CHARLESTOWN, VA.

Tuesday Morning, June 30, 1868. Grant's Order No. 11.

The Radical papers are trying to show that Grant's order expelling all Hebrews from the Department of the Tennessee "within twenty-four hours from the receipt of said order by post commanders" referred only to such as were "violating every regulation of to say about it:

The order is not directed against violators of trade regulations. It is directed against Jews as Jews, and is made applicable to all Jews by the charge that the Jews, as a class, are guilty of disgraceful and dishonest conduct. No language can be clearer-no meaning can be conveyed more pointedly-no charge can be made more direct and sweeping. It does not single out from among the Jews a class who are guilty: but, from among all others, singles out the Jews as a class who are all guilty. All the guilty are Jews; all Jews are guilty; and all Jews are to be expelled. No others are guilty, and no others are to be expelled. The alleged guilty is predicable of Jews only, and not ony of individual Jews, but of all Jews. This is the plain unmistakable import of the reasons assigned for issuing a sweeping order excluding all Jews from the camps-forbidding any Jew to trade within the military jurisdiction of General Grant - and even prohibiting any Jew from visiting headquarters to ask for a trade permit.

A more unprovoked and inexcusable outrage was never inflicted upon any class of "American citizens. It was of a piece with which General Grant's party-assuming during the war, and assuming now that they embody all the loyalty and decency in themselves-claim the right to proscribe and denounce as traitors and scoundrels all who dare to reject their dicta. The wrongs borne by the Jews in the darkest ages of Christian and Pagan intolerance were the same in kind, though differing in degree. To single them out as a class and fix upon them an official stigma-to impute to their race and religion dishonorable traits degrading them beneath their fellow citizens-is to lend the authority of the Government to a foul calumny, and to inflict upon valuable and deserving citizens a wrong at which the public sense of justice revolts. In this enlightened age there s no excuse for such crime. It can proceed only from a fierce, personal prejudice of the mest stubborn and stolid sort. When such a spirit can be traced to any candidate for the highest office in the nation, the people cannot be too prompt and decided in pronouncing their rebuke. It is vain to try to slight that order, or to speak of it as a venial error or trivial mistake. It showed the narrow and bigoted spirit of the man, and was equally a disgrace to the flag, and equally deserving of reprobation, whether prompted by an ignoble sentiment or a corrupt desire to favor the interests of men who wanted the active and enterprising Jews excluded, that they might monopolize the traffic.

A Curious Scene.

A day or two since, the "Reverend" James W. Hunnicutt, made his way to the customhouse, and commenced a furious onslaught on the "Guinea Pigs" who are so snugly ensconced within its walls. He first approached the register in bankruptcy, and said in the most deliberate manner, "Judge Bond, can I see you, sir?"

Judge Bond-"Certainly, sir." Hunnicutt-"I wish to see you in private. I want a private conversation with you."

Judge Bond-"Walk into my back office." Hunnicutt and Mr. Bond walked into the private office of the latter and were seated .-Hunnicutt very excitedly said, "Judge Bond, by G-d. you have treated me infamously, and I intend to expose your villainies to Congress. Instead of giving me the patronage of your office you have given it to that d-d paper in Alexandria, the State Journal, and have taken $4,000 out of my pocket. You have taken the bread out of the mouths of my wife and children. You are trying to break my paper down, and I believe you will all be glad when I am compelled to stop it." Mr. Bond looked at him in utter amazement. His first idea was that Hunnicutt had suddenly became insane, but he soon saw what the matter was. He got up, and pointed to the door, said, "G-d d-n you, get out of here; get out of here forthwith.'

Hunnicutt very calmly turned in his chair, put his foot on the table, and said : "I don't mean to go out of here until I get ready." An explanation followed, and Hunnicutt commenced laughing in a maudlin kind of way. He had expended his fury on Bond, and then let out on Underwood. He denounced him as an ungrateful cur, who had profited by his valor, and now that nothing more was to be built up the party by his labor and persever- | $10,000. ance, others had gotten the offices, and he was left to starve for anything any of them would left for his office. - Richmond Enquirer.

"STRIKES."-The folly of strikes is made strongly apparent by a statement in the Chicago Tribune of the history of one which occurred in that city last year. That paper says:

"Thirteen months ago some five thousand mechanics and others of Chicago, resolved that they would reduce their hours of labor one fifth, and for eight hours require the same wages that were given for ten hours' labor. They struck, and on the 1st of May, 1867, paraded the streets with music and banners. The majority of these men remained out of work for one month, others for two months, when they returned to the old wages, and worked at the old hours. Hundreds of them never obtained work at any price or hours, and had to go elsewhere where they were not would have received had they worked on."

A Voice from New York.

The Greenpoint. Watchman, the organ of the Democracy of Suffolk county New York, which lies immediately in the vicinity of the great city, thus alludes to the passage of the greenback resolutions by the New York House

"A strong pressure by the representatives of the bondholders was made to prevent the introduction, and a still stronger effort to defeat the adoption, of this resolution, and its passage under such circumstances is a memorable triumph of the popular sentiment over a powerful conspiracy of money and talent. The people of New York accept and endorse the Peudletonian plan of financial trade," &c. The Louisviille Courier has this relief. And even the clamour of Governor Seymour's eloquence was exerted in vain to overcome this settled purpose of the masses to throw off the shackles which bind them. "In view of the adoption of this explicit declaration by the Democratic Representatives in the Assembly, who did indisputably represent the will of their constituents, who can doubt that, whatever'its delegation may do, the Democracy of New York will heartily support the gallant young statesman of the

"The real feeling, even of the State Convention at which Governor Seymour made his remarkable speech, was crystalized into a song improvised by a prominent gentleman of Syracuse, and sung at a private gathering of delegates in the evening amid great applause, a few lines of which are all that we can remember at this time, but are enough to show the spirit of the meeting, and to give what should be the key note of the campaign in this as well as in all the other States!

"We're coming to the ballot-box We'ge coming from everywhere, For when we come to pay our tax The rich don't pay their share! We'll meet you, Mr Bondholder,

We'll meet you on the spot, Where we'll stop your cutting coupons From our little house and lot! We'll meet you at the ballot box,

And there we'll let you know
That we can't stand your standing army,
Nor your colored man's Buro!" A Great Law Suit. In 1864, Cyrus H. McCormick, of Chicago, entered into a partnership for seven years, with his brothers, William and Leander, for the manufacture and sale of reaping and mowing machines, Cyrus holding one-half interest, and each of his brothers one-fourth. William McCormick died in 1865, leaving a widow and five children, in whose behalf the administrator brings a suit for an adjustment of the partnership. In the bill it is alleged that upon said death the surviving partners carried on the business without change until the 16th of June, 1866, when they entered into an agreement that unless prohibited by the court, or it should be deemed prejudicial to the interests of the estate of William, the business should be continued until the full seven years contemplated in the agreement had expired, the interest of the deceased being carried on for the benefit of his estate. It is further alleged that, on the 1st of August, 1867, said surviving partners, pretending that the interests of the estate would be jeopardized by a continuance of the business in its behalf, closed the books, and opened a new set for the business, which has since been carried on for their joint benefit exclusively. The bill sets forth that the interest of the deceased in the personal effects of the partnership is of the value of $250,000 and upward; and that the real estate of the firm is of the value of $800,000 and upward; also, that said surviving partners have offered the sum of $497,229 05 payable in five equal cent., for the entire interest at six per brought them into notice, and finally procured the deceased in the business. The bill prays that an account may be bed. that an account may be had of the late copartnership since and before the death of the deceased, and that the interest of the estate may be sold to the best advantage. An exhibit to the bill shows that the present assets them. But why should not girls wish to be of the first including 6,175 mowers valued at rich and to be married? Is there anything $324,875 and 4,833 reapers, valued at $724,-950, foot up to $3,884,354 65. Total liabil-

Some of the transactions of General Butler while in command at New Orleans, are being exhumed, and depositions taken in the case of Kerney vs. Butler, a copy of which has been received here by the Butler investigating committee. In May, 1862 when Confederate money was current in New Orleans, by permission of General Butler, his brother, Colonel Butler, agreed to purchase a large amount of naval stores from Kerney, payable in Confederate money. The next day General Butler issued a proclamation prohibiting the circulation of Confederate money, which at once declined to nominal value. Col. Butler soon after demanded delivery of the naval stories and offered Confederate money .-Kerney declined, whereupon General Butler. arrested him, and threatened to send him to made out of him, had "gone back" on him. | Fort Jackson and confine him with ball and He denounced not only Underwood, but all | chain if he did not deliver up the goods .the Radicals in the city. "Should the Senate of the United States fail to convict Andrew Johnson on the accusations of the House, not an electoral vote, with the exception of the vote of West Virginia, Missouri and Tennessee will be given to General Grant in the South-eastern States next November."

So Stevens prophesied: That "if the President was not convicted, the Radical candidate would carry but two Northern States -Massachusetts and Vermont."

'Tis the sunset of life gives him mystical lore, As coming events cast their shadows before.

-The report that Brownlow was dying proves incorrect. He is said to be in better health than usual, and seems determined to POETICAL.

MISCELLANEOUS.

"The Lord Liveth."

There dwelt in the east of Scotland a pious clergyman, who had presided for a number helpless children. The small stipend allowed him by his congregation had been barely sufficient to meet the current expenses of his family; and at his death no visible means were left for their support. The death, of her husband preyed deeply upon the heart of the poor afflicted widow; while the dark prospect which the future presented filled her mind with the most gloomy apprehensions. By her lonely fireside she sat, the morning after her sad Mereavement, lamenting her forlorn and desetute condition, when her little son, a boy of five years of age, entered the room. Seeing the deep discress of his mother, he stole softly to her side, and, placing his little hand in hers, looked wistfully into her face, and said: "Mother, mother, is God dead?" Soft as the gentle whisper of an angel did the simple accents of the dear boy fall upon the ear of the disconsolate and almost heart broken mother. A gleam of heavenly radiance lighted up, for a moment, her pale features. Then snatching up her little boy, and pressing him fondly to her bosom, she exclaimed: "No, no, my son, God is not dead; He still lives, and promises to be a Father to the fatherless, a Husband to the widow. His promises are sure and steadfast, and upon them I will firmly and implicitly rely." Her tears were dried, and her murmurings forever hushed. The event proved that her confidence was not misplaced. The congregation over which her husband had worthily presided, generously settled upon her a handsome annuity, by which she was enabled to support her family, not only comfortably, but genreelly. The talents of her sons, as they advanced in years, soon

To be Rich and to be Married

It is often said that girls wish to be rich and to be married, as if it were an accusation against wrong-is there anything censurable-is there anything to be condemned in either of

The world is full of good and pleasant things; have not girls, as well as men, a right to desire to possess and enjoy them? Must blood flow slow and sluggish because it is in woman's veins? Shall her pulses never leap with the thrills of an ambition which is esteemed honorable in man? And why should not girls desire to be married? Marriage is an institution possessing both human and divine sanction, which it would be quite impossible to uphold without the co operation of young women. Then have they no right to take an interest in it, and, in fact, to look upon it as opening to in summer." them, as it does, their most important sphere of action?

There is a difference of opinion as to whether women should be tailors, or doctors, or lawyers, or even voters; but no doubt was evappreciation which they instinctively place upon the most important relation which nature has ordained for them. The poet tells Marriage, if rightly understood, Is to the virtuous and the good, A paradise below.

So the possession of all the virtues, and all the accomplishments, is the first and surest step towards acquiring the possession of 'a good husband. AN ALARMING THEORY .- From the annual recurrence of rains, meteoric showers, and the explosion of steam-boilers in various parts of the country, Prof. Loomis suggests a very uncomfortable theory in regard to the safety of the earth itself. He thinks it is not impossible that sufficient steam might be generated in the burning centre of the world canic eruption under the sea, or near it, like verify the prophecy of the old woman in that of Vesuvius now in progress, may at any month, he will come home from Europe and known. The Fiery Dove. Curious Religious Ceremony at Fiorence.

Yesterday the annual ceremony of the fiery dove came off with much eclat, in the beautiful cathedral of Santa Maria del Flore. This is a very ancient and curious usage, dating from the eleventh century. It is best known | etables, and was, in consequence, a very deas the scoppio del carro or explosion of the structive animal in gardens, etc. We tried cart. According to tradition, a certain M. to convince them to the contrary, but they Pazzo del Pazzi-a name signifying, when would persistently stick to their belief and literally translated, "madman of madmen" attempt even to offer proof by showing pota-was the best lance among the Italian paladins toes that had been planted in hot beds, letin the crusade just 780 years ago, and was the first to plant the Christian banner on | half eaten up by them. At least there was Jerusalem's bloodstained tralls. To reward the half-eaten potato and the whole-eaten let-his prowess. Godfrey de Bouillon presented tuce plant, and what did it if not the moles? him with three small fragments of flint. If such people would set an inviting mouse chipped from the Holy Sepulchre. Brought to Florence, these were carefully preserved in a gold box, and since then, on every succeeding Saturday, in Passion Week, a spark has been struck from them to light the alter candles in the cathedri. A lofty car, or rather a tower upon whils, hung with fireworks, and around the in ement of which are old paintings, dim and bickened by time, of seeking it as soon in the spring as the frost episodes in Pazzo's cangaigns, is stationed is out of the ground and the earth worms opposite the chief entrance to that magnifi. | make their appearance. The following intercent church, and is connected with a choir by a tightly-strained rope passed up the centre aisle at about seven feet from the ground. At a certain moment of the mass a match is applied to a tip fove, which is a sort of firework, and which flus along the rope, spitting out showers of sparks as it passes a little above the heads of the congregation, until, on reaching the car.it ignites the wheels and squibs and crackers fixed about it, and there is forthwith a prodigious cracking and fizzing, attended by much smoke, but little visible fire, for all this occurs about noon, and nothing is tamer than fireworks in broad daylight. That the prompt and perfect equefaction of St. Januarius' blood is to the Neapolitan, the uninterrupted flight of the tin colombina is to the Tuscan. If it sticks on the way, the prospect is bad, and hail or draught or some other disaster must be expected. The Florence municipality though it expedient to keep up the usage at its own cost. It is to be hoped it found its reward in the gratification of the multitude of peasants, uncouth but gentle, who, with a sprinkling of Florentine idlers and foreigners, yesterday filled the cathedral, and crowded about it. All went well enough to satisfy the most superstitions. At the appointed time the pigeon started from | for a new haul. . The Use of Moles.

Our readers will remember that for a dosen years we have combatted the foolish idea that got into the heads of many persons, even editors of agricultural journals, and some of the best writers, that the mole lived upon vegtuce, &c., where the moles had been running, trap they would soon discover the destroyer. Moles may injure hills of corn or any young plant by passing through it and lifting it up. in search of their principal food, the earth worm, which is to be found more abundantly there than elsewhere on account of the moisture about the roots, but that is all-they live upon animal food alone, and commence esting and careful experiments made at Zurich, by a Swiss named Weber, a distinguished naturalist, ought to settle the question. The result of his experiments was laid before the Board of Agriculture of his canon, and is in brief as follows: Mr. Weber had carefully examined the stomachs of fifteen moles, caught in different localities, but failed to discover therein the slightest vestige of planta or roots; whereas they were filled by the remains of ascaris or earth worms. Mr. Weber, not satisfied by this fact, shut up several moles in a box containing sods of earth, on which fresh grass was growing, and a smaller case of grub or earth worms. COUNTY CONVENTION.

The different townships are requested to sen MONDAY, JULY 6th, at 2 P. M. to appoint Delegates to attend the Grafton Convention, and to organize for the Campaign.

COUNTY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

PRIMARY MEETING.

By reference to our columns it will be seen that a meeting of the Conservatives of the County has been called at Harper's Ferry on Monday, the 6th day of July at 2 o'clock, P. M. for the purpose of selecting delegates to the State Convention to assemble at Grafton on the 16th proximo. We trust this is intended to be a meeting of all who are opposed to Radicalism, and who are willing and able to strike a blow for its defeat, and not of those alone who by a sort of gracious courtesy or merciful toleration of our adversaries, are supposed to be worthy of taking some part in public affairs. For, it cannot be disguisedand it is to this subject we desire to direct attention in this article-that there has been an'. impudent assertion of the right, on the part' of the Radical faction to determine who shall be permitted to oppose its usurpations; and by a most singular fatuity that right has been partially, if not wholly conceded, by their opponents. We accordingly see that, in tender consideration of this arrogant pretension, the Conservative party of West Virginia and elsewhere, has studiously excluded from its organization and driven into a reserved and coerced peutrality, a large class of gentlemen who by their experience, their intelligence, their personal worth and their influence are capable of rendering valuable service; and all lest the lying and libellous tongue of their "truly loyal" opponents may whisper the charge of affiliation with rebels.

had its day, and have long since disappeared. We all know that it has had its origin in a dishonesty which daily exhibits itself in practithose who were the loudest partizans of secession, and whose creed was the bloodiest in the late civil war, has become the daily policy of the Rudical party. A readiness to vote the radical ticket purges the vilest offender of his sins, and admits him into full fellowship with the nurest and most-refined lovalism. Indeed, its chosen leaders, its cherished pets, those on whom it most delights to bestow its honors, were original fire-catersmen who once in their indignant wrath, swore eternal death to all Yankeedom, but who since . have become marvelous proper men," by licking the dust from the foot that kicks them, and blackening their souls all o er with inexpiable perjury. The man who oin make Itis course in the present most inconsistent with that of the past; the one who can make his treachery to a lost cause most conspicuous, and who labors to convince, and does convince, the world either that he was a hypocrite, or is a foresworn scoundrel, has achieved all that is essential to admit him into full brotherhood in the " party of progress." and has placed his feet most firmly upon the high read to its preferments. Pardoning acts "move to meet him at his coming," and test oaths, set to catch the consciences of other men, are I rushed from before him like threads of slenderest gossamer. The farred calf is killed and the choicest cuts are laid before him to tempt his dainty palate. The Butlers, the Stokeses, Logans and Cres walls, may have breathed their aery veng ance against Lincoln's minions and devoted them to annihilation, but spoons and loyalty are well-pleasing in the eyes of radical gods, and are deemed fruits meet for repentance.

And vet when gentlemen, under the same circumstances, and obnexious to no stronger objections, seek to contribute by their active aid and hearty cooperation, to the success of the Conservative party, and basor in the interest of the disfrauchised and oppressed white men of West Virginia, they have been repulsed by the idea that it is not politic to receive their support except as secret allies, all open and avowed association with them being dangerous to the cause they would so willingly and so efficiently promote. We submit that this moral steakness, this cowardice, are of incalculable injury to the Conservative party, first honors, it will only respond to that wish and that if it would triumph it must make its which actuates the people in every section of practice more conformable with its profes- the country and which presages a triumph bond in the hands of a third party and having sippi, for which Miss Laura Reed, in a let-

They are not to be shunned-avoided as putting in peril the fortunes of the party with which they are connected, by seeking position in the front ranks, or if need be, of communding a squadron, in the army now fighting so gallantly the battle of free institutions in America, against the vilest political despotism that ever attempted to crush the liberties of a once free people:

In such a contest as this recruits are needed, and enlistments should be er couraged, not repressed. Every man should be placed exactly in that position in which he can be most serviceable in doing the work in hand .-Where he may have heretofore worn the blade he carries, should not be made a subject of enquiry. If the edge it bears is keen and trenchant, there is good work for it to do .-Let it at once be drawn, and not doomed idly to rust in its scabbard.

We reiterate then, the hope we expressed in the beginning that the meeting at Harper's Ferry will be a meting of all opposed to radcalism. Let there be full, free, frank, fearles consultation, and an interchange of views the interest and for the welfare of the down-trodden white men of West Virginia ithout regard to antecedents, and without respect to the wishes or denunciations of our enemies, heretofore too much regarded, let delegates to the Grafton Convention be chosen from among those whose ability and known integrity of character have challenged in the past, and still challenge, the admiration and confidence of the mass of the people of the county. With such a policy as that would indicate, fully inaugurated throughout the State, we believe the reign of the miserable and tyrannical party who have lorded it over us so long and so grievously, would soon reach its destined ignoble and inglorious end.

THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.

In our pext issue we expect to place a the mast the names of the nominees of the National Democratic Convention, and from thenceforth to labor assiduously for their success. The Convention will meet in the city of New York on Saturday, and already, as This bugbear, created to frighten sane men | we learn, several hundred delegates from the from their propriety-this arrant humbugery, Western States have passed through Harper's transparent as the ambient air, should have Ferry, on the line of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. The Convention in point of numbers, and in its material, will be an immense affair, and we feel the fullest confidence that cal examples. Incorporation into its ranks of its proceedings will be marked by a harmony that will brove the sure harbinger of success, and the final and complete overthrow of the to pay them creates a forfeiture. Radical party.

> Contemplating the great wrongs which that party has perpetrated upon the country, its open violations of the constitution, its usurpations of power, and the fraud and corruption which it has sanctioned and made fashionable, it is matter of sincere congratuand that its rapacious race is so nearly run. The Democratic party purified by defeat and disaster, gathering into its ranks the virtuous and true of all parties, and purged of the excrescences that encumbered it in the days of its dominancy, will come into power with the fixed and unalterable purpose of administering the government in the interests of the people, and for the prosperity and glory of the country, and hence we may look for a brighter and a better era than any that has marked our progress as a nation since the adoption the Federal Constitution.

It is marvellous how we have steered clear of revolution and another civil outbreak under the exasperating legislation of the present Radical Congress, and it is still more marvellous with what faith and confidence the present Executive has relied upon the virtue and intelligence of the people to correct our evils in the trying scenes which have surrounded him. To receive the nomination of the Democratic Convention would doubtless be a gratification to Mr. Johnson, but in a review of his administration, environed as it has been with difficulties that never crossed the path of any other statesman, he will and a greater source of pride and gratification than the nomination of any party convention could possibly confer. On the contrary, should one, who with the utmost frankness and sincerity has accepted Having adhered to the Constitution, and borne successfully through its perils the ark gratitude of this, and succeeding generations. This much is due him, and this much, when the prejudices of the hour have passed, he will assuredly receive.

But Mr. Johnson is not the man upon whom the nomination of the Democratic party should fall. We must have a man who will not hesitate to cleanse the Augean stables, that have been made doubly foul by the contamitives holds to its hands to repulse the ative mating occupancy of the radical party; a man who will at once lay violent hands upon prospect of success. Is not this playing into the legions of licensed plunderers, who have the hands of the enemy, and an abandonment backrupted the country by their senseless exof principles? Is it not inconsistent with all travagance; one who is identified thoroughly with the party that is seeking to restore the government to its ancient presperity through that party, and one which has given it much a healthy financial policy; in short, one who is committed by his record and by his present position, to enforce an undoing of the wrongs which radicalism have fastened upon the counwhite race from the government of the South- try, and if needs be, a retaliation upon the ern States, substituting therefor the governs perpetrators of these wrongs, as the real ment of an ignorant, unlettered and semi- traitors who have brought the country to the very verge of ruin,

THE VALLEY BANK.

In the last issue of the Berkeley Union, Mr. Faulkner as counsel and attorney for the receiver of the Bank of the Valley, publishes a notice to the debtors of that institution, residing in West Virginia. As many of our patrous are interested in this notice, we give its main points that they may learn what course they are expected to pursue in the premises. In his notice, Mr. Faulkner says : The notes due the various branches of the bank of the Valley in West Virginia, and all the assetts of said Bank in this State have been placed by the receiver in my hands for collection, and my instructions are, to proceed without delay to close the affairs of that corporation in West Virginia.

be entertained. In all cases where satisfactory arrangements shall not be made before the lat of August next, the notes will be placed in the course of collection by due process of law. The action of the attorney, and the receiver of the Bank, is based upon a deeree of the Circuit Court of the United States, for the District of Virginia, declaring the validity of the assignment executed by the President and Directors of the Bank on the 10th day of March, 1866. This decree of the Court was rendered on the 10th day of the present month, Chief Justice Chase, presiding .-Without expressing any opinion of our own or pretending to question the justice of the decree referred to, we submit the following comments upon the responsibility of the bank.

which have been drawn out by a case recently in litigation in Southern Virginia. The writer says by Sect. 15 of chap. 58 Code of 1860, " All bills, notes or other paper of a Bank, signed by the President and authorized by the Cashier, promising or directing the payment of money, shall be obligatory on 'the Bank," transferable, if payable to order, by endorsement-if to bearer. by delivery. By Sect. 16, "Though a Bank have a branch, all its notes shall be signed by the President and countersigned by Cashier of the Parent Bank. All such notes (i e. all the notes mentioned in both sections) shall be received in payment of debts due to the Bank, whether contracted at the Parent Bank or Branch " And by the charter, all such notes are payable in specie, and the failure so

The object of these provisions is most apparent. They were intended to give strength to bank notes, as a circulating medium, by making them payable in specie; and, in case of their depreciation in value (a thing of frequent occurrence) to protect debtors to the bank from oppression, by authorizing them to lation that the end of its career is in view, pay these debts to the bank in this medium. notwithstanding the depresiation.

The obligation of the bank to pay its notes in specie, is by the terms of the charter, binding at all times-but by the same charter, the obligations of debtors to the bank are less stringent-these may be discharged by notes of the Bank. But for such express provisions of the charter, such debts would on general principles be dischargeable in gold or

The acceptance of the charter containing these provisions binds the Bank to conform to them, and is a statutory notice to all the world, that whereas the Bank is required to pay all its notes in specie, the debtor to the Bank may pay his debt on more favorable terms-i. e. in its own notes without regard to their value. Whenever, therefore, the Bank issues its notes or an individual becomes indebted to the Bank, the world has legal notice of the statutory character impressed on each-i. e. it knows, that the Bank is bound and always bound to pay its notes in specie, and the debtor authorized and always authorized to pay his debt to the Bank in its own notes. And this character is impressed on every note issued by and on every obligation created to the Bank, as explicitly as if every such note contained on its face a declaration that it should be paid in specie, and every such obligation that it may be discharged in the Bank's notes.

The right of the debtor to the Bank so to pay his obligation does not result from nor depend on the doctrines and principles of setoff, so as to be affected by the time of acquiring the set off, or so as to be available as against the Bank and not against the transferree, unless acquired before notice of the transfer. It is, on the contrary, a right conferred by the charter, is co-existent with the obligation itself, and follows it necessarily into the hands of every transferree with or without value, or without notice. When therefore, the Bank transferred G's. bond to S. he took it burdened with this pre-existing chartered privilege of the debt, and, whether he knew it or not, can no more escape from its effect, than could the Bank itself, if no transfer had ever been made. Ignorartia juris neminem excusat.

If it be said, that on the strength of the decision in 10th Howard, the debtor may not discharge the bond in notes of the Bank, because estopped by the express promise to pay in specie. The answer is, that the Bank To find such a man will be no difficult task too is bound to pay its notes in specie, and so the rights of each, in this respect are the same. The Bank surely will not be allowed to object to satisfaction of the bond, because payable in specie, when the medium of satisfaction offered is its own notes also payable in specie, and they being the position of the Bank, its transferrence can occupy no better.

To assume that the transferrence may deny the defendant the benefit of his right to pay the bond to the Bank in its notes, because of the form of action resorted to, to recover it, is but to say, that the Bank (though bound by the original contract to accept payment in Owen Thorn and Mich'l Shea, in the sum of its notes) may, without consent of the defend- $20,000. ant, change the contract and divest them of the right by the simple artifice of putting the sions. The Surratt Trial.

WASHINGTON, June 23, 1868. In the Criminal Court of this District, this morning, Judge Andrew Wylie presiding, the case of the United States vs. John H. Surratt was called. Before proceeding upon its opening, however, the Judge said that the practice which prevailed during the trial last summer, of permitting promiscuous admission to the bar of the court could not now be allowed as it had not only rendered inconvenience to those officially engaged in the trial, but had seriously endangered their health and he therefore ordered that only certain privileged parties such as members of Congress, officials of the Executive Departments. the Mayors and councils of Washington, Georgetown and others, shall be permitted to be present within the bar of the court during

It was also ordered that the witnesses, both for and against the prisoner, be not permitted to be present, except during their examination on the case being called. Mr. Carrington, United States Attorney resented the new indictment found by the rand Jury on Thursday last, charging Suratt ith conspiracy, and stated that the United Stites was ready to proceed. Mr. Bradley, Jr., for the defence, remarkd that they were not disposed to proceed on a subsequent indictment until the one under which he had been previously arraigned had been disposed of; but the Court directed the clerk to read the indictment, which was done, he prisoner standing up as directed, and in esponse to the indictment, answered that he was "not guilty." Mr. Merrick, of counsel for the defence, stated that they were ready to try the case which was set for to-day, and that was the trial for murder. He knew nothing of this case. He contended that the prisoner had the right to be tried on that arraignment, or else he had the alternative right to be dis-Mr. Carrington submitted that he was not thus required. Butsupon the Court directing that legal and sufficient reasons be stated, upon the sanction of his official oath as District Attorney, for not bringing on the case, and whether he had exercised due diligence, &c., he proceeded to read a statement, to the effect that important witnesses whose evdence was material to the case, were not present, and the counsel for the United States had reason to believe that two of them were secreting themselves in order to evade the. law. It was expected to have them here by

Mr. Merrick objected to the reasons stated as not sufficient to form a material objection; that it did not contain the names of the witnesses, or what it was expected to prove by.

After some further remarks by Messis. Merrick and Carrington, the Court stated that the present case had now been pending for six terms of the Court, four having transpired since the trial of last summer. He considered that the reasons given by Mr Carrington for a continuance fell short of those required by proper authority, and proceeded to read legal authorities with reference to the causes for putting off a trial. The prisoner had not been convicted, and he could not, therefore, presume him to be guilty. Under the circumstances he was entitled to the same rights | the national debt is constantly increased, as as any other prisoner would have and he should have them. He directed that the prisoner be discharged under the indictment for murder, which was accordingly entered. The District Attorney did not, however, enter a nolle prosequi, and the original in-upon which it is understood he may hereafter be again arrested. After a slight demonstration of disorder manifested outside the bar of the Court, upon hearing the order to discharge the prisoner, was suppressed, the District Attorney moved to proceed with the trial upon the indictment charging Surratt with conspiracy.

dietment still stands against the prisoner,

Mr. Merrick, after stating that the coun sel for the defence on the original indictment had nothing to do with this new case, not having been engaged beyond reference to the arraignment for murder, under which the prisoner had been discharged, they were not willing to go on with the trial. After an argument the Court directed the case to be continued until Monday. John H. Surratt was released this afternoon on bail until Monday next. His bondsmen are John J. Bogue, R. B. Trenneil,

The following important correspondence speaks for itself :

NORFOLK, VA., June 18, 1868. "Hon. Charles Sumner, Washington, D. Universal Suffrage.

Mr. Daniel W. Voorhees recently delivered speech at New Albany, Ind., in which he expressed his views on the suffrage question, as follows:

"I am one of those persons that hold, first, upon the question of suffrage, that it is not a question of Federal politics at all. I take it that no man of honesty, no man of common intelligence, believes that Congress has the right to force a code of suffrage on the State of Indiana. Has Congress the right to enforce pegro suffrage everywhere? I will read the Chicago platform-that transparent fraud upon the question directly. They say they have the power to enforce it over ten States, but not power to enforce it over the rest. It is a question for the States, and the States alone. If the people of any State desire to incorporate the negro race into their voting population. That is their business not mine. But I should never do it, and I will give you my reasons why. If the people of a State desire to do it, they have the power to do it, however unwise that act may be; but the power of Congress does not extend to that. No question is plainer; and the Democratic party stands upon that doetrine. But we go further. We hold that the attempt to minvaces in the control of one government has, according to history, resulted fatally to the government that attempted it. I have no prejudices against the black man. I have no prejudices against anything that God has made. What right have I? The humblest and lowest thing of animated creation has my sympathy and respect, because God made it. "It is not because I would trample upon the black man that I would deprive him of the right of suffrage in this country; because the right of suffrage in his hand is an elemement of his own destruction as well as yours. I would give the black man every civil right known to the law. Suffrage is not a right; it is a social arrangement. I would give the negro the right to hold property, the right to make contracts and enforce them, collect his wages, sue and be sued, testify in courts-for I would illustrate truth from any source, and weigh the character of the witnesses, and let their evidence go for what it is worth-but when you ask me to take that race into political partnership with the great white, sonquering race, to whose hands, and to whose hands alone, your fathers gave the govern ment of this nation, then, I say, a sacrilige is attempted, and I recoil from it. (Applause,)

* * But if it is the right of the nego to vote, it is inalienable; and why hasn't he the right to vote in Indiana and Ohio as well as in Georgia? Yet last fall the question of negro suffrage was submitted to the people of Ohio, and they voted it down by nearly fifty thousand majority. It was submitted to the people of Michigan, and it was voted down by forty thousand majority. But they date not submit the question to the people of Indiana, and they dare not do it at the South but they enforce it South by legislative proceeding in Congress, supported by the bayonet, for which you pay out of your hardearned taxes. Negro suffrage there is a good thing. What is this but a party trick? What is this but a spotted and piebald platform? If it is right for a negro to vote there, it is right for him to vote here. Why do this par ty not stand up like men and advocate the doctrine logically? No meaner, no more cowardly, no more pitiful, no more evasive dodge, was ever placed before the American people in a political platform than that second pitiful plank, white North and black South. Cheers."]

Only Two Million Dollars.

The lower house of Congress has passed a bill increasing the salaries of the clerks in the various departments at Washington, twenty per cent. That takes the snug little sum of two million dollars out of the Treasury, and it will have to be replaced by taxes wrung from the toil and swear of the laboring classes. It really seems as if any scheme for the expenditure of the public money which can be devised is sure to meet the approval of the present Congress. Let the people send a different set of men to represent them. If they do not they will deserve to have the taxes constantly increased and the enormous sums raised all recklessly expended, while it was the last month, and promises to be in the future.

WHO IS GRANT ?- The man who said he would "fight it out on this (the Wilderness) line, if it took him all summer," but didn't, and was fain, in the end, to take McClellan's line, on the James river, . Who is Grant? The General who, before he took Richmond, lost nearly twice as many men as Lee had in his whole army when the opposing forces first met on the Rappahannock. Who is Grant? The man who "swung round the circle" with Andy Johnson in 1866, until he became giddy at Cleveland, and couldn't swing any farther; the man who stood by Andy Johnson's side when the latter was presented the resolutions of the Philadelphia Convection; the man who kicked out Stanton in August, and sneaked out of the War Office in order to let Stanton crawl back to it, in December: the man who broke his word with his friend the President; the man who endorses the enfranchisement of 600,000 negroes, and at the same time, declares he will have "no policy" if elected to the Presidency. This is Grant. From such a President, good Lord, deliver us !- Harrisburg Patriot.

COOK STOVES, of all sorts and sizes, for HAR-VEST, for sale by June 20, 1868. D. HUMPHREYS & CO. SPLENDID assortment of Dress Buttons and

We remember that Sir Robert Peel made a testamentary provision for justice to his memory, and appointed, as what he termed his literary executors, the present Earl Stan-hope, then Lord Mahon, and Mr. Edward Cardwell. Ex President Buchanan, it appears, has done something of the kind. We ire the exact text of the codicil in which this provision is made, and which seems to us very graceful and touching:

Mr. Buchanan's Will.

"I hereby direct my executors named in my last will and testament to place all the pers, correspondence, and private and public cuments connected with my public life in the hands of my friend, William B. Reed who having shown to me in my retirement great kindness, and in whom I have entire confidence, to enable him to prepare such a biograph al work as I desire. With this view I do let my executors to pay to the order of Willi a B. Reed such sums, in the aggregate not seceding one thousand dollars, as may be necessary in his opinion to secure the proper publication of such biographical work, and in case it or any part of it is not so used, it shall go unto the remainder of my estate. "As some compensation for the work which Mr. Reed has undertaken to perform, I give and bequeath to his wife, Mrs. Mary L. Reed, the sum of five thousand dollars, which direct to be a legacy for her separate use and benefit, and in case of her death, for her children, said amount to be paid to her on the completion of the work, or in the event of her death before that, to her children."

Here is a recognition not only of Mr. Reed's itellectual fitness which, we imagine, even his Philadelphia enemies do not question, but of something better and higher. "He is my friend and has been kind and attentive to me in my retirement." . This is pure and graceful praise. The hackneyed stanza, as old as the days of Pouliney and Sir Robert Walpole, comes back to our memory

"Let others court the rising sun.
I bow to him whose race is run;" nd Mr. Reed may well be proud of this ribute, coming as it were from the grave, to his disintere ted fidelity. The visitors at Wheatland Firing the last seven years of gloom were ther and braver and better men than the crowds which intested it when Mr. Buchanan he honors and emoluments to bestow. We trust we do not violate the sanctity of payate sorrow in saying that there is something fouching, too, in the fact that the ex President, an aged man, survived the accomplished lady, the wife of his friend, to whom the bequest was made. It enures, we presume, to the benefit of her young children.

And what a comment is this selection on the transitory nature of old fashioned polit ical asperities and prejudices in this country sistent Jackson Democrat, chooses as his literary excutor and biographer an equally consistent, Corough-going Henry Clay Whig. for such Mr Reed eminently was. He never left the Whos till they became felo de so in: 1854. This is as it should be. How parrow after all, compared to the great gulf that separated parties now-a days, was the crevice which divided Democrats from Whigs. Theirs was a common faith in the essentials of the Constitution. It is unnecessary for us to say what our expectations are as to the execution of the work with which Mr. Read is intrusted It is one which will require time and careful elaboration, and he is too conscientious a man of letters, too thoroughly trained in his own scrutiaizing profession, to do his work hastily r superficially. The propitious time for the ppearance of such a publication will be (and is not very distant) when the constitutional party of the country, of which Mr. Buchanan ras once a leader, shall have resumed its ascendancy, and the obscene birds which now defile the ruins of the Union shall be driven out.-N. LOCAL MISCELLANY.

COMFORT vs. DECENCY .- In alluding to th statement made by the Shepherdstown Reg ister that the excessive heat of the weather, at the late term "compelled Judge Harrison to adjourn court out of doors, to the shally side of the Court House, where it was more pleasant," the Leesburg Mirror says :-

Before the County seat of Jefferson was removed from Charlestown, its proper place, and the courts presided over by radical mushrooms, they had a commodious, airy hall, where justice was administered with decency and comfort to all in attendance. Do the good people of that proud old county suppose that Douglas or Parker would have adjourned their Courts to the "Shady Side" of the House, because of warm weather? But alas, alas, neither Douglas nor Parker is now on the bench, and radical justice is administered in a remote corner of the county, on the banks of the Potomac, by those whom it naturally behooves to keep their bodies as cool as possible in this present world. Wonder if the Judge was in his shirt sleeves.

The Mirror should recollect that we live and move, and hold our Courts in a differen atmosphere from that which surrounded us when Douglas and Parker graded the bench of our Circuit-Court. Then the air was no tainted with the unwholesome virus of Radicalism, and no fear of loathsome disease was entertained. Now the rottenness of judges. attorneys and jurors, renders it unhealthy to be closely confined, in a room improperly ventilated, and entirely too small for the transaction of the legal business for a county like Jefferson. We approve of Judge Harrison's course in adjourning to the Court green, where fresh air could be obtained. It was only a sanitary precaution, for which his Honor should be commended. When we get the county seat back here, which we will do in less than a year, we will have the air so purified, that the judge may retain his seat without contracting disease himself, or danger of infecting others, if he is already under the leprous influence of radicalism:

OUR SCHOOLS. The Male Academy and Female Seminaries of our town terminated their sessions during the last week, under most gratifying auspices. We have received but are gratified to learn that they were o the most satisfactory character, evidencing in a high degree, the efficiency and devotion of teacher and progress and improvement of pupil. They were all liberally patronized, and we hope may continue to grow in public favor until our high schools shall be regarded as second to none in the Valley. Arrangements are already in progress to commence the fall sessions under more advantageous circumstances than have ever heretofore been afforded, and we hope our people may manifest a just pride in their success and a support commensurate with their high claims to public favor, may be generously awarded -Circulars as to terms, &c., will be soon is ued.

VALLEY FEMALE SEMINARY .- The annual Commencement of this institution took place on Monday the 22d just., in Mezart Hall, Winchester, Virginia. The annual address to the young ladies, was delivered by HON. JOHN RANDOLPH TUCKER andwas listened to with raptattention by a highly delighted audience. His discourse was constructed with a layer of the utile and a layer of the d dee in such just proportions as to amuse and instruct equalty. Several prizes and many distinctions were distributed as testimonials of success and proficiency in various depart-

On Tuesday the 23d, Mozart Hall could not hold half the people collected to attend Miss Evie Magili's soire musicale, which did great credit to herself, her scholars, and the Seminary, MAJOR HENRY K. DOUG-LAS delivered the prizes for Music and Drawing, introducing this ceremony with some eloquent remarks vindicating the science of Music, as properly entitled "the Art of fusing souls."

Mrs. Magill has succeeded in establishing upon a permanent basis one of the finest institutions of learning in the United States. Those of our citizens desiring to educate their daughters thoroughly, will not be able to place them at any school where superior advantages of learning, or more refined and religious influences, can be enjoyed.

ACCIDENT .- Mr. Jeffries, an unfortunate cripple well known to the people of the Valley, met with quite a serious accident on Sunday evening last at Halltown, in this county. He had been exhibiting in our town his series of "Stereoscopic Views" during the last week, and feeling that exercise and air. were necessary to his health, he secured a friend to drive him out. After crossing the ran at the point mentioned, the driver got out of the wagon to turn the horse and fasten the rein, but whilst doing so the animal became unmanageable and attempted to get off dragging the driver some fifty yards or more on the road leading to Shepherdstown, During this time, Mr. Jeffries being entirely helpless, was thrown from the wagon into a stone-heap on the side of the road with such force as to fracture his leg, and infl et other injuries which in his enfeebled condition may prove even more serious. He received such attention as his case required, and our community deeply sympathise with him in his misfortune.

CHARLESTOWN .- A Lome man calls upon you to give your favor and countenance to the new enterprise in which he is engaged. It is instructive and refining in its tendencies, hand-bills) from some of the most respectable and refined gentlemen, who have honored the "Stereoscopic Gallery" by a visit. The ladies are universally pleased when viewing these grand and beautiful works of Nature and Art. New "Views" are put on exhibition every day; price for a single admittance to see more than fifty of these "Views," 25 cents-by the week, half price. Go at once, if you would find a pleasant place to spend a portion of your time, and but very little of your money.

WORTHY OF NOTICE.-We hardly know how to notice a present which we received about three weeks ago. We have been so overcome by the liberality of the gentleman making this donation, that we have found it difficult to command language to give expression to our feelings of gratitude. The present to which we allude consisted of a full pattern for a suit of clothes, of beautiful summer goods, manufactured at Shannondale Factory, and presented to the editor of the Spirit by that kind hearted gentleman, Mr. JAMES M. JOHNSTON. We do not mean to speak particularly of the donor, but want to say something of the goods, and of the establishment from which they come. Last spring, the proprietor of Shannondale Factory, threw out all their old, and introduced entirely new machinery, and on this new machinery the goods for our suit were manufactured. The introduction of this new machinery, and other improvements, enables the proprietors of the Shannondale, to compete with the best appointed establishments of the country, and their goods, in point of material excellence, cannot be surpassed, as the samples already turned out fully attest. With an abundance of water power, ample machinery, and none but the best stock, this factory is able to sup-

THE STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL .- The Lalies' Strawberry Festival at Weirick's Hall, last week, was well attended, and the amount realized, after deducting all expenses, about one hundred and torty dollars. This sum is to be added to a fund already on hand, for the purpose of erecting a monument to perpetuate the memory of the Confederate Dead. now quietly sleeping in Edge Hill cemetery. The amount is not large, but as a contribution of the energy of the noble women of Charlestown, it will materially and in rearing the shaft proposed, and in after years, when the friends of the Southern dead visit our Cemetery they will invoke blessings upon the hands. that have contributed to so worthy an object.

ply any demand that may be made upon it at that must give satisfaction.

A NOVEL ENTRITION .- Mr. Ludington, an extensive cattle grazier, of Greenbrier county, W. Va., designs favoring the country, sometime in August next, with a rather novel exhibition. He has a large bullock; weighing 4,000 pounds, which he intends to send to market, passing through the Valley here. The bullock will be on a wagon, drawn by five yoke of oxen, in charge of a one-armed Confederate soldier, who has been generously educated by Mr. L. at his own expense. The bullock, as our readers will understand, is "a whale," and will attract general observation. The profits arising from the exhibition will be given to the Confederate soldier, Mr. L. himself defraying the transportation of the bullock to market. Due notice will be given by advertisement, of the time when this immense bullock, will be on exhibition. Rockingham Register.

DECEASED .- Mr. ABRAHAM ISLER, one among the most active and best known citizens of our county, died at his residence, "Mill-Grove," after a very brief though painful illness, on Sunday evening last. He was aged about 74 years, and is the last of the old members of the family of that name, who were among the oldest residents of our county. His remains were interred in "Edge-Hill Cemetery," yesterday afternoon.

[For the Spirit of Jefferson.] MR. EDITOR :- I discover that our honorable Board of Supervisors, in the exercise of their superior wisdom, have granted license to sell spirituous liquor to not less than eight different establishments in our town. They, who should be the guardians of the morals of the community, ion the presumption that they are honorable men, some of them christian men and in occupancy of an office of trust and responsibility) have deemed it necessary to open upon us so many flood gates of woe and misery. They seem to have no just appreciation of the moral sentiment this community; no regard at all to the vicious and baneful effect of their action; no care about the wreck and ruin of character, life, fortune, honor, happiness, soul's, that may be entailed; none of these things move them, but any person and every person. though they be legion, who may apply for license, that will pay the tax and thus add to the revenue, shall have the privilege ad libitum to deal out what a great and good man aptly termed "liquid fire and distilled damnation." And now, Mr. Editor, what remedy have the virtuous, and moral, and good of this community against this, to say the least, most unrighteous abuse of place and power? None at all that I can discover!

Petition them against it and send it up ever so numerously and influentially signed. and they treat it as so much blank paper .-Depute a committee to wait upon them, who earnestly remonstrate and cogently set forth the evil, and with the utmost nonchalance they chew their quid and hide behind the law in justification of their course. And these are Fathers who would not like to see their sons made drunkards and going to drunkards graves. They are men of position. and property, and influence; all of which should be thrown by them in favor of truth, and virtue, the good morals and happiness of their fellow citizens. Mr. Editor this being the sad situation it is a cause of sincere gratulation that we have organized and in successful operation in our town a council of the "Friends of Temperance," the corner stone of which order is entire abstinence from that which intoxicates. Weekly their number is increased by the addition of votaries to the pledge, and though of but late introduction in our midst, it is beginning to take the form and proportion of an institution. But, Mr. Editor, if you please, more about this enterprise in your next paper. TOTAL ABSTINENCE.

WINCHESTER AND STRASBURG R. R. As soon as the organization shall be completed it is and the best of references are given (see expected that the road will be begun and rapidly pushed to completion.

- We received another egg last week containing oracular inscriptions. The inscriptions, in this case, were in well defined Greek characters. As well as we could interpret them, they predicted the coming of Christ in 1872, that being the end-the expiration of six thousand years from the creation .- Staunton Speciator.

[For the Spirit of Jefferson.] The Ladies' Catholic Fair at Harper's Ferry.

MR. EDITOR:-The fair, which was refered to in my last article, given by the Catholic Ladies in this vicinity, closed on Monday night last, after having been conducted with the most satisfactory success. The direct object of its organization being the raising of funds for the purchase of a bell, and making necessary repairs to the church, the objective point has been made without a dun, excepting fair duns by fair ones-to the gratification of all concerned.

While looking upon the tables, filled with heterogeneous masses of friendly donations, and then scanning the joyful countenances of the assembled throng, my mind was often carried back through the clouded vista of seven years, when we met together to enjoy like pleasantries, surrounded by full and plenty of the fruits of prosperity. 'Tis true, times and circumstances have changed; a thousand winds of adversity have swept through our once happy and contented homes and chilled the hearts of their inmates till they have quivered in suspended hope; the blasting simoon, with its withering breath, has blown into the very faces of our population, see mingly, bent upon destructive ends; but, here we still are, and here, we mean to stay. The old mountains of historic names, though they short notice, and with an article of goods were robbed of their dresses by the soldiers' axe, have now new suits of verdure and look as beautiful as ever. Of courses they are short dresses, but they are so fashionable ; and ain't they gay. The old Shenandoah and Potomac still travel the same course. No visible change, no separation. So we mean to travel, as long as a flickering ray of hope lights our way. But, we must leave the the wave on the Potomac, and the wild flowers on Maryland heights, and return to the fair room.

As we enter the door, the first table an our right, was plenteously laden with a a beauti ful variety of fancy articles, presenting quite a tidy appearance, and presided over by Mrs. M. Walsh and others.

The next, a refreshment table, was crowded with the dainty appetizers, generally known by the appellation of pound cakes; though, judging from size, I think some of them should have been more properly termed wenty-four pounders, especially, the one preented by parties from Cumberland. For a change of commodities there, spare change was passed to Miss Mary Hall and Mrs. M.

At the extreme end of the room, was the ndispensable ice cream table. None of your trozen chalk water; nary; that was the place if not to cool your ardor, certainly, your arching lips, (no reference to lips that will atter a prayer for a drop of cold water.) Mrs. Walsh and Miss Kitzmiller, were ever ready o supply demands.

Next, refreshment table, attended by Mrs. E. Tierney and Mrs. Decaume, where, alone, three hundred and thirty more dollars were realized. The last, a fancy table by Mrs. lierney, Mrs. Lajoie and others. And now we have passed around the room, what next? In the centre of the room stood a sexangular frame work, with as many arches as sides. about ten feet high, and donie like in form ; the whole being decorated with evergreens. The representation of the well, was well, and Rebecca might have been outdone. Indeed. there, was many a young gent who drank there, and didn't look a bit thirsty; one eye in the glass, and the other wasn't. Not being very observant of the qualities of human nature, I refrain from expressing an opinion about young men's impressions.

Friend Frank, did you ever take a chance in a lottery? If you did, you are aware that a fellow generally, has a very poor chance .-If you didn't, you ought to have been to the Fair. I'll guarantee you would have had a bit of experience. If we havn't girls here who can task you blind on the chancery ques tion, your optical demonstrations are iron clad, impervious, fire-proof and invulnerable l'alk about black eyes and penetrating glances! blue eyes and mild expressions! parfect forms and lady-like appearances! why we have just got those articles here in abundance. By the way, I noticed a controversy a short time ago between the Spirit and a Winchester paper, as to which held the palm of feminine beauty, Winchester or Charlestown. We were silent at the time, but will have it understood now, that if the question arise again. we propose to poll a vote. At the first glance, this may seem irrelevant, but as there has never been a question in which the gentler sex has not figured, in some degree, I suppose the rule will hold good in this case also.

The most valuable articles on sale, were several silver sets, of different descriptions. Bohemian Vases, and others of exqusite beauty, a miniature set of furniture, &c.

The cane, of county popularity, was awarded to Mr. John Hyland, he having received ne hundred and ninety one majority over his foremost competitor, Mr. Heskitt-the total number of votes making an aggregate of three undred and seventy dollars. Mr. Ed. O'arrell, received the majority vote, as the most popular young man for the cuff buttons, upon which the amount realized was two hundred and thirty-six dollars.

The whole nett proceeds of the Fair, as I understand, will more than cover twelve hundred dollars.

The presentation of the cape was made on londay night last in a formal manner to Mr. Hyland, which was thankfully responded to, with the assurance to his friends, that it will ever be held as a living memento of their kindness and generosity. Thus ended the programme of a delightfully pleasant week. ACROSTIC IN MEMORIUM

Let pleasure have its proper place, And all its circle join; Don't look demure with tortured face, Imperfect in such form. Every mind in turn needs change. Soulight most cross the way; Clouds disperse from in ital range; And night give place to day 'Tis nature's will that it be so. Heaven beams with mirth; Oh! see the laughing stars aglow, Look down on mother earth Imploringly, to return a smile! Can we not one return? A light that for us burns ! Than those of the far away;
And the soul-strong lute, is dull and mule;
To those of a foreign lay. The sailor may side, o'er the bounding tide, And live on the stormy sea; But the crested wave, and the ocean cave,

Wealth-seekers may hie 'neath an alien sky,
In search of a richer clime,
But the golden ore, on the far off shore,
Has never a thought of mine.

The soldier may reigh, on the tented plain, And glory in danger see; But the trumpet call, and the deadly ball, Were ever a dread to me.

The rover may roam, far off from his home, And pleasure in roving find:
But lonely to stray, o'er the wanderer's way,
Was never a wish of mine.

But I dearly prize, my native skies, And 'tis here content I find; Should I give my hand, to another land, My heart I would leave behind.

Accommodation at the Bank.

A capital example of what is often termed "taking the starch out," happened in a country bank in New England. A pompous, well dressed individual entered the bank, and addressing the teller, who is something of a wag, inquired: "Is the cashier in?"

"No, sir," was the reply. "Well, I am dealing in pens, supplying the New England Banks pretty largely, and I suppose it will be proper for me to deal with the cashier." "I suppose it will," said the teller "Very well, I will wait."

The pen dealer took a chair and sat composedly for a full hour, waiting for the cashier. By that time he began to grow uneasy, but sat twisting in his chair for about twenty minutes, and, seeing no prospects of a change in his circumstances, asked the teller how soon 'the cashier would be in.

"Well, I don't know exactly," said the waggish teller, "but I expect him in about eight weeks. He has just gone to Lake Superior, and told me he would be back in that Peddler thought he would not wait. "Oh. you may stay if you wish," said the teller very blandly. We have no objection to your sitting here in the day time, and you can probably find some place in town where they will be glad to keep you at night." The pompous peddler disappeared without another word.

- The Nashville Union and Dispatch tells the following good ons:

"A negro preacher, holding a protracted meeting in Henry county having called up the penitent sinners to the anxious seat, got himself down in the straw to labor with them. Finding the burden of sin hard to remove from the soul of a stalwart cullud man, of huge dimensions, he very generously slipped his hand in his pocket and relieved him of the hindering cause, in the shape of a pocketbook containing about thirty six dollars in greenbacks. He was sentenced to the penitentiary for the term of ten years, but is now running at large, having been pardoned by his Excellency W. G. Brownlow. He alleges that he took the pocket-book for fear the man would lose it in the straw, and forgot to give it back to him."

- All you know how young Sniffkins are aware he married old Miss Betty Blodgett for her money—that he cannot touch it till she dies, and that he treats her very badly on account of what he calls her 'unjustifiable longevity.' The other day, Mrs. Sniffkins. finding herself unwell, sent for a doctor, and in the presence of Sniffkins and the medical man, declared her belief that she was poisoned,' and that he, Sniffkins, had done it. 'I didn't do it,' shouted Sniffkins, 'it's all gammon, she isn't . poisoned. Prove it, doctor-open her upon the spot-I'm willing.'
