He soon reached the dwelling of the better blass, in which he found at home an intelligent looking lady and several small children. He made himself known as a surgeon in the Union army, and asked for food and shelter. The lady r plied that a Federal surgeon had been very kind to her son while a prisoner of war, and for his sake she would do what she could for the stranger. This remark led 'to

But the romance does not end here, for the correspondent says that when Irving met Sir Walter Scott abroad, he told him the story of his attachment to the beautiful and good Jewess of Philadelphia. At that time, Scott was about to write the novel of "Ivanhoe," and he was so impressed with the portraiture of the object of Irving's love, who though loving, was still so faithful to her religion, that he gave to this heroine the name of Rebeeca. True or not, the story is a beautiful one, and there is nothing in it that is not honorable to all. Miss Cratz died aged eightyeight years .- Philadelphia Inquirer.

he hand method. The wood must be of some hard, close- the means of regaining the Union lines in grained variety which splits easily. Hard maple and birch are the favorite woods for this purpose; birch, however, is, we believe. the shoe peg timber pur excellence. The wood is cut into lengths of about eight feet, and is sold by the cord, at three or four times the price of the same kinds of timber cut into fire-wood. The logs are received at the factory in the green state, and are worked up as wanted. The first operation is peeling off the bark, an adze being employed for this purpose .-The logs are next sawed into blocks across the grain, a little thicker than the length of a peg. These blocks are placed on a planing machine and the side which is intended for the heads of the pegs is planed smooth. The blocks are now ready to be grooved This is done very rapidly by a machine in which a cutting tool reciprocates rapidly. across the face of the block, the block being at proper intervals of time carried along by feed rollers. After the blocks have been grooved one way they are again grooved at right angles to the first grooves, and both sets of grooves being V-shaped, the surface of the blocks, on one side, now present a regular succession of quadrangular pyramids, which are the points of the yet embryo pegs. The next operation is splitting, which is done on muchines operating very rapidly and with great precision. The splitting knives on these machines are pivoted at one end, and the other end is made to play rapidly up and down, the motion being similar to that of a -shears-blade for trimming sheet iron. The pivoted end may be raised or lowered so that the knife may only enter the wood as far as required, the olject being not to split the pegs, entirely apart, but to have them hang together at the heads. The blocks are fed to the splitting knives by fluted tollers, the flutes of which fit the grooves in the blocks made by the grooving machines. The blocks are fed in with the planed side downward. and the splitting knife at each stroke enters the wood at the bottom of the V-shaped grooves with great accuracy. Thus the splitting is done from the points towards the heads of the pegs. When the block has passed through the splitting machine once, it is turned and fed through again at right angles. to the direction in which it was first fed through, and after this operation the pegs are very nearly split apart, but they still hang together somewhat like a bunch of split licifer matches. The object of keeping them thus together is to enable them to be fed to the machines in a mass. After the second feeding the block is forcibly thrown off the table of the splitting machine on the floor, and the pegs fall asunder. The pegs at this stage are of different colors, somewhat rough on their sides, unseasoned and dusty. They are therefore dried in a tumbler heated by steam pipes, bleached with sulphur fumes till they assume a uniform white color, run through a fanning mill to free them from The extent of this manufacture is much greater than would seem possible to most people. It would seem at first, that if all the people in the world were shoemakers, they must be overstocked with pegs. There are numerous factories in the Eastern States furning out from fifty to one hundred bushels and upward of shoe-pegs per day, and still the demand keeps up. Anything in universal demand, oven if individually the demand is small, must foot up large in the aggregate for the civilized world. The New England States manufacture the greater part of all the hospitalitics, and provided in due time salety .- Appletons' Journal.

A Japanese Execution.

The officers of the United States steamer Delaware were permitted to witness a Japanese crucifizion at Yokohama, which is thus described :

When the prisoner who is to be crucified had been placed on his back, on a stout wooden cross prepared for the occasion, he was securely lashed thereto, but not nailed. Then the sentence was read, and two stout men, with ong spears, came forward. The one on the right side of the doomed man struck the point of his spear in very deliberately about two inches and just under the ribs. "Felt about awhile with it to ascertain that it was clear of all bones, and then with a powerful thrust upwards the head of the spear was sent through until it appeared on the top of the right shoulder. The man on the left side then did likewise.

The victim, who was a mere boy, yelled fearfully. He had murdered his mother by stabbing her thirteen times. After the two spears had been thrust through him, a third man came forward with a spear and thrust it through the crimnal just where he had stabbed his mother. Thirteen times the spear went through his body, and the terrible performance ended.

PRESERVING EGGS .- At a late meeting of the Western New York Farmer's club, Mr. Quinby, as reported by the American Farmer, gives his method of preserving eggs, considering it timely as the season for winter use is at hand. His practice is to gather the eggs from the nests, and when two or three dozen are obtained, to place them in a dish and pour scalding water over them, and immediately turn it off. This is repeated three times, by which means the albumen is fixed or coagalated —the pores of the shells closed, and the egg, as it, were, canned in its own covering. Thus prepared, the eggs are ready to be packed away in the cask designed to hold them for future use. Spread a layer of salt over the bottom of the cask or crock, sufficient to steady the eggs, and then set them in a circle. apex downward, till the surface is covered with eggs. Add more salt, and proceed as before till the cask is filled-the top layer being covered with salt for the exclusion of the air. Put down in this way eggs will keep as freah as when first laid, for a long time .-They have been found as fresh at the end o change in their flavor.

MISCELLANEOUS. THE WAY TO KEEP HIM.

"Out again to night?" said Mrs. Huyes, fretfully, as her husband rose from the tea table and donned his great coat,

"Yes ; I have an engagement with Moore ; shall be in early; have a light in the library good-bye." And with a careless nod William Haves left the room.

"Always the way," murmured Lizzie Haves. sinking back upon the sofa. "Out every night. I don't believe he cares one bit about me now, and yet we have been married only two years. No man can have a more orderly house, and I never go anywhere. I am not a bit extravagant, and yet I don't believe he loves me any more. O dear! why is it? I wasn't rich; he didn't marry me for my money, and he must have loved me then. Why does he treat me then with so much neglect ?"-And with her mind filled with such frightful queries, Lizzie Hayes fell asleep on the sofe Let me paint her face as she lay there .---She was a blonde, with a small, graceful figure and a very pretty face. The Bair, which showed by its rich waves its natural tendency to curl, was brushed smoothly back and gathered into a rich knot at the back .--

"It was such a bother to curl it," she said her cheek was pale, and the whole face wore a discontented expression. Her dress was a neat chintz wrapper, but she wore neither collar nor cuffs. "What's the use of dressing up just for William ?"

The library was just over the room in which she sat, and down the furnace flue, through the register, a voice came to the young wife's ears ; it was her husband's ; "Well, Moore, what's a man to do? I was disappointed, and I must have pleasure somewhere. Who would have fancied that Lizzie Jervis, so pretty and loving, could change to the fretful dowdy she a year as when first laid, with no perceptible is? Who wants to stay at home to hear his wife whining all the evening about the servants and her headache, and all sorts of bothers? She's got the knack of that drawling whitne so pat-'pon my life, I don't believe she can speak pleasantly."

Lizzie sat as if stunned. Was this true She looked in the glass. If not exactly a dowdy, her costume was certainly not suitable for an evening, with only William to admire. She rose and softly went to the bedroom, with bitter, sorrowful thoughts, and a firm resolution to win back her husband's heart, and then his love regained, to keep it.

The next morning William came into the breakfast room, with his usual careless manper. but a bright smile came on his lips as he saw Over one and a half pounds were administered (from a bottle in the ordinary manner of drenching) with a view to its defibrinizing effect upon the blood."

CURE FOR SWEENY .- Here is a cure for her beauty. At first William thought there making the children happy with her pressweeny that I have never seen published; and it has never failed where I have known it found that they were alone musical, and was a fair performer on the piano. "Ballads, Lizzie !" "Oh! yes; I know you dislike opera music in a parlor. One song after another, with a noeturno or lively instrumental piece occasionally between them, filled up another hour pleasantly. The little mantle clock struck eleven. "Eleven ! I thought it was about nine. I ought to apologize. Lizzie, as I used to say. as I did then, that the time passed so pleasantly I can scarcely believe it is so late."

The piano was closed, Lizzie's work put in the basket, and William was ready to go up stairs ; but glancing back he saw his little wife near the fire-place, her hands clasped, her head bent, and large tears falling from her eves. He was beside her in an instant .--"Lizzie. darling, are you ill? What is the matter ?" "Oh William, I have been such a bad wife ! I heard you tell Mr. Moore, last evening, how I disappointed you; but I will try to make your home pleasant, indeed I will, if you will forgive and love me."

"Love you! Oh! Lizzie, you can guess how dearly I love you !"

As the little wife lay down that night she thought :

"I have won him back again ! better than that, I have learned the way to keep him ?"

Elegance Does Not Make a Home. I pever saw a garment too fine for man or maid; there never was a chair too good for a cobbler, or cooper, or king to sit in ; never a home too fine to shelter the human head .-These elements about us, the gorgeous sky; the imperial sun, are not too good for the human race. Elegance fits man. But do we not value these tools of housekeeping a little more than they are worth, and sometimes mortgage a home for the mahogany we would bring into it? I had rather eat my dinner off the head of a barrel, or dress after the fashion of John the Baptist in the wilderness. or sit on a block all my life, than consume all myself before I got to a home, and take so much pains with the outside that the inside was as hollow as an empty nut. Beauty is a great thing, but beauty of garments, house and furniture is a very tawdry ornament compared with domestic love. All the elegance in the world will not make a home, and I would give more for a spoonful of real love than for whole ship-loads of furniture and all the gorgeousness that all the upholsterers in the world could gather together .- Theodore Parker.

A GOOD MOTHER .- Sometimes one hears it said of a good wife and mother that "she's regular home body." The phrase is simple, but what a world of ennobling qualities it indicates, and what a universe of frivolities it excludes. The matronly home-body is indeed "Heaven's best gift to man."-Dashing ladies, whose mission it is to set the fashions, won't you look in upon your gentle sister as she sits in her well-ordered nursery 1056. In Genesis, seventh chapter, sixth verse, we are informed that Noah was 600 years old when the flood of waters was upon the earth. Add six hundred years, his age, to 1056, the date of his birth and we have 1656, the date of the flood. We learn from the thirtyseventh verse, fifty chapter of Genesis, that "all the days of Methuselah were 969 years and he died." By the reference to the foregoing table it will be seen that Methuselah was born Anno Mundi 687, add his age, 969, to 687, the date of his birth, and we have 1656, the time "when the flood of waters was upon the earth." The conclusion is as certain as figures, that the oldest man was drowned for his wickedness.

182 years; Noah, hence was born Anno Mundi

"Ever of Thee."

A sad story is connected with the name of the writer of the beautiful song, "Ever of Thee," which has been sumplify admired by Thee," which has been sun. Admired by so many in this country and in Europe. Foley Hall was a gentleman by birth and education. Wealthy is his own right, with large_expectations, he led a heedless life—not choosing his associates, but allowing himself to be drawn into the society of the vicious.— His property soon disappeared, and he was left without resources sufficient to buy his daily bread. His musical talents had been highly cultivated, but as he never needed them he scarcely knew to what decree they Thee," which has been sung them, he scarcely knew to what degree they could be made available. In his distress, however, he wrote his charming song, "Ever of Thee." A London publisher gave him one hundred dellars for it; but that amount, with such a spendthrift, would not last long. He wrote other songs, but the mot coming as fast as he wished, in a we w. not ment he forged the name of his pu and although every effort was made-even by the publisher-to save him, it was no and poor Foley Hall went to Newgate, and died broken-hearted before his trial came on.

BOOKS .- In the best books great men talk to us, give us their most precious thoughts, and pour their souls into ours. God be thanked for books. They are the voices of the distant and the dead, and make us heirs of the spiritual life of past ages. Books are the true levelers. They give to all who will faithfully use them the society, the spiritual presence of the best and greatest of our race. No matter how poor I am-no matter though the prosperous of my own time will not enter my obscure dwelling-if the sacred writers will enter and take up their abode upon my roof, if Milton will cross my threshhold to sing to me of Paridise, and Shakspeare to open to me the worlds of imagination and the workings of the human heart, and Franklin to enrich me with his practical wisdom, I shall not pine for want of intellectual companionship, and I may become a culti-vated man, though excluded from what is

FAREWELL.

With this issue ceases my connection wi he Spirit of Jefferson. I part company wit is readers of this journal with sincere ret, but feel that the present is no time for ndulgence of sentiment: If my course has met with your approval, I am more than sated for the struggles through which have been called to pass, suffering as I have done, under all the disadvantages of adverse fortune. To the numerous friends who have kindly sustained me and helped me along in life, I return my kindest thanks.

In the distant home I have selected for my Juture field of labor, I shall not cease to rember them, and whether prosperity or adversity shall be my future fortune, my friends in Jefferson must ever hold a prominent place in my affections and regard.

The change thus affected, is not altogether one of my own choice. Declining health and the interest of a growing family, prompt me to risk a change for the better, but I surender my post with reluctance, and only be-I feel that all interests will be promo ereby. I might say more, but dare not

NEW YORK AND THE FIFTEENTH AMENDMENT.

On Wednesday, the 5th inst., the Legislature of New York, by a vote of sixteen twelve in the Senate, and sixty-nine to fiftysix in the House, passed the resolution to rescind her adoption of the fifteenth amendment. The discussion was brief, having been curtailed by a call for the previous question. The question how far such rescission is competent to the State remains open as far as any judicial adjudication thereof is concerned, affecting the validity of the fourteenth amendment, as it seems likely to affect that of the fifteenth in the future. Mr. Seward, it will be remembered, took care to leave the question undecided in his proclamation promulging the fourteenth article. The executive and judicial branches of the government may be regarded as still silent, therefore, and the legislative alone as having spoken on the subject. The language of the Constitution is: "The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution, or on the application of two-thirds of the several States, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several States, or by conventions in. three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other may be proposed by the Congress." It is clear from this language that where pany. the requisite number of States in the Union have ratified any article properly proposed as an amendment to the Constitution, it became to all intents and purposes a part thereof, without the necessity of any further action either by the Congress or the Executive. But before such ratification it is equally clear that the amendment is not a part of the Constitution, and its recission by any State who may have acceded to it, is, therefore, no violation of the Constitution. And as it is not pretended that there are any federative restrictions upon the legislation of the States. save those embraced in the Constitution, it is plain that there is or can be no federal right to prohibit a State from rescinding if she thinks proper, nor in doing 'so does she violate any federal obligation. As far, therefore, as her federal obligations are concerned the State has a locus penitentise, or period of reconsideration, during the interval of her own ratification, and that of the requisite three-fourth, of the States, in which she may effectually rescind. As far as her own citizens are concerned, what is there to distinguish her, ratification from any other act of the .Legislature, repealable at will by the same authority that enacts? Nothing whatever. Even if her act of accession contained a clause prohibiting a repeal, such a clause could not prevent recission upon the uncontested and universally recognized principle that the prohibitory clause is itself repealed

THE NEW BAILBOAD. It will be seen by the proceedings of the Board of Supervisors, that the order passed by them at a previous meeting, for holding an election for a subscription to the contemplated railroad, was rescinded by the Board on Monday last. When the Board passed the order, says the Shepherdstown Register, they were not in possession of the new Code of the State, which has just recently been published, and of course were not aware of there being a law setting aside the matter referred to. The laws of this State require that a charter should be first procured before an election for subscription could be had: also that such election should be held at the time of the usual county election ; also that the Board could not determine who should be the qualified voters.

These provisions require a special act of the Legislature before anything can be done the matter.

The Legislature will meet on the 18th instant, when steps will be taken to arrange proper measures for a speedy election. .

THE ROADS.

We propose at an early day to lay before our readers some statistics from a New York source showing the great enhancement which macadamized roads are calculated to produce in the value of adjoining real estate, and of the property and business of towns to which they conduct. Of what use are rail-roads and canals if we have no dirt roads by which they can be reached ? Or of what benefit are rich districts of country without outlets to market ? Churches, schools, roads-these advance side by side in the march of civilization. The amount of new capital coming into our county justifies us in predicting a new era of prosperity for our people. But we must be abreast with the spirit of the age, cultivate a spirit of enlightened liberality to county improvements, and learn to appreciate the value of concerted action, and enterprize.

- A bill for the re-arrangement of the circuits of the Justices of the United States Supreme Court has been prepared by a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and will be presented to that body when it reasembles. Why Father Hyacinthe Came. Virginia and Tennessee. The Washington correspondent of the New Tork World says :

There is a good deal of talk in political circles in Washington concerning the course of Congress, when it reassembles, in reference to Virginia and Tennessee. There is no doubt that the temper of Congress has greatly changed since it first met, and that the ultra ment, which was then silent, is new becoming every day more rampant and aggressive. Measures which would then have been dis-missed as impossible or absuid are now spo-ken of as every way probable. This is es-pecially the case in respect to Tennessee.—

Leading Democrats express the opinion that action taken in the Georgia case was designed preedent to show the power and readiness Congress to interfere whenever it may be necessary to ensure a Radical ascendancy in each State, and to employ whatever means are assentrial to this end. It is known that there has been a great deal of study and consultation among the Republicans in Congress touching the case of Tennessee, and that the eaders are maturing a plan for a fresh subugation of that State. The mode of doing his is not yet known, or even agreed upon but that they will find a way, if they decide upon finding one, is not doubtful. The pro texts assigned for this are that the last election was fraudulent; that the registration under Governer Sentor admitted many whites to vote who were disfranchised by the laws of. the State for participation in the rebellion; and, lastly, that the Stats does not have a Reoublican form of Government. Leading Reublicans in both branches are strongly oposed to this policy, but it is not known whether enough of them will sland out to defeat these measures. The talk among the ultra Radicals is to hold Virginia back for the present, and not to admit her until her political course is more clearly defined. The recommendation of the President makes it difficult for the Radicals to act in this case as they would like to do. Death of Hon. Wm. L. Goggin.

It gives us sincere pain to record the death f the Hon. Wm. L. Goggin, of Bedford county, which melancholly event took place vesterday at the residence of the deceased, near Liberty. Mr. Goggin, we learn, was suddenly attacked one day last week with softening of the brain, causing his mind to become wholly unhinged and death to speedily follow. On returning home on the day of his illness from Liberty-where he had gone in seeming good health and condition-Mr. Goggin met his wife with a strange and startled expression, and begged her to tell him what they meant by having the yard full of hogs. As there were no hogs in sight, and as Mr. Goggin's manner was otherwise excited and peculiar, Mrs. Goggin saw at once that ing the summer of 1867 a Boston g tleman, together with his wife and widowed sister, were in Paris. Of course they, among the other wonders of the French capital, went to hear Pere Ilyacinthe. The widow, who is young, has but one shild and is quite wealt fell in love with the Pere. Finally, meeti were brought about, at which she express so much joy that the feeling became mut Although the Carmelite had begun to express himself freely in public regarding religious matters, he did not go far euough to suit his female adorer, who had more extended views, both religious and political, regarding matters both religious and pointers, regarding matters in a monarchical country, where Church and State are closely allied. Under the tutelage of the Boston lady the priest became more and more outspoken in his views, and finally events culminated in his retirement from his monastic orders, and it was supposed he had gone to Passy to keep quiet. It was not known for some time in France that he had gone to America; but he, as everybody now knows, came here, and after remaining in New York some weeks so as to get rid of all taint of suspicion, went to Boston, where he met the lady who had drawn him hither. It is with the intention of settling private affairs in France that he returned ; but before long, as has been hinted, he will return to America, one year. and probably remain here, and marry the lady who has drawn him away from fatherland and mother church.

The Roll of the Dead:

In the course of the year just closing, the hand of death has fallen upon many distinguished men in Europe and the United States. - In the National Intelligencer of Tues sppears a lengthy letter from Edward A. Pollard, in which he opposes the admission of Virginia at this time. His reason for so do-ing is that he thinks it would crush out Conservatism and Radicalize the State. He accuses Governor Walker of abandonin the Conservatives as soon as he was elected. and of bowing to President Grant and grovel-ling to General Butler, and says : "It were hetter for the State to keep out of the Union than come in under a series of perplexities and confusion that would utterly subdue the Con-

Let Common Sense Decide.

What is the rational mode of procedure in cases of general debility and nervous prostration? Does not reason tell us that judicious stimulation is re-quired. To resort to violent purgation in such a case is as absurd as it would be to bloed a starving man. Yet it is done every day. Yes, this stopid man. Yet it is done every day. Yes, this stupid and unphilosophical practice is continued in the teeth of the great fact that physical weakness, with all the nervous disturbances that accompany it, is more certainfy and rapidly relieved by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters than by any other medicine at pre-sent known. It is true that general debility is olten attended with torpidity or irregularity of the bow-els and that the asymptote most be overlooked els, and that the symptom must not be overlooked. But while the discharge of the waste matter of the system is expedited or regulated, its vigor must be recruited. The Bitters do both. They combine

- Congress annually throws away many thousands of dollars on documents that are utterly valueless. One job costing $25,000 is now lying piled up in volumes which are only worth what they will bring at the prices paid for waste paper. The Superintendant of Government Printing thinks the binding material might be used again. Hundreds of thousands of dollars are thus annually wasted. The Radicals of Congress seem to have no regard for the tax-ridden masses. They have lifted high the flood gates of extravagance, and the public money is most recklessly squandered in a thousand ways. It is high time some effort was made at economizing.

-"Those who have the upper hand in Georgia never will adopt the fifteenth amendment unless under compulsion." These are the words of Senator Morton, spoken in the Senate on the 17th ult. This, then, is confessedly the way we amend our constitution, and induce the States to relinquish certain of their rights-"under compulsion." But compulsion invalidates all consent, ethically and morally, and an amendment, thus adopted, is no amendment at all, as the Radicals will find dollars had it been necessary. Mr. McNash

LOCAL MISCELLANT.

A WORD FOR LOCAL NEWSPAPERS .--- We ake the following from the New York Tribupe. It is true, and we commend it to every one who has an interest in the place where he resides: "Nothing is more common than to hear people talk of what they pay for advertising, &c., as so much given in arity. Newspapers by enhancing the value of the property in the neighborhood and giving localities in which they are published a reputation abroad, benefit all such, particularly if they are merchants or real estate owners, thrice the amount yearly of the meagre sum they pay for their support. Besides, every public-spirited citizen has a laudable pride of having a paper of which he is not ashamed. even though he should pick it up in New York or Washington. A good-looking, thriving sheet helps property, gives a character ality, is in many respects a decirable pub-If from any cause the matter in the local or editorial column should not be to your standard, do not cast it aside and propounce it good for nothing, until satisfied that there has been no more labor bestowed upon it than is paid for. If you want a good readable sheet it must be supported not in a spirit of charity, either, but because you feel a pecessity to support it. The local press is the power that moves the people."

THE SOUTHERN METROPOLIS .- We have hitherto neglected to notice among our exchanges the Southern Metropolis, edited by James Fairfax McLaughlin, at 31 Lexington Street Baltimore. It is a weekly review of science, literature, and politics, and has perhaps gained the higher anding of any Weekly ever issued in the South. Some of our lead-Long statesmen have not hesitated to pronounce it, in its sphere, the first paper in America. The Editor publishes letters of congratulation received from Hon. A., H. Stevens, Admiral Semmes, Commodore Maury, Ilon. R. M. T. Hunter, S. Teackle Wallace, Judge Parkin Scott, Raleigh T. Daniel, and many other distinguished statesmen and literateurs commending his journal, as one of great ability and sound principles, to the patronoge of the public. DR. SAGE'S CATABRE REMEDY is no SUPERVISORS COURT .- The new Board of Supervisors organized on Tuesday last. John D. Staley, Esq., was re-elected president of the Board. Charles II. Traynor, Esq., was cted Clork of the Board. The Board now sists of John D. Staley, of Shepherd Township, Ebnd Tarner, of Chapline Township, Thomas M. Shaull, of Averill Township, Hezekiah Roderick, of Bolivar Township-Mr. Hamilton of Grant Township has failed to qualify as yet, From the Register we make the following summary :--

Ordered that Sarah Ann Bennett, (insane) be confined in the county jail for the present. Ordered, that Drs. R. M. Marshall and Stephen L. Balch be appointed poor-house physicians for one year from and after January 1st, 1870.

Ordered, by the Board that the order passed the 20th day of December, 1869, directing a submission to the people of the county, of the question of a subscription of $250,000 to the extension of the Cumberland Valley Railroad, be resciuded, the Board being satisfied that further legislation is required to authorize such submission.

Ordered, that the county take possession of the Shepherdstown and Smithfield turnpike, and William G. Butler be appointed road surveyor from Shepherdstown to Kcarneys-ville, and Dr. W. O. McCoughtry from Kear-ersville to Smithfield: At an adjourned meeting on Wednesday, it was ordered that James B. Clipp be appointed temporary Constable of Grant township.

HARPER'S FERRY .- "Wallace," the in telligent Washington correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch thus alludes to the future of Harper's Ferry :

"The parties who recently purchased the Harper's Ferry property from the Government, except Senator Sprague, have determined upon immediate work to develope the resources of the place. The New York purchasers will crect extensive rolling-mills and iron works. Another company, principally composed of residents of this city have arranged for building paper mills on a large scale. What uses Mr Sprague proposes to put his property to has not transpired. We understand that Messrs Sprague, Vanderbilt and other Northern capitalists will visit Harper's Ferry shortly, and have announced their intention of making it the Lowell of the South.

While the history is chiefly of operations at the South, yet considerable space is devoted to Northern r ovements and battles, thus giving the work a national value. The historical value and interest of this excellent The historical value and interest of this excellent history make it a work which will be purchased by all persons who buy books at all, while its thorough correction and revision by Gen. R E. Lée, and the addition of his new biography, prepared by him from private and personal materials never before given to the public, give it greatly increased and peculiar interest. The fact that it is the only book new published, even in part from Gen. Lee's pen, gives it an interest possessed by no other work. Among the new materials introduced in the bi-ography, are important letters for President Mad-ison, Gens Lafayette, Greene, and Hamilton, Gov. SINGULARITIES OF THE CHINESE .- The Chinese of San Francisco are-a very singular set of beings. Almost daily something new and curious turns up about them. In their quarters where they reside they are seldom idle ; but are always to be seen making slippers, boots, clothing, cigars, cutting up pork, packing, cooking, smoking. They take an ordinary room and put a floor through its cen-, tre, making two stories of it-one above the other Eleven Chinamen will make cigars in a room 6 teet by 10. They sell hogs weighing 150 pounds each, roasted whole. Pork is their principle ar icle of autmal food. They eat everything of the creature inside and out, and his hoofs too. At their theatres the women sit by themselves in the galleries, sm ke cigars and nurse babies. The ma'e auditors, the actors and musiciane, all smoke incessantly. The orchestra consists of gongs, cymbals, parchments stretched across sticks, half globe drums, and steel triangles.

- A clergyman was travelling the Western part of Ohio, mounted on a long, lank, lean, slab-sided, lantern-jawed, stub-tailed, rawboned animal. (a good frame to build a horse on.) when he came to the junction of two roads and not knowing which might lead him to his destination, he asked a ragged, dirtylooking urchin which of the two roads lead to W- The boy, in a rough and uncouth manner, said, "Who are you, old fellow !"-The clergyman, being greatly astonished at the child's incivility replied, "My son, I am a follower of the Lord." "A follower of the Lord, eh ? Wall, it makes mighty little difference which road you take you'll never catch him with that hoss."

A SMILE .- A woman may be of great assistance to her husband, in business, by wearing a cheerful smile constantly upon her countenance. A man's perplexities are increased an hundred fold when his better-half moves about with a continual scowl upon her brow.

- "My dear Lucy. I am surprised at your taste in wearing another woman's bair on your head," said Smith to his wife. "My dear Tom." replied the wife, "I am equally astonished that you persist in wearing another sheep's wool on your back."

THIS splendidly illustrated weekly journal of Popular Science, Mechanics, Invention, Engineering, Chemistry, Architecture Agriculture, and the kindred arts, enters its Twenty Fifth Year on the first of January next. baving a circulation fai exceeding that of any similar journal now pub-

The Editorial Department of the Scientific American is very ably conducted, and some of the most popular writers in this Country and Europe are contributors. Every number has 16 imperial pages, embellahed with fine Engravings of Machinery, New Inventions, Tools for the Workshop, Farm & Household, Engineering Works, Dwelling Houses, Public Buildings. A journal of so much intrinsic value, at the low price of $3 a year, ought to have, in this thriving country, A Million Readers. Whoever reads the Scientific American is entertained and instructed, without being bothered with hard words or dry details. TO INVENTORS AND MECHANICS this journal is of special value, as it contains a week-ly report of all Patents issued at Washington, with copious notices of the leading American and Euro-pean Inventions. The Publishers of the Scientific American are the most Extensive Patent Solicitors in the world, and have uncoulled facilities for gathering a complete knowledge of the progress of Invention and Discovery throughout the world; and with a view to mark the quarter of a century, du-ring which this invention has being the procession ring which this journal has held the first place in Scientific and Mechanical Literature. the Publishers will issue on January first the large and splea-did Steel Engraving by John Sartain of Philadelphia, entitled "Men of Progress--- American Inventors," the plate costing nearly $4.000 to engrave, and contains nineteen likenesses of Illustricus American Inventors. It is a superb work of art.

Inventors. It is a superb work of art. Single nictures, printed on heavy paper, will be sold at $10, but any one subscribing for the Scien-thic American the paper will be sent for one year, together with a copy of the engraving, on receipt of $10. The picture is also offered as a premium for clubs of subscribers. 15 $1,500 CASH PRIZES.
