In casting about us for a remedy for this alarming destitution, it has occurred to us, that a supply of water might, by an arrangement with the Rail Road Company and the proprietor of the fountain, be obtained from Baker's Spring, by means of iron pipes hard stong one of the water tracks of the Railway. The distance is but two miles, and the water might be raised by machinery at a very trivial expense compared with the magnitude of the object. The improvement would be one which would soon repay the coitizens of the town; and none which has ever been suggested, we venture to say, would in its consequences add more to our comfort and accurrity. Let us have an interchange of opinion on the subject. At all events, let us not much longer or rest in supineness and inactivity, whilst we have under a depriration of great, and danger so awful.

A Marriage Certificate .- An Trish soldier once waited upon his command-ing officer, with what he termed a very serums complaint. 'Another man, he' macried to his own wife, whom he accused of being no better than she should be and called her many names besides; which he would be ashamed to mention to his honor. Well my good sellow, answered the officer, have you any proof that you are legally married?" 'Your honor, I have the best proof in the world.' Here the soldier took off his hat, and exhibited a cut skull, saying, 'Does your honor think I'd be after taking the same abuse from any body but a wife?'

We learn that the President of the United States has appointed Henry D. Gilpin, Esq. (at present District attorney for the Lastern District attorney for the Lastern District of Pennsylvania) Governor of the Territory of Michigan—in the stead of Geo. Porter, Esq. deceased.

Aphorism.—A proud man and an humble man will both admit that 'humility is a virtue.' Nothing is more common than a similarity of sentiment in opposite characters. I dare say a fox and a goose, if they could speak, would concur in saying that poultry ought to be well fed.

Latin Quotation .- A rustic who had been put to law expense by a brutal landlord, complained of it to the village schoolmaster. 'Never mind him,' said the pedagogue, 'he is known to be sui generis.' 'I know he did sue I,' replied Hodge, but I never heard he wur generous in all my life."

A lady being asked who she considered to be the best man in his majesty's dominions, replied that she thought Mr. Macadam ought to be, as his whole time was employed in mending his ways.

BLANK NOTES

FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE.

THE POLITICIAN,

Will contain with quarto pages of closely printed matter, at the low price of FIFTY CENTS A YEAR,

The object of this publication is to collect in the smallest possible compass all statistical and others facts connected with the administration of the general government, and to publish them at so extremely cheap a rate that it may be in the power of every man, however poor, to make himself acquainted with the course of the administration—to ascertain whether the constitution, which can alone secure to him the enjoyment of liberty and property, be violated by those who are sworn to support it—and that the people who contribute to the expenses of the government, may know how the public money is distributed, whether in wasteful extravagance and corrupt expenditure, or in the regular and corrupt expenditure, or in the regular and economical disbursements that become a re ublican administration-

The more extensive diffusion of correct political information is the great object of the proposed publication; and those who have taken any active part in public affairs will ac knowledge the vast importance of the neces-sity of adopting some such means for its suc-cessful accomplishment. In no other way can the opponents of the administration hope to make an impression upon that great class of voters, who, either from inability to pay the make an impression upon that great class of voters, who, either from inability to pay the subscription pairs is as endinary assumption, are without any certain knowledge of public affairs, or in consequence of seeing only the journals in the interest of the government, are deceived by the artful misrepresentations, the sophistical arguments, and brazen impudence of assertion, in which they abound. The circulation of the larger newspapers is necessarily, limited to those who have much leisure for reading, and ample means to pay for the gratification and improvement furnished in such rich and healthful abundance. The great cheapness of the parameters, will not useful enable every man, who desires to do so, to possess himself of all the leading occurrences and most important facts connected with the political history of the federal administration, but will also place it in the power of gentlemen of intalligence and property, who justly appreciate the immense importance of the struggle now going on between the friends and supporters of the present administration, to subscribe for large numbers for gratuitous distribution among those who still support the subgrary measures of the President. A single number of the "Politician" placed in the hands of one who will-promise to read it, and then hand it over to another, may be the means of opening the minds of many to a knowledge of the serious dangers which threaten to crush, under the ruins of the constitution, the rights and liberties of the people threaten to crush, under the ruins of the constitution, the rights and liberties of the peop The value and influence of such a publication as the Polyvician, must depend on the accuracy of its atatements, and the cande and fairness of the arguments admitted into its common. Its object being the dissemination of truth, it can only be obtained by accuracy of its readers. dissemination of truth, it can only be obtained by securing the confidence of its readers.—
The blunders and intrigues of the present administration are glaring enough; and those who believe that the public mind requires only to be properly enlightened, to turn in disgust from the melancholy spectacle of political corruption exhibited in almost every department of the government, will be content to spread before the people a simple statement of the truth.
