Nothing has occurred since you last exercised the important right o loosing your rulers, to discourage you opes of successful resistance. Mr. Van Buren, bas advanced steadily and firmly, to the fulfilment of his pledge; he has faithfully pursued the course and followed in the footstep of his predecessor. What a tremendous rabuke to the dealbelieve them to be impelled by as high and patriotic sentiments, as actuate either the Whice or the Conservatives. But the obdurate tenseity with which they cling to men proves that their affections and prejudices are too strong for reason. We ask this party to pause a moment, and enquire how these men have gained their affections, and why is confidence still extended to them? If you look back upon a few years, the mind is filled with wonder at the promises of reform. the earnest solemn promises by which we have been beguited. Promises running mountain high; words; words-empty words; all, as events show, vain, delusive promises!

The farewell address of Gen. Jackson, pronounced one short year ago, is yet sounding to our cars; he then said "my feeble efforts to improve the currency, have not been with out success." You all shouted in his praise, and confided in his wisdom. A few weeks Intervened, the bubble bursted-and that voice which had just been raised in praise of the State bank system; which had fust proclaimed its strength and capacity for usefulness, was again heard; but now in angry denunciations. Again you followed him. His opinions, hi passions, have been powerfully impressed upon you, as soon as their direction has been ascertained. We have not space to recount the promises-and the fatal dhappointments We ask you to look to your present condition we ask you to behold the hopeless languor which pervades all classes, all professions,--Are these the promised fruits of the experiments, made by the administration which you so blindly support? Is this the prosperity which was promised us? We ask you to exsmine the Clerks' offices of your Courts, for evidence of the actual condition of the people. There will be greater revolutions in individual fortunes than have ever before been witnessed.

There is an only remedy, and that a slow and difficult remedy for all this evil. Powe must change bands; men. who have prothemselves incapable and unworthy, must be driven from high places; and the destinies of the nation entrusted to other and safer hands. The country must be brought back to the old tried and approved system, which was overturned and prostrated by the midness and folly of party. We must return to institutions which were founded by Washington and the men of his day-Institutions recommended and approved by Madison and the-whole reunder-which the nation has prospered enty all propositives for compromise that may be half a century.

Let every man exert himself to bring his neighbours and friends to the polls. Every departnterested, in defending and preserving our valuable institutions from the assaults of ruthless experimenters.

Thus speaks the Virginia Times, in reference to Fauruler county, and thus speak we line for line and word for word, in reference to the approaching contest for members to the Legislature in this county.

4Ve will add that the Whige of Jefferson should hear in mind that one of the important duties of the next Legiclature will be the elecela yeared an Expunger, a contemper of chartered rights, an "Experimenter," an advocate of the various "bard-money," "better currency" humbugs,-or one of your own friends, a Whig, who would aid in rescuing the country from the quagmire into which it has become swamped, and in restoring it to its former high state of prosperity? Let you votes at the polls give the answer. .

Hanover County, Va. Feb. 1st, 1838.

We do certify, in the spring of 1832, at Major Thomas Duawell's, we saw a trial of two miles, and then a single mule, with Bayard and Pamunky the former was considered a first rate two mile horse; Paminky beat Hayard the two miles, running in the rear for 13 miles; in half an hour after, they ran a mile, and Pamunky best Bayard a few feet. We beliered Pamunky to be a better horse at that time than Hayard; the two miles were run in 3m. 57s, and the mile in 1m. 55s. We believe. Pamunky was injured in that trial, and in a few weeks after broke down.

PAMUNKY, when a yearling was lame for three or four months, in, I think, his right fore most I supplied it was from a kick of a mule colt that it was in the same pasture with him—You may remember that, when first put in training, after any severe exercise, that leg puffed, and talways thought it was only so the injury I have mentioned. It was in that leg he broke down. I always abouted whether he would not fail there—a circumstance which made me more willing to part with him before his first race—and I preferred as fling him to you who knew all the circumstances.
