[From the Pall Mail Gazette ] Resurrection of the Dead-Life Restored to a Decapitated Criminal.

A Florence newspaper, L' Italie, extracts from the Annales de la Medecine et de la Chirurgie Etrangere the following extraordinary history. The Italian paper, for reasons easily to be gathered, does not give implicit credence to this statement, nor lend it the editorial sanction : On the 18th of April, 1868, in the prison of Villarica, (Province of Minas-Geraes.) in Brazil, two men, named Avoiro and Carines, were executed at the same time. In Brazil, executions take place with closed doors in the interior of the prison. Dr. Lorenzo y Carmo, of Rio Janeiro, well known by savants for his remarkable works on electricity applied to physiology, his surgical skill, and his success in autoplastic operations, obtained permission to profit by this event in order to experiment on the power of electricity, and illustrate its analogy to some of the phenomena of life .-The numerous experiments hitherto attempted have been made on the head and trunk separately. Dr. Lorenzo y Carmo's design was, if possible, to unite the head to the neck after decapitation. The heads of the two criminals fell within a few minutes of each other, into the same basket; first that of Carines, then that of Aveiro: Immediately after this second execution a compression was effected by a pupil of Dr. Lorenzo on the carotid arteries one of the heads so as to stop the hemorrhage. The body was then placed on a bed already prepared, and Dr. Lorenzo stuck the head as exactly as possible on the section and kept it in that position. The cells of a powerful electric pile were applied to the base of the neck and on the breast. Under this influence, as in former experiments, the respiratory movements were at once perceptible. As the blood, which penetrated in abundance through the surface of the scar, threatened to stop the passage of air, Dr. Lorenzo had recourse to tracheotomy. Respiration then ensued regularly. The head was fastened to the body by stitches, and by a special apparatus. The physiologist wished to ascertain for how long a time this appearance of life could thus be artificially maintained. His astonishment was great when he saw that at the end of two hours not only did respiration still continue under the influence of the electric current, but that circulation had even resumed a certain regularity The pulse beat feebly, but sensibly. The experiment was continued without intermission At the end of sixty-two hours it was evident to the astonishment of every one that a process of cicatrisation had commenced on the lips of the section . A little later signs of life manifested themselves spontaneously in the head and limbs till then deprived of motion. At this moment the director of the prison arriving for the first time in the experi-

to a body whose right to exist the law had forfeited The learned surgeon who had only had in view a simple physiological experiment employed all his skill to continue this work, which science, aided against all expectation by nature, had so singularly commenced. He assisted the process of cicatrisation; which progressed under the most favorable conditions. By means of an osophagian probe, liquid nourishment was introduced into the stomach. At the end of about three months the cicatrisation was complete, and motion, though still difficult, became more and more extended. At length, at the end of seven months and a half. Aveiro-Carines was able to rise and walk, feeling only a slight stiffness in the neck and a feebleness in the limbs.

due to the faste of the operation the head of Carnes had been taken for that of Aveiro, and had been applied to the body of the latter.

The experiment was continued notwithstanding Three days later the respiratory move ments reproduced themselves and electricity was suppressed. Dr. Lorenzo y Carmo, and his assistants were stupefied, frightened at a result so unexpected, and at the power of an agent which, in their hands, had restored life

Marvellous Chicken Tale.

We learn that a singular and very amusing accident happened to the chickens of a Mrs. Hamilton, near Pottersville, Tipton county, Tennessee, a few days ago. Her husband bought a bottle of brandy cherries. After eating the cherries the seed were thrown out, which the chickens ate greedily. In a short time Mrs. Hamilton found that her chickens were all dead. She told an old negro womanthat she might pick the chickens and put the feathers in her hed which she did readily .-After picking off the feathers she carried the chickens out and threw them away. Night came on : Mrs. Hamilton was sorely grieved at her loss. Sleep soon swept away her troubles. At early dawn she was alarmed at hearing old chanticleer crowing loudly and the hens cackling. Judge her surprise when, on opening the door and looking out, she saw every hen and rooster, young and old, grave and gay, marching round eyeing each other with suspicion, many of them entirely naked, while only a few had wing and tail feathers. The seed made them "dead drunk," Memphis Appeal.

[From th Boston Evening Times.] A Strange Story A Boston Lady Sees a Vision of the Housetop.

VIRGINIA, TUESDAY,

On Friday moring last, at about four o'clock, a lady residnt of the West End of the city, having occion to ascend to the roof of her dwelling, behild a brilliant reflection of a light of many clors, like the rainbow, on the white linen haging on her lines, and raising her darkened yes in bewilderment to the sky, was obliged to cover them with her hands on account of the dazzling effulgence and splendor which her her view and transfixed, as with a darther very soul.

Quivering with as puishment and fear, she hastened down stairs and alarmed the inmates of the house, who, eggs to behold what she had failed to portray it words, were aston-ished at seeing in the two ment the blazing form of a man as resplendent as the sun in its meridian glory. Bound about him the forms of gergeously attired infants of angelic beauty hovered, and beneath them were seen the profiles of two women is a kneeling pos-

They were in very, large green letters, which he says he plainly saw. Then were other words, but our informant could pt decipher them. "In the last days there hall be signs in the heavens." Had only one person seen the sight it might not be considered remarkable, but several sav the forms distinetly, and the sight made an impression on their minds. The Man Fish-A Chrious and Amphibious Human on Exhibition. Mankind, it is said, includes a great many odd fish, but ccertainly sone deserves the title more than that abrormal mortal, Harry Guerr, who is now one of the attractions at the Tammany. His performance is decidedly unique. The curtains, on rising, reveals a large glass tank, nearly filled with water, and brilliantly lighted by a row of gasjets. Soon a man dressed in a clear-fitting garb of tin scales appears on the stage, and makes obeisance to the audience. A short stoutly built man he is, young and florid. After the prelimitary bow, he walks to the tank, clambering up its side, and plunges in, turning and twisting about under the water with apparent ease, and only once in a great while coming to the surface to breathe. During all this time his every movment is visible to the audience and they can see that while under water he smiles to them, holds his mouth wide open, and really seems to be as much in his element as the gold fish with which the tank is peopled. Moreover, he eats under water, opens a bottle of milk and drinks the contents, and menages to convey a lighted pipe beneath the surface, and protests that on emerging that it can be smoked with ease. His performance is altogether unique, and certainly shows a novelty and ingenuity that can scarcely be surpassed. Guerr earns his living fairly, and for thus making of him self every night a "dem'd moist disagreeable body," deserves the gratitude of all who may wish to support the theory that water is the natural element of man .- N. Y. Evening Post.

Only Christians.

John Wesley once was troubled in regard to the disposition of various sects, and the chances of each in reference to future happiness and punishment. A dream one night transformed him in its uncertain wanderings to the gates of hell.

"Are there any Roman Catholics there? asked thoughtful Wesley, "Yes," was the reply.

"Any Presbyterians?" "Yes."

"Any Congregationalists?"

"Any Methodists?" by way of a clincher, asked the pious Wesley. "Yes," to his great indignation, was an-

In the mystic ways of his dreams a sudden transition and he stood before the gates of heaven. Improving his opportunity, he again inquired: "Are there any Roman Catholics here?" "No," was replied.

"Any Presbyterians?" "No." "Any Congregationalists?"

"Any Methodists?"

"Well, then," he asked, lost in wonder, who are they inside?" "Christians!" was the jubilant answer.

THERE IS NO DEATH.

BY BIR E. BULWER LYTTON, There is no death! The stars go down, To rise upon some fairer shore; And bright in Heaven's jeweled crown, They shize forever more.

There is no death! The dust we tread Shall change beneath the summer showers
To golden grain, or mellow fruit,
Or rainbow-tinted flowers.

The granite rocks disorganize
To feed the hungry moss they bear;
The forest-leaves drink daily life From out the viewless air.

The flowers may lade and pass away; They only wait through wintry hours, The coming of the May. There is no death! An angel form Walks o'er the earth with seemt trend He bears our best loved things away, And then we call thein "dead."

There is no death! The leaves may fall,

He leaves our hearts all desolate. He plucks our fairest, sweetest flowers; Transplanted into bliss, they now The bird-like voice, whose joyous tones Made glad these scenes of sin and strife, Sings now en everlasting song, Amid the tree of life. And where he sees a smile too bright, Or heart too pure for taint and vice, He bears it to that world of light, To dwell in Paradise.

They leave us but to come again; With joy we welcome them—the same, Except in sin and pain. And ever near us, though unseen, The dear, immortal spirits tread; For all the boundless Universe

Born unto that undying life

Is life-there are no dead.

Sut Lovengood Sets Up with a Gal-One Pop Baily. By the light of the campfire, after a hunter's supper, enjoyed with a hunter's appetite, I am reading aloud Elizabeth Barret's description of a kiss. --- "A ring of amethyst I could not wear, were plainer to my sight Than that first kiss: The second past in height The first, and sought the forehead, and half missed, Stop, stop, George. Duz you happer to know what was the matter about thar?"

Did you ever stuly the cheapne's of some leasures ? Do you know how little it takes to make a multitude happy? Such trilles as a nod, a word or a smile does the work. A widow lives in the neighborhood who is the mother of half a dezen children. Send them reck of apples and they will be happy. A child has lost his arrow-all the worl bro him the shootin'. I tell you boys I likes the plan. -and he mourns sadly, help him to find it or make bim another, and how quickly will the sunshine play over his sober face. A boy has done as much as he can do to pile up a load of wood; assist him for a few moments or speak a pleasant word to him, and be forgets his toil, and works away without minding it. Your apprentice has broken a mug, port, they blares 'em wide open, makin 'emor slightly injured a piece of work. Who will not bestow it liberally? If there are smiles, sunshine and flowers all about us, let us not grasp them with a miser's fist, and lock them up in our hearts. The Pulse.

The pulse of a healthy grown person beats seventy times in a minute; there may be good health down to staty; but if the pulse always exceeds seventy-there is a dischae, the machine is working too fast-it is wearing itself out; there is a fever of inflammation some where, and the body is feeding on itself; as in consumption, where the pulse is always. quick-that is over seventy-gradually increasing with decreased chanses of cure, until it reaches 110 to 120. When the pulso is all the time over seventy for months, and there is even a sligh cough, the lungs are affeeted. Every intelligent person owes is to himself to learn from his family physician how to ascertain the pulse in health, then, by comparing it with what it is when ailing .-He may have some idea of the urgency of his own case, and it will be an important guide to the physician. Parents ought to know the healthy pulse of each child, as, now and then, a person is horn with a peculiarly slow or fast pulse, and the very case in hand may be that peculiarity. An infant's pulse is 130; in a child of seven years it is seventy beats a minute, declining to sixty at forescore.

A Remarkable Bird Story.

Those acquainted with this part of the State, know that the wind is almost constantly blowing except early in the morning, so that the windmill was not often at rest. Now that her four birds were latched, how could she get them out: She on solved the question. Cut she flew, and quickly returned with a long string. Watching her chance, in the went with one end of the string, and the strengther naturally became entangled around the shall, and soon the machinery came to a dead lock. #### Tuesday Morning, November 16, 1809. THE NEW RAILROAD.

There is little left to be said in regard to the contemplated railroad. We may almost regard the adoption of the Jefferson and Clarke route, as a fixed fact ; but as we wish to excite no hopes that may hereafter fail of realization, we will only say what we have haretofore told the people of Jefferson, that much yet depends upon their own action. and as they are most deeply interested in the project, a few suggestions may not be out of

There is not a farmer or business man in the county, that does not feel that his interests would be directly promoted by the construction of this road, and that the general interests of the community would be greatly enhanced by its competition with the only route we now have for trade and transportation to the Eastern markets. As this feeling is so universal, it is not necessary that we should argue to prove the advantages we are to reap from the road's construction. We have then only to exhort to a spirit of liberality, and this we do with greater cheerfulness, because we know that the minds of the people are already convinced, as to the importance of the work, and that there is a readiness to engage in the matter heartily. That some persons will quibble in regard to land damages, is to be expected, but we trust there will be no disposition manifested to make money out of the road by the exaction of enormous damages. We think it pretty conclusive that such a disposition alone can defeat or prevent the adoption of the Jefferson route whenever an extension of the Cumberberland Valley Railroad is determined upon The recent survey, made by the engineers sent out by this county, proved the route from Downsville, Md., to this point, not only practicable, but desirable-just as we had predicted it would be found. The line run by this corps of engineers is through some of the best farms in this county, and every foot of it is over rich and productive lands. It is not to be expected that the owners of these lands are to suffer the passage of the road through their farms without some compensation, although the value of their property will be enhanced thereby. But there is a difference between just cumpensation and extortion, and this difference we hope to see strictly observed-and we believe it will be observed, with few individual exceptions.

At the meeting held in Harrisonburg, on the 6th of October, a committee of six was appointed to wait upon the parties along the line of the contemplated road, to arrange and adjust damages. This committee, for this county, consisted of the following gentlemen, viz : Logan Osbourn, Geo. W. Eichelberger, Moses W. Burr, C. T. Butler, I. Thomas Chapline and David Billmyer. We suppose that no action has been taken by this committee as yet, but now that a line has been run, we respectfully suggest that there is work for them to do, and we have every confidence that they will engage in it with a will. We hope their mission will be a successful one, and that at an early day we may have the satisfaction of publishing a favorable report from them.

WELL DONE, PAGE!

If there is one county more than another, interested in the construction of the Shenandoah Valley Railroad, that deserves especial credit for liberality and public spirit, that county is gallant little Page, the right wing of the Tenth Legion. The vote there on the 30th of October, on the proposition to subscribe $200,000 to the capital stock of the road, was a most triumphant one, and shows at once the earnestness of the people, and their determination to have a railroad. We are informed by prominent gentlemen from that county, that a subscription of three hundred thousand could have been as easily carried as the amount voted upon. In addition to this subscription the County Court made an appropriation of $200, to defray the expenses of a survey through the county.

We are anxiously looking for some formal action in the county of Warren, a county that is also deeply interested in this work. The citizens of Milldale are alive to the importance of the matter, and we hope that their enthusiasm will kindle alike spirit throughout the county, so that we may have some generous response from her people.

We d boped, of late, that Greely had seen the rs of his way, and had opened up a corner. of his heart to better feelings-especially towards Southern people, but this vile fling at them, over the dead friend of the world, has satisfied us that Horace and his idols are still joined together: "Mr. George Peabody, as a successful banker, was not a man of special consequence to the world's economy; as an American abroad, his patriotism was sometimes called in question by his more ardent countrymen; as a man whose polilical prejudices blinded him to the atrocity of Southern treason, he had few claims on American recollection."

- The best returns we can get from Minnesota indicate the election of George H. Otis, Democratic candidate for Governor, by a thousand or two majority. He has run far ahead of the balance of the State ticket in every county heard from, and leads his opponent considerably on the aggregate returns now in. Last fall Grant had 15,470 majority in the MRS. STOWE.

When Mrs. Stowe traduced the South in Uncle Tom's Cabin and its key, the world would not believe she had done anything wrong, but now that she has ventured to go over to England for material for her scandalous pen, she has brought down the condemnation of almost all classes of people. By one set of critics and journals she is do nounced a slanderer, falsifier, and all tha sort of thing, for her article in the Atlantic Monthly on the True Story of Lord Byronand this set embraces the much larger por tion of the literary men and papers of both England and this country. There is, however, one London journal, the Saturday Review, a paper of high standing, which undertakes to defend the truth of Mrs. Stowe's statement, but in doing so, uses the following language in reference to herself:

"First, we are thankful to record the unanmous and most severe condemnation which has been passed, both here and in America, on Mrs. Stowe's conduct. Mrs. Stowe has been guilty of a scandalous breach of faith in regard to Lady Byron, and of extremely bad taste. She has been, we fear, actuated in making her revelations by motives which we had rather not characterize, and she has let loose a flood of immoral talk and immoral speculation on loathsome subjects which has deeply defiled, and will long defile European and American society. But to get it at this time, and in this indirect and surruptitious way, in a form so nauseous, from such a source, and for such objects, is a proceeding which we are glad to say has met with almost universal indignation, contempt and condem-

We must confess to a feeling of pleasure on reading the article from which the above extracts are taken. Mrs. Stowe used her wonderful talent for dramatic writing to draw pictures of Southern life and Southern institutions, the reading of which did more to arouse sectional hatred than any other cause. Her falsehoods were dressed up with so much literary beauty, that the admiring reader took them as Gospel touths, wherever that reader had no actual personal knowledge of the South. and the slave-holder of the South was regarded as a horrible monster and fiend. Now that the world is awakened to a sense of the sort of woman she really is, we hope some of its former believers in her work will, especially those who hang around Exeter Hall, go back and read Uncle Tom, and the key with the grain of salt furnished them by the publication of the "True Story."

The Albemarle Tragedy. The arrest of the supposed murderer-Interesting Details.

A letter from detective Craddock, received esterday morning, announced to his partner, Mr. Knox, the arrest of Henry Salmon in Albemark, for the murder of his mother and brother, Luther-on Thursday night last in that county. Last evening, however, a prominent member of the Richmond bar arrived from Albemarle and gave us the details of conversation had with Mr. Craddock after the arrest. Mr. Craddock, on first meeting Salmon, it seems, pretended to be a land-buyer in search of Albemarle land, and the latter at once agreed to sell him the land he had inherited by the death of his Mother and brother. giving as a reason for his wish to dispose of it that he felt so badly about the horrid tragedy connected with it. After some conversation in which all that Salmon said was carefully noticed by the detective, the latter told him that land buying was not his main object in coming to Albemarle, that he was a military officer detailed by General Canby to investigate the Salmon murder. Salmon thereupon recited to him the story of his having gone to killed. a corn shucking Thursday night at the farm of a neighbor a mile off, and on his return the next morning that he found the door of his mother's house open. Looking through his window, he saw the body of his brother who had been murdered, but did not then see his mother; that he immediately, without going in, went back to the neighbors at the farm already referred to and informed them of what had happened. The detective noted that he could not have seen the brother through the window at all, lying as he was in the position when found, nor could he have looked into the window unless he got upon something to elevate him, and there was nothing near it .-Further, that the body of the mother was found near the open door, and must have been in full view of sim when he approached the house. He was only gone, after leaving the neighbor's farm, a half hour, until he returned and reported the incident, and yet it would have taken an hour and a half to have seen and done all he reported to Mr. Craddock during that time. The mother when found had her apron full of chips she had picked up in the yard and taken into the house. This she would not have done in the night, and was murdered before he went to the corn shucking as she was taking chips in at night to build a fire. Salmon further reported to the neighbor when he went back that he found his brother dead, and yet when Mr. Henry, the neighbor, came with him towards the house the noisy breathing of the dying man could be heard twenty yards from it .-Salmon, finding he was implicating himself, finally said to Craddock he would answer no more questions until he could get counsel .with persons at the cornshucking, who, among | dropped at $500 ! other things, said Salmon seemed very uneasy all night, came back to him, and as he approached him, remarked : "I have found the man who killed your mother and brother; you are the man, and I arrest you." Salmon denied it, saying he knew nothing about it. crime. In alluding to this circumstance, Craddock said he is one of the coldest and most unfeeling men he ever encountered. An officer of Albemarle county, on hearing of his arrest, told our informant that some two months ago Salmon came several times to him to enquire about the property of his mother and brother, asking if, in the event of their death, he would not inherit it. He told him he would. Salmon, it seems, had before that gotten into some difficulty about some cloth. and, on being threatened with a suit, had conveyed all of his interest in his mother's

General John Ellis Wool died at Troy, New York. Wednesday. He was born at Newburg, New York, in 1789, and was therefore eighty years of age. Arriving at the age of manhood he turned his attention to legal studies. This was broken in upon in 1812, by his acceptance of an infantry Captain's commission in the service of the Government in the war with Great Britain. He was wounded at Queenstown, fought bravely at Plattsburg, and for gallant service at Beekmantown was brevetted Lieutenant-Colonel. In 1816 he was made Inspector-General of the Northern Division; Lieutenant-Colonel in 1818; Inspector-General of the whole army in 1821. and in 1826 was brevetted Brigadier-General which now embraces the commercial centre for ten years faithful service. In 1832 he was sent by the Government to examine the military systems of Europe. After his return he inspected the coast defences from Maine to the Mississippi. June 25, 1841, he received the full rank of Brigadier-General. In May, 1846, he was sent to the West to organize volunteers for the Mexican war, and in six weeks armed, equipped and dispatched to the seat of war 12,000 troops. A Venerable Man-A Negro 107 Years

Happening in at the office of the County Clerk last Saturday we found a venerable look ing colored man, named John Waller, giving testimony in some important Vincennes land cases, dating back to the year 1804, or there-

On inquiry we found that this venerable colored individual is 107 years of age, having been born in Prince William county, Virginia in the year 1762! He was brought as a slave to Vincennes, but was set free by the famous ordinance which made free territory of the great Northwest. He was 42 years old when he arrived at Vincennes, and he resided in that region until about four years ago when the conclusion of the detective was that she he moved to this city. He now lives in the suburbs of the city known as Bagdad.
Only think of it! This man was grown

A REVEREND person by the name of Kennedy, in Trenton, New Jersey, caught a loyal tartar last Sunday evening. He got off a sermon on the African race, in which he eulogized the negro unlimitedly. True American says: Mr. Noble said, if he had known as much in the past of the true character of the black race as he knew through his visit to the Southern States, his conduct might have been different. While there he took notice of what he saw, and made inquiries everywhere. The black people were not as well off as previously, and they were so thriftless that if they got a dollar they spent it in gewgaws and finery, instead of providing for their actual necessities. He said they would not work steadily along, and conveyed the idea that there was little hope of their elevation. The reverend gentleman was surprised at the tone of Mr. Noble's remarks; some of his Republican friends looked aghast, while the Democratic part of the audience enjoyed them-

CABINET ORGANS.—The most extensive makers of this class of instruments in the world are the Mason & Hamlin Organ Co., who annually produce and find demand for several times as many as any other manufacturers. Their work stands highest, not only in this country, but also in Europe.

Mr Hamlin, of this Company, was the discoverer of the art of poicing reeds, and has brought it to greater perfection than has yet been attended by others. From this, mainly, comes the fine quality of tone peculiar to the Mason & Hamlin Organs. ## SPECIAL NOTICES.

Hostetter's Bitters Cure Dyspepsia. THE WHOLE STORY IN A NUTSHELL.

The office of the stomach is to convert the food into a cream-like semi-fluid, called CHYME. This is effected partiy by the action of a solvent, called the gastric juice, which exudes from the coating of the stomach, and partly by a mechanical movement of that organ, which churns, as it were, the dissolving aliment. The Chyms passes from the stomach into the duodenum, or entrance to the bowels, where it is subjected to the action of the bile, and the nutritious portion of it converted into a fluid called Chyle, which eventually becomes blood.

Now, it is evident that if the great solvent, the gastric juice, is not produced in sufficient quantity, or if the mechanical action of the stomach is not sufficiently brisk, the first process of digistion will be but imperfectly performed. It is also clear that if the liver, which plays such an important part in changing the nourishing portion of the chyme into the material of the blood, is congested, or in any unnatural condition, the second process will not be thoroughly accomplished. The result of the two failures is dispersize complicated with bilinguages. The mode in which HOSTETTER'S BITTERS operate in such cases is this; they invigorate the cellular membrane of the stomadh, which evolves the gastric juice, thereby insuring an ample suffi-ciency of the fluid to completely dissulve the food. They also act upon the nerves of the stomach, causing an acceleration of the mechanical movement necessary to reduce the food to a homogeneous mass. They also act specifically upon the liver, strengthening it, and so enabling it to produce an ample and regular supply of bile, for the purpose of converting the nutritious particles of the Chyme into Chyle, and promote the passage through the bowels of the useless debris. of the useless debris.

In this way, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS cure dyspepsia and liver complaint. The explanation plain, simple, philosophical, and raus.

A Clergyman, while residing in South America as missionary, discovered a safe and simple remedy for the Cure of Nervous Weakness, Early Decay, Diseases of the Urinary and (Seminal Organs, and the whole train of disorders brought, on by baneful and vicious habits. Great numbers have been cured by this noble remedy. Prompted by a desire to benefit the afflicted and unfortunate, I will send the recipe for preparing and using this medicine, in a scaled envelope, to any one who needs it, Free of Charge. #### LOCAL MISCELLANY.

The Harper's Ferry Property.

The announcement of the prospective sale of the Government property at Harper's Ferry, has very haturally excited a good deal of interest with the people of that town, and the citizens of the county generally. Touching upon the subject of this sale, we find the annexed article in the Wheeling Intelligencer of a late date :-

Governor Stevenson returned yesterday from Washington, where he had been to consult the Government authorities in reference to the proposed sale of the Government property at Harper's Ferry, fixed for November 30th. This sale has been advertised in but three newspapers—the Cincinnati Gazette. the New York Times and the Washington Chronicle. The act ordering the sale of this property provides that the surplus, after re-imbursing the Government for its investments, shall be paid into the school fund of this State. The Governor, therefore, naturally feels considerable anxiety to see the property sell well. He is apprehensive that in consequence of insufficient notice to the manufacturing men of the country, there will be but little competition and the property, if sold at the time fixed, will be at apprice far below its value.

The main purpose of the Governor's visit was to impress these views on the Government authorities having the business in charge.-He had interviews with Gen. Dyer, the Chief of Ordnance, with Gen. Sherman, and with Gen. Belknap, Secretary of War. The two former seemed rather averse to more extensive advertising, expressing doubts of their authority to order it. Upon this point the act provides that the sale shall not take place until it is advertised in three papers in the cities named, but does not forbid advertising in others, leaving that to the discretion of the Secretary. The Secretary manifested more interest. He showed a disposition to do everything in his power to make the property yield as much as possible and promised to investigate the matter. The act of Congress is liable to different constructions in reference to the reimbursment of the Government-whether it is to be reimbursed only for the original cost of the land and such buildings as are now on it, or for the baildings and machinery destroyed and carried away during the war. Under the first construction it is thought a handsome surplus would come to our school, but under the latter there would be nothing. The Governor asked the Secretary for his construction of the law, but the reply was that the Department would give no construction of it till favorably as possible towards our State. On this point Gen. Dyer expressed the belief that the Government would have to be reimbursed for all the buildings that ever were there .-Under this construction it can concern the State very little what the property sells for, except as it effects the U. S. Treasury; but the property is worth a million, and it looks now, the sale having been advertised in an obscure corner of but three papers of limited circulation, as if it would not bring $200,000; for it is an undoubted fact, that while the country generally is aware that the Harper's Ferry property is to be sold some time, very few manufacturing capitalist are aware of the exact time when the sale takes place.

FIRE FROM A MACHINE .- On Wednesday afternoon last, whilst the machine of Messrs. Marlow & Anderson, was engaged in threshing the crop of wheat on the "Walnut Farm" of the late Dr. W. F. Alexander, near Halltown, some of the journals of the machine became heated, and in a short time burst outinto an inextinguishable flame. Before the fire was arrested, it had destroyed some two hundred bushels of wheat, 10 to 12 tons of hay, 150 bushels of oats in stack, 25 to 30 bushels of clover seed, and a large lot of straw and fodder. The thresher of the machine was also destroyed, but the horse power sustained little or no damage. The wheat burned belonged to Dr. John A. Straith, the present owner of the farm, and Mr. Solomon Fleming, former tenant. The provender and clover seed were jointly the property of Dr. S. and Mr. F. D. Boyer, the present tenant, upon whom the less falls with great weight. The latter had made ample provision for his six years of age, and leaves many friends to stock during the winter, which has been thus mourn her loss. swept away in a few hours, leaving him with

WINCHESTER DISTRICT CONFERENCE. Thursday, the 4th instant. The session of the its business again this morning. We copy harmonious and agreeable; and left a good impression upon the community. In the absence of any other information as to its action, we copy the following from the Register of the 13th : "An assemblage peculiar to the M. E. Church, South, met in this place on Thursday of last week. It was called a District Meeting. Such a meeting we understand is composed of all the ministers, traveling and local, within a given Presiding Elder's charge, together with two lay representatives from each Circuit and Station in the same bounds. The body thus met has no legislative functions, nor is its supervision of the Church even among its own constituents, authoritative; it is purely adviso-ry and the force of its advice is alone in the reasonableness and propriety of its deliverance—its members and those they represent having perfect right, without any suspicion of disaffection towards the Church, to receive or reject the recommendations of the meeting.

"The particular meeting in question was composed of about 25 travelling and 10 local preachers and some 30 laymen-of these in the aggregate, some 45 or 50 were present.-It was a matter of regret that the Bishop, whose presence had been expected, did not reach here—his place was filled by the Presiding Elder, Rev. Wm. S. Baird, who gave general satisfaction is his presidency of the meeting. Rev. W. G. Coe was elected Secretary, and L. S. Howard of Berkeley, Asistat Secretary. The services began on Thursday the 4th instant, at 7 P. M., in the new church, when a sermon was preached by Rev. Norval Wilson of Winchester-the oldest member of the body, as he is also oldest minister in the entire Baltimore Conference. -having joined this latter in March 1821. Enfeebled as he is by the labors of nearly half a century in the peculiar duties of a Methodist Itinerant, his mind remains vigorous and his zeal unabated. He was constant and active in attention to and participation in the business proceedings of the meeting. There were business sessions held, consisting of 2 on Friday, 3 on Saturday and 2 on Monday-on which last named day at 5 o'clock, P. M. the meeting adjourned to hold its next annual sesvast amount of business was attended to in the . compass of this short time. Some twelve committees were appointed, each on some important church interest, and the reports of these committees were all ready in due time. r the sale, and would then construe it as | quired, examined - a portion of them indeed clicited considerable debate, in which ministry and laiety participated with equal right and freedom. The meeting found time not only to pass upon all these reports, but to hear a specific statement from each member as to the condition of the work in the charge represented by him. Various resolutions were also passed, and among these one in the interest of the Sharon Female Seminary, at Brucetown, and one heartily approving the great paper organ of the Baltimore Conferance, the Episcopal Methodist, edited by Rev. Dr. John Poisal. Lay Delegates to the approaching Annual Conference to meet in Baltimore city in March next, were elected as follows : E. W. Massey of Winchester Circuit, David II. Knee of Wardensville, Joel II. Hieronimous of Berryville, and Geo. W. Anderson of Winchester Station. The Alternates for these are Joseph Beeler of Hagerstown Circuit, Wm. S. Davis of Front Royal, Wm. S. Noland of Berryville and Samuel Whisner of Morgan."

THE NEXT CENSUS .- As we have before advised our readers, a census of the United States will be taken next year. This enumeration will not only include the inhabitants of the country, but is intended to express its resources, its business, its agricultural products, &c. We have received a circular from Washington on this subject, asking us to advise our farmers to keep a full and complete record of crops raised and sold, the number and value of live stock sold and on hand; &c. so that when the assessor comes around, they may be promptly advised of all matters of which it is their business to inquire. W cordially recommend this course, so that our next census, as far as Jefferson county is concerned, may be full and conclusive. ROBBED - Daniel Goodyear, of Monroe township, went to Harper's Ferry, Va., to buy cattle last week, and was robbed of $1,900. [We copy the above from the Carlisle (Pa.,) Volunteer, and must say that we do not believe a word of it. In the first place, Harper's Ferry is no point for the cattle trade; and in ation of this character performed by Dr. the second, we do not think there has been $1,900 at Harper's Ferry, within the last six months, at any one time. Mr. Goodyear may have lost his money, but we doubt the story of his losing it at Harper's Ferry, or, any where else in this county. Besides, if he had lost it at the point mentioned, the probability is that he would there have made some effort to recover it. This, we are satisfied he did not do, as no citizen of Harper's Ferry has ever heard of the matter.] SUDDEN DEATH .- The Shepherdstown Register thus notices the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Hessey, which occurred in that town a week ago. The deceased was the mother of the Messrs. Hessey, of this town : On Sunday evening last, 7th instant, about four o'clock, Mrs. Elizabeth Hessey, widow of the late Thomas Hessey, of this place, was attacked with apoplexy and fell from her chair and died in a few minutes. She had been in good health, and gave no indication of the approaching attack. She was seventy-little to go upon for the long, dreary months . Religious .- Providence permitting, religious services will be held in the Methodist Church of this place on next Saturday and Sunday, to be protracted during the week .-Preaching on Saturday at 11 o'clock A. M. has learned of the death of Dr. V. L. PERRY, The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper on Sabbath. The Rev. E. L. Kregelo of Winchester and other Ministers are expected to be present during the progress of the meeting.

SUDDEN DEATH .- Mr. John Wysong, an old and highly respected citizen of Berkeley county, died from paralysis, at his residence in Darkesville, on Tuesday night last. Mr. Wysong was over 75 years of age, and had been a merchant in the town of Darkesville their deep affliction, have the sincere sympa- for nearly fifty years. iff. Beltzhoover and Faulkner for defend-A number of Chancery cases and other miscellaneous business were disposed of. On motion, C. W. B. Allison, Esq., of Wheeling was admitted to the Bar. The case of the State against Albert Moore. for the killing of Robert Heck in September last, at Charlestown, was before 'the Grand Jury which found an indictment against him for murder. On application, the accused was bailed in the sum of $10,000 which was given, Hons. C. J. Faulkner and Thomas Van Swearingen were retained and appeared as counsel for the accused. The case will be tried at the next term.

Undeserved .- We are greatly obliged to our friend at Milldale, who speaks so flatteringly of our efforts in behalf of the Cumberland railroad extension, in a private letter to us. Perhaps the high compliments he is pleased to bestow. sion in Martinsburg. It is surprising what a are not altogether deserved. We have felt, and do feel, a deep interest in the work, and this interest we have tried to manifest through our columns. We thank him for the list of subscribers which he sends, and hope with Some of these were quite voluminous pa- his aid and that of kindred spirits, to add pers-but all were read, and as necessity re- many more to our already large list. But we want them to pay in advance.

> CHARLES M. STIEFF, of Baltimore, received four first premiums for his Pianos, at the fairs lately held at Staunton, Lynchburg and North Carolina State fair lately held at Raleigh. This speaks well of his Pianos. Mr. Stieff has sold four hundred Pianos in Virginia alone since the war closed.

INTERESTING TO MAIL AGENTS .- Complaints having been made that certain postoffice employes upon the railroads were doing a nice business for themselves at the expense of regular dealers, who are required to pay fare when transporting produce to market, the Postmaster-General ordered the following to be incorporated in the instructions: "Traffic. in merchandise, while on duty, for the personal profit of a railway post office clerk, route agent, or mail-route messenger, even though the regular tariff rates of the railroad company are paid thereon, is absolutely prohibited .-Post-office railway clerks, route agents, and mail-route messengers, must confine themselves while on the train strictly to the duties mposed on them by the Department."

A Standard History by Gen. Lee. A WORK OF NATIONAL AND PERMANENT VALUE.

Memoirs of the War. BY GEN. HENRY LEE. Thoroughly Revised and Annotated by

GEN. ROBERT E. LEE, Who has added a Full Biography of his Father. One vol. octavo, '640 pages, with new Steel Portraits of Gen. Henry Lee, Gen. Robert E. Lee, and Gen. THIS admirable history of the operations of the American Armies during the Revolutionary War, in the Southern Department of the United States, is the standard work on the subject of which it treats; and this edition, revised and corrected by Gen. Robert E. Lee. the idistinguished son of the Author, is made doubly interesting and vatuable by a complete Bluggaphy of his Father, prepared by Gen. Lee, from materials never before made use of. It is a work whose value is permanent, for it reates to the foundation of this great nation, and de tails a history of which every American citizen is proud. While the history is chiefly of operations at the South, yet considerable space is devoted to Northern movements and battles, thus giving the work a national value.

The historical value and interest of this excellent

The historical value and interest of this excellent history make it a work which will be purchased by all persons who buy books at all, while its thorough correction and revision by Gen. R. E. Lee, and the addition of his new biography, prepared by him from private and personal materials never before given to the public, give it greatly increased and peculiar interest. The fact that it is the enly book new published even in part from Gen. Lee's new now published, even in part from Gen. Lee's pen, gives it an interest possessed by no other work.

Among the new materials introduced in the biography, are important letters from President Mad-ison, Gens. Lafayette, Greene, and Hamilton, Gov. Rutledge, and others; letters to Washington, Mad-ison, Gov. Reed, Gen. Wayne, and others; and a most interesting series of letters to his eldest son, Charles Carter Lee, in which his advice and instruction in regard to his son's studies, reading, and general conduct, are fully given.

The Work is handsomely printed and bound;
the Steel Engravings and Lithographed Maps are engraved in the most artistic style; and no expense nor care have been spared in its preparation to make it worthy alike of its subject and its author. THE BOOK IS SOLD ONLY BY CANVASSING AGENTS. and we wish to secure a good agent in every county.

Irish Drollery.

An amusing story is related of Daines Barrington, the eminent jurist, and Recorder of Bristol. Having to appear for a plaintiff in a case at Clonmel, he let into the defendant in unmeasured terms. The individual inreighed against not being present, only heard of the invectives. After Barrington, however, had get back into Dublin, the defendant, a Tipperary man named Foley, lost no time in paying his compliments to the counsel. He rode all day and night, and covered with sleet, arrived before Barrington's residence in Harcourt street, Dublin. Throwing the bridle of his smoking horse over the railing of the area, he announced his arrival by a thundering knock at the door. Barrington's valet answered the summons, and, opening the street door, beheld the apparition of the rough-coated Tipperary fire-eater, with a large stick under his arm, and the sleet sticking to his bushy whiskers.

Is your master up?" demanded the visitor, in a voice that gave some intimation of the object of his journey. "No," answered the man. "Then give him my compliments, and say

Mr. Foley-he'll know the name-will be glad to see him." The valet went up stairs and gave his master, who was in bed, the early visitor's mes-"Then don't let Mr Foley in for your life, said Barrington; "for it is not a hare or a brace of ducks that he has come to present

The man was leaving the bed-room, when a rough, wet coat pushed by him while a thick voice said, "By your leave," and at the same time Mr. Foley entered the bed-room. "You know my business, sir;" said he to Barrington. "I have made a journey to teach . you manners; and it is not my purpose to return until I have broken every bone in your body :" and at the same time he cut a figure eight with his shillalah before the cheval "You do not mean to say that you will murder me in bed !" exclaimed Daines, who had as much honor as cool courage. "No." replied the other; "but get up as soon as you can." "Yes." replied Daines, "that you might fell me the moment I put myself out of the blankets."

"No," replied the other; "I pledge you my word not to touch you till you are out of "You won't?" "No."

"Upon your honor ?" "Upon my honor."

"That's enough," said Daines, turning over though he meant to fall asleep; "I have he honor of an Irish gentleman, and may est at safe as though I were under the casde guard."

The Tipperary salamander looked marvel-Suished at the pretended sleeper, but aines began to snore. a!" said Foley," "aren't you going said Daines; "I have the word of sh gentleman that he will not strike me bed, and I am sure that I am not going to at up to have my bones broken. I will never get up again. In the mean time, Mr. Foby, if you should want your breakfast; ring the bell; the best that is in the house is at your service. The morning paper will be here presently, but be sure and air it before reading, for there is nothing from which a man catches cold so easily as from reading a damp journal," and Daines affected to go to

The Tip had fun in him, too, as well as ferocity; but he could not resist the cunning of the counsel.

"Get up, Mr. Barrington, said he; "for in hed or out of bed. I have not the pluck to hurt so droll a heart."

The result was, that in less than an hour afterward. Daines Barrington and his intend-

When the hymn was announced, a neighbor gave him a nudge, upon which he startled up, rubbing his eyes, and called out "Change here for Elmswell, Thurston, and Bury!"
