar's worth of brushes and paint, properly applied, will will save twenty dollars worth of damage,-Mineral paint, such as the Pecora Paint answers admirably, because it has more body. than white or red lead, and is far cheaper and more durable. It not only preserves the wood from decay, but from cracking, and con sequently easy breakage. And then hotgreatly well painted, clean-looking wagons mowing machines, plows, harrows, &c., im prove the appearance of a farm; how much more care even a careless laborer will take of a handsomely painted than a dirty, rust farm implements." GRAFTING .- Every farmer should learn to do his own grafting. It is a very easy operation when once understood. A sharp pen knife and a good fine saw are indispensable? Splitting the stock so that the bark shall not be bruised, and shaping the scion wedgefashion both ways, preserving also the bark uninjured, and placing the rim of the wood of both wood and scion exactly together so that the sap can intermingle—there is no danger of failure if poperly waxed. We make a shoulder to the graft, and think it adds to the certainty of success, though probably weakens it. We prefer also two eyes of buds to a graft and would rather have only one than more than two. One year's wood shoull always be used when it can be obtained,

THREE DAYS AT THE COUNTY-SEAT.

A GLANCE AT THE COURT.

It is perhaps generally known to most of those into whose hands this paper will fall, that the Circuit Court of Jefferson county, or more properly speaking, the "Transplanted Judiciary," is at present holding its spring term at the county-seat. Last week we spent nearly three days in the town, not that we had any business at the Court, but with the hope of meeting the sovereigns, and interchanging opinions and views with old friends whom we hoped to meet there.

Through rain and mud, which rendered the condition of the roads almost indescribable we worked our passage, until good luck and a better horse, "brought us up" safely at the Entler Hotel, in the ancient town whose name commemorates the memory of those whose patriarchal vocations led them to "watch their flocks by night," on the plains of Judea and elsewhere. Of the town it is not our purpose to write a history of its past, or a biography of its present. We only allude to it as connected with another matter of which it is our purpose briefly to treat. We mean of course "the court," before which all questions of a legal character are to be decided. A stranger visiting the Court House, and looking over the bench, the bar, and the jury box, would not be likely to form a favorable opinion of the intelligence and sagacity of the people of this county. But then strangers, as well as our own people, are familiar with the fraudulent circumstances which chains our county to the chariot of radicalism, and those who are acquainted with the universal tendency of that abomin able ism, will readily make allowance for our seeming degeneracy. If ignorance, and impudence, and corruption, and perjury fill up the niches that have been made vacant by os tracising those who once constituted the able and courteous bar of Jefferson county, let the fault lie at the door of the satanic missiona ties who have crept into the Legislative Halls of the State; as caterpillars creep into and destroy the orchards of our horticultur ists, or as the chinch-bug makes its insidious ravages upon our corn and potato patches The withering blight which radicalism brings upon everything that it touches-more destructive than the mildew or early autumnal frost-is strikingly perceptible in the judicial proceedings which distinguish the present from the past; and which will, when a his tory of the county is written, classify the present reign as the "Dark Age" of our glo rious and gallant little Jefferson. The names of those in Sardis who have not defiled the garments, will then shine with a lustre before which the ephemeral glory of the toad swollen reptiles who now bask in the sun shine of legal prosperity, will pale as the starlight pales before the approach of the stronger rays of the god of day. He who gave birth to the sublime sentiment that "comparisons are odious" must have had a prophetic review of things past and present as they relate to this county; and five had the imagination to draw the picture true to life, we would not do it, as such a comparison would be indeed odious to the memory of our cherished dead, and insulting to the sensibilities of the living who have been actors on the legal stage in years agone. THE BENCH. The unsullied judicial robes of the elder Parker, of Douglass, and of the junior Parker, have fallen upon the shoulders of a stran ger and a pretender, who has only a presumptive appreciation of the high functions which pertain to his station. As the stall-fed ox glories in the grain that has kept meat upon his bones, and given him a sleek coat of hair for the spring time, so does our circuit judge magnify his own importance as conferring dignity upon the station, because its emoluments furnish the material for sustaining body which is his chiefest care. With an owl like wisdom, rolling of eyes, and contortion of countenance, his opinions, involving points of law, are stammered out with an incoherence that renders his meaning unfathomable, and causes his juries to wonder whether they have been listening to the utterances of a man or the chatterings of a monkey. We will not assail his integrity, because we think it probable that his universal satisfaction with himself, the great "Sir Oracle" of the law and the testimony, is a protection against temptation to evil, except when a partizan feeling creeps over his extended physical organism, and then the "soul of honor," which should actuate the "just judge," under all circumstances, would be apt to flow into the muddy current of radical corruption. His affected gravity at once impresses you with the truth that

There are a sort of men, whose visages Do cream and mantle, like a standing pond; And do a wilful stillness entertain, With purpose to be dressed in an opinion Of wisdom, gravity, profound conceit;
As who would say, I am Sir Oracle,
And, when I ope my lips, let no dog bark!

AT THE BAR,

we behold what emigration has done for our county. Familiar faces are as few as mile posts on a dirt road. But they are not all strangers who grace the bar of Jefferson .-Looking in upon the show, and the animals as they are gathered, you see one whose active restless movements keen eve and vivacious countenance, denote more than the usual amount of sagacity-

"The glass of fashion, and the mould of form, The observed of all observers!" The natural inquiry is—"what position i assigned that figure in the zoological collection?" There could be but one answer to such a question. That is the "Sly Fox of Boydville," who has been identified with the

"Sweet fields arrayed in living green that presented themselves, have caused him to pitch his tent on the other side, "in the happy land of Canaan."

Very near him, and on the same row of seats, is one who answers admirably King John's description of Hubert, whom he had employed to destroy the eyes of the young Prince Arthur-

"A fellow by the hand of nature marked, Quoted, and signed, to do a deed of shame." He is familiar to our readers, and it is not necessary that his name should be mentioned or a minute description given, to cause his recognition. The animal which he peronates, is the great Gyasticutis, the King of the Rascals. At the bar he is a blustereras a politician, he is the ne plus ultra of corruption and fraud. He it is who wears the Senatorial robes, and struts in the light of his own shadow, self-satisfied only when his confused brain is concocting some mischief to

There is another specimen, who deserves especial mention, not because he is of any account, or that his brilliancy will ever b likely to set the river on fire, but because he has leaped into position for which he is totally unfitted. He was a tad-pole once and waggled his tail in the cess-pools of corruption, but since shedding his caudle appendage and assuming the vaster proportions of the bull-frog, true to his instincts, he has jumped up a little higher, and unbecomingly wears the Senatorial robes. In his capacity as a Senator, he generously tendered to Congress the services of the West Virginia militia to aid in squelching the President. This military achievement, in which of course he was to be a central figure, holding the rank of aid to his excellency the Governor, brings to remembrance the character in the old song-"A bull-frog dressed in soldier's clothes,

Went out one day to shoot some crows, The crows smelt powder, and all flew away, And the buil-frog had no sport that day." Nature has bestowed upon him a countenanindicative of a certain degree of humility. but radicalism has transformed what nature designed for meekness, into a mirror of deception, and in every lineament may now be traced the marks of treachery. He edits or assumes to do so, the Berkeley Dis-Union, and his sheet, like himself, is an index of "nothing, narrowed to a point."

Space compels us to desist for the present We did want to make a brief notice of other characters who go to make up the " emigrant rain," but we must defer it to a more co enient season. The Show is now open, however, and wind and weather permitting, we shall give a weekly exhibition of such of the menagerie as have failed to appear in this, our grand opening entertainment.

THE IMPEACHMENT.

The farce inaugurated in Washington over month ago, is still being played, but the interest which it at first attracted has greatly diminished, and the work of the conspirators has ceased to be regarded with any other feeling than that of supreme contempt. The actors themselves are sickening with disgust, and no surprise need be felt if the performance should be abruptly closed. We copy from the correspondence of the Baltimore Gazette the following review of the proceedings of Friday and Saturday: WASHINGTON April 17, 1868.

This has been by far the most interesting day in the "High Court of Impeachment. as the Senate and the country are now getting at the kernel of the nut which the Jacobins have been so busily cracking. Up to this time the display has been scenic and purely for effect-much of it most disgusting. Butler has nearly strutted out his brief display before the public, and the charges against President Johnson are being now reduced to the test of material facts. A distinguished Massachusetts General and member of Congress declared last evening that the testimony given in during the day had greatly disturbed he friends and advocates of impeachment, as they had not apprehended the facts to have been as testified to by Messrs. Cox and Merrick, the lawyers whom the President had employed to secure a judicial decision upon the constitutionality of the Civil Office Tenure bill. When these lawyers told of their employment and of their efforts to secure a legal ecision, and how their purpose had been thwarted by Chief Justice Cartter, acting in the interest of the impeachers, a decided impression upon the Senate was clearly perceptible. But the testimony to-day is exposing the whole transaction and shows how slanderous and absurd are all the charges made against President Johnson. A number of witnesses from Cleveland and St. Louis testified that the President endeavored to avoid speech-making, and positively declined until arged by the committees of arrangement at he respective points, and after consenting to appear it was only to make his bow and say a few words; and that he was forced in self defence to say what he did by the insulting interruptions of the Radicals who mingled with the crowd. So far as the impeachment of the President is concerned all this testimony was uncalled for, unless we have fallen upon times when the liberty of speech is not only abridged, but men like Butler and Logan are to determine upon the propriety of language to be used by others. Yet as a part of the record it was well to show the circumstances under which the objectionable speeches were called out.

The Hon. Gideon Welles being placed upon the stand; intense interest was manifested throughout the Senate chamber to hear his evidence. The old gentleman spoke in clear, distinct tones, and was heard in all parts of the immense hall. Having stated that he was Secretary of the Navy, he made short work of the ninth article of impeachment and threw it overboard as if it had been a barrel of spoilt pork. Old Thad. Stevens-whose pet article this was-becoming disgusted, left the manager's table and resumed a seat as a high private among the members of the House. The charge that the President had attempted to seduce General Emory, and engage him in his grand conspiracy against the welfare of the country, was not only disproved by Secretary Welles, but the fact established that there were strong suspicions that Emory had been seduced by the impeachers themselves. The tables were completely turned. The President was notified by his Secretary that suspicious movements were on foot; Emory was sent for and questioned about them. This was the extent of the President's offence, and for this he has been impeached. The members of the Cabinet will each be called to state presented by the Radical Jacobins.

The course of Butler in bullying the coursel and witnesses and insulting the Chief Justice has greatly disgusted every one, but his attempt to falsify the proceedings, as exposed in the Senate this morning, should be regarded as placing him within the pur-view of the criminal statutes of the land.— Senator Ferry called attention to the fact that Butler had printed in the official proceedings numerous tabular statements which had never been exhibited or read before the Senate, and he moved they should all be stricken out which was ordered without a division. This order will stand as the verdict of guilt against Butler, and should consign him to the A visitor at the White House would never suspect its occupant as being on trial unde articles of impeachment. Mr. Johnson neve ooked better or was more smiling and affable A friend enters the reception room and after a cordial shake of the hand the President inquires with perfect nonchalance "anthing of interest?—how is the impeachment trial progressing?"-precisely as if he had no specia or particular interest in it, and inquires about that instead of the weather.

WASHINGTON, April 19, 1868. It is understood among politicians that the mpeachment trial will close this week, as the prosecution will have little or no rebutting testimony to offer, and the four speechestwo on a side-in summing up will not occupy more than the week. Mr. Boutwell will make the first speech on behalf of the House of Representatives, and "in the name of all the eople" leave the silvery-tongued Bingham o close on the "accused criminal" as he styles the President. Should Mr. Stanbery be able address the Senate he will follow Mr. Evarts and conclude the argument for the defence; but should his continued weak condition prevent Mr. Stanbery speaking, then Messrs. Groesbeck and Evarts will sum up for the President. Such is understood, this evening, to be the arrangement of counsel, and it will no doubt be carried out. In the meantime, a number of the friends of the President have abandoned all hope of his acquittal, and regard the anticipated argument as only a waste of time and a mockery, as has been the whole trial.

What a record some members of this "High Court of Impeachment" have made for histoy! For instance, the names of Cameron. Chandler, Cattell, Conness, Harlan, Howard Drake, Morgan and Ramsey stand recorded in the affirmative on every proposition to admit testimony against the President, and in the affirmative on every proposition to exclude it when in the President's favor. This could not well be the result of accident-and such a record establishes only the fact of martyrdom-while conviction will be no evidence of guilt. The "accused criminal" of Manager Bingham may be stripped of place and power by such judges, but their verdict of guilty will place the name of Andrew Johnson as far above the names of those who convict hir as eternity is above time. Mr. Johnson himself is now very reticent on the subject, but since the balloting yesterday, and the expressed determination of thirty Senaiors not to allow him to be heard, he is evidently impressed with the idea that his conviction is a forgone conclusion. It is true that enough Senators voted to admit the evidence to secure his acquittal, but it is not certain that while they voted with the minority on questions of evidence they will thus vote on the question of guilty or not guilty. The question propounded by Senator Sherman to Post-master-General Randall has led to much speculation as to how this Senator will stand on the final vote. Sherman as a member of the conference committee on the Civil Office Tenure bill, reported to the Senate that the committee had agreed to Williams' amendment (the section referring to the removal of Cabinet officers,) but that it would not embrace the members of Mr. Johnson's Cabinet who had been appointed and commissioned by Mr. Lincoln Under this advice the Senate agreed to the report from the conference committee and the bill became a law. Mr. Sherman wished Mr. Randall to state whether the members of the Cabinet who had been appointed by Mr. Lincoln (Seward, Welles and Stanton) did not so construe the law themselves. This was ruled out by the Senate, by a vote of 20 to 26-Senators Anthony, Fessenden, Fowler, Grimes, Ross, Sherman, Trumbull, Van-Winkle and Willey, nine Republicans, voting n favor of admitting the evidence. Nevertheless, an unscrupulous majority refused to allow Senator Sherman's question to be answered. Can Senators who regarded this evidence proper and necessary to the President's defence vote to convict him because the evidence was excluded? Never!

Mr. Eustace Gibson, in the Chimpanze Convention on Saturday, discharged his Parthisn arrow in the shape of the following resolution, which, we need not add, was laid on Seventy Persons Killed and Wounded-Seven Bodies Consumed.

NEW YORK April 15 .- One of the most disasters on record occurred early rning, thirteen miles west of Port Jervis, on the Eric Railway. The cars were shrown off the track by the breaking of a and precipitated down an embankment venty-five feet high. Thirteen dead bodies at Port Jervis depot, and fifty-two of the pared are at the Port Jervis hotels. Two ore have not yet arrived. Mr. Lynch, the ping car conductor, estimates that seven ies are consumed, but it cannot be verified until the wreck is removed:

The officers of the company took the wounded to the Port Jervis hotels, and everything possible has been done for their relief.

The following particulars of the terrible accident on the Erie Railroad have been received from passengers on the train, who have arrived in this cit

The train to which the accident occurred left Buffalo yesterday afternoon in charge of conductor Judd and Charles Douglass, Superintendent of the Division, and consisted engine and tender, 3 sleeping, 2 1st class, and 1 2d class, 2 baggage and 1 postal cars. The train proceeded on time, making the usual stoppages until evening, when the passengers in the sleeping cars retired for the night. About three this A. M. Mesers. Ames and Morton, of the General Postoffice in this city, who were in charge of the postal car, saw the bell rope straighten out and break, when Mr. Judd immediately remarked to one of the officers that he had lost his rear car. They ran to the platform of the car, when the four rear cars were seen rolling down a precipice from 75 to 100 feet high. The scene of the accident is thirteen miles beyond Jervis, on the Delaware division of the road. The sides of the precipice are formed of jagged rock, and in the descent the cars were broken to pieces. At the bottom is a culvert through which flows a stream emptying into the Delawarc. The disaster was caused by a broken rail, which threw the rear car immediately in front, and the whole were precipi tated down the embankment. Conductor Judd and Division Superintendent Douglass were slightly injured. The cars in going over the embankment turned several times before the bottom was reached, and were nearly demolished. The sleeping car was entirely consumed by fire. The passengers immediately began to rescue the wounded and to remove the bodies of the killed. Many of the latter could not be recognized. Seven persons were burned to death and six were killed by coming in contact with jagged rocks, &c .-The wounded persons were placed on the train

Mr. G. B. He received a few contusions but was unconscious of them at the moment. and, in company with others, at once left the car and surveyed the scene. The car had rolled on an inclined plane down a bank and stopped at a distance of 100 feet from the road. Fearful shrieks arose from the central and last sleeping cars. The former had fallen perpendicularly fitty feet from the culvert into a small stream below, and the latter had rolled similarly, but had caught fire from cinders in the stove. Both were much shattered, and blows from fragments as the cars broke contributed much towards the injuries sustained.

Attention was immediately given to extricating the sufferers, and the engine, baggage err and smoking car and one other passenger car went to Port Jervis and transferring the passengers, baggage and mail to another train. immediately returned for transportation of the

Mr. Hollenbach reached this city about 12 30 to-day, together with about a dozen others who had been slightly hurt, and whose accounts corroborated his own. Mr. Fairman, senior partner of the Elmira Advertiser, was among the wounded. By the latest despatches received at th Erie Railway office, in this city, it appears that twenty persons are dead and fifty wounded. Of the latter ten are seriously, if not fatally injured. Physicians will leave the City Hospital for Port Jervis this evening, to assist in taking care of the wounded.

SETTING A GOOD EXAMPLE.-We are glad to notice that the New York Times has the decency to give place to the following paragraph in its editorial columns:

The single murder of Mr. Ashburn in Georgia has called out the prompt and stern application of military force. In the vicinity of Selma, Ala,, five white men, once of the rebel army, have been murdered and no arrests made. Has importial justice anything to do with the pacification of a disturbed land or is impartial suffrage supposed to be all sufficient? The Times sets a good example to its Rad ical cotemporaries by publif hing the above, but it is not likely that many of them will follow it. They prefer to indulge in laudations of the negroes and wholesale denunciation of the white population of the South.

-A correspondent of the Staunton Spectator says: A very singular fowl has visited our vicinity, (Long Glade, Augusta county, Va.,) supposed to belong to Barnum's Celebrated Museum. As he pass d Willard's and the Treasury Building he was enthusiastically cheered, always returning the compliment by raising his cap. When the procession halted in front of the E centive Mansion, President Johnson came to the front Portico, and approaching Sergeant Bates took him by the hand and said: "All I desire to do is to simply welcome you! id your flag." He then took the Sergeant by the arm, and they walked into the house and into the East Room together, followed, by the crowd. Can Grant be Arrested.

The Chicago Times calls attention to a political anomaly in our government that may well startle the people of all sections. It is that General Grant cannot be tried by courtmartial. By the articles of war a court martial must be composed so as to include an ong its members some of the same rank of the ac-

The Times continues: The vers that the President can do is to issue in order placing Grant under arrest. This arrest would be only nominal, in many spects. Like the arrest of any military of cer, would involve no confinement. If Grant were placed under arrest, he would deprived of his command. Even the would amount to but little; for if at twenty hays no charges were preferred against him, I would be entitled to resume his position That there could be no charges preferred is evident from the fact that there is no Fibunal with which the complaint can be lod ed. It follows from this state of thingisthat in Grant the nation has an official who is absolutely beyond all responsibility. The mem bers of the Supreme Court may be reached in case of official misconduct, by Congress.

The President is always amenable to be Senate through charges which may be referred by the House. From the President of the United States down to the village revenue inspector, there is, in all this countril no one who is irresponsible save Ulysses S. Grant. Now, what is a despotism? It is see power of a despot. What is a despot who governs with unlimited and irresponsible power. A despotism is a form of gov ernment in which one rules unchesked by constitution or laws. Is there any tion or law which check Grant? none whatever. He is above all constitution a d laws, for he is absolutely unknown to eit ir.

If definitions have any value, if inguage may be depended on, then has this country fastened upon itself a despotism as absolute, as autocratic, as arbitrary and irresponsible as the Government of China. While proproperty and destiny.

LOCAL MISCELLANY.

DEATH OF JOHN B. HENRY .- Many of our readers will learn with a feeling of sadness, the death of John Henry. Erratic as he was, and at times annoying, he was a man who made few, if any enemies, the community at large regarding him with a feeling of sympathy, rather than censuring his faults. He died at the residence of Mr. W. N. Webb in Washington city, on the 5th of this month. From an obituary in the Shepherdstown Register we make the following extract:-

The deceased was well known to this community as a man of erratic disposition and of powerful physical endurance. His passion for strong drink was so great that to be without it seemed to cause him intense suffering. But notwithstanding his mental aberration, erratic disposition and intemperate habits, the nobleness of his nature often shone forth and the gentle training of his earlier years would often show itself like a flower in a desert waste, and the classical studies of his boyhood would often form the theme of his conversation in his more sober moments. He was a man of a kind and and gentle disposition, of tender feelings, shrewd and of quick perception, and always cherished and appreciated any kindness bestowed upon him. About six months ago at a series of meetings held at Rinehart's School House, he made a public profession of religion and obeying the dictates of his changed heart he abstained entirely from strong drink, and though often tempted with the cup by some of his enemies he never afterwards touched it. His friends in Baltimore hearing of his reformation sent for him and he went to his sister's, but the sudden change in his habits produced a disease of the liver which caused his death. He remained true to his profession and is one of the most striking examples of the power of Grace over the human heart.

THE CIRCUIT COURT .- For the information of those who may feel an interest in the proceedings of the Circuit Court of this county, we append the following report of its proceedings from the Register of Saturday

PAINFUL ACCIDENT .- On Saturday morning last, Mr. JAMES WEST, son of Mr. Thos. West, of the Rippon neighborhood, met with a painful accident; which resulted in the breaking of his leg at the ankle. He had come to town in charge of a team, and had had his wagon heavily loaded at the depot with goods for one of the Rippon stores. On Main street, whilst attempting to mount his saddle horse, he accidentally fell, and the front wheel of the wagon, with its ponderous weight passed over his ankle, crushing the bone.-He was attended by Dr. C. T. Richardson, and in the afternoon was removed to his home.

SOMETHING SUPERIOR .- Our friends of the firm of D. Humphreys & Co., have placed us under obligations for a present of a lot of superior Tinware-something new to us in its way. These vessels are put together without a seam, and consequently cannot be subect to the melting of solder, by the action of heat, as are the ordinary articles of tinware. The lot on hand at their hardware store will enable them to supply the demands of the house-keepers with such articles as Preserving Kettles, Sauce Pans, Tea Pans, and Plates of different sizes. Those in need of these things, should give them a call.

STAMPS ON LETTERS .- Under the Internal Revenue laws, letters acknowledging the receipt of either, drafts, checks, or money, exseeding twenty dollars, are subject to a stamp duty of two cents, the same as if a formal receipt had been given for so much money .-This is a fact not generally known even to good business men.

THE PROTESTANT ELECTIC .- Y. H. Peyton, Esq., of Staunton, we learn from the Spectator, proposes to establish a monthly magazine, entitled "The Protestant Eclectic," to be devoted to the diffusion of moral and religious truth, and to the publication of the views of eminent writers respecting the rapid fulfillment of the prophecies of the Scriptures, and the near approach of the Millennium. Mr. Peyton is a good writer, and has bestowed several years study to the prophecies, and such a magazine as he proposes to establish would be read by our citizens with deep interest. Should be meet with sufficient encouragement to justify him in establishing the magazine, he will enter upon the enterprize con amore. With him it will be a labor

Local Correspondence. Mr. Editor:- You were pleased to publish in your last week's issue the few thoughts sent you on the great evil of intemperance that so fearfully exists in our midst. The absence of any effort by word or deed to counteract the evil was depicted and deprecated. We instinctively look to and expect the church as an organism against evil, to lead off in the way of marked resistance thereto. But sir, is the church either in its ministry or members thus leading? Do its watchmen "cry aloud and spare not?" Do its members set their faces against the making, buying, selling, and drinking of spirituous liquors. It is to be feared the ministry do not with sufficient point and force declare the "whole council of God" against this sin; and even if they did, how many confirmed inebriates and those engaged in the trafic, never frequent the house of God to hear the word. Is it not too true that there is no positive statute in the code of the church against the making, buying, selling and partaking of intoxicating drink; and Mr. Editor is it not to be confessed with sorrow that the Church member may take his social glass, may get the sobriquet of a moderate drinker with impunity. This being the case how manifest the necessity of an organization among us from that which intoxicates; whose motto is

"touch not, taste not, handle not," alchoholic drink, into whose folds the inebriate may find a safe retreat from the tempter's power;

under whose magic touch of whose pledge the pliant slave to the appetite for rum may as-ports and stays to enable him to maintain his integrity, without which, he could not do so. I am glad Mr. Editor to see that the good cause of Temperance is breaking out in the upper Valley and moving this way. At Staunton much interest is awakened. At Harrisonburg the subject is being agitated with success. At Winchester an effective move has been maugurated in its favor and may we not hope soon to see in our town the banner of Temperance unfurled and very many gathering under its folds. "So mote it be. TOTAL ABSTINENCE.

ON THE LOOKOUT .- The live firm of Ranson & Duke have their "traps laid" for supplying the "whole world and the rest of mankind," with the most superior Fertilizers, in large or small lots. They have now over one hundred tons in store, and arrangements made for increasing the supply should the demand require it. They are also preparing to supply the gardening public with cabbage and tomato plants, the earliest of the season. Due notice will be given through our columns when the rush should be made for these ar-

I have seen it used in two cases with happy results—one a case of secondary syphilis, in which the patient pronunced himself cured after having taken five bottles of your medicine. The other a case of scrofula, of long standing, which is rapidly improving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the for-mula by which your Rosadalis is made, and find it an excellent compound of alterative ingredients.

Dr. J. J. Lawrence—
Dear Sir: My youngest daughter, aged five years has been dreadfully afflicted with Scrofuta nearly all her life. I tried a great many physicians, but without relieving her much; in fact, most of them without relieving her much; 10 lact, 10.05 tol them said there was no hope of cure. During the last spring she was worse than ever, her body and limbs being covered with sores and blotches—with face and eyes badly ulcerated and swollen. Whilst in this equation, I was advised by Dr. L. A. Stith to try your Rosadalis. I at once procured three bottles, and commenced giving it to her. The effect was magical. In less than a month, to my great astonishment, she was entirely well. I am yours. astonishment, she was entirely well. I am yours, With much respect and gratitude, W. W. BURNETT.

Dear Sir—This is to certify that I have been afficted with Rheumatism for the last five or six years, many times unable to move. I not only consider the Rosadalis a sovereign remedy for Rheumatism, but I believe it also a preventive, and cheerfully recommend it to the afflicted.
