CHARLESTOWN, VA. Tuesday Morning, July 7, 1868.

Sound Views In the Nashville Union and Dispatch of the 17th, editorial prominence is given to letter from an old line Whig of large political experience, addressed to a personal friend—one of the delegates to the National Demoeratic Convention. It is a clear, sound and succinct review of the questions to be decided in the coming struggle, and an unprejudiced and unreserved comment upon the qualifications and claims of the leading men whose names have been discussed in connection with the Presidential nomination. Subjoined are some extracts from it, which are worthy of general reading. The prime issues in the approaching campaigns are few, he says, and embrace as essential:

"First, Constitutional government, which ncludes opposition to the entire Jacobin the ory of Southern reconstruction, and the supremacy of the civil over military power. Second. Negro suffrage, manhood suffrage, or any other form of negro equality, or dominance over white people. Third. The financial problem—opposing the payment of the national debt in legal-tenders (which by · law are money) to the theory of consolidating the entire debt into obligations, payable, principle and interest, in gold."

Dismissing Johnson, Chase and Hancock -the latter he says, would do to trust, if sure of election-he says of Pendleton:

."His record, you and I cannot object to on the question of the war and its cognates. On the Chief questions I have stated, he is above challenge. He is as nearly a Democrat prominently identified with the issues of the day. He commands the enthusiastic and undivided support of the entire West and North-

Speaking of the necessity of concert of ac-

Having been a Whig, somewhat intelerant of Democracy, do you think it strange that I should go so unreservedly and fully into the bosom of the old adversary? It is my only hope. It is the only organization that promises any relief. There is no other party with which we can ally ourselves, and there is none that I would if I could. I don't want to go against Radicalism with any doubtful or hesitating step. I embrace Democracy as it is, at large, fully and without reservation. Upon its success as a party depends in my opinion, the restoration of the country to liberty and constitutional government. In sustaining it through a nominating vote at New York for President, we should make the nomination such as would array the whole Democratic column in one straight and firm . ocean to ocean. What I mean is that the nomination should not only contemplate a Presidential success, but secure a Congressional success. For, no matter who is President, if Congress remains as it is now, the battle is substantially lost. The nominate should give strength to the candidate and solidity to the column in every Contemplate a president of time of war. It is spread all over the empire, from the Baltic to the Caucasus. The Spanish army is small, not exceeding 80,000 mean; but it is very well clothed and disciplined. It is also receiving breedt-loaders. The number of men maintained in the standing armies of civilized nations is not less than 3,000,000. All these set line from the gulf to the lake and from shippole to give strength to the candidate and solidity to the column in every Congressional district in the land. The Demogram candidate ought to have the full beneal of each of the prime issues I have named and be authors and for the costly armaments they restabled to go before the people with the grand shippole of civil supergram are shippole of civil supergram and the same shippole of civil supergram are shippole of civil supergram and the same specific strength of civil supergram are shippole of civil supergram and the same specific strength of civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram and the same specific strength of civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram and the same specific strength of civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram and the same specific strength of civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram and the same specific strength of civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram and the same specific strength of civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram and the same specific strength of civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram and the same specific strength of civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram and civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram and civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram and civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram and civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram and civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram and civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram and civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram and civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram and civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram are specific strength of civil supergram a shibboleth of civil supremacy over military, law—the white man over the black—and one working masses of tax payers as actions the bond-holding and gold-receiving few.

The ex-Confederate General Forrest has bond-holding and gold-receiving few.

In the ex-Confederate General Forrest has gone to the New York Fourth of July Continctly and clearly defined, with no drawbacks from the Presidential nomination, the whole column arrayed against revolutionary Jacobism would carry these issues in every part of the field, and achieve a triumph unsurpassed in our annals. It would pluck the government from the flames, and give us again something of the normal original.

A RARE CONGRESSIONAL PLOT.-We have information of a plot in contemplation by the Radicals in Congress which is calculated to startle every reflecting man in the country. It is the purpose and expectation of these Radical conspirators to control the Presidential election per fas out nefas. They intend, we hear, to elect a President by the House of Representatives, regardless of the popular choice, throwing out votes at discretion where they find them adverse, especially from the South. In all these States they will fabricate votes from spurious electors, and the purpose is that the present House of Representatives shall have the practical control of the matter. In case of a legitimate expression of the popular choice, they do not count on victory; and by the aid of the House of Representatives and the regular army they think to control the matter. General Grant is to be elected by the House, and by his sword is to usurp the office of President from the duly elected candidate of the people.-Such is the prospect before us if these cons spirators shall not be taught to quail before their designs are consummated. National Intelligencer.

REPPETUAL MOTION REALIZED .- Whether mechanical perpetual motion is or is not among human impossibilities has long been a disputed point, but what seems a realization of this desideratum in physics, or comes so near it as to leave the mind at a loss and set argument at defiance, is a piece of mechanism which belongs to Dr. Loomis of this city.— This machine is about 20 inches in height, and the main feature is a vertical wheel, some six inches in diameter, upon a shaft about four inches in length. The whole is provid-ed with weights, the peculiar arrangement of and leverage, which produces an eccentric poise of the wheel and thus maintaining a constant motion. It was produced at an expense of $80,000, and is the result of many years' labor by a man now deceased. To whatever status philosophers or physicists may assign it, it is certainly a marvel, and has no equal. Its separate pieces can easily be taken apart and examined in its every mi-GRAIN Cradles, Mowing Snaths, Grain and Grain Rakes, Whet Stones and Rifles, for sale by June 2.

Radicalism, considered as a disease, may be placed in the same catalogue with those cutaneous eruptions which indicate, and are produced by, an unhealthy condition of the blood. This political disease, at first epidemic, gradually spread itself in all directions, until at length it became epidemic in its character, and alarmingly prevalent in all classes of society. Like the itch, it is contagious, and assumes its most malignant form in persons whose Southern proclivities, or democratic principles have been overcome by the love of fat offices. Those who have the love of their country at heart, and who earnestly desire to see the "Body Politic" cured of this foul disease, while it is confined to the surface, and before its virus has reached the organic life of constitutional liberty, have not organic life of constitutional liberty, have not as yet discovered a remedy for its cure. The best course to be pursued by persons living where they are brought in contact with those who have this complaint—and especially those who find the struggle between political honesty with poverty for an income, and radical corruption with greenbacks and the contempt of the people for a heritage, a hard one—is to prepare their systems to resist the malaria, which emanates from radical assemblies, by reading the Constitution daily, the Biography of the signers of the Declaration of Independence lependence once a week, and Washington's Farewell Address before going to church every Sunday morning.

If a cure for this wide-spread disease should be discovered, it will be patented at once, and agencies for the sale of it established throughout New England and West Virginia.

MONITOR.

Armies of the World.

At the present day the standing armies o the world are larger than they have been since the great wars of the first Napoleon. The army of the United States now numbers 56,-000 men in all. For the extent of our territory this is the smallest army in the world; and we have reason to congratulate ourselves $100,000,000, or nearly $2,000,000 per 1,000 men. The army of France has been fixed at 750,000 men in the "active army," and 550,000 in the "passive" the latter being named the National Garde Mobile. Total, 1,300,tion on the part of the old Whigs and Demo- 000 men available for war. A contingency of 100,000 men is annually available to recruit the army. The british army numbers about 200,000 men. The bulk of this army is at home, Ireland absorbing about 25,000 good troops. Of the colonies or foreign pos-sessions, India takes the largest body of troops the Dominion of Canada next, Australia next. The Prussian army now numbers about 600, 000 men. The Italian army now numbers 215,000 men, and is a very effective one.— In one of its arms, the Bersaglieri, or rifle battalion, it excels even the French army, whose Zouaves were supposed to be the first light infantry in the world. The Austrian army numbers about 700,000 men; its cavalry is said to be very fine. The government breeds its own horses, and thus secures good mounts. The Russian army numbers about 800,000 men; it could be quickly increased to 1,200,000 in time of war. It is spread all vention as a delegate. In the course of a recent conversation he is reported to have said that it will not be any more curious to see him in the Democratic Convention than it was to see Joe Brown, of Georgia, in the Radical Convention; and he adds:

"The Radicals like Joe Brown because he is a Radical. I suppose the same rule will apply to me with the Democrats. Why, sir, the warmest reception I've had since the war was with General Sherman. I'm not afraid of the Deinocratic soldiers or the Republican soldiers. I like General Hancock, and I don't believe there is a brave or reasonable Union soldier who dislikes or doubts me as a man. I went into the war because my vote had been unable to preserve the peace, I took a through ticket, of course, and I fought and lost as much as any one else; certainly as much as I could. Now the war's over, and I'm under oath to keep my parole. Suppose I consider myself an outlaw, and refuse to take part in what's going on, does that help me to keep my oath? Won't folks that are disposed to be ill-natured say I'm sullen and dangerous, and only waiting a chance to break out in a fresh place? That's what they have said. Now I give the country a sort of hostage, in addition to my parole, when I join an active, organized body of Union men in the North, and I proclaim when I go to New York that I am at least as well reconstructed as Joe Brown, who was an original SELECTIONS FOR A NEWSPAPER.—Most people think the selection of suitable matter for a newspaper the easiest part of the business. How great an error! It is the most difficult. To look over and over hundreds of exchange papers every week, from which to select enough for one, especially when the question is not what shall, but what shall not be selected, is no easy task. If every person who reads a newspaper could have edited it, we should hear less complaints. Not unfrequently is it the case that an editor looks over all his exed with weights, the peculiar arrangement of which gains, as it were, a result between heft can find nothing, and yet something must be had—his paper must come out with something in it, and he does the best he can. To an editor who has care about what he selects, the writing he has to do is the least of the labor. Just as many subscribers as an editor may have so many tastes has he to consult.

A Barber's Advancement. Let readers transport themselves to Canterbury in 1776, and let them enter a barber's shop hard by the Canterbury Cathedral. It is a primitive shop, with the red and white pole over the door, and a modest display of wigs and puff-boxes in the window. A small shop, but notwithstanding its smallness, the best shop of its kind in Canterbury; and its shop, but notwithstanding its smallness, the best shop of its kind in Canterbury; and its lean, stiff, exceedingly respectable master is a man of good repute in the Cathedral town. His hands have, ere now, powdered the Archbishop's wig, and he is specially retained by the chief elergy of the city and neighborhood to keep their false hair in order, and trim the natural tresses of their children. Not only have the dignitaries of the Cathedral taken the worthy barber under their special pro-tection, but they have extended their care to his little boy, Charles, a demure, prim lad, who is at the present time a pupil in the King's School, to which Academy clerical interest gained him admission; the lad is in his fourteenth year; and Dr. Osmand Beauvoir, the master of the school, gives him so good a character for industry and dutiful demeanor that some of the Carbedral ecclesion. meanor that some of the Gathedral ecclesiasfortune, by placing him in the office of a Wyoming, fifteen miles west of Laramie, is choirister. There is a vacant place in the almost useless on account of the alkali. In Cathedral choir; and the boy who is lucky enough to receive the appointment will be provided for munificently. He will forthwith have a maintenance, and in course of time his salary will be £70 per annum.

During the last fortnight the barber has been in great and constant excitement hoping that his boy will obtain this valuable place of preferment; persuading himself that the lad's thickness of voice, concerning which the choir master spoke with aggravating per-sistence; and fearing that the friends of another contemporary boy, who is said by the up from the bottom of the sea quite a time choir-master to have an exceedingly melifluous voice, may defeat his paternal aspirations.
The momentous question agitates many humble homes in Canterbury; and while Mr. Abbott, the barber, is encouraged to hope the best for his son, the relatives and supporters of the contemporary boy are urging him not to despair. Party spirit prevails on either are found imbelled a red sandstone, while side—Mr. Abbott's family associates maintain—others lie loose in the earth. Along with ing that the contemporary boy's higher notes resemble those of a cenny whistle; while the contemporary boy's father, with much satire and justice, murmurs that "old Abbott, who is the gossip monger of the parsons, wants to push his son into a place for which there is a better candidate."

When Charley has been put through his vocal piece, the contemporary boy is requested to sing. Ere ten minutes had passed, Charley Abbott knows that he has lost the election and he hastens from the Cathedral with quick steps. Running into the shop, he gives his father one look that tells the whole story of of failure, and then the little fellow, unable to command his grief, sets down upon the floor and sobs convulsively.

OLDEST TREES IN THE WORLD .- The cypress of Somma in Lombardy, Italy, is per-haps the oldest tree on record. It was known to be in existence in the time of Julius Cæsar the ground. Napoleon, when laying down the plan for his great road over the Simplon, a port on the Alps, diverged from the straight line to avoid injuring this tree. The honor of superior antiquity, however, is claimed by some in behalf of the immense, and venerable tree in Calaveras county, California, which is supposed, from the number of eccentric cir-cles in the trunk, to be 2565 years old.

Hitherto the Southern Germans, of a poorer class of men, were those who crossed the Atlantic, but now the people of the North are on the moye, carrying with them a greater amount of property, to begin their New World life with. If one drinks much of it the same effect is produced as if a strong dose of salts is taken.

She became prudent from affection; and though of the most generous nature she was taught frugality, and economy by her love for me. During the most critical period of my life she relieved me. She gently reclaimed me from dissipation; she propped my weak and irresolute nature; she urged my weak and irresolute nature; she urged This greatly disgusted the workmen when my indolence to all the exertions that have they were forced to drink it. THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.

Pursuant to the call of the Executive Committee, the National Convention of the Democratic party, assembled in New York on Saturday last, the 4th inst. We have delayed the issue of our paper, that we might be able to present our readers with some of the proceedings of the Convention. At 12 o'clock the Convention was called to order by Hon: AUGUST BELMONT, the Chairman of the Executive Committee, who delivered a speech of welcome, from which we make the following extract :-

Gentlemen of the Convention-It is my privilege to-day, to welcome you here in this hall, constructed with so much artistic taste and tentered to you by the time-honored Society of Tammany. I welcome you to this magnificent temple erected to the Goddess of Liberty by her stanchest defenders and most fervent worshipers. I welcome you to this good city of New York, the bulwark of democracy, which has rolled back the surging waves of radi-calism through all the storms of the last eighty years; and I welcome you, gentlemen, to our Empire State, which last fall redeemed aerself from republican misrule by a majority of nearly 50,000 votes, and which claims the right to lead the vanguard of victory in the great battle to be fought next November, for the preservation of our institutions, our laws and our liberties.

At the conclusion of Mr. Belmont's speech the Convention effected a temporary organization by calling Gen. Henry S. Palmer, of Wisconsin, to the Chair. A Committee of one from each State was then appointed permanent organization, when the Convention adjourned over until Monday.

On Monday the Convention re-assembled and Ex-Governor HORATIO SEYMOUR of New York, was chosen as permanent President, when the Convention again adjourned until 4 o'clock, at which time it was expected the balloting would commence.

In the list of officers, we notice that Hon Robert Y. Conrad represents Virginia as one of the Vice Presidents, and William D. Coleman, as secretary; from West Virginia, John W. Gallagher is Vice President, and Carlos A. Sperry, secretary.

LATER.

From the Baltimore papers of yesterday, we glean the following with reference to the action of the Convention on Monday NEW YORK, July 6, 1868.

The proceedings of the Convention to-day have been of a general character, and in no manner whatever indicative of a preference for any candidate. The report of the Associated Press will give you a clear synopsis

The speech of Governor Seymour was received with hearty and continual acclama-

Many resolutions were offered some of which were adopted and others referred to the proper committees. Among those adopted were resolutions approving the Amnesty Proclamation of President Johnson of July 4th by a unanimous vote, and approving the able, impartial and dignified conduct of Chief Justice Chase in the impeachment trial.

The main feature of the proceedings was the reception of the committee from the Convention of Union Soldiers and Sailors, headed by Gen. Franklin, Gen. Slocum and other distinguished officers. The speech of General Ewing, Jr., was frequently interrupted with the most rapturous applause. He said he was ready to take by the hand the Southern Generals who were present in the Convention, and to recognize as political enemies only those who were attempting to overthrow the Constitu-

At the conclusion of his address the Convention rose and gave three hearty cheers, General Wade Hampton was then loudly called for from the galleries and other parts of the hall, but did not respond.

A motion was made by Mr. Eaton, of Connecticut, to reconsider the vote adopted in the morning postponing the nomination of candidates until after the report of the Committee on Resolutions.

A motion to lay this on the table was defeated by a large majority, and the motion to reconsider adopted. Skirmishing then ensued by motions to adjourn, on which the vote was called by States, and without coming to a direct vote the Convention adjourned. Several motions were made to adopt a rule that a majority should nominate, but they were ruled out of order by the President, on the ground that the report of the Committee on Organization, covering the two thirds rule, had been adopted. The situation in regard to candidates re-ballot four and a-half votes for Pendleton and two and one-half for Andrew Johnson. The attendance at the Convention to-day was immense, much greater than on Saturday.

Balloting will commence to morrow.

THE LATEST.

Up to 10 o'clock to-night, (Tuesday,) only two telegrams had been received at the office in this town. The first stated that Pendleton's vote on the first ballot was 118. The second represented him to be still ahead, but did not state what number of ballots had been taken. Under the two-third rule adopted by the Convention 212 votes are required to make a nomination. Up to the hour of adjournment to-day, Chase's name had not been brought before the Convention.

The faithful, the truly loyal, the simon are patriots, who run the radical machine in his county, met at Shepherdstown on Monday ast and made nominations for the various county offices to be filled at the next general election. The proceedings of the conclave. as we have reliable information for stating, were entirely harmonious, and the brethren in the excess of their patriotism, and in the intensity of their devotion to the spoils, vied with each other in making the gathering one of peculiar interest to all who feel an anxious concern for the exclusion of unrepentant rebels from any participation in the affairs of government, except as taxpayers, to support corruptions and extravagance of the party in

Burton and Anderson failed to appear for the latter, whilst the radicals of Osbourn, in their lukewarmness, neglected to send up a delegation-if they had any to send. But the other five townships set the wires to work, and went the whole

Father Fossett, a fossiliferous relic of the old Board of supervisors, who was laid on the shelf in 1867, and who was supposed to be politically entombed, appeared in the Convention, and was called to preside over its deliberations. His decisions as the presiding officer gave general satisfaction, and from them, there was not a single appeal. Mr. Charles H. Traynor or Trainer, felicitously filled the important position of Secretary of the Convention.

A committee on credentials was appointed who reported the following delegates present We publish the list, because we recognize the names of some who persistently deny that they have any connection with the party :-Averill Township-A. After completeing its organization, the Convention proceeded to its work, the first nominations being for two delegates to the Legislature. Only one ballot was had, resulting as

For J. V. Underdonk 40 votes. For J. F. Smith 37.1.7 "
For J. W. Grubb 22 6-7 " From the above it will be seen that the Convention has regarded our choice, and placed before the people, Capt. Grasshopper Smith, whose record as a Uunion man is a good one, and he is fully entitled to the honors of the radical party. The fact that he took a voluntary oath of allegiance to the Southern Confederacy, is a matter of small consideration, in these days of "swearing made easy." If the registrar of Averill township has done his duty, Capt. Smith has had to swallow the following pill to become a voter. We copy from the "Act to regulate the Registration of Voters," passed by the Legislature of West Virginia, on the 26th of February, 1866:-

"I John F. Smith do solemnly sweet that have not, since the first day of June, eighteen hundred and sixty-one, voluntarily borne arms against the United States, the reorganized government of Virginia or the State of West Virginia; that Thave not voluntarily given aid, comfort or assistance to persons engaged in armed hostility against the United States, the reorganized government of Virginia or the state of West Virginia; that I have not sought, accepted, exercised or attempted to exercise, any office or appointment whatever, under any authority or pretended authority hostile or inimical to the United States, the reorganized government of Virginia or the State of West Virginia."

We suppose, of course, that Capt. Smith took the above oath. If he did not the radical board of registration have failed to do their duty, and in that case, we mean to arraign them before the next Legislature, of which Capt. Smith will not be a member .mains unchanged. The Pendleton men are By the light of an unprejudiced judgment, we want Capt. Smith and his present supporters to compare the above oath with the following agreement made in 1862, of which made and entered into this 26th day of September, 1862, between Wm. T. Osbourn and John F. Smith : The said Wm. T. Osbourn hereby binds himself to pay to said John F. Smith, Eight Hundred Dollars and one Horse, Saddle and Bridle, worth two hundred Dollars, as a payment in full for the services of his son, James S. Smith, as substitute in the place of his son, R. L. Osbourn, in the Confederate States army: Said James S. is to serve until he is 18 years of age unless sooner discharged. The said James S. is also to receive all the pay that accrues from the Con-federate States in addition to the above. The above sum of Eight Hundred Dollars is to be paid in Virginia money, within ninety days from this date, or bear interest.

Whereas, The President of the United States has heretofore, in the spirit of that declaration, and with the view of securing for it ultimate and complete effect, set forth several proclamations offering amnesty pardon to persons who had been or were concerned in the aforenamed rebellion, which proclamations, however, were attended with prudential reservations and exceptions then deemed necessary and proper, and which proclamations were respectively issued on the 8th day of December, 1863, on the 26th day of March, 1864, on the 29th day of May, 1865, and on the 7th day of September, 1867; and

The said lamentable civil war has long since altogether ceased, with an acknowledgment by the States of the Federal Constitution and of the Government thereunder, and there no longer exists any reasonable ground to apprehend a renewal of the said civil war, or any foreign interference, or any unlawful resistance by any portion of the people of any of the States to the Constitution and laws of the United States: and Whereas, It is desirable to reduce the standing army and to bring to a speedy termination military occupation, martial law, military tribunals, abridgment of the freedom of speech and of the press, and suspension of the privilege of the habeas corpus and of the right of trial by jury, in time of peace being dangerous to public liberty, incompatible with the individual rights of the citizen, contrary to the genius and spirit of our republican form of government and exhaustive of the national resources; and Whereas, It is believed that amnesty and pardon will tend to secure a complete and universal establishment and prevalence of municipal law and order in conformity with the Constitution of the United States, and to remove all appearances or resumptions of a retaliatory or vindictive policy on the part of the government, attended by unnecessary disqualifications, pains, penalties, confiscations and disfrauchisements, and on the contrary to promote and procure complete fraternal reconcillation among the whole people, with due submission to the Constitution and Laws:

Now, therefore, be it known that I, Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, do by virtue of the Constitution and in the name of the people of the United States, hereby proclaim and declare unconditionally and without reservation, to all and to every person who directly or indirectly participated in the late insurrection or rebellion, excepting such person or persons as may be under presentment or indictment in any court of the United States, having competent jurisdiction. upon a charge of treason or any other felon y a full pardon and amnesty for the offence of treason against the United States or of adhering to their enemies during the late civil war, with restoration of all rights of property except as to slaves and except also as to any prierty of which any person may have been legally divested by the laws of the United Sad Tragedy in Alexandria.

A double tragedy, of the saddest character, courred in Alexandria, on Saturday night and Sunday of last week. The Alexandria papers of Monday last contain the details of he distressing affair. The account opens with the sad accident by which Miss Laura Schafer, a young lady of that city lost her life. The Gazette says :-

"She had been dressing for the evening in her own room, in the third story of her father's ce, on Fairfax street, her grandwother, Mrs. Ballenger, a lady of some eighty years, being in the room with her. In her father's room, adjoining her's, stood a large bureau, in udraw of which she kept her handkerchiefs, and, having completed her teilet, she took the kerosene oil lamp she had been using in her hand and went into that room for one, leaving her grandmother in her own chamber. She had hardly reached the centre of her father's room before she heard the lamp crack, and was instantly aware that she was covered with the burning fluid. She immediately threw the lamp from her to the hearth, and ran down stairs screaming pitcously for help.
"Mr. Phillips, her brother-in-law, who was aitting at the front-door steps, hearing her cries, rushed into the house, and saw her idly descending the stairs enveloped in nes that extended far above her head. he reached the bottom of the steps about the same time that he did; and her mother, who had also been startled by her cries, and had met her there, was endeavoring ineffectually to extinguish the flames when he arrived. As soon as she saw him she turned from her mother, and beseechingly implored him to save her. He at once threw off his coat, and wrapped it around her, soon succeeded in subduing the fiery element; but, alas! not until it had accomplished its hideous work. Her grandmother, with a blanket. quenched the fire in Mr. Schafer's room, and in all probability had the young lady, in her fright, not have gone down stairs, would also have extinguished the flames which surround-

"Dr. Lewis, who was at once sent for, in short time arrived, and every expedient that science could suggest or art apply that might possibly prevent or hinder the approach of death was resorted to, but in vain, for nearly the whole surface of her body was severely burned, and in some places the consistency of a crisp, and on the following morning shortly after 11 o'clock she was relieved of her

"About three hours after her death, or bout two o'clock, Mr. Charles Tennesson, son of Mr. Samuel Tennesson, a young gentleman well and favorably known in the community, who, rumor says, was engaged to be married to the deceased, and who had been her constant companion for years-she refusing to have other company—and who was at her bedside when she died, sent from the residence of his father for a friend, Mr. Henry Green, to come and see him, and when Mr. Green arrived proposed to walk with him to Mr. Schafer's house. Mr. Green consented, and the two walked down on the way to Mr. Schafer's residence, up which they proceeded as far as the gate leading into the wholesale liquor store of Doownham & Green of which firm his friend was a member. At this gate Mr. Tennesson stopped, and proposed to go into the store, but Mr. Green not having the key to the back door, told him to wait there until he went around and obtained entrance through the front door, on King street. He agreed to this, and was soon admitted. A short time after entering the store he said he believed he would take a drink, and Mr. Green having drawn him what he desired, and handed it to him as he stood in the middle of the store, he drank it, and then giving as a toast: "Here's to you and I—God save as." Mr. Green took the empty tumbler, and whilst carrying it back to the water-stand was startled by the report of a pistol, and turning, saw Mr. Tennesson fall heavily to the floor. He had deliberately drawn a five-barrelled Whitney reto his right temple pulled the trigger. The ball entered the cavity of his skull and lodged Surgical assistance was summoned at once, but the wannded man was beyond the reach of the assistance to be afforded by earthly doctors. He was taken home, where he expired at twenty minutes past 3 o'clock this evening, never having recovered his conousness since the infliction of his wound "This truly melanoholy affair was the subject of general conversation yesterday and toyesterday in some of the churches. The parents of the young couple receive the sympathies of the entire community.

"Shortly after Mr. Teneesson shot himself yesterday, Mr. James Wood, a young friend of his, and who had been in to look at him as he lay upon the floor, fainted after coming out on the street, and falling upon the pavement, gave rise among the large crowd collected in the neighborhood to a rumor that another catastrophe had happened. He, how-ever, after the lapse of an hour, and the administration of the proper restoratives, re-

This is the most lamentable affair which has occurred in Alexandria since the memorable 17th of November, 1855, when seven of the best citizens of the town were buried by the fall of the wall of the same building in which young Tennesson came to his death. The parties are well known, have large circles of friends, and the mourning for the untime-ly event is wide-spread, while the excitement s universal. Nothing else is talked of in Alexandria.

[From the Cleveland (Ohio) Herald, June 29th.] Terrible Disaster.

Collision Between the Steamer Morning Star and the Bark Courtland-Several Lives Lost and a Number Missing-Scenes and Incidents.

We are called upon to record a most appalling disaster, by which a steamer and bark were sunk, and several lives lost. The fine line between Cleveland and Detroit, left this them were lowered and filled with the pas-sengers and crew. The third boat could not be reached in time. When the boat went down the after part of the cabin broke off and floated. Captain Viger, Captain Hackett, and twelve others took refuge on the raft, where they remained until about five o'clock Sunday morning, when they were picked up by the steamer R. N. Rice, of the same line, and brought to this port. The Rice also picked up one of the boats, having on board a number of the passengers and crew, but the is not absolutely nown how many were lost. As pear as could be ascertained, there are over twenty mixing, though it is hoped that a large portion of that number may be in the The officers and crew of the bark were all aved except two. STATEMENT OF EDWARD M'DONALD. Mr. Edward McDonald, a lumber merchant of Chicago, was on the Star, and at the time of the collision was in his berth. He sprang up and dressed himself, then put on his overcoat, and soon as he came from his state-room met the Missas Patchen and Mr. Iddings, and was asked by them if there was any danger. He replied that he would go and learn. He went below and asked the engineer, who replied that he did not know. He then went forward and met the steward, and learned from him that the bow of the Star was gone. He then asked, "Have you a tight bulk head, or, a water compartment?" and was told there was one. He then replied that there could be no immediate danger. Mr. McDonald suggested that the iron on board be thrown everboard; saw the clerk and told him there was a great deal of iron on board and it should be thrown over. The clerk thought there was no trouble anticipated. Mr. McDonald went out on deck pear the paddle-box-or wheel-house-and saw the bark with her stern against the paddlebox of the Star. As the waves brought the two vessels together the wheel-house was smashed. Mr. McDonald then went to the engineer, who sai I he knew nothing about it, the engineer and his assistant remaining at their posts. Mr. McDonald distributed life preservers; other passengers did the same. The officers of the Star thought there was

The ladies were partially dressed and were in the after part of the cabin. Saw the Misses Patchen; they were on the stern. Said to them, "I'll try to save you." They were somewhat frightened. The Star went down so rapidly that Mr. McDonald jumped over the rail, and called to the Misses Patchen to follow him, but they did not. Mr. McDonald slipped over on to the rudder, and pushed off, his life preserver got round on the wrong side; he reached a door, and was in the water about two hours, when he was picked up by those on the hurricane deck, where he staid three hours, until picked up by the Rice. He thinks Captain Viger did his duty. After he got on the raft or hurricane deck,

Captain Viger said that it was a tick night that the bark had no lights out, and he did not see her until he got on top of her; heard her bell twice, but was too near to back; cut her through to the waters edge, and carried away her cabin. The captain of the bark said; "I had just as good lights as ever were carried. I saw the steamer, and kept on my course; rang my bell three times; put my wheel hard up just before they struck."

THE MES PATCHEN. One of the sad t features of this terrible accident was the s of the Misses Patchen, who had been vis pg at the home of Mr. Edwards, in Clev. hand, the eldest, Caroline, aged about twenty three, having been a bridemaid at the recent wedding of Mr. Cole and Miss Tiffany. They were sisters, the young-est, Minnie, just from boarding school, and not over nineteen years of age, daughters of T. W. Patchen, Esq., a prominent banker of Troy, New York, and former resident of Buffalo. Young, beautiful and accomplished scarcely three hours from the last good-bye given them by their friends, who were loth to have them go, they met a watery grave. The observed among a host of beauties at the wedding and reception, and at the Gordon party only the night before, to attend which hey prolonged their stay in Cleveland, their young bright faces reflected the lightness and gaiety of their hearts, entering into the njoyments of the evening with the zest and leasure that yout; and beauty only can give.

* * * * "Gentlemen. I cannot forecast your career. I know not to whom may beong the quiet pursuits of retired and uncontested life; to whom may come the cares and anxieties of conscientious statesmanship. The future is unrecorded; yet its unwritten chapters may portray mighty results shaped and directed by some mind among your own: some tongue, yet ignorant of its fire, may command the ear of listening senates; some hand yet innoces of its skill, may lead with victorious sword he march of serried hosts. No mimic tourney offers its sportive lists. That warfare to which you are called is arim and real. No rolling drum may beat its reveille; no thrilling trumpet sound its onset; no waving banners bear up-on their silken folds your emblazoned battle ery. But the voice of the great Captain was heard-not in the tones of high amand, but in urgent, anxious and affecance with which the hand parted from the weapon it had worn so long, gave way: the listlessness which had succeeded the fever of stimulated effort, kindled into energy; and the heroes of a hundred battles arrayed themselves for the strife and victories which peace

It was the province of the proud soldier to cheer his comrades once more with a renown borne to the farthest limits of civilization, eckoning him to other lands; with profers of place and wealth to soothe the regrets of henorable exile; with every inducement to lead a mind cast in less perfect mould to seek in absence from scene of broken hopes, escapo to-meet the decrees of Heaven with willing submission; his the purpose to lead his scattered hosts into the paths of new duties, into the field of new efforts. SHOOTING AFFAIR AT DARKESVILLE .-The village of Darkesville, in our neighboring county of Berkeley, was the scene of a Temperance after the War, which had its fatal shooting affray on the night of Satur- strong hold in the North, that the negro was day, the 27th ultimo. A negro of bad character and drunken habits, was making himself odious under the influence of liquor, by abusing and black-guarding the white people of the village, when he was struck with a stone by a white man whom he insulted .-He went home, loaded his gun, and set out to have revenge. GEORGE HUBBARD, a young man of about 18 years of age-and a son of Mr. Peter Hubbard, formerly of this county -was standing near the store of Mr. Wysong, and the negro seeing him, deliberately fired upon him, the shot taking effect in different portions of the body, but inflicting no serious injury. After firing the shot, the negro ran down an ally a short distance, whilst Hubbard. and some friends who had gathered around walked down the pike in the direction of Swingle's hotel. On arriving at the bridge, between the point of shooting and the hotel. the party concluded to return, Hubbard informing his companions that his wounds pained him. They had not reached the postoffice on their return, before the negro, who had re-loaded his gun, came out of the alley, and fired a secod shot, which took effect in Hubbard's breast and head, one shot passing into his throat. This second shot killed him almost instantly, and he was taken home a corpse. The negro ran at large until 10 o'clock the next day, when he was arrested by the Deputy Sheriff. After his arrest he was taken to see the corpse, when he acknowledged having committed the murder, and added that he had no regret to express for what he had done. He was taken to Martinsburg, where he is now confined in jail.

JEFFERSON INSTITUTE .- Want of time, and a press upon our columns last week, prevented us from noticing as we desired, the Commencement Exercises, at this excellent institution. From the last Free Press we copy the following in regard to the awards for scholarship and excellence of deportment: AWARDS. The highest medal-a Gold Maltese Cross sar mounted by a Star, was awarded to Miss Mary G. Tomlinson for English studies; Mathematics and Languages. Motto-Eureka. Silver Star, motto Excelsior, to Miss Eliza Shu-Silver Stare, with the same motto, were also awarded to Miss Bettie Wysong of the 2d Class, Miss Libbie Fouke of the 3d Class, and Miss Anne Eichelberger of the 4th Class, for the highest marks in their respective classes.

The Composition prize was awarded to the authoress of "Smatterings," Miss Jessie Leach, by a Committee who examined the Compositions without knowing by whom they were written.

The five young Ladies who received the highest marks during the whole session, were Miss Mary

G. Tomlinson, Miss Jessie Leache, Miss Faunie Forrest, Miss Lizzie Forrest and Miss Martha Crane. KEARNEYSVILLE .- In passing through the Northern section of the county, last week, we stopped at Kearneysville, the first time we have visited that point since the war. We found a change there, as elsewhere, old things having passed away and given place to a new order of affairs. On the South side of the railroad a commodious store-house has been crected, which contains a ticket office, sitting room, shoe shop, and one of the finest storerooms in the county. The latter is occupied by Messrs. Homsher & Drawbaugh, both of whom we found to be clever, enterprising gentlemen, familiar with the wants of the community and ready to accommodate their numerous customers. We have not seen a fuller stock of goods in any store since the. war, and yet they seemed to be selling them off rapidly, and at moderate figures. The firm prides itself upon the quantity, quality and price of its groceries, and well it may, for, from the samples shown us, and the rates at which they were offered, we are convinced that the parties in question do not mean to be undersold. The whole interior arrange-ment of their establishment has a businesslike appearance, and bears evidence of systematic management. HEAVY LAND SALE. The heaviest land sale made since the war was that of the Shannon Hill farm, made last week by Mr. P. H. Rouse to Dr. L. S. Eichelberger. The tract

Mr. Editor—The organization known as the "Friends of Temperance" was put in operation at Petersburg, on the 19th day of Nov. 1865. Since then it has progressed largely in some of the Southern States, being confined as yet thereto. The difficulty in connection with the old order of the Sons of likely to be admitted into the order, precipitated the new one and resulted in its formation. This question was excitedly discussed in the National Division of the Sons of Temperance, and resulted in a compromise: That each State division should regulate its own membership. But this did not obviate the objection. For if the State Division of Massachusetts, where negro equality is admitted, should elect a negro to the National Division, the delegate from Virginia would find Sambo there, his equal in every sense. The Friends of Temperance work upon the white basis en-tirely. They would be glad to see the colored people move in this matter for it is much needed among them, and would willingly help them, but they must do it among themselves.

There cannot be a mixing up of the two races. The Friends of Temperance take higher ground than other Temperance organizations; moral suasion is not its only weapon, it holds out no pecuniary inducement, it does not strike at Intemperance as a social evil merely ; but it is held to be a moral evil, a sin against God. Thus the poor inebriate is pointed to a higher power than man for strength to keep his vows. Hence every person before he is initiated has to acknowledge his belief in the existence of a God and reverence for the teachings of the Holy Scriptures. The membership is composed of two classes, Active and Associate. The Active embracing white males of 14 years old and upwards, and the Associate white persons regardless of age and sex. The Active Members are required to pay quarterly dues, arranged by each Council, to defray their necessary expenses. The Associate pay no dues and are not permitted to visit the private meetings of the Council, except that female Associate Members may be allowed that privilege, and thus the mighty inducace of woman is brought in. "Faith, Temperance and Charity," is the motto of the order, and each of these cardinal virtues are taught in its ritual. "Faith in the truth of God's eternal word, Temperance in all things, and Charity to all mankind." Thus, Mr. Editor, you discover we have not only a temperance organization, but what may be regarded as a stepping stone to that higher order, the Church of Christ. Its interesting and impressive initiatory ceremonies awaken reflection and with God's blessing, contribute to conversion. Surely such au institution deserves the hearty support of working order. Weekly it is enlisting under its banner those whom Rum has marked for its victims. May we not hope that all the good and true of our town and section, will give their influence and active co-operation to its support. Thus while the Supervisors may license and the Rum sellers may envice, the people refusing to buy, the trafic will cease for want of patronage, a consummation most devoutly wished and prayed for by

A NEW MAGAZINE. - A new monthly nagazine, with the title of "The Farmer's Gazette and Industrial Index," is on our table. It is devoted to Agriculture, Mechanic arts, and the Industrial Interests of the South, and is published at Richmond, by our old friend, Col. S. Bassett French. From casual examination of its pages, and a glance at its rich table of contents, we feel warranted in commending this magazine to the support of our farmers, convinced as we are, that they would find in its well filled columns, much to interest and profit them. The low price at which it is published-$1,50 in advance-places it within the reach of all, and Master JOHNNY FRENCH, a son of the editor. is an agent for this town, and will take great pleasure in forwarding subscriptions. LOST A FINGER .- In the early part of last week, Mr. EDMUND ALLEN, who cultivates the "Woodberry Farm" near Leetown, met with an accident which caused the loss of the front finger of the left hand. He was engaged in adjusting the knives of a mowing machine, when some movement was made by the horses. by which the knives were put in motion, and his hand being on the knife bar at the time. was unfortunately caught, and the finger at once severed from the hand.

THE FORR LEGGED BABY-A Greater Curiosity than the Siamese Twins .- The wonderful child with four feet, twenty-one toes and one body arrived in the city last evening and will be on exhibition to-day. It is decidedly the greatest wonder in the world of curiosities we have ever seen. It is only one child from its head to its hips, vigorous, healthy, symmetrical, and at times exceedingly animated : but from its hips down it is two distinct persons, with every organ, ligament, bone and muscle well developed. It was born in the county of Lincoln, on the 12th of May last. Its parents are sound, healthy people, the father, Wm. Corban, having served through contains 612 acres, and was sold for $61,000 the late war in the Confederate army. - Nashville Union, June 16.

HUMOROUS.

Indian Shrewdness.

The Indians have always showed a fondness of strong drink, and have been willing: to barter almost anything which they possessed for the means of gratifying their arpetite. Sometimes, like their white neighbor, when they have become addicted to irtemperance, it happens that they have nothing to barter, and then must depend upon their wits or go dry. One of this class came to a tavern and fold the landlord that for a pint of whiskey he would tell him where he had just seen a bear!

The landlord produced the whiskey. "Up to the top of the hill, where the road turns-you know where the big rock is?" said the Indian.

"And beyond there is a big stump, you know where that is?"

"Yes." "Beyond that stump is an ouk bush, and under it is the bear fast asleep." Boniface started with men, dogs and guns, but no bear was found. "You lying whelp," said he to the Indian as he returned, "You have deceived me; there is no bear there, and none has been there lately."

"You found the rock didn't you?" asked the Indian. "Yes, I found the rock."

"And the stump was there, too wasn't it?" "Yes." "And the bush was there?" "Yes, but there was no bear there?"

"Three truths to one lie! Pretty well for Indian. Better than white man do," was the HIS GREAT FRAR .- There is stationed not far from Gotham, a happy, ruby faced, fun-loving clergyman who had several sons brimful and running over with fun and mischiefunsanctified chips of the old block. Among them, one we will call Sam, is a ring leader, A few months ago Sam was arraigned one morning before the domestic judiciary, when the following dialogue occurred :

"Now my son, you are getting to be a very bad boy. Why will you not mind your parents and act like a man, and not be getting into all sorts of scrapes?" Sam looking to the floor, quite serious and demure meekly replied "Yes'r." The reverend parent, thinking he was getting a good hold on the boy's feelings added: "My son, if you don't take a different course I have great fear. Do you know what my great fear is Samuel, the fear that distresses me day and night?"

"Yes'r," said Sam, his long face looking almost ready to give way to tears, "I know well enough-it's burglars." Sam had leave to start for school about that time. - During the battle of Antietam, a Confederate battery, stationed on a hill near a blacksmith shop, ran out of metal. While some was being brought, the gunners went into the shop, took hammers and iron, wrapped them in bagging, rammed them into their guns, and let fly at a Federal battery stationed on an opposite hill. A German artillerist in the battery, seeing the tools and iron flying so profusely, exclaimed: "Mein! Gott! ve shall have te blackschmidt's shop-te next time."

- An Englishman once fell from his horse and injured his thumb. The pain increasing, he was obliged to send for a surgeon. One day the doctor was unable to visit his patient, and sent his son instead. "Have you visited the Englishman?" said the father, in the evening. "Yes," replied the young man: "I have drawn out a thorn, which I ascertained to be the chief cause of his agony." . "Fool," exclaimed the father, "I trusted .you had more sense, now there is an end of the job."

-A certain man was married ; he lost his wife and had a stone erected over her grave. He married a second wife, and she died he had the tombstone split, and it thus served for the two departed. He proposed to a third and the lady quaintly remarked : "I do not believe that stone will split again."

- "Mother!" exclaimed an affected young lady just from boarding school, "mother, here mmatical error in the hible!" sakes," replied the old lady, adjusting her spectacles, kill it! kill t right off, for it's the pesky thing that's been eatin' up the bookmarks,"

-"My dear," said an anxious matron to her daughter; "It is very wrong for young people to be throwing kisses at each other.' "Why so, mamma? I am sure they don't hurt, even if they do hit." - During the session of a county court, a witness was asked if he was not a husband-man, when he coolly replied, amid the laughter of the court, "No sir, I'se not married." -The first thing a young woman wants to do after she is sixteen is to become a bridesmaid, and the next to have one.

WILSON COUNTY, Sept. 10, 1867. Dear Sir: My youngest daughter, aged five years has been dreadfully afflicted with Scrofula nearly all her life. I tried a great many physicians, but without relieving her much; in fact, most of them said there was no hope of cure. During the last spring she was worse than ever, her body and limbs being covered with sores and blotches—with face and eyes badly ulcerated and swollen. Whilst this condition, I was advised by Dr. L. A. Stith to try your Rosadalis. I at once procured three bot-tles, and commenced giving it to her. The effect was magical. In less than a month, to my great astonishment, she was entirely well. I am yours,
With much respect and gratitude,

A.D. Moore. After taking it a few weeks my son became and remains entirely well.

Captain J H Baker : Dear Sir—This is to certify that I have been af-flicted with Rheumatism for the last five or six years, many times unable to move. I tried all medicines recommended to me for the disease, without receiving any benefit. Having heard Rosadalis highly spoken of, I procured a bottle, and finding some relief, continued it until I am happy to say some relief, continued it until I am happy to say that I am completely well.

I not only consider the Rosadalis a sovereign remedy for Bheumatism, but I believe it also a preventive, and cheerfully recommend it to the afflicted.

Lombard Street, Baltimore. Middleway, Jeff. Co , W. Va., January 21st, 1868. MR. GEO. H. BECKWITH : Dear Sir-A few days since I sprained my ankle very severely. It was badly swollen, and very painful—I could not get on my boot. A friend gave me some of your Liniment. I used it once only—rubbed long and well at night, and the next mornng was so far relieved as to be able to get on my boot and walk without limping.

I believe it to be the greatest Liniment now known, and recommend it to every one.

I am, sir, yours gratefully.
