DALGARN & HAINES, Publishers.

Tuesday Morning, October 18, 1870. GEORGIA CORRESPONDENCE.

CHARLESTOWN, VA.

October 1st, 1870. Messrs. Editors :- For the benefit of my many friends among the readers of your ex-cellent paper, I have concluded to write, giving you a short account of myself and the country in which I am, at present, located. Before attempting, however, to present the status of affairs here, I will notice briefly my trip southward, as there are some among your subscribers who, I flatter myself, will peruse these imperfect lines with interest. Although not a native of Virginia, I resided for some time in your midst, in the neighborhood of Charlestown, and I take this occasion for gratefully acknowledging the hospitality, and kindness which I received from the people of Jefferson. It was there that I found, harmoniously blended, the most beautiful elements that go to form an exalted state of society, refinement, education, social regard, in short, all things which tend to ennoble the mind and elevate the soul. It was there that I formed some of the dearest friendships that have ever blessed my life, and I cling; with passionate of the fabled fairy land. Towering pines fondness to the memory of those two years which I spent in the Shenandoah Valley.

* * * * * * I left Baltimore Thursday, September 15th, taking passage on the steamer Garagossa, Capt. T. A. Hooper, for Savannah. A little tug towed us out of the harbor at exactly 4 o'clock, P. M., and ere long we were gliding smoothly over the rippling waters of the Chesapeake. As the towering spires of the "Monumental City" faded from my view in the evening twilight, I began to realize that I was leaving the boughs; this is regarded as a curiosity, for thank you in terms too strong for the very glorious old state, "Maryland my Maryland;" bananas do not thrive well in Georgia. I high and unexpected honor which you have a momentary pang shot through my heart as visions of home arose befere me, but I was speedily reclaimed from sadness by the announcement of supper which never was, in my case at least, "known to fail" in bringing about reaction under similar circumstances. I was not long in becoming oblivious to all care, past, present, or future, as the delightful odor of the steaming Java permeated my olfactories, and the smoking rolls sent up a flavor that would have pacified Madame Juno herself, in one of her worst fits of Mrs. Caudleism.

The Captain advised us to eat, drink and be merry, as he anticipated the Equinoctial squalls down the coast, and then woe to the unfortunate landsman who had never been to sea; falling under that head myself, I endeavored to profit by his advice and think I succeeded.

There were seven passengers besides your correspondent, all gentlemen, and a merry crowd they were until Sea-Sickness, brooding o'er the deep, like the fabled monster of old ready to pounce upon the unsuspecting traveller who dared to invade its dread dominions, hovered o'er our craft, and shed a gloom from its leaden wings which deepened as the winds grew high despite all efforts to the contrary. The hour waxing late, most of the passengers retired to the cabin to amuse themselves as best they could, but I, more solitary in my tastes, wandered aft to watch the play of the mighty propellers as they dashed up the briny foam. There is a species of little fish or insect inhabiting the ocean called the sea-star which, when thrown up to the surface, emits a sort of prosphorescent glow, twinkling, as they do upon the dark waves, like stars in a midnight sky. The track of the vessel seemed a broad belt of liquid flame growing fainter and fainter, until it was lost to view in the black distance.

Friday morning, and the beautiful sky of vesterday is overcast; murky-looking clouds hang gloomily around the low horizon as if boding evil. At 101 o'clock we passed Cape Henry and rode out upon the broad Atlantic. The threatening clouds now began to pour down their watery contents, angry winds whistled through the rigging with an ominous sound, and the bosom of the ocean looked like a reething cauldron. For the first time did I realize what it was to be "rocked in the cradle of the deep," but I assure you that its soothing influence brought neither "sleep to my eyes nor slumber to my eyelids," for I was too busily engaged, with the rest of the passengers, in emptying the contents of my stomach lover the taf frail. The storm increased in fury until we passed Cape Hatteras, about 12 o'clock in the night. But all its sublime magnificence was wasted on me, for when the deck grew too dangerous for the uncertain foot of the landsman, I retired to my berth, so sick that indifference siezed me and I verely believe that had we gone to the bottom not one single sigh of regret would have escaped. me as we went down. I would advise all who anticipate a trip down the coast, to select any. other time than that of the Autemnal equinox. After we rounded the cape the sea grew gradually calm, and when morning broke over the world of waters, instead of white-crested. angry waves wherling their briny spray over the very deck, long, unbroken swells rolled gently, one after another, to the shore.

The remainder of our voyage was pleasant enough, for the smile which now played over the face of old ocean seemed brighter after the dark frown had been swept away. As I was sitting on deck, Saturday morning, I saw a huge, hog-like fish springing out of the water; soon others came, and in a few shoal of porpoises, and they played round the prow for several hours, darting hither and thither with almost incredible swiftness. A little after dinner, Sunday, we entered the river, and at 4 o'clock, P. M.; of the same day, the gallant "Saragossa" ran up to her wharf at Savannah, after a trip of seventytwo hours. As I was obliged to leave by the early train, which went off at 5 o'clock next morning, I determined to improve the little time I had in looking round the city. Savannah, situated on the river of the same name, about twenty miles from its mouth, (as the geographers say,) has a population variously estimated from 25,000 to 40,000 .-

By the last census it was made 25,000, though Southern outrages .- Balt: Sun. I was told, by reliable men of the place, that at the time it was taken at least one-third of their citizens were at the summer resorts of my?" "Yes, my child; you hurt him very Virginia and the North. The city is hand-much indeed." "Well, then, pa, you ought and at this season of the year presents an appearance of unrivalled beauty. Where each street crosses is a place marked off five hun-JOS. H. EASTERDAY. | street crosses is a place marked off five hun- and tried to choke him."

dred feet square; these are enclosed and filled with trees, whose thick evergreen foliage and rustic seats beneath, make them look very cool and inviting to the weary pedestrian. To one who is accustomed only to the dull monotony ple of the departments, gives highly favorable of brick walls, the appearance of these beautiful squares is refreshing indeed. In the centre of one stands a monument, erected by its impregnability, and says that it cannot be the people of Georgia to the memory of Pu-laski, who nobly fell defending her soil. It tion or starvation are to be apprehended. All is a handsome marble shaft, ornamented on the measures necessary for defence have been one side with an equestrian statue of the head achieved calmly and orderly, amid general roic Pole, representing him at the moment HAWKINSVILLE, PULASKI Co., GA.,)

when he was shot. There is but one thing to mar the beauty of Savannah, and that is quite an important The streets are not macadamized, and the authorities are obliged to sprinkle them thoroughly every morning in order to keep down the dust, which is from six to eight inches deep. In the whole range of simile the most fitting object, unpoetical as it may seem, from which I can draw a comparison, is the peacock; his feathers are so gorgeous that they reflect the very rays of the sun, but his feet are black. You will smile at my comparing a city to a peacock, but the comparison is a true one in this case, I assure you.

Among the many splendid buildings may be mentioned Christ's and St. John's Churches, (Episcopal,) the Presbyterian Church, the Scriven House, the Pulaski House, and Masonic Hall. The latter is one of the finest edifices of the kind in the South. In the southwestern part of the city is a small park, so romantically beautiful that it reminds one bend their pliant stems with every breeze, while water and live oaks, intertwining their wide-spread branches overhead, form a leafy canopy which the rays of a glowing Southern sun never pen'etrate. In the centre stands a fountain, whose many jets, as they curved gracefully in the night air and fell again with subdued musical flash, presented a perfect picture of loveliness. Not far from the fountain is a luxuriant banana tree, with several | vention, recently held in that city : bunches of tempting fruit hanging from its could have lingered long in this enchanting | conferred upon me in calling me to preside place, but admonished by the lateness of the hour, I returned to my lodgings.

At half past five, A. M., the train started, and I was soon whirling rapidly away over the Atlantic and Gulf Railroad, while Savannah fast receded in the gray twilight of, early morn. I saw many large rice plantations on my way, and the grain, as it stood in the stock, reminded me of oats. The land is from all the Southern States assembled upon ditched out and thrown into beds about one the soil of a so-styled Northern State—the hundred feet wide ; these ditches extend clear across the farm and into a larger one running at right angles. Once a year this drain is dammed up and the whole irrigated.

I changed cars at Jesup Junction, fifty miles southwest of Savannah and reached my destination, Eastman, ninety miles to the north on the Macon and Brunswick Railroad, about 2 o'clock, P. M. The pines here seem almost interminable, nearly the whole of southern Georgia is more or less covered with them .-Every three or four miles one sees a steam saw-mill, while along the line of the railroad, vast quantities of lumber are piled up awaiting shipment. The soil is sandy and easy of cultivation; it is thrown up in the spring with a single mule and shovel plow, while our heavy bar-share is unknown. The land, though not so strong as the lime-stone of the Shenandoah Valley, is well adapted to the raising of cotton, corn, sugar, cape, &c. Cotton is the staple production, and thousands of bales are sent down to the coast-markets an-The greatest trouble which the Southern planter has to contend with now is the want of labor. The negroes have become so utterly worthless since they were freed, that they are regarded as a burden on the land. They all insist on "keeping house" and working by the day in order to stop whenever their labors become irksome; this does not suit the farmer, his cotton requires constant care and cultivation, he must have labor upon which he can depend from year to year, and my opinion is that, ere many years, John Chinaman will be trudging over the Rocky Mountains to supply this imperative demand, and then, O ye shricking, naval-twanged philanthropists of the North, woe to your cherished negro. His fate, like that of the Indian, is already written, it appears, unmistakable, in his squalor, in his destitution, in his increasing degradation, in his aversion to labor, in his utter wretched-

Most persons who come here visit only the cities, and they report the South prosperous and flourishing; they have never been through the country and they know nothing of its condition, they get their information from those who are as ignorat of the true state of affairs among the agricultural classes as themselves. To illustrate, I will mention a single instance among the many that have come under my personal observation; I know a gentleman in this vicinity, who owns a plantation of three thousand acres, and cannot command labor enough to keep one hundred in cultivation .-

Is this vast and fertile region, which is capable of supplying the world with cotton, to lie forever prostrate from this sole cause, when the remedy is so near at hand? Will civilization, in its onward march, permit it? Will not southern energy arise, assert itself, and thrust the encumbering African from its soil, as did New England in days gone by? These are questions for time, and time will surely answer them. Yours, &c.. . AMERICUS LABORIS. A CHARACTERISTIC INCIDENT .- Among the many striking incidents of the late flood,

The incident illustrates not only the self sacrificing courage of a generous and brave people, but the traditional friendship of Southern whites to the colored race. THE PRAYER OF JESUS.

BY D. AMBROSE DAVIS. Prayed the Christ, when pale and dying,
On the cruel cross he hung;
When the temple vail was rended,
And the night o'er day was flung;
When the heartless soldier's spear-point
Pierced his anguished bosom through—
"Father, Oh! forgive, forgive them,
For they know not what they do."

Mocking lips his wees derided,
Heads were bowed in scornful pride;
Judas had betrayed his Master;
Peter thrice his Lord denied.

Yet still prayed the Christ unceasing,
While his gasping breath he drew"Father. Oh! forgive, forgive them.
For they know not what they do." Oh, my suffering fellow mortal. On the cross of earthly woe, Bearing chains, and whip and fetter,

Angry words and cruel blow.

Can you pray as did the Savior.

While his gasping breath he drew.

"Father, Oh! forgive, forgive them.

For they know not what they do." Thou, whose bruised and broken spirit,

By the weary way of life,
Can you say for those who crush you,
When your friends are weak and few—
"Father, Oh! forgive, forgive them,
For they know not what they do?" Canst thou know that thy oppressors,

Sinketh 'neath continual strife; Thou, who faintest worn with suffering,

Are indeed the most oppressed; That they need thy kind compassion More, lar than all the rest; And, therefore, thou shouldst pray for them, The they pierce thy vitals through—
"Father, Oh! forgive, forgive them,
"For they know not what they do."

Yes, oh yes, dear blessed martyrs, Let the watchful angels see How you fight the battle Christ-like, With your holy sympathy.

How you pray for your oppressors.

With a zeal forever new—

"Father, Oh! forgive, forgive them.

For they know not what they do."

A Romance in Real Life.

About three gears ago, a good-looking, stalwart young mechanic went from this city to accept an advantageous offer in the town of Salem, Washington county. Being unmarried and rather fond of society, it was not long before James West, as we shall call him, made acquaintances that embraced at least all the . prettiest girls in the place. After bestowing attentions indiscriminately, thereby causing many hearts to beat with jealous rage and envy, he suddenly became more reserved in his demeanor, and from thenceforth devoted himself to but one, a young lady whose personal attractions were only surpassed by her amiable character and varied accomplishments, named Kate-, daughter of a well-to do farmer of Washington county. West had evidently heard the admonition that "faint heart never won fair lady;" for he pressed his suit with an ardor that soon received its reward, and their engagement was announced. Six months after, on a bright sunny day in May, the nuptials were celebrated. After marriage they settled down to house-keeping in a neat little cottage, surrounded with all that a happy young couple could desire, and everything seemed to augur well for a long and tranquil life of domestic bliss;

But in an evil hour their hopes were shadowed. A former acquaintance happening in the village was met by the young husband, od while recalling old times, a social drink was foposed. Half crazed at the sight which met her eyes on that fatal morning, she had fled from the house and taken the cars to Troy, fortunately securing a situation in a dressmaking establishment, where she preferred remaining, rather than be the companion of one who would so imbrute himself.

And now, after being separated for more than a year, they have resumed housekeeping in this city; the husband, on his part, with a firm determination never to do aught that would cause his wife a moment's unhappiness; and she, with a desire to brighten their new home with a love that will make it lasting. and full of confidence that he will be true to his word .- Troy Times.

ROBERT E. LEE.

Our readers will find in another column the announcement of the death of Gen. Rober E. Lee, and the circumstances attending that melancholy event.

It is difficult to know in what terms to announce to our readers so great a loss.

Washington Lee, and a few others, form the small group of Unselfish Great Men. To appreciate Lee in this respect, it is necessary to recur to a few prominent points in his history.

It is, we believe, an authentic and undis puted historical fact that at the commence ment of the late civil war he was offered command of the forces of the United States in the field. When he resigned his position, therefore, to come to Virginia, it was not as an ad venturer seeking employment. He had t weigh against his convictions of duty one o the most magnificent temptations ever held out to a military officer. As civilians, we can scarcely appreciate the struggle which it must have cost him to sever his connection with the service of the United States. His education at West Point, his ideas of subordination and obedience, his devotion to the Union, the esprit de corps of the army, the point of honor not to decline promotion, and the strongest appeal to military ambition ever held out to a cality, "went back" on Barry to save them soldier, were all to be weighed in the scale selves. Is it a Fraud.

A letter from Yazoo City, Mississippi, says that the census takers of that county have public meeting assembled, that they unaffect. It is said that on the 15th day of July last, closed the enumeration without canvassing edly deplore the death of the illustrious de- Moses Cunningham, of Braxton, did address the whole country. Similar instances are receased, and that in testimony of their great to you a letter, stating that he "expected to ported throughout the South, North and West. register the voters of his (Clay) township," It so happens that these omissions occur in strong Democratic cities and counties. The letter referred to asks :

nation in this ray, in order to secure an apportionment of the members of the House of Representatives that will be favorable to the Radical party?"

The above presents a very serious question. The complaint in regard to the incompleteness the census lately taken has been general in Democratic sections. Take the Democratic city of Louisville for instance. Under the late count she falls short nearly 70,000. In the city of New York the decrease is astounding. Northern journals are charging directly that the census is being manipulated to help Radicalism in the coming contest. It is ertainly a very grave matter. The suspicion is not without grounds, and the thing accords exactly with Radical practices hitherto to ecure party success .- Lynchburg News.

- A scene of mourning is reported to have een presented in Richmond Thursday withprecedent in this generation. Business of ll kinds was suspended, the stores and pubic buildings closed, the houses draped in mourning, and the portrait of General Lee hung in many places, wreathed in black .-The bells in all parts of the city were tolled throughout the day, and groups of citizens were standing about the streets talking in subdued tones of the sad event. The City Council convened by order of the Mayor, and the Governor sent a message to the General Assembly announcing the painful intelligence olution was unanimously passed expressing the LOOK CLOSE .- De Haven's Circus mus have been composed of a most unmitigated gang of rascals. It can be proven that the Ticket Agent knowingly and deliberately palmed off at this place and Rocky Mount ap mmense amount of counterfeit money of all denominations. DEATH OF GENERAL R. E. LEE.-Never, since the news of the fatal surrender at Appomattox flashed through our sunny Southern land, has such a general feeling of sadness and gloom prevaded our community, as was evinced on Thursday afternoon last, on the reception of the news of the death of the great Confederate captain ROBERT EDMOND LEE. The church bells were immediately telled, all places of business closed, and business generally suspended until next day. On Saturday morning, in response to a call signed by a number of our leading citizens. a meeting of the people of Charlestown was held at "Lee Hall," and suitable preamble and resolutions adopted, among which was a request, (as Gen. Lee's funeral would take place at 12 M. of that day,) that all business be suspended from 12 to 3 o'clock P. M., and the church bells tolled during the interval, which was heartily accepted to by all classes of our

CONVOCATION .- From the proceedings of the late session of the Valley Convocation of the Episcopal Church, held at Harrisonburg, we extract the following :-

participated in its proceedings: Rev. C. W. Audrews, D. D., Rev. Robert M. Baker, Rev. W. A. Hanson, Rev. Joseph R. Jones, Rev. Thos. S. Marbin, Rev. W. H. Meade, Rev. W. C. Meredith, Rev. H. Suber and Rev. Alex. H. Weddell. Other members were detained in consequence of severe rains.

Resolutions condemning the increased worldliness in the church were unanimously adopted. Dancing was especially condemned as altogether inconsistent with the Christian character and at variance with the Christian profession. Rev. Dr. Andrews was designated to prepare and issue a tract upon this subject. The sum of $1,100 was appropriated to Missionary work within the bounds of the Convocation during the coming year. Measures were taken looking to an increase of mission-

THE OYSTER SEASON .- After a lull in the eyster war between Virginia and Maryland, our dealers generally are beginning to open out their saloons for the season. Mr. John S. Easterday, at the Carter House restaurant, with the assistance of Mr. Sam'l. C. Young, has already fitted up that establishment in complete style, and is prepared to cater to the wants of the oyster-eating public, of which we had abundant proof in the luxurious bivalves which we enjoyed on Friday evening

GRAND TOURNAMENT .- A grand Tournsment and old time Barbecue will be held in Frystt's woods, near Martinsburg, on Saturday next, October 22d. It is the purpose of the managers to make it the grandest affair of the season. A cordial invitation is extended to the people of Jefferson to participate in the H. B. Lewis, Post Office Kabletown, Jefferexercises of the occasion. Let Jefferson send her gallant Knights and fair ladies. Accommodations will be abundant for all.

· AN IMPOSTER .- We have been reliably informed that a certain Jacob Cline, who formerly resided in Middleway, has been going through the county and stating that his house, along the Shenandoah river, had been washed away, and that he lost every thing that was in it, and has been making some very good collections on the above statements. - He has no house or family and never was married. We also learn that he has been bragging about the - good collections he has made.

TRAVEL RESUMED .- The B. & O. R. R. Company, with its accustomed energy, and by the aid of its efficient corps of officers, has made rapid strides in the work of repairs on the Winchester Branch, in the vicinity of Harper's Ferry, and on Sunday last, (but sixteen days from the time of the destruction of the railroad and bridges,) the first train ran through, and all trains resumed their regular trips yesterday.

THE BALL STILL MOVING .- The spirit of improvement, we are pleased to see, is still progressing. Humphrey Keyes, Esq., is having a fine new pavement laid in front of his property on Main street, which, when completed, will not only add to the already fine appearance of his property, but prove a great convenience to passers by.

HARPER'S FERRY RELIEF .- Among the Baltimore contributors to the fund for the relief of the Harper's Ferry sufferers, we find the following whose cards are in the Spirit of Jefferson :- Ridenour, Janney & Co., $10; D. Wile & Son, $10;

RELIGIOUS .- The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered in the Presbyterian Church, of this place on Sabbath morning next, preparatory services commencing on Friday morning previous, at 11 o'clock.

PEW RENTS .- The Pew Rents of the Presbyterian Church are now due. In the absence of Mr. A. W. Cramer, the Pew-holders CLEON MOORE. will pay to Oct. 18, 1870.

AURORA BOREALIS .- Another beautiful display of this Aurora Borealis, or Northern Lights, was witnessed by our citizens on Friday night last.

Harper's Ferry Relief. HARPER'S FERRY, Oct. 15th 1870.

Editors Spirit of Jefferson: DEAR SIRS-Will you please have the kindness to insert in your next issue, under the head of "Donations for the Destitute of Harper's Ferry, the following, to wit:Received by Mrs. J. M. Decaulne, on the 2d inst., from Rev. Father

Kain. On the 2d inst., from W. P. Brady, On the 8th inst., from Messrs. Lee & Walker, Music Publishers, Philadelphia, Same date, from Messrs. Mason & Sons, Cracker Bakers, 128 Pratt street,

On the 12th inst., from Geo. W. Maryer, 13 Lexington Market, Baltimore, a lot of Sausage, On the 14th inst., from Messrs.

Wertsher, Sheire & Co , cor. Pratt and Bowly's Wharf, Baltimore, On the 15th inst., from Messrs. Larrabee & Sons, 20 S. Calvert street, Baltimore. 126.53 By minor collections.

Total, Yours, Respectfully, Mrs. J. M. DECAULNE.

DESERVED PUBLIC MENTION .- A contributor to the Baltimore American, writing from Harper's Ferry, among many other details, notes the following mention of the heroic action, and unselfishness of Mr. James T. Reed :

On this (Shenandoah) street Mr. James T Reed, with great heroism, on horseback, using the second horse when the first broke down saved the life of Mrs. Nunnamaker, a lady over sixty years of age, by snatching her from the door and placing her before him on the horse, and lifting her to the opposite wall of the street, where she was caught by Mr. C. Trail: thence he returned and took Mr. Jas. Steadman, wife and children, Mrs. Becraft and son, and some others, including the son of J. W. Neer, whom he found clinging to a window of the storeroom of Reed & Hopwood. Mr. Reed had no time to get into the counting room, and his papars, very important to him, were in a desk, submerged, and few only of them saved, in a damaged condition.

This gentleman lost everything he was interested in on this street, where his business lay, including the Shenandoah ferry boats, ropes, and fixtures. He seems to have been specially a sufferer by this flood, he having important papers in the possession of Mr. John. G. Cockrell, who lost them all, together with his own, at the house of Mr. Allstadt, his son-in-law, which was destroyed. Mr. Reed's noble sacrifice of his own property to save the lives of citizens merited a better fate. While engaged in this laudable effort the swift waters cut him off from returning to his store.

PETERSON'S MAGAZINE.—The November number of this, the cheapest of the lady's books, is running over with original stories and poetry, to say nothing of engravings, fashion-plates, patterns in embroidery, &c., &c .-A powerful story by Frank Lee Benedict, called "Far From Home," illustrates one of the most touching and beautiful steel plates we have ever seen. The colored fashion-plate is superb. In a word everything in the issue is first-rate. The Prospectus for 1871 is just out, with great inducements to subscribers. The price of "Peterson's" is only two dollars wear to single subscribers, while other magazines of its class are three or four. To clubs the terms are lower still, viz: five copies for $8, or eight copies for $12. Every person getting up either of these clubs will receive the magazine for 1871 gratis, and also a splendid copy right engraving, (24 inches by 20,) "Washington at the Battle of Trenton."-New is the time to get up clubs. 'Specimens of the magazine sent gratis if written for .-Address Chas. J. Peterson, 306 Chesnut street, Philadelphia.

LOST-by the Late High Waters .- A yellow trunk, marked "M. E. K.," and a volice or hand trunk, marked "J. H. B. L.," were lost by the washing away of the house of the late Mr. John H. B. Lewis. Any one finding either or both of them would confer a great favor by informing Mr. William H. T. Lewis, or Mrs. M. E. Lewis, widow of the late J. son county W. Va.

EPISCOPAL APPOINTMENTS,-From the Clarke Courier we learn that Bishop Johns expects to preach at the White Post on the 10th, Millwood on the 11th, Berryville on the 12th and Wickliffe on the 13th of November. He expects to be in Winchester on the 9th and Charlestown on the 13th. The usual collection for the Education society will be

NEW STAMPED ENVELOPES .- The issue of the new stamped envelopes commenced on the Istinetant, under the contract. When the stock of old ones now in possession of postmasters is exhausted, the public will be furnished supplies at reduced rates, and a liberal arrangement will be made for printing business cards on them.

ACCEPTABLE.—Our young friend John B Haines has again laid us under obligations for a fine specimen of smoking and chewing tobacco, of which he has just received a large and select assortment. Johnie has also on hand a fine assortment of cigars, pipes, snuffs, stationery, notions, &c., to which the attention of the public is directed.

CORRECTION .- In the report of the proceedings of the Supervisors Court, published a week or two since, the announcement that Mr. Gustave Brown of this place, had been granted license to "retail spiritous liquors" should have been simply "license to retail ale."

Mi Dear Editors: Sum men are born grate, git grate after they are born, sum have greatness hove upon them and sum aint troubled with neither.

But (mi dear phello) the object in writing this epistol is not this, but to inform you that i shall let loose about the middle ov Oktober, 1870, "JOSH BILLINGS FARMERS ALLMA NAX FOR 1871." No family who keeps a two hoss carriage should be without this Allmanax. Az aushunt Knower, phull of phaith, slip the pure and innocent duv from his Ark, so doth i let slip this Allmanax, and hope it wont come back. All good housewifes will find in this Allmanax, how to train up their husbands in the way they should go, and they wont depart from it, and also how tew make a lively slap jax. To the weary wonderer this Allmanax will be a gide board, showing the nearest cut to the next town, and to the sorry, a soda fountain ov gimnastic delight.

This Allmanax gives the biography, etimology, syntax; and prosidy ov bugs, beasts, and little cod fishes, and tells us, with the fondness ov a step parent, the right time to trade oph a dog. In konklushun, it gives me grate plezzure ew remark, That kussed are lobsters and milk for supper, for they hav no bowells ov mercy, nor mercy for bowells. With great flexibility of karacter, I am your

GEO. W. HAINES, Trustee. PLANTATION BITTERS AS AN APPETIZER. Want of appetite is a sure sign that the stomach is out of order. All persons in perfect health relish their food, and it may be regarded as a rule to which there are no exceptions, that individuals who are never hungry can not be entirely well. To eat without enjoyment is a penance, and sustenance taken into thestomach against the inclination does not nourish the system as it ought to do. The bestknown remedy for a distaste or disinclination for food is PLANTATION BITTERS. 'A wineglassful taken half an hour before breakfast, or supper anickens the flow of the gastic dinner, juice, and thereby provokes hunger-for the palate sympathizes with the stomach. Nor cau the appetite thus created be called a false appetite, for it is the legitimate consequence of a new energy imparted to the digestive organs by this wholesome medicated stimulant. "Sea Mose FARINE will prove a great blessing to the poor. It is so cheap that it is within the reach of all. It is by far the most nutritious and delightful preparation that has ever come to our notice.

POLE RAISING After the adjournment of the Township meeting at the Court House on Saturday evening last, the crowd proceeded under the inspiring notes of the Martinsburg Brass Band to Strinesville, where a Poll was raised in honor of the nomination of A. J. Thomas, Esq., as the conservative candidate for the Sheriffalty. Stirring and eloquent speeches were made by H. B. Miller, L. A. Luce and John B. Hoge, Esqs., and the most husiastic feeling prevailed. Hurra, for more of these glorious old fashioned political assemblages of the people.-They are striking terror into the bearts of the radicals, and they see plainly the hand writing on the wall. "You have been weighed in the balance and found wanting."- Valley Star

The Young Widow.

A census taker, going his rounds, stopped at an elegant brick dwelling house, the exact locality of which is no business of ours. He was received by a stiff, well-dressed lady, who could be well recognized as a widow of years' standing.

On learning the mission of her visitor, the lady invited him to take a seat in the hall .-Having arranged herself in a working position, he inquired for the number of persons in the family of the lady. "Eight, sir, replied the lady, "including

"Very well-your age, madam?" "My age, sir," replied the lady, with a piercing, dignified look. "I conceive it's none of your business what my age might be. You are inquisitive, sir." "The law compels me, madam, to take the age of every person in the ward; it is my duty to make the inquiry." "Well, if the law compels you to ask, I presume it compels me to answer. I am between thirty and forty-" "I presume that means thirty-five?" "No, sir; it means no such thing-I am only thirty-three years of age." "Very well, madam," putting down the figures, "just as you say. Now for the ages of the children, commencing with the youngest, if you please," "Josephine, my youngest, is ten years of

"Josephine-pretty name-ten." "Minerva was twelve last week." "Minerva-captivating-twelve." "Cleopatra Elvira has just turned fifteen."

"Cleopotra Elvira-charming fifteen," "Angelina is eighteen, sir; just eighteen." "My oldest and only married daughter, sir, Anna Sophia, is a little over twenty-five." "Twenty-five, did you say?"

"Yes, sir. Is there anything remarkable in her being of that age?"it not remarkable that you should be her and enterprise mother when you were only eight years of

About that time the census taker was observed running out of the house-why we do not know. It was the last time he ever pres-

By many it has been held as a theory that the Yuma desert was once an ocean bed. At intervals pools of salt water have stood for a while in the midst of the surrounding waste of sand, disappearing to rise in the same or other localities. A short time since one of these saline lakes disappeared, and a party of icans at once proceeded to the spot, and found imbedded in the sands the wreck of a large vessel. Nearly one-third of the forward part of the ship or bark is plainly visible. The stump of the bowsprit remains, and portions of the timbers of teak are perfect. The wreck is forty miles north of the San Bernardino and Fort Yuma road, and thirty miles west of Los Palmos, a well-dnown watering place on the desert. The road across, the desert has been traveled for more than one hundred years. The history of the ill-fated vessel can, of course never be known, but the discovery of its decaying timbers in the midst of what has long been a desert, will furnish sa-wans with food for discussion. vans with food for discussion. PREPARATION OF COMPOUND

EXTRACT BUCHU.

The component park are BUCHU, LONG LEAF, CUBEBS, JUMPER BERRIES.

MODE OF PREPARATION.

Buchu, in vacuo. Juniper Berries, by distilla-tion, to form a fine gin. Cubebs extracted by dis-placement with spirits obtained from Juniper, Berries; very little sugar is used, and a small pro-portion of spirit. It is more palatable than any now in use.

Buchu, as prepared by Druggists, is of a dark color. It is a plant that emits its fragrance; the action of a fiame destroys this (its active principle), leaving a dark and glutinous decoction. Mine is the color of ingredients. The Buchu in my preparation predominates; the smallest quantity of the other ingredients are added, to prevent fermentation; upon inspection, it will be found not to be a Tincture, as made in Pharmacopæa, nor is it a Surup—and therefore can be used in cases where fever or infiammation exist. In this; you have the knowledge of the ingredients and the mode of prepknowledge of the ingredients and the mode of prep
