"In accounting for the very small number of persons in the State who can take the testoath of office it must be taken into consideration that Virginia was one great battle-field during the war; that there was a small chance for escape from the rigors of the conscript nearly every one gave "aid, countenance, counsel, or encouragement to persons engaged in armed hostility" to the government of the United States; and besides, once having engaged in the war, probably no portion of the Southern people, old and young, male and female, were more carnest in their prosecu-

"The general quiet and good order that has existed throughout the State since my last report, and even now exists, is, under all the circumstances, worthy of special notice and particular attention."

A Man in a Peddler's Pack.

A short time ago, just at dark, a peddler carrying a large pack, appeared at the door of a wealthy farmer in the town of Green Garden, in this county, and requested the privilege of remaining over night. Charles Snowden Fairfax, a desc. the last Lord Fairfax, and himself entitled to the title as the tenth Lord, died at Burnam's City Hotel, in this city, resterday morning, aged 40 years. The deceased was born at aged 40 years. The deceased was born at Vanciuse, Fairfax county, Va., on the 8th of March 1829, but for some years has resided in California, having served as speaker of the House of Representatives of that State in 1854, and subsequently for five years was clerk of the Supreme Court of the same State. He was chairman of the California delegation to the Democratic National Convention which gives a forcible illustration of the state of affairs in our once exalted Virginia:—

The remains will be taken from the hotel at 92 A. M. on Tuesday, to the Camden-street depot, for removal to Washington, and thence to the cemetry referred to for burial. The deceased was collaterally related to Thomas, the sixth Baron Fairfax, who having relinquished his English estates to his brother Robert, came over to America and settled on a plantation of more than a million of acres in Virginia, which he inherited from his mother, Catharine Colepepper. Thomas Fairfax was the first person who employed George Washington as a surveyor.— Robert Fairfax died in 1793, when the immense estate descended to the Rev. An Ex-Confederate in Cuba.

Gen. Jordan formerly chief of Beauregard's to the misrepresentations of the carpet-bag staff, who is reported to have gone to Cuba to take an important position in the command of of the rebel army, is a very thorough soldier and a man of scholarly acquirements. He is a graduate of West Point, and served for many years in our old regular army, mainly on the Pacific coast. He accepted his postion on Beauregard's staff at the opening of the war, and was prominent in Beauregard's early operations in Virginia. When Beauregard was sent West he accompanied him, and subsequently accompanied him also to Charleston, where he took the lead in the engineering operations against the assaults of Gen Gilmore. At the close of the war he came to this city. from whence he soon went to Memphis to edit a news-paper, but subsequently he returned by the hired man that he could not stay .- | to New York, where he wrote, in an octavo He then requested the privilege of leaving volume, the Life and Campaigns of Gen. Don't Stay Long. The following composition is copied from a Kausas newspaper, the name of which we have carelessly lost. It will probably be enjoyed by all who are, or who have been victims as her husband was preparing to go cut. The words themselves were insignificant, but the look of melting fondness with which they of these healthy incommodities:

A boil is generally very small at first, and a fellow hardly notices it, but in a few days it gets to be the biggest of the two, and the chap that has it is of very little account in comparison with his boil, which then "has him." Boils appear mysteriously upon various portions of the human body, coming when and where "they darn please," and often in yew inconvenient places, Sometimes a solitary boil is the sum total of the affliction, but frequency there is a "rubbishid" lot of em" to help the first one. Cheap Pleasure.

Did you ever study the cheapness of some large one prospecting around his couch for a place where his boil will fit in "without hurtpleasure? asks some writer. Do you know how little it takes to make a multitude happy? Such trifles as a penny, a word or a smile does the work. A poor widow lives in the strain profanity, tranquilize the spirit, improve neighborhood, who is the nother of a half dozen children. Send them half a peck of apples, and they will be happy. A child has spend their evenings away from home, as they lost his arrow-all the world to him-and he mourns sadly, help him to find it, or make keys, and get acquainted with their families. him another, and how quickly will the sunshine play over his sober face. You employ a mar ; pay him cheerfully, and speak a pleasag word to him, and he leaves your house ith a contented heart, to light up his own parth with smiles and gladness. Pleasure is cheap. Who will not bestow it liberally? If there are smiles, sunshine and flowers all about us, 'let us not grasp them with a miser's flat, and lock them up in our hearts. No; rather let ns take them and scatter them about us, in the cot of the widow, among the groups of children, in the crowded marts where men of business congregate, in our families, and everywhere. A Man in a Peddler's Pack.

A short time ago, just at dark, a peddler carrying a large pack, appeared at the door of a wealthy farmer in the town of Green Garden, in this county, and requested the privilege of remaining over night. The farmer being away from home, he was informed by the hired man that he could not stay .-- | evening some of the females of the household had oceasion to move it, and abine hold of it, discovered that there was something suspicious about the contents. The hired man was called, and upon taking hold of it, discovered that it contained a man. He quietly stepped into an adjoining room, and returning with a revolver, motioned the family to stafid aside, and at once proceeded to fire three shots into it. A piering shriek issued from it, and on ripping off the outside covering, a man with a large bowie knife and a revolver clinched in his hands, was found weltering in his blood. Two of the shots had proved fatal. The neighbors were alarmed, but no traces of the peddler who left the Dictionary." precious pack could be found. POETICAL.

APRIL 20, 1869.

ALL IS WELL. BY J. G. WHITTIER.

Her window opens to the bay,
On glistening light or misty gray,
And there, at dawn and set of day,
In prayer she kneels!
"Dear Lord," she saith, "to many a hot
From wind and wave the wanderers con
I only see the tossing loam
Of stranger keels,

"Blown out and in by Summer gales,
The stately ships, with crowded sails,
And sailors leaning o'er the rails,
Before me glide;
They come, they go, but nevermore,
Spice-laden from the Indian shore.
I see his swift-winged Isadore
The waves divide.

And one the near and far away.

And one the near and far away.

Look out on you gray waste and say

Where lingers he.

Alive, perchance, on some lone beach

Or thirsty isle beyond the reach

Of man, he hears the mocking speech

Of wind and sea.

"Oh, dread and cruel deep, reveal
The secrets which thy waves conceal,
And ye, wild sea-birds, hither wheel
And till your tale.
Let winds that tossed his raven hair A message from my lost one bear— Some thought of me, a last fond prayer, Or dying wail! "Come, with your dreariest truth shut out

The fears that haunt me round about; O God! I cannot bear this doubt That stifles breath. The worst is better than the dread;
Give me but leave to mourn my dead;
Asleep in hope and trust instead
Of life in death!" It might have been the evening breeze

That whispered in the garden trees; It might have been the sound of seas That rose and fell; But with her heart, if not her ear, The old loved voice she scemed to hear: "I wait to meet thee; be of cheer, For all is well!"

"And he will still provide," replied her husband. "Whatever my lot may be, here or elsewhere, in Him I trust."

A month after, a letter, a rare event, came to the "Rev. James Spring." It was as fol-lows: "Rev. and dear Sir-The church at Maryville has unanimously called you to its pastorate. The salary is fifteen hundred dollars and a good parsonage-house." They are generally very lively and playful at night, and it is very funny to see a chap with a good large one prospecting around his couch for a place where his boil will fit in "without hurting it." Boils tend to "purify the blood," strengthen the system, calm the nerves, restrain profanity, tranquilize the spirit, improve the temper and beautify the appearance. They are good things for married men who spend their evenings away from home, as they give them an opportunity to rest their night keys, and get acquainted with their families. It is said that boils save the patient a fit of sickness, but if the sickness is not best to have, it must be an all-fired mean thing. It is also said that a person is better after he has them, and there is no doubt that one feels much better after having got rid of them. Many distinguished persons have enjoyed these harbingers of health. Job took the premium at the county fair for having more aches under cultivation than any other person. Shakspeare ad them, and meant boils when he said-"One woe doth tread upon another's heels;

so fast they follow." There are a great many remedies for boils, most of which are well worth trying, because, if they don't do any good they don't hurt the boil. Every man he meets will tell him of a "good thing" for it, among which are shoe-maker's wax. Mrs. Winlow's syrup, trix, Spauldin's glue, Charlotte russe, gum drops, water proof blacking, night blooming cereus, chloroform, kissengen, etc.

The other morning he called with his assortment at a lager beer saloon over the canal. "Want any sighs?" he enquired of the portly proprietor. In the meantime the saloon-keeper was wondering at the absence of his customers. The forenoon lunch was spread-soup, boiled tripe, Bologna sausage, stewed liver and onions, sauerkraut and brown bread-but no one to partake of it. Being of a social disposition, this solitude was oppressive to him, aside from being upprofitable. At length one man did come in and call for a glass of beer. His face was deeply pitted. He had had it. "I see by your sign out there," said the man, with a motion of his head toward the front door, "that you have got it here." Cheap Pleasure.

Did you ever study the cheapness of som pleasure? asks some writer. Do you know how little it takes to make a multitude happy !-Such trifles as a penny, a word or a smile does the work. A poor widow lives in the neighborhood, who is the nother of a half a dozen children. Send them half a peck of apples, and they will be happy. A child has lost his arrow-all the world to him-and he mourns sadly, help him to find it, or make him another, and how quickly will the sunshine play over his sober face. A boy has as much as he can do to pile up a load of wood; assist him for a few moments or speak a pleasant word to him, and he forgets his toil, and works away without minding it.-Your apprentice has broken a mug, or slightly injured a piece of work. Say, "You scoundrel!" and he feels miserable: but remark, "I am sorry," and he will try and do better. You employ a man; pay him cheerfully, and speak a pleasant word to him, and he leaves your house with a contented heart, to light up his own hearth with smiles and gladness. Pleasure is cheap. Who will not bestow it liberally? It there are smiles, sunshine and flowers all about us, let us not grasp them with a miser's fist, and lock them up in our hearts. No; rather let us take them and scatter them about us, in the cot of the widow, among the groups of children, in the crowded marts where men of business congregate, in our families, and everywhere. We can make the wretched happy, the discontented cheerful, the afflicted-There are a few men in Cincinnati who resigned, at an exceedingly cheap rate. Who

GRANT AND THE NEGRO.

. The new President is the friend of the negro, and recognizes his claims. More than a dozen have received appointments at his hands, since his advent to the Presidency, and how many more are to be rewarded, time alone can tell. Commenting upon this propensity to elevate the negro, the Metropolitan Record says "when the present Executive was converting Sambo into food for powder, that oleaginous person's most vivid dream could scarcely have raised him to that dizzy height to which he has been elevated by Ulysses. Now and then he may have had a vision of voting booths and ballots, and possibly of forty fertile acres and a mule; but certain'y his mind's eve could not have roamed among Post-offices at $3,200 a year, or by the proficiency of the holder in the art of stealing. He may have wandered fancy free in a Paradise of idleness among the orange and yam, but it could hardly have occurred to him that in five short years the President of the United States would be appointing him to office, and that grave and venerable Senators would be deliberating on his nomination. Possibly a vague notion that Massa Greeley of whom his imagination drew perplexing pictures, would one day give him money to buy his master, wandered through his woolly head, but he could not have revelled in anticipations of big salaries for distributing the letters and assessing the income of his white employer."

"But Mr. Grant was then a subordinate officer, exercising his modicum of brains with the problem, how he should make seven wellfed men whip one hungry one, and the genius of progress had not yet revealed to the drowsy. eyes of the American people the manifold merits of the man-and brother. Mr. Grant is now President of the United States, and the African is his idol. He places him upon the pedestal of power and puts into his mouth the pap of patronage. He makes him a Postmaster in South Carolina, an Assessor and a Register of Land Office in New Orleans, and a Judge or something equally inappropriate in Washington. Truly "de year ob jubilo" is come. The superiority of Sambo is at last established. Who will dare declare him an inferior being when he makes out the superscription on a letter in Columbia, and levies a tax of two dollars on "dat gold watch" in New Orleans? Grant has made him a Federal office holder, and from the towering eminence of that distinction he can look down in scorn on the shoal of "mean white herrings" who have heretofore held him lower than themselves."

"Why has Grant done this? Does he desire the country to understand that he is related to the African? Is Sambo his cousin, or his brother-in-law? If not, how does it come that he gives him an office? We have not heard that he ever ate a dinner at the expense of the African, or receiving a horse, or a house, or a box of Havanas, from the children of the plantation. Why then, does he give them offices, if they are not his own or his wife's relations? Surely the great American Nepotist has placed himself in an embarressing position. All the world understands that he remembers only those who give him presents and those who are related to him by blood or marriage. The negroes have not done the former; are they the latter? If not, why not? and how do they come to get offices? Who can answer this momentous question?"

SHALL WE HAVE A WAR WITH ENGLAND?

The belligerent spesches in the Senate on the Alabama claims treaty render this question pertinent. Indeed, says the Lynchburg Virginian, the relations between the two governments begin to assume a very menacing attitude. The treaty which was negotiated at London by our minister and the British representative as the very best that could be gotten for us, has been almost unanimously rejected by the Senate. This of itself i threatening, but the language employed by Senators on the occasion is more so. Mr. Sumper, the chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, not only demands that England accede to our terms, but that "she be called on to admit that she was in the wrong in recognizing the Confederates as bellige-

Thus, the valiant chairman not only requires a quid pro quo in British gold for doubtful-claims, but that the same be accompanied with a humiliating acknowledgment. Will the British lion consent to lower his lordly head to this degradation? We think

But the Michigan Senator was more fiery "Mr. Chandler made a fierce attack on England and her course, and expressed the belief that there was not room enough on this continent for any nation which had so grossly insulted the United States. He had long believed the struggle would come over Canada, and he now believed it would come in his day."

Even the calm and dignified Senator from Maine, who adds the weight of years and experience to wisdom, (Mr. Fessenden) "endorsed the views of Mr. Summer that the treaty on this subject should rise to the full dignity and importance of the international questions involved, and that the nation, with a due regard to its own honor, could not consider it upon any lower ground."

These things, coupled with the spunky remarks of Mr. Roebuck in Parliament a few days ago, we say look war-like.

This Alabama question has been an ugl one from the first, and it will not surprise us in the least if it results in open rupture and actual hostilities between the two countries. The United States have an old grudge to settle with England for its sympathy for the South during the war. The occupancy of the White House by a soldier, who likes to fight it out if it takes all summer, will not tend to pacify matters. There is bad blood between the two countries, and we shall not be surprised if some of it has to be spilt before the cry is raised, "let us have peace."

The "coming man," has kept the U.S. feasted upon Assessorships measured in value | Senate employed during the last week in acting upon his nominations of Foreign Ministers. Mr. Reverdy Johnson is succeeded at the English court by Mr. Motley, the Puritan, Biblical historian of Massachusetts; a Mr. John Jav. gets the mission to Austria ; Andrew G. Curtin, of Pennsylvania, goes to Russia; Henry P. Sandford, of Connecticut to Spain; Thomas H. Nelson, of Indiana, to Mexico; Wm. A. Pile, of Missouri, to Brazil, and so on to the close of the chapter.

In the distribution of these Foreign appointments. West Virginia was not overlooked. and one of her distinguished sons was put forward for the mission to Sweeden. John S. Carlile, one of the trickiest politicians that ever aspired to position, has been selected over many faithful and tried radicals who were hungry for appointment, and curses loud and deep are uttered, but to no purpose. The Wheeling Register in referring to this feeling of the "extreme wing," says:

"The Carlile appointment heats it with the fire of a thousand fevers. It is a ten acre indignation meeting itself. Here is this Carlile, carpet-bagger; copperhead, recreant, traitor and malignaut, the best detested man within the range of West Virginia Radicalism, rewarded for about six weeks turn-coatry with one of the best foreign appointments in the Government's gift, while all around the political sky is black with the shadows of "truly buzzards, that hunger for the carcass and are yet forbidden to pick a bone. Alack and alas! Of all the shames and sins that ever flared beneath the sun, "when shown his burning eye upon a sight like this!"-The tried and true neglected that West Virgininia's worst foe may thrive; the men who have borne the burden ignored and snubbed, and honors heaped upon the head of treason -these are the facts that rise up to try the patience of "loyalty," and to repeat the old, old story, the ways of the world allot labor to the willing and the harvest to the wily."

The most bare-faced exhibition on record of the partisan-proscriptive spirit of Republicanism was that witnessed in the Philadelphia Navy Yard a few days ago. The Commandant, "by direction of the Navy Department," issued an order prohibiting the employment of any person "hostile to the present administration" in any of the workshops, and announcing that "the Secretary of the Navy particularly desired" that "preference should in all cases be given to those who have belonged to the Union party." So brazen and shameless a "desire" as this probably never before was expressed by the head of a department. Some Democratic journals spoke favorably of Mr. Borie's conservatism at the time of his appointment, but since the appearance of his infamous order they have retracted the indorsement they then gave him. Mr. Borie was supposed to be a respectable man, but that was clearly an error. His order to the Commandant at Philadelphia stamps him as contemptible a person as his contemptible

TREATY BELECTED

A speck of trouble shows itself in the dis tance, which, though no larger than a man's hand at present, may spread with threatening night, and finally burst with terrible fury. The antiquated American Minister at the Court of St. James, succeeded in patching up a treaty with the British Minister of Foreign Affairs, for damages done to American interests during the war, by Semmes' vessel, the Alabama. This treaty was under consideration in the United States Senate on the 13th inst., when Sumper levelled his batteries gainst it, and such seems to have been the power of his logic, that when the vote was taken, only one single Semitor recorded his name in favor of the treaty. Commenting upon the reception of this treaty, the Baltimore Gazette savs : "The refusal of the Senate, by a vote of fifty four to one, to sanction what is known as the Alabama Claims Treaty, is a matter of serious significance, and marks the vast progress which we have made in the revolution through which we are passing. It shows how startling is the change which the principles and views of political leaders have undergone, and how rapidly the influence of public opinion upon the policy of the Govrnment has declined. A few years ago the Federal Administration did not dream of really insisting on such concessions as England has been induced to grant under the rejected treaty. Those who held her at all responsible for the damage done by the Alabama, limited the demand to the value of the vessels actually destroyed by the Confederate cruiser. Whether she was responsible under the law of nations was conceded by most honest men to be at least a debatable point .-But now, when a treaty has been negotiated under the instructions of the Government and one with which every individual would have been more than satisfied a short time ago, it is summarily rejected, and a preemptory claim for all manner of extraordinary and contingent losses to the business of the country during the war is substituted: Without regard to any antecedent principle or fact, Congress has deliberately placed itself in this new and advanced position. Not only in this particular has the dominant party moved far beyond the ideas and purposes of a few years ago. Then it was considering how it should establish the relations between the North

while now its organs complacently consider ican Empire. What the result of the rejection of the Alabama treaty is to be we can in part conjecture. It means the annexation of Canada. The demand for the cession to this country of all the territory on this side of the Atlantic held by European Powers, though not officicially, has been explicitly enough made .-England cannot, short of absolute degradation, now concede that she is answerable for the claims brought forward by Mr. Sumner. After the action of the Senate it is clear that this Government will never again consent to abate any of its preposterous pretensions .-There will be another diplomatic debate, and by the time the Radical party is ready to go through the form of another general election, the annexation of Canada will have been. made extremely popular, and the "best Government the world ever saw" will take the Dominion under its paternal protection .-England, as the London Times very sensibly concedes, could not attempt to defend her possessions. As to throwing an army across he ocean which could hold its own against the resources which we control, it would be sheer impossibility. England might seek to avenge the wrong by waging a maritime war against us, in which event it is by no means by no means certain that other European nations which owe us no good will would not avail themselves of an opportunity which they regret having lost some years back, and league together against this country. But there would be war contracts and commissions to issue, and that is all that many of our most patriotic rulers care about. We pretend to no gift of prophecy. But seeing how peremptorily this Government has destroyed every hope of an amicable adjustment of the Alabama question with England, we think there is but one interpretation to be given to the signs of the

A RICH BEGGAR .- A woman named Weber, who has been patrolling the city for some time begging, was killed on the bridge over Harris' Creek, on the Philadelphia Railroad on the 6th inst., being caught by a freight train between the sides of the bridge and the train. Her corpse was taken to Bay View Asylum, and on being examined by Dr. Carr, the Coroner, several bags of gold were found concealed about her underclothing, amounting to $475. Subsequently Sergeant Jay, of the city police, visited her late residence, on Chapel'street, and in the room she occupied found two large trunks, with furniture. The trunks were packed with ladies' wearing apparel of the finest quality. Some idea of the variety may be had from the fact that she had thirty-two pairs of stockings, and from twenty to thirty pieces of ladies' under clothing, each of different kinds. It is not knownthat the woman had any relatives .- Fred-

Hon. James F. Wilson and Gen. Grant's

A dispatch to the New York Tribune says: The Hon. James F. Wilson left this evening for his home in Iowa. The story of the connection of his name with the Cabinet of President Grant is not uninteresting. Before the inauguration General Grant sent for Mr. Wilson and tendered him the Attorney Generalship. This Mr. Witson refused to accept. On the evening of the day of the inauguration Gen. Grant again sent for Mr. Wilson to come and see him at his house. Mr Wilson accordingly went, and the President then asked him to become his Secretary of State. He said that Washburne expected the place, and it was due to him that he should be appointed; but immediately on his confirmation he (Wilson.) Mr. Wilson at first declined the offer, pleading that he was unfit for the position and felt timid of the responsibility; but President Grant urged him, and he finally agreed to accept. The next day he learned that Mr. Washburne had determined on a list of the most prominent foreign appointments, which he insisted should be made before he retired. .. Unwilling to take the office, under such circumstances, and not wishing to opburne might make, he immediately sent word to the President withdrawing his previous acceptance of the office, and stating that it would be immpossible for him to accept the position, and without seeing the President left for New York. The President dispatched a messenger after him, urging him to reconsider his action, but Wilson stood firm in his declination, and then Mr. Fish was selected for the position.

A Speck of War at the White House. Belligerent Interview between the President and Senator Ross, of Kansus

Senator Ross, of Kansas, one of the gallan seven who voted against impeachment, beard ed the Pesidential lion in his den, this morn ing. The report is that Ross went to the White House to look after certain appointments for his far-off State. He had heard that the President intended to make certain nominations incompatible with the slate he (Ross) had made out for himself. He proceeded to the White House, and was admited at the same time as old Zach. Chandler but had the first chance to speak his little piece to the President.

"I come, Mr. President, to talk with you about the appointments for my State, having heard that you intend to make certain nominations that may not harmonize with my desires, if you deem it worth while to consul

To which Grant laconically and interroga tively responded, "Well, sir?" The Senator with suppressed rage explained the appointments to which he had refer-

"Frankly, sir," said Grant, "I intend not nake those appointments." "What, sir! You seem to accommodate m n the least," exclaimed Ross, boiling over

"Sir, I believe I have given you my answer," firmly but sternly replied Grant? "This is not treating me fairly, Mr. President, nor as one gentleman should another." uttered Senator Ross. "I have no intention to be dictated to, sir," mid Grant sharply.

"Nor have I to be insulted, even by you sir, were you twenty times the President. exclaimed Ross, with his ire stirred up to white heat.

"I must decline to be annoved any further on the subject," muttered Grant between his teeth, "and desire the interview should terminate."

"You and your desires may go to h-1 roared out Ross. "Leave the room, sir! Leave the room. shall force you out!" thundered Grant. Ross took his departure accordingly, in a terrible rage, quitting the White House like one rushing from a plague, and hurried to the Capitol. President Grant threw himself into a chair the moment the door closed, and wiped his brow with his pocket-handkerchief, evidently very much agitated. Old Zach Chandler approached, and was thus addressed "Excuse me for a few moments. After that interview I must take a little time to COLOREL W. E. CUTSHAW. -The extract hich we publish below is from the True Inder, of Warrenton, Va. The compliment aid Col. Cutshaw will be recognized as just by his large number of acquaintances in this county, and we are sure they will be gratified that one who bore himself with such gallantry during the war, and thus reflected honor on his native county, has received so pointed a meognition of his merits as is conveyed in this appointment from Prof. Maury. An appointment from such a source, is proof of the integrity and capacity of the appointee. and is the strongest recommendation he could have of his worth as a scientific man, We heartily join the Index in wishing that the good people of Fauquier will greet the Colonel with the most cordial hospitality and that they will afford him every possible facility for prosecuting his work :

"It is the purpose of Commodore Maury, who now fills a Professor's Chair in the Mili tary Institute of Virginia and enjoys a worldwide reputation, to make a more complete map of the State than any which has ever been oublished, and to issue in connection with it an elaborate report exhibiting the re-sources and present industrial pursuits of each county. His desire is to give extended expects the cost of printing them to be defrayed by voluntary contributions. The intoruntion which they will impart, it is believed, will induce capital and immigration to flow into the State and lend their aid in its rehabilitation. In furtherance of his views, the Commodore has commissioned Col. Cutshaw, an affable and cultivated Virginia gentleman, to visit Fauquier county, as one likely to test the success of his object, to make sketches of its topography, and through the co-operation of enlightened citizens, gather. reliable data. Our people should see that the Colonel ineurs as little expense as possible, by furnishing him with a good horse, respond ing promptly to his inquiries; and receiving him as a welcome guest, wherever he may rein up at noon or night."

A NEW TURNPIKE .- In no part of this county has the want of a good McAdamized road been more seriously felt, than in that portion of the county lying between Halltown and the present county-seat-unless perhaps we except that portion of the county lying South of Charlestown, and extending to Kabletown and beyond .- a region which has never felt the advantages of a good road .-At the last session of the Legislature of West Virginia, an act was passed authorizing the incorporation of a Turapike Company under the title of the "Shepherdstown and Halltown Turnpike Company," and Messrs. David Billmver, Edmund Chambers, Geo. W. Eichelherger, Jacob Rhinehart, Detiel B. Lucas, J. P. A. Eutler and Samuel Knott, appointed commissioners to open books for taking stock. at such time and places as a majority of them may decide upon -after giving ten day's norice. We presume that the commissioners will lose no time in entering upon their duties, and we think it quite reasonable to expect that those parties who own property along the line of the proposed route, will promptly and liberally subscribe to the stock of a road which promises so many advantages:

DON'T BORROW YOUR NEIGHBOR'S PAPER. -Adopting the language of an exchange, it would be unreasonable to borrow a neighbor's plough when he desires to use it himself, or to barrow his coat when he wishes to wear it bimself, as to borrow his copy of the Spirit when he wishes to read it himself, or wishes some member of his family to do so. Because your neighbor is so kind as to lead you his paper, or too polite to refuse to do so when requested, it must not be inferred that you are doing him a favor by borrowing it. He regrets that you are not a subscriber, and wonders how you can be so penurious.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS - We learn from the Ein that a Lodge of this organization has been established in Martinsburg. It was instituted by Supreme Chancellor Samuel Reed, of New Jersey, assisted by Harry Kronheimer and W. T. Garrett. The Lodge in that place already numbers over eighty members. C. H. Edgecomb has been appointed by the Supreme Chancellor, as Deputy Grand Chancellor of the State of West Virginia. We are uninformed as to the origin and object of this body, but from its rapid growth, suppose they must be worthy.

TRY IT .- If every subscriber would get his peighbor to subscribe for the Spirit, it would not only double our subscription list and encourage us to publish a still better paper, but it would be a personal advantage to every subscriber. There is more happiness and prosperity in a neighborhood where every family takes a newspaper than where they take none. It makes home happier, the father more thoughtful, the mother more cheerful, and the eyes of the children sparkle with joy whenever the newspaper comes.

AT HOME .- The many friends of that great and good man, Rev. Norval Wilson, says the Winehester Times, will be pleased to learn that after an absence of several months he has returned to Winchester greatly improved in health. Indeed, Mr. W. is looking better than for many years. That he may long continue among us, to instruct our people from his store house of knowledge, as well as by his Christian example is the sincere wish of all who can appreciate the influence of such a man.

and luster to Encke's is nightly expected .-Celestial curiosity-seekers are promising this novelty between this date and June. It is the return of Wineck's comet which has been whisking its tail through space for ever so many bundred years. The advent of the phenomenon will afford much gratification to all taking the trouble to look heaven-ward at the time of its appearance.

- If you want a first-class family newspaper, subscribe for the Spirit of Jefferson.

CIRCUIT COURT .- The Circuit Court of this county commenced at Shepherdstown on Tuesday last, and is still in session. The new Judge, Joseph A. Chapline, presided with dignity, and from his charge to the Grand Jury, and general deportment, elicited the commendation of the numerous litigants in attendance. The Register says, a number of cases were continued, which number was eased on account of the absence of the Code containing the new laws of the State, and by the fact that his Honor does not wish to act as Judge upon any of the cases in which he was interested as attorney. We append a few of the more important ases before the Court. The Grand Jury, after remaining in session part of two days, returned indictments, some of which are as

State vs. Lewis Johnson, assault with intent

State vs. Charles Hardy, assault with intent State vs. James Cook, felony and perjury. State vs. Wm. Thompson, felony, obtaining noney by false pretences.

On motion, Joseph Trapuell, Esq., was admitted to the Bar, under Special Act of the Legislature, without taking the test outh. On motion, the appointment of Trustees by the Evangelical Lutheran Church at Bolivar, and the Methodist Protestant Church at Harper's Ferry, and Virginia Lodge No. 1. of I. O. O. F., at Harper's Ferry, were confirmed by the Court.

The following jury cases were tried : A. R. Boteler, Jr., vs. John Dolwick .-Action for damages for failure in burning a kiln of brick, insured. Verdict for Phintiff, for $200. Belizhoover. Blackburn, and Van Swearingen, for Plaintiff. Faulkner, for De-

T. Harris, vs. F. A. Lewis. Action on Bond for $200 in gold made payable six months after ratification of peace with the Confederate States. Verdict for Plaintiff, or $200 in currency without interest. Kennedy, for Plaintiff. Faulkner, for Defendant.

HOME INSURANCE.—The people of Jefferson and Berkeley have now an opportunity of insuring their property in a home company; one that is conducted by men who are known | to them. The "Valley Fire Insurance Company of West Virginia," as now organized, ith its efficient corps of officers and directors, ought to command the confidence of our people, and receive from them a liberal encouragement. A vast amount has been paid by our people to companies from a distance, nrich corporations that have no feelings of ympathy or identity with our community. Vhilst we had no organization of our own, this was well enough, but the case is different now, and the money heretofore sent away ought to be kept at home. A reference to the list of directors to this new company will show that it is in the hands of men who have large interests in this and Berkeley counties -men of energy and property, and of business capacity-fully alive to the responsibility of the work they have undertaken.

ACCIDENT -In returning from preaching at Wiltshire's School House on Sabbath last, we regret to learn that GEORGE WILLIAM. the son of our estimable friend, Mr. Benj. Lucas, met with an accident that came near proving fatal in its character. In passing through the woods adjacent to the schoolhouse, his horse became restive and started at a speed scarcely to be manageable, when Willie thought by turning the horse to a sudden divergence, a tree might be avoided which was in close proximity. The shying of the horse threw the rider against the tree and from thence to the ground with great force, severely fracturing the arm, imbedding his face almost in the earth, and rendering him help ess and insensible for sometime afterward.-Being conveyed to the residence of a relative near at hand, he received such attention as nedical skill could render, and the service of kind friends afferd, and we are now gratifie to state that his condition is much improved.

RARE ATTRACTION. - The Dramatic representations to be given by the young men of our town, at Hooff's Hall, on Saturday evening, April 24th., are expected to surpass in interest and faithful delineation anything of the kind ever before witnessed in our community. Several of the young gentlemen connected with this Association, possess dramatic talent of the highest order, and their exhibitions heretofore would have been creditable to the city boards. For the performance Saturday special preparation has been made. The pieces are judiciously selected and been thoroughly rehearsed, the Hall prepared in its scenic representations to produce the best effect, and with Kirby's Band of Harper's Ferry Minstrels, the occasion cannot fail to prove one of the utmost attraction. Give the boys a bumper-they fully deserve Admission 25 cents. Children under 12 years of age 15 cents.

SURVEYING PARTY.-The second corps of engineers employed by the Alexandria, Loudoun and. Hampshire Railroad, to prosecute surveys on the proposed extension of that road has been organized as follows: J. D. Bruce, principal Assistant Engineer; W. E. Randolph Surveyor; G. Il. Latham, Leve er; Cornelius Cox. Draughtsman: and W. H. Collins, C. C. Shepherd, R. McCormick, S. Fox. J. S. Powell; William Arnold and George Uhler, as Rodmen and Chainmen. This party will leave here on Wednesday morning next, with their camp equipment, for the Blue Ridge mountains, through which, near the Old Furnace road, they will be engaged for some time in running lines.

INCORPORATION.-The Jefferson Saving Bank has filed its certificate of incorporation in the Secretary of State's office. It is organized for the safe-keeping and investment of savings; receiving transient deposits, and for conducting other financial business. Capital $1750, with the privilege of increasing it to $100,000, in shares of $25 each. Principal office in Shepherdstown, Jefferson county.-David Billmyer, B. F. Harrison, J. P. A. COMET COMING - A comet superior in size | Entler, Wm. Rightstine, Jas. H Shepherd and Geo. M. Beltzhoover are the corporators.

> THE FRUIT.-We see it stated in many of our exchanges, from different quarters, that the fruit in their immediate localities, has been greatly injured, if not totally destroyed, by recent frosts. We have made some inquiry in our own vicinity, of those who are supposed to know, and have also observed for ourselves, and are convinced that hereabouts no material damage has yet been sustained, unless we may accept apricots, which seem to have suffered more than other fruits.

THE AURORAL DISPLAY; on Thursday night last, was generally witnessed by our citizens and elicited considerable comment. The flashes of light were at times very brillient, and afforded as much light as a full moon. Nearer to the horizon it was more brilliant, and shortly before 10 o'clock it was brighter than at any other time. At half past ten o'clock it began to disappear, and was soon out of sight. The appearance of the Aurora Borealis during the fall and winter, and even as late as March, is quite common, but it rarely occurs so late as the middie of April. This phenomena was also witnessed throughout the whole of the Northern cities, Canada and other places, more dis-

HUMOROUS.

He Dumped the Cars.

Superintendents of mines meet with all sorts of oneer characters to deal with, and find plenty of opportunity for the exercise of patience and forbearance. Smith, who was superintending a mine-no matter wherewas standing near the mouth of the adit tunnel one day, when one Snyder came along and asked for a job. "Well, what can you do best," asked Smith. "Anything you vants, bess, you shoost tell me vat you vants done dat's all. I's a miner, pet ver life." "All right, then; you see those five loaded cars there in the mouth of the tunnel; just run 'em out and dump |em." 'Dunp 'em! you say? Vot, out dere?" "Yes, you damn fool; down into the ravine; don't you see where the dump is? I thought you said you was a miner." "All right, boss; I s'pose you knows your own business pest; it's all de same to me. I does it." Smithhad occasion to leave for a short time and when he returned, there stood Snyder, with his paws hirched up on his hips, looking as complacent as anybody would who knew he had done things up to order. "Vell, boss," says he, cocking his head smartly over one side. "has you got any more of dem little vagous?" "More? hell! what the devil have you done with them that was here?" "Done mit 'em? Vy, I shoost did vot you told me; I dumped 'em over der dump, helvards down der canyon, dirt, shtones and all. O! I pees a miner, pet ger life."-Smith's soul was too suddenly appreciative of the ludicrous idea and the individual before him to do the swearing adequate to the occasion ; so: after contemplating him for a minute in silence, he asked. "What's your name?" "Snyder." "Well, Snyder, just you take this four bits and go buy a couple of drinks, and drink 'em both vourself. Git! damn you, git! and if you ever come within a mile of here again I'll break your cussed head. Git!" Snyder left .- G. H. News.

The Theory of Immersion.

An old soaker who lives in Weston, Misseuri, took it into his head one day that it was necessary for his future welfare to be "born ng'in," and forthwith repaired to Rev. Mr. B ____, the respected pastor of the Baptist denomination of the aforesaid, to obtain light. He was received with urbanity, and forthwith the following dialogue ensued:

Old S .- It's your doctrine, boss, that a feller to be saved must suffer immershun, isn't

Mr. B .- Yes, Mr. S., it is a fundamental doctrine of our Church, that a man to be regenerated must repent of his sins and be im-

Old S .- Well, boss, after repentin' of his sins, and being slid under, if he flashes in the pan, then what? Mr. B -Although back-sliding is much to be deplored, still if he sincerely repents of his sin, and is again immersed, the Church will receive him again.

Old S .- Well, s'pose he ag'in kicks out of the traces after the second time (for you know what critters there are in the world, boss,) then what's to pay?

Mr. B - Notwithstanding all this, if he will seriously repent, and solemnly promise to smend his future life, the Church will again receive him into her boson after being im-

Old S. (after a faw moments of deep thought) proposes the closing interrogatory: Well, boss, wouldn't it be a blasted good idea to keep such fellers in soal: all the time?

My informant did not say whether old S. joined the Church or not, but I incline to the opinion he didn't.

HARNESS, BOOTS, SHOES, BUG-HIFALUTIN .- A young graduate of a Theological Seminary, having passed the usual examination, and received his commission to go forth and preach the gospel, made his debut after the following manner: Brethren and Sisters, ladies and gentlemen, if I had the world for a pulpit, the stars for an audience, my head towering far above the loftiest clouds. my arms swinging throughout immensity and my tongue sending forth the clarion notes of a Gabriel, I'd set one foot on Greenland's icv mountains, and the other on India's coral strand, and-and-I'd-I'd-I'd howl like a A LADY .- A New Orleans policeman, before light the other morning, came upon a stranger pacing before the station-house, and on inquiry, found that he had been doing the same all night, waiting for a lady." She's a good while in coming, ain't she?" said the officer. "Yes; but, poor thing, she ain't to blame; they've got her locked up there.' pointing to the station, "and as soon as she gets out, we're going to get married. She's got a lottery ticket, and I found out last night it had drawn a pile. She's no idea of it you
