The following letter, from the Presi the following letter, from the President's private Secretary, which we copy from the Globe, speaks for itself. It discloses the conduct of the President, in interfering in the elections of members of Congress in Tennessee.—Major Donelson, it appears from his own statement, was first applied to for documents against a candidate for Congress friendly to Judge White: but documents against a candidate for Congress, friendly to Judge White; but knowing the object, and the handle which would be made of his conduct if he complied with the request, he utterly refused. But a second application, it seems, being made directly to the President, the "greatest and best," who never interferes in elections, ordered the documents to be hunted up and sent on, forthwith.—Ball. At Lawrenceburgh, Rising Sun, Aurora, Madison, Warsaw, and in fact at every town and settlement on the river, as the boat passed by, the inhabitants, en masse, flocked to the banks of the river, and huzzaed, waving their hats, and women and children waving their handkerchiefs—where they had a cannon, they fired it; where they had none, they fired their rifles and muskets, and where they had neither, they raised flags, &c.—every demonstration raised flags, &c.—every demonstration of joy and love for the honest General nifested. At Madison, Indi he was taken ashore by the citize and the boat prevented from proces ing on—taken up into town by five six hundred inhabitants, who had be for hours on the shore awaiting his rival. On the way up the same manifestations of respect were exhibited at all the towns and from all the farm houses, as on the trip down.

THE MOBS, ABOLITION, &c.

We continue, (and hope that we have now concluded,) an insertion of the papers that pertain to the late riots; but it is probable that a new batch of matter will arise out of certain trials that are now going on in Harford county, being removed thither from Baltimore, in relation to the affairs of the ank of Maryland, &c.

day last; and business is resuming its natural and peaceful order.

Many reflections on the late disasters, offer themselves. But the time is not present to publish them. And, perhaps, we shall refrain from doing it altogether. The result of the riots, however will probably be in the establishment of a civic guard—strong enough to "look down" a resistance to the laws.—Niles's Register.

Bank of Maryland.—It is generally supposed that the civil and criminal cases in Harford County Court, against Mr. E. Poultney, Ellicott & Co., will put the public in possession of authoritative evidence on the subject of the failure of the Bank of Maryland.

Mr. Johnson left here yesterday, to take part in the civil cases as Counsel of the Trustees, and took with him Mr. Agg, of Washington, one of the best reporters in this country, to make a full report of the trial. It is to be hoped that, at last, the public will see where the funds of the Bank are.

The trouble and expense of having the trial faithfully reported, is any thing but an indication of unwillingness, on the part of Mr. Johnson, to have the whole truth, connected with this unfortunate Institution, disclosed to the pub-

It has been suggested, as a means of guarding against riots, that laws should be passed requiring all damages occasioned by mobs to be assessed upon the community in which they occur.—Such, we believe, is the case in England, and most other European countries. The enactment would be still more efficacious, by providing that the money necessary for the indemnification of such losses should be raised by a poll-tax. This would make it as much for the interest of the poorer classes to prevent riots, as of the rich:

I really am incapable of describing the scene that was presented to our view on approaching Cincinnati yester terday noon. We learn from the Whig, that the individual lately Lynched at Farmville, Prince Edward, has been discovered to be entirely innocent of the charges for which he suffered. This is another which he suffered. This is another evidence of the necessity of restraining popular vengeance against suspected individuals, until full proof of guilt be adduced. If the operations of dangerous persons can be traced with sufficient accuracy to authorize their arrest, surely time can be taken to bring them to a regular trial, and if the proof be then insufficient, committees of vigilance will be able to trace their further operations, and counteract their infamous designs.

It is somewhat singular that the name of the sufferer in this case has been withheld.—[Richmond Compiler.

General Samuel Smith, in Baltimore, is said to have been spoken to by some one in reference to the mob engaged in their work of destruction, and who were called his "fellow-citizen." The old hero indignantly replied, "I acknowledge no man my fellow citizen who will tear down his neighbor's house."

A late number of the Emancipator calls upon the auxiliary societies to fur-uich additional funds for the support of travelling agents to distribute the 200,-900 copies of the Abolition papers which are now printed monthly!

What shall be done with Abolition Papers?—It is known that they are sent to Clergymen extensively in the Southern States. What shall be done with them? Send them all back to those from whom they come. Such is the course which we would recommend, without presuming to dictate to others. THE POST OFFICE. FREEDOM OF DISCUSSION.

We re-publish to-day a correspondence, which during our temporary absence, was passed over in these columns—that of the Deputy Postmaster of this city, with Mr. Tappen and others. We do so, not because now it can be matter of news to any one, but in order to place it on your deputs to a proper or the place it on your deputs of the place it of the p but in order to place it on record, to-gether with our protest against the nen may differ in opinion as to the propriety or expediency, or even human-ity, of circulating, under existing cir-cumstances, such papers as those of the Abolitionists; and we certainly think their circulation objectionable on all these heads—there is, and will be, no difference of opinion about the danger and disgrace of permitting any official person to assume such a responsibility as that voluntarily incurred by Mi

It is an extraordinary and lamentable fact that the high handed proceedings of the Postmaster General and his deputy are applauded by the whole party press, with only a single exception, so far as we see—the Evening Post. That paper in the strongest and most manly tone, reprobates these violations of the rights of freemen to discuss all topics, subject only to the restraints of law, and of the common right of all to the benefits and immunities of the public mails.

More extraordinary yet is the fact, More extraordinary yet is the fact, that Virginia, so clamorous about State Rights—and South Carolina, ready to nullify federal authority when conflicting with her interests—both recommend and applaud a course of proceeding, which would subject the press of America to the censorship of a Postmaster, or a Postmaster's Deputy, and, according to the caprice of any subordinate, put shackles on the free mind; and all this, let it be again and again repeated, in favor and in behalf of Slavery against Freedom.

The New York Mercantile Adver The New York Mercantile Advertiser says:—"Among the importation at this port, within a few days, we observe Outs from Turks Island, Whit Beans from Trieste, Flour from England, and Corn from N. VANDALISM.

We see, in the Baltimore papers, a notice among other articles pilfered at the time his house was in the hands of the rioters, was the it is sickening to the heart, to think of such a theft as this. Nothing, it seems, was too sacred for the rapacity of the mob. Family Bibles and articles of furniture endeared to all the household by a thousand delightful associations—many an heir-loom; handed down, perhaps, from remote ancestors—portraits, calling up, by their faithful resemblance, the images of departed relatives and friends, far more dear to those friends than were the Lares and Fenates (the household delites) to the ancient Romans—works of art, which had felt the impress of the pencil or the chisel in classic impress of the pencil or the chisel in classic italy—the marble columns of Reverdy John-son's portico, for instance—these were all alike unable to stay the hand of the depredators.

To the Fartners.

Of Jefferson and Frederick Countries.

We return our sinears acknowledgments for the liberal encouragement we have herefore received at the Bloomery Mills, and now take the opportunity to inform them, that in addition to the Bloomery Mills, we have purchased a mill on Bullakin, (formerly the property of John Haines,) which has for some years been occupied by Mr. Hugh Conway, and are tow prepared to receive Wheat, and all kinds of grain into either of said Mills. We will, at all times, pay the highest the market will justify for Wheat, delivered in either of the Mills; and from our experience is millers, we do not besitate in saying that we are prepared to do business on such terms as cannot fail to give general satisfaction to farmers; and we invite all those who have grain to dispose of to give us a call before making a disposition of the same. To kny of our customers that prefer grinding, liberal advances will be made, and strict attention at all times paid to their business. We have employed, at the Bloomery Mills, a miller who is attentive and understands his business, and B. Ford will be very frequently in attendance for the purpose of attending to the wishes of the customers of that mill, and any orders left with the milier, its his absence, will receive due attention: We will also have an attentive miller at the Bullskin Mill, and farmers may roly on having their work done, and business attended to, in the very best manner and at the shortest donke, with this determination, on our part, we leave the hasse to a generous public who have heretofore encouraged us and left us no reason to doubt a continuance of success.

NEAR HARPERS-FERRY.

THE undersigned is now ready to receive atyle. He will give one barret of Flour for every 300 pounds of merchantable Whest, and will stand the inspection in any market to which it may be sent. From his experience as a miller, and the excellent order of the mill at present, he feels great confidence in being able to produce first-rate Flour. He will buy Wheat for cash, at fair prices; and those who wish to get rid of the trouble of sending their Flour to market, can be accommodated by him at the lowest possible rate.

During the Plaister season, he will always be ready to grind that article, and will generally keep a supply on hand for the accommodation of his customers and farmers generally.

I saw Content the other day, Bit by her spinning wheel, And Pleaty in the wooden tray Of wheat and Indian meal; Health also at a table sat, Dining upon a ham;

A cabbago and a clam.

Behind the cart to play.

Delight was chasing butterflice,
With Laughter and with Joy;
Affection gazed with ardent eyes,
Upon the sweetemploy.

Beauty was watering a Bower
Beside the cottage door,
And Pleasure spoke about a tour
To Mr. Staple's Store.

Industry bid good-morrow, and
Invited me to lea;
But Jolly bid me stay away,
Unless I came with Glee.

Patience sat in an easy chair,
Unravelling a skein,
While Mirth, with requish eye and air,
Would Laugle it again.

Benevolence had built a tower
Of pudding, bread and meat,
And hid Compassion take it o'er
To Want across the street.

But I was gratified to see Easy, and free and fulr, With linuceness upon his k Old Sätisfaction there, She took me by the hand and led Me down a vista green, Vhere Fun and Frolic antics played, Two ancient oaks between.

But best of all it was to find,

That Love, the day before,
The fopling Dress had kicked behind
And toss'd him out of door.

As she was winding thread, he came With grimace and a smirk, And, asked her if she'd change her a And leave her dirty work.

But he had common sense, and she Itad strength of maiden limb; She bid him from the house to fice, And thus assisted him.

QUAKERS.

Among the very numerous testimo-nals in favor of the exemplary class of rofessing Christians, whose usual de-gnation stands at the head of this article, there are none more to the pur-pose than that given by the honorable Prentiss Mellen, who states that during his connection with the courts of his country, for a term of 40 years, he has never known but one instance of a nal action. Supposing that some may have the curiosity to know what that case was, I relate the following anecdote, which was recently related to the writer on a visit to Portland, it probably being the case alluded to by the honorable Judge. There is a worthy, wealthy merchant at Portland whom I call friend W. a powerful athletic man, withal rather quick and passionate, though tolerably well tempered by a good degree of Quaker moderation.—It so happened one day that he felt himself very much insulted in his own store, by an overbearing, intruding, and much less worthy neighbor. Says friend W., "Friend James, as thee appears to have done thy business, perhaps thee had better leave my store, lest some tools fall upon thy head," (it being a hardware store.) Friend James not being disposed to leave, but continuing his abuse. friend W. took continuing his abuse, friend W. took him by the collar and the pantaloons, and in an instant landed him in the middle of the street. Friend W. was middle of the street. Friend W. was accordingly arrested for the breach of the peace, and on being placed at the bar of the court, he was asked whether he was guilty. "Yea," was the ready reply, "I gave him a little push out of my store." Friend W. wasaccordingly fined sixteen shillings. "Cheap enough," said he, "it is only about one shilling per foot for the distance I sent him."—Portsmouth Journal.

Advice to Married Ladies.—Always wear your wedding ring, for therein lies more virtue than is usually imagined. If you are ruffled unawares, assaulted with improper thoughts, or tempted in any kind against your duty, cast your eyes upon it, and call to mind who gave it to you, where it was received, and what passed at the solemn time. time.

True Friendship.—"The water that flows from a spring does not congeal in winter; and those sentiments of friendship which flow from the heart, cannot be frozen by adversity."

Great Minds.—"One of the surest marks of a great mind is the confidence with which it knows how to inspire others. The frailties of great men form the comfort and delight of fools."

An editor in Pennsylvania, in ad dressing a cotemporary, uses the fol-

owing language:

"You are too lazy to work, too proud to beg, too cowardly to steal, and the only method you could adopt to procure a livelihood, was, to become a political prostitute—you are a mean-spimeal prostitute—you are a mean rited poltroon, whom it would dis-ter honor dog to bark at."

vor me with a call, comfortable. The best visuels and luxuries the market affords shall be produced for my tack; or a stands his business; and I shall not fail to keep a sepply of hay and cots. The market at this time, for all supplies in my line, is known to be very high. I shall, however, for the present, make no change in my usual low charges.

At the commencement, it was my intention to keep literally a "Temperance Hotel;" but for considerations not necessary now to mention, I have kept and shall continue to keep the best liquors the country affords.—Nevertheless, I hereby pledge myself to the public that there shall be no intemperance in a house over which I have control. I have heretolors done business for ready money only, and by doing so, have found reciprocity of interest between my patrons and myself. I keep no book at my bar at this time, nor shall laver keep one. Of course no credit will be expected; certainly none will be given. Under all the circumstances before stated, I ask and solicit a continuance of public patronage.
