Senator Lewis.

This gentleman we always considered was a part of the price paid for the admission of Virginia; and for one, so anxious were we for civil government, that we were not unwilling to pay it. We never expected him to act with the Democrats. We did expect, however, that he would at least act with the Conservative Republicans. The Staunton Vindicator having reflected upon his course in the Senate, and amongst other things, charged him with having furnished certain information to General Early, that old hero in answer to the accusation, thus concludes his letter to the Vindicator:

"Not only then is Mr. Lewis entirely innocent of a laudable design to do any harm to the invaders of his State in the matter referred to, but I have no hesitation in expressing my conviction, formed from information received while I was in the Valley, and confirmed by his course since, that he would have, been much more ready to give any information whatever to the enemy, though that imformation might have caused the beautiful Valley of his nativity, from the head waters of South River, Christian's Creek, and Middle River, to where the Shenandoah tumbles into the Potomac, and from the summit of the Blue Ridge to that of the North Mountain, to be converted into smouldering ruin and a desolate, irreclaimable waste, utterally unfit for the habitation of man or beast, than to have dropped a hint to any one on our side that would have led to the capture of a solitary one of the invading horde; and I have been surprised that any living being in the Valley should have been of a different opinion, or have given Mr. Lewis credit for even having had a solitary patriotic impulse from the beginning. He says that if he had been at home. Sheridan would not have destroyed his property. My recollection is, that it was Hunter who destroyed his Iron Works, just before the battle of Piedmont or New Hope, in June, 1864, and I think I can hardly be mistaken in this. Yours, very Respectfully, J. A. EARLY.

A NEW RAILROAD FOR VIRGINIA. Washington, July 17 .- A large number of prominent citizens are just now occupied with the project of the Potomac and Piedmont railroad, authorized by recent act of the Virginia Legislature. According to the terms of the charter, the proposed road will commence at this city or Georgetown, and crossing the Potomac into Virginia, will travers the fertile county of Loudoun and connect with the Manassas road at Rectortown, thence extending to Luray through Thornton's Gap. in the Blue Ridge, at Sperryville, to connect with the Shenandoah or the Luray Valley road, and through these connections secure communication with the South and Southwest by way of the Chesapeake and Ohio and Virginia and Tennessee roads.

The length of the road will be about eighty miles, and the total cost about four millions of arts and sciences. Falling under the dis-pleasure of the tyrant; Damon was condemned to death and the time for his execution appointed. Anxious to see his wife and children once more before his execution, he asked the King for permission to visit them. The King answered: "What assurance do you give me that you will return?" "I will give you my friend Pythias," said Damon "for security." The King asked Pythias if he were willing to become the bondsman of Damon, and to die in his place, provided he did not return?

"Yes," said Pythias, "I will stand for him, and if he is not here on the day appointed, I will suffer death in his place!" "Well," said the King, "this is strange; but Damon you are at liberty to go and visit your family, and if you do not return, as I suppose you will not, justice will not lose her victim."

Damon hurried home to embrace his family and to communicate to them the sad intelligence that, in a few days, he must return to Syracuse to suffer death: When his wife learned the state of things that he had violated no law; that he was condemned by a mere whim of Dionysius, and that his friend, Pythias, had become his bondsman, she insisted upon his not returning. She reasoned with him, and besought him by the affection he bore to her and her children not to return. But all her entreaties were in vain. "Would you have me to violate my sacred pledge of onor to my friend Pythias?" said he. "No, no; I would despise myself in that case—but I shall return and relieve our friend and maintain my honor, even at the expense of my own Damon remained at home, as we may imagine, as long as he could. At length, amid the sobs and tears of his wife and children, he tore himself away from those he loved. The execution was to take place at noon, and as his progress was impeded by bad roads and high waters, on the day appointed he was still twenty miles from Syracuse; but he rose early in the morning, and as the sun was approaching the meridian, the spires of the city were in view. Hastening on, he found a large multitude gathered in front of the prison. The tyrant was there, seated on a platform, to witness the novelty of one man dying for another ! The hour for execution had nearly expired. "Ah," says the tyrant, "where is your friend Damon. Did I not tell you that he would not return?" "But," says Pythias, "he will return, if he is alive. I know he will not disappoint me. I know him, and know he would rather die than break his word." The tyrant then looked at the sundial, and it was just noon. "Now," said the executioner, "proceed." Pythias laid his head on the block, the axe was raised, and its sharp edge gleaming in the sunlight. When, o! there is a movement in the crowd. "Stop. says the tyrant "till we see what this means." There stood Damon, panting and covered with dust. He had come in time. The tyrant was so much struch with this proof of friendship, that he pardoned them both, and requested permission to join their fraternity .-It is well known that a popular and widely extended society, the "Knights of Pythias,"

Frank Byre, a highly respectable and intelligent farmer of Galena, Kent county, Md. gives the following as a sure cure for the bite of a mad dog. As will be seen, he has tested it with the most gratifying results; Elecampane is a plant well known to most persons, and is to be found in many of our gardens. Immediately after being bitten, ake one and a half ounces of the root of the plant—the green root is perhaps preferable, but the dried will enswer, and may be found in our drug stores, and was used by me,slice or bruise, put it into a pint of fresh milk boil down to a half pint, strain, and when cold drink it, fasting at least six hours afterward. The next morning, fasting, repeat the dose repared as the last, and this will be sufficient. tis recommended that after each dose nothing be eaten for at least six hours.

I have a son who was bitten by a mad dog eighteen years ago, and four other children in the neighborhood were also bitten, they took the above dose, and are alive and well to this day. And I have known a number of others who were bitten and applied the same remedy. It is supposed that the root contains a principle which, being taken up by the blood n its circulation, counteracts or neutralizes the deadly effects of the virus of hydrophobia. I feel so much confidence in this simple emedy that I am willing you should give my pame in connection with this statement.

Newspaper Decision. At the recent term of our District Court a suit was determined at the suit of the Galveston News involving a question of some interest to publishers of newspapers and their subscribers. The defendant had prepaid his subscription to the News for six months, after the expiration of which time, without any express renewal of the subscription, the pubishers continued to send the paper and the subscriber to receive it. When the bill was presented the subscriber refused to pay it on the ground that having subscribed and paid for a definite time, and not having authorized a continuance, it was contended that upon the facts there was an implied contract to pay for the paper at the rates previously agreed upon, and that it was the duty of the subscriber to refuse to receive the paper, if he did not intend to pay for it. The verdict of the Court was for the plaintiffs, thus affirming the correctness of the News. We understand that the case will not be appealed to the Supreme Court by the defendant, and the decision of the District Court therefore stands for law.—Breham Banner.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE PAPERLESS MAN,

"No, sir! I don't want nothin' of the kind. In the first place, I bain't got the money; and in the next place, if I had the noney, I wouldn't have none of your papers.' So spoke Titus Closely, in answer to a man who had called to see if he would like to subscribe for a newspaper. Said man kept'store in a neighboring village, and was also the postmaster; and he had made arrangements to add to his business by establishing a newspaper agency.

"I can furnish you with any paper you may ike," he explained to Mr. Closely, "and I can furnish it cheaper than you can get it any other way, because by buying of me you will save postage. I shall have papers devoted to the Family; papers for the Farmers; papers for the Mechanic; and papers for both young and old; and, in short, I assure you that any one of them would be worth far more to you than I propose to ask. Ask your wife what she thinks. You have no idea what a vast amount of valuable information you will find." Nancy Closely wanted a paper, but her hus-

"Your neighbor, Deepwater, has subscribed for two papers," said the agent. "He will take a pleasant, high-toned literary paper for his family, and a paper devoted to art, science and agriculture for himself." "The more fool he :" cried Titus Closely. contemptuously. "John Deepwater can't afford it any more'n I can. My farm's bigger and better than his is; and I tell ye flat and square, I hain't got no three dollars to throw away for a newspaper."

"But. Titus-" "Shut up, Nancy, I tell ye I won't have it!" And Naucy closed her lips; and the agent went his way; and Titus Closely went forth to plow his ground with the great old wooden plow which his father, and his grandfather, before him had used.

And time passed on. The newspaper agency was established at the post-office, but Titus did not patronise it. He felt that he had principle at stake. He had said he would not; and he would not. But in one thing he was consistent, he would not allow his wife or children to borrow papers of his neighbor Deepwater if he knew it. One evening Titus and his wife took tea, by invitation, with neighbor Deepwater. "I declare," said Titus, on their way home, "Prudence Deepwater beats all creation for cooking, don't she? I'd no idea she was such hand at it. I wonder where she got them fresh strawberries.".

"She preserved them herself," said Nancy "Oh, git out. Them wasn't presarved." "It is the way they were fixed." "Can you do it ?"

"I could if I had her paper." "Her paper." "Yes. She found the receipt in her paper. And that's where she learned how to do most all her nice cooking."

Titus changed the subject of conversation Autumn came, and the Agricultural Fair was held in an adjoing town. Titus went with what he considered a yoke of very fine oxen; but found, when the exhibition came off, that he was far behind the times. New breeds, of which he had known nothing, had been introduced, and his own animals were considered to be unworthy of notice. "Whew!" whistled Titus, as he sat in his kitchen, with a crumpled report of the awarding committee in his hand. A friend had given him the printed document. "John Deepwater has got the premium for sheep.-By hokey. I will bet I'll clip more wool next year than he will." "Because you've got more sheep," suggested Nancy: "But wait and see. The new breed which he has just procured is a very valuable "Bah! Think what it cost him! Fifty dollars for a pair of 'em." "He sold two of his spring lambs for eighty "Git out." "Prudence told me so. John Deepwater saw so many flattering accounts of those sheep in his paper that he knew it would be safe to invest. "Titus referred again to the report. "Hello, I'm blessed if Polly Downer has not got the first premium for her cheesefive dollars." "Yes," said Nancy, "she was telling me all about her cheeses. She found out how to make them in her paper. I tell you, Titus, it is a good thing to have a good newspaper. I wish you-

"Bah! Dont talk to me." And Titus threw down the paper and retired from the kitchen in disgust. The winter passed; and the spring's work was done, and the time for shearing sheep came. Titus Closely sheared one hundred and fifty sheep, and obtained therefrom notquite 600 pounds of wool, being less than an average of four pounds to the sheep. John Deepwater shared seventy sheep, and obtained from them very near 500 pounds of wool, thus giving him a yield of a trifle over eight pounds to each sheep. "Titus, didn't I tell you that John Deepwater's sheep would prove by far the most profitable? It costs no more to keep one of

Let John Deepwater go it if he wants to.-I've got more wool than him." "When I was a little girl, we lived among the hills of Scotland, where my father had a large sheep-farm. "Temperance," was never heard of then, and every day for dinner we had home-made beer, and all drank as much as they wanted; and no friend ever came in without being asked to have some old whinkey. But the end was not After the haying had been done Mr. Deep-water and his wife called over and took tea, and spent the evening, with Titus and Nanev. In the course of conversation Prudence told Nancy many new things which she had learned and all the remark that would be made about and all the remark that would be made about it was, "Folks must have a little fun sometimes." I used to think that getting sick was queer fun; but as I grew to understand that it was the whiskey that made them sick. I would wonder how people would take so much trouble to brew anything that made them sick and cross for a long time after they drank it. of household mysteries, while Mr. Deepwater talked to his host of the great improvements which were being made in agriculture. Titus was interested in spite of himself, though he tried to appear otherwise.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS .- The advertising columns of a local newspaper may always be regarded as infallible mirrors of a town .-The fact has also been established, that not only does advertising and merit open the way to fortune, but those who advertise are more liberal dealers, and inasmuch as they keep themselves and their wares constantly before the public, it is certain evidence that they have what they advertise, and are anxious to obtain customers, whom they will exert themselves to retain by liberal dealing. We can point to our advertising columns, and say to our friends, by all means bestow your patronage upon those whose advertisements there appear, as they will be found to be bonest. iberal-minded, correct and accommodating men of business.

REGISTRATION.

Mr. Alfred O'Bannon having declined to act as registrar for this township, Mr. E. J Williams has received the appointment, and opened his registration books in "Hooff's Building," vesterday. Mr. Williams will sit at this place to-day, and on each Tuesday of the next two weeks, for the registration of qualified voters. Let no one who is entitled to vote neglect this matter. In the language of the Wheeling Register, every man who thinks he is entitled to vote should apply to have his name put on the books, and every man who has ever been stricken off the register should go before the county Board and have his name put on again. They must assert their rights without fear, and maintain them with dignity and spirit. Registration, we believe, is to last for ten days; but let none of our people postpone registration until the last day. Delays are frequently dangerous; and what can be done well to day should never be postponed until to-morrow. We hope this advice will be heeded by every voter, and that in every county and township in the State they will march shoulder to shoulder to the field of duty.

SHENANDOAH VALLEY R. R. Speech of Hon. A. R. Boteler.

On the 18th instant, Hons. A. R. Boteler and Wm. H. Travers repaired to Philadelphia to attend a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Shenandoah Valley Railroad, held for the purpose of fixing upon the route and concluding the contract for the construction of said road. They found three routes competing for the road; all practical, backed by monied corporations, and urged by ardent friends, but the advantages of our route predominated, and the contract was signed, sealed, and delivered for the construction of the road from the Potomac to Salem, on the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad, a distance of 230 miles, in two years, or a forfeit of a half million of dollars.

Mr. Boteler returned on Monday evening of last week, and on Tuesday night, as we learn from the Register, Criswell's Cornet Band, at the request of the citizens, complimented him with a serenade, as an evidence of their gratitude and appreciation of his

The Hon. gentleman soon made his appearance, and in a few brief and appropriate remarks thanked them for their compliment and kindness. He said the County subscription of $250,000 was one great inducement to the adopting of this route as it showed the people were in earnest, and were endeavoring to carry out true reconstruction in uniting together the North and South by bands of iron, though they had been impoverished by war and discouraged in many other ways .-He assured them the work would be commenced at Shepherdstown in less than thirty days, or as soon as the damages could be assessed, and that the road would be completed the cars running to Charlestown by Christmas. and if it was an open winter, to Front Royal, the terminus of the first division, by May 1st, 1871. He had seen the maps and profiles of the entire route and knew the estimated cost of every mile of the road. The first mile from the river would cost $57,000, (this must be undoubtedly a typographical error of the Register, as we are assured by competent authority that $57,000 is about $40,000 in excess of the actual estimated cost.) but the road through the county would cost $197,-000, exclusive of iron, thus leaving fifty-three thousand dollars to lay the track .- That the Shenandoah Valley Rallroad Company have agreed to take the County Bonds of Jefferson at par, and to give for them dollar for dollar, in the stock of their Road. So that, for the temporary loan of its credit, the County will receive $250,000 worth of stock, which, in two or three years, will command a premium, as no one now pretends to doubt that the S V. R. R., will be one of the best paying Railroads upon the Continent.

THE CAMPAIGN OPENED.

The campaign was formally opened at Moorefield, Hardy County, on Wednesday week, the occasion being the meeting of the Democracy of the Tenth Senatorial District to nominate a candidate for the State Senate. Stirring addresses were delivered by our enthusiasm prevailed, and the eagerness dis- sponsibility." played to obtain information on the issues of the campaign by both Democrats and Republicans argues well for the success of our ticket.

Don't fail to REGISTER.

A friend from Gerardstown, who was in-terested in some law business before the Cir-cuit Court of this county, which by law has to be published in the newspapers, wants to know why none of these publications are inserted in the Valley Star. He says "that in the Southern end of the county the Valley Star has more than treble the circulation of both the other county papers together, and wat if persons want information in regard to yet if persons want information in regard to law proceedings, they must seek it through these limited sources."

"We have but to say to our correspondent that the Judge of the Circuit Court has the power under the law, of selecting in which papers these publications shall be made. It is one of those little arrangements made by a radical legislature to throw patronage into the hands of party favorites. We intend to lay the matter however, before Judge Chapline at the next term of the Court, and we greatly mistake the man if he does not apply the proper remedy. Besides the great saving to litigants by publishing Court orders in the Star, the information itself will reach many more people, as we are fully prepared to show.

[Valley Star.

This is another of the iniquitous laws passed by a corrupt and tyrannical Radical legislature, by which an immense weapon is placed in the hands of partisan political judges, for the purpose of crushing out fearless and outspoken Democratic and Conservative newspapers in this State. By it the Spirit of Jefferson is excluded from all benefits deriving from the publication of commissioners notices, etc., in which so many of our people are interested, and the mass of such matter is inserted in the columns of a paper having about one-half the circulation of ours, and which is scarcely read in the South eastern section of the county. We are poor, and need every possible source of revenue that can be honorably obtained, but we cannot afford to barter our independence for the pecuniary favors of a Radical judge. We rely upon the patronage of a generous white man's party for support, and when that fails us we will "go to the wall," rather than sacrifice the freedom of the press for such a price. We trust that the Conservative and Democratic Senators and Delegates elected to the next Legislature, will go there pledged to repeal this obnoxious and vicious law, which stands upon our statutebooks as a premium for political treachery.

THE BERKELEY UNION.

In the last number of the Berkeley Union we find one of the most gross and flagrant misrepresentations of facts, in regard to maters connected with the construction of the Shenandoah Valley Railroad. The writer of the article has either been culpably negligent in keeping the run of the news in the Valley of Virginia, or else has published an intentional untruth ; for if he had read the Spirit of Jefferson, or almost any paper published on the route of this road, he would have been informed that the engineers engaged in the survey of the Shenandoah Valley Railroad met in Luray about a month ago, and prepared the maps, profiles and estimates of the entire road, which were completed and laid before the Board at its meeting in Philadelphia, and upon which data the contract was taken. We hope the editors of the Union will keep themselves better informed in the future, and avoid exposing such utter ignorance of important affairs transpiring almost at their own doors.

THE HAGERSTOWN MAIL.

The editor of the Hagerstown Mail expresses interest in the success of the Shenandoah Valley Railroad, knowing that its completion will open up a large scope of country to the manufacturing trade of Hagerstown, to which other roads have already given an impetus, and which the editor of the Mail has so ably supported in his paper. We gratefully acknowledge the many favors of the Mail, and of the people of Washington county, extended to the Shenandoah Val-

LAND DAMAGES.

We are gratified to learn that the landowners along the line are manifesting the utmost liberality in making terms with the Shenandoah Valley Railroad Company, in the matter of the right of way. There seems to be no doubt that the right of way will be secured in a short time through the county, with the exception of a few cases near Shepherdstown, as we have been informed.

Radicals must meet the income tax issue in the next canvass. The people know there was no necessity for a re-imposition of this infamous exaction, that it was a mere political movement. The Empress addressed the sailors of the fleet while at a Cherbourg, and was nearly overcome by the emotion of concluding. The effort of her visit is said to have been great. The Pall Mall Gazette councels England to make every preparation for war.

THURSDAY'S NEWS. A report is received from London that France had had inquiry made of Prussia upon what conditions peace could be made? to which it was replied, "It is too late."

FRIDAY'S NEWS. The Emperor, with the Prince Napoleon left St. Cloud yesterday for the army. The Empress parted with them at the railway station, and was deeply moved. The health of the Emperor seemed to be good. Count Von Bismarck has made a full statement as to the secret treaty to the German Ambassador to England, and uses some very plain language in regard to the action of France on the subject. The Prussian Government has issued a call for volunteer marines for the defence of the coast, and offers large rewards for the destruction of hostile vessels.

MONDAY'S NEWS. The mass of news items of almost every description from Europe, published to day, is mainly important as indicating in a general way what is about to happen. The condition, force and movements of the rival armies are almost entirely hidden from public knowledge by the most rigid censorship of all the means of communicating news by both Governments; what is actually being done, therefore, can only be conjectured.

Important Railroad Contract. The following, from the Philadelphia En nuirer of the 22d ultimo, gives a synopsis aims and objects of the Shenandoah Valley Railroad Company :-

An important railroad contract was conclu ded at the Girard House, in this city, yester day, by A. K. McClure, counsel for the Cen tral Improvement Company, with the Shen-andoah Valley Railroad Company. The Improvement Company have contracted to construct the Shenaudoah Valley Railcoad; including superstructure, stations, and everything ready for the equipment, from the Potomac river, at or near Shepherdstown, by way of Charlestown, Front Royal, Luray, Fishersville, Lexington and Buchanan, to the Vir ginia and Tennessee Railroad, near Salem, a distance of 233 miles, and to complete the same within two years. The contracting parts is made up of strong railroad men, and they will be able to prosecute this important enterprise with the utmos vigor. The Cumberland Valley Railroal will be promptly extended from Hagerstown to Shepherdstown, a distance of but thirteen piles, and thus connect the Shenandoah Val ley Road with the Cumberland Valley and Pennsylvania Central. It is the purpose of the managers of the Shenandoah Valley to extend their road as speedily as possible through the Clinch and Holsten Valleys, through a country of boundless mineral resources, to Koxville, and connect with the network of railroads radiating from that point, and also extending their line from the Clinch Valley, through Pond Gap, to connect with the Ken tucky system of railroads, thereby making almost an air-line from Memphis to Philadelphia and New York.

ECONOMICAL HOUSEKEEPING .- We have now before us a circular published by the Sea Moss Farine Co., which we advise every one who takes an interest in the food question to read. It describes, concisely, the origin and uses of the edible Sea Moss Farine, and presents an array of scientific and other testimony in its favor which can hardly fail to convince the most skeptical of its paramount claims as an economic, wholesome, digestable, eminently nutritious, and very pleasant addition to the national caste. This at least is the conclusion at which many of the most eminent hotel keepers, artistic cooks, physicians, chemists, merchants, &c., of New York, have arrived, and they state their opinions on the subject over their own signatures, in the pamphlet to which we allude.

TELEGRAPH LINE .- President Borst, of the S. V. R. R. Co., stated in his speech to the people of Page county, on Monday last, that he had made all the necessary arrangements, whilst in Philadelphia, for the erec tion of a line of telegraph upon his road; and that in a few days they would commence the necessary arrangements for it; and that in a very short time we should have communication through it with all parts of the country. This is another evidence of the energy and earnestness with which the company has gone to work. Thus, "the work goes bravely on." [Page Courier.

DISTINGUISHED ARRIVAL .- Ex-President Jefferson Davis came down on the Va. & Tenn. train yesterday morning; took break; fast at the Piedmont hotel, and left on the Southside train for Richmond. Mr. Davis conversed pleasantly with a number of citizens during his brief stay. He is looking very well, and appears to be in good health and spirits. There is not a single radical hound of all the number that A WONDERFUL MICROSCOPE.

Rev. Daniel Wise, D. D., editor of the New York Sunday School Advocate, thus speaks of the celebrated Craig Microscope:

"Its simplicity, cheapness and great magnifying power struck me with surprise. Then I was examining a fly's eye by its aid, and was struck with wender at the skill and power of the Creator which is displayed in its structure. When I saw a statement in an advertisement that the Craig Microscope magnified one hundred diameters, and could be bought for $2.50, I thought it was one of the humbugs of the hour, for I had paid $20 for a microscope not long before. But now I find it to be a really valuable instrument, which I should like to see introduced into the families of our readers in place of the manifold useless toys which please for an hour and is then destroyed. This microscope would both amuse and instruct them, and I advise every boy and girl who wishes to know the wonders which lie in little things, to save his money until he has $2.75, which will pay for the microscope and the postage when sent by mail."

As a holiday gift this microscope is unsurpassed, being ornamental, lustructive, amusing and cheap, and never loses its interest. Agents and dealers supplied on liberal terms. A sample will be mailed, post paid, to any address for $2.75, by E. H. Ross, 313 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo., Read the advertisement in another column.

Perhaps it is not generally known that the much talked of bichina spiralis, or pork worm, was first discovered in America by Dr. R. C. Kendall, of Philadelphia, Pa., with that American instrument known as the Craig Microscope, costing only $2.75, after repeated failures to discover the worm with an imported microscope, costing $55, "of feebler power and less reliable." This fact Dr. Kendall stands ready to prove at any time. The "Craig" Microscope in neat box with full direction is mailed anywhere for $2.75, by E. H. Ross, 313 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo.

THE SHEPHERDSTOWN AND HALLTOWN TURNPIKE .- At a meeting of the stockholders of this Turnpike at Entler's Hotel in Shepherdstown, on Saturday last, Jno. H. Strider was called to the Chair, and Danl. B. Lucas appointed Secretary. It was found that over two-thirds of the stock was represented in the meeting, whereupon those present proceeded to organize and elect officers for the Company. John T. Henkle was elected President, and Messrs. Jacob Melvin, John H. Strider, David Billmyer, J. P. A. Entler, and Isahe Dust were elected directors. Danl. B. Lucas was requested to report to the Board of Supervisors at their next meeting that the necessary amount of stock had been subscribed, and the Company organized.

The turnpike bonds of the county, we are happy to state, are meeting with ready sale at par. An offer has been made, as we are informed, for the whole of them at a few cents below par, but the Board of Commissioners leclined the offer.

HON. WM. H. TRAVERS AND J. B. MC-ELROY. Eso .- Now that the construction o the Shenandoah Valley Railroad has become a fixed fact, we cannot forbear making special mention of the member of the Board of Directors from this place, Hon. Wm. H. Travers, and J. B. McElroy, Esq., Engineer of Section No. 1. From its first inception to the present time, Messrs. Travers and McElroy have been ardent and zealous workers in this great enterprise, never ceasing their exertions for one bour until the acme of their hopes was reached, and their labors crowned with success. To their untiring efforts, as well as those of the other officers of the road, and a few other prominent citizens in our midst, the people of Jefferson county owe a debt of gratitude. The engineering skill of the officers on this work is pronounced to be of the highest character.

THE METHODIST SABBATH SCHOOL PIC-NIC-The picnic held by the Sabbath School of the M. E. Church, South, of this place, on Thursday last, was a very agreeable and intogether with a large number of parents and friends of the children, repaired to the woods settled long ago. of Andrew E. Kennedy, Esq., where they spent a joyous and delightful day until late in the afternoon, when the muttering thunder gave signs of an approaching storm, and the large party were obliged to hurry to their homes a little earlier than they otherwise would have done. Luckily all escaped the storm with the exception of about a dozen, the Superintendent among the number, who were compelled to remain in the woods, and came in an hour or so later, looking more like "drowned rats" than members of a gay picnic

STAMP YOUR RECEIPTS .- The clause of the new tax bill abolishing the tax on receipts, does not go into effect for some months yet. How our spirite stirred with wonder
At the fiery files alight,
While the cannons shook with thunder
All the land where marshaled Might Battled weakness backed by Right! Thoughheroes fought whose patriot names
Shall thrill through every age of time,
While manly love of Right inflames
The heart against the hand of crime,
And prompts the soul to deeds sublime;

Though such deeds were shown our foemen

Truthful and Obedient. "Charles ! Charles !" Clear and sweet as a note struck from a silver bell, the voice rippled over the common. "That's mother," cried one of the boys, and he instantly threw down his bat and picked up his jacket and cap. "Don't go yet!" "Have it out." "Finish this game!" "Try it again!" cried the players in noisy chorus. "I must go-right off-this minute. I told her that I'd come whenever she called

"Make believe you don't hear!" they all exclaimed

"But'I did hear." "She won't know you did." "But I know it, and-"

"Let him go," said a bystander. "You can't do anything with him. He's tied to his mother's apron strings."
"That's so," said Charlie, sand it's what every boy ought to be tied to; and in a hard knot, too.

"But I wouldn't be such a baby as to run the minute she called," said one. "I don't call it babyish to keep one's word to his mother," answered the obedient boy, beautiful light glowing in his blue eyes. call that manly; and the boy that don't keep his word to her will never keep it to any one else-you see if he does!" and he hurried away to his cottage home. Thirty years have passed since those boys played on the common. Charles Gray is now a prosperous business man in a great city, and his mercantile friends say of him, that "his word is as good as his bond." We asked him once how he had acquired such a reputation. "I never broke my word when a boy, no where others had not been equalty so before matter how great the temptation, and the I have been favorably impressed with his character habit formed then has along to me through and enterprise." habit formed then has clung to me through

A Market Colloquy.

Among the people who came to the Philadelphia market the other afternoon, was a citizen of West Jersey. He brought a stock of eggs and butter. In a big coop in the rearmost part of his wagon he had a splendid peacock whose tail spread out beautiful even to gorgeousness, like the trail of a lady's dress. An Irishman passing, he observed the splendid plumage of the bird, and asked its price. "Thee can-have it for fifteen dollars," was the reply of the owner, whose garb indicated him as a member of the Society of Friends. "That's a good price," was the interrogative remark of the Celt, as he smoothed the ample tail of the feathered biped.

"There are plenty of people who will give that for him," was the placid and very true

The Celt surveyed the bird, admired his proportions, but still endeavored to cheapen "Mister," said he, at last, to the grave gen-

PREPARATION OF COMPOUND

EXTRACT BUCHU.

Phe component parts are BUCHU, LONG LEAF. CUBEBS, JUNIPER BERRIES.

MODE OF PREPARATION.

Buchu, in vacuo. Juniper Berries, by distilla-tion, to form a fine gin. Cubebs extracted by dis-placement with spirits obtained from Juniper Berries; very little sugar is used, and a small pro-portion of spirit. It is more palatable than any now in use.

Buchu, as prepared by Druggists, is of a dark color. It is a plant that emits its fragrance; the action of a flame destroys this (its active principle), leaving a dark and glutinous decoction. Mine is the color of ingredients. The Buchu in my preparation predominates; the smallest quantity of the other ingredients are added, to prevent fermentation; upon inspection, it will be found not to be a Tincture, as made in Pharmacopea, nor is it a Surup—and therefore can be used in cases where fever or inflammation exist. In this, you have the fever or inflammation exist. In this, you have the knowledge of the ingredients and the mode of prep-Hoping that you will favor it with a trial, and that
