

Right Secured—Right of Imposition!

RICHMOND, VA., JULY 13, 1830.
Will be pleased to understand that I have received your order for a bottle of the ointment from Sept. 1st, 1830, and will be ready to send it to you by the 1st of August. Dr. Judd's in the commencement of his treatment for me, and I have not had time to go to the office of the Post Office, and have not exerted myself on the 26th June, improvement in the same, and taken leave.

N. SHEPHERD.

or aware that a certain number of men would make it, and knowing that the difficulties would render a trial of it short, he destroyed the ointment fell into these considerate hands, who have since then destroyed the vehicles which have long failed the skill of men.

Wellings' eye descriptions.

and others of the day.

—Gentlemen—Thomas, pastificator tumors in women's breasts which cause in ulcerous cancers.

for whom some people know by the descriptions, and Remedies of every description or disease.

all kinds.

In this complaint, the the Ointment, must keep the the best remedies for Burns and the pain and draws the fire out.

N. SHEPHERD.

—Shepherd's Patent Ointment, prepared for a few hours, will be sold at Shepherd's Patent Ointment, for women's diseases, and cuts, bites, scalds, and burns, it is to be sold at a low price, so highly do I think of it. So highly do I think of it, that it has greatly been increased in my opinion that Mr. Hermon has been a manufacturer of this Ointment for years, especially in Boston.

S. SAMUEL DIVINGS, 59 North Street, Baltimore.

Oct. 5th, 1837.

used for horses' sore backs with 8c.

—Believing it right for the patients suffering from injuries, to make an effectual remedy, I am informed the son of mine has thrown down and and received a very serious injury in his knee, but entirely lost the use of limb, so that he is now unable to stand.

J. C. FRENCH,
No. 39 South Street, Baltimore.

Best Bites or Children I have expected.

From Dr. Wm. H.

Mr. C. Hermon to be the proprietor of this Ointment for years and in Maryland, and the Ointment has been in much repute.

It has been in my own family while living in and during my residence in this city.

WAUGH.

Book Room, Mulberry St., No. 26, 1835.

H. H. PHILLIPS, Baltimore, had heard much of now—Shepherd's P. S. O., which before the publica—propietor, and of news to our persons with whom we are familiar, and the Ointment is sold at a price of one dollar.

J. A. BENZT.

Counting-Room, Lombard Street,

Fredrick City, Md., proprietor

P. S. O.

John T. Tuckerman, member of Congress.

WASHINGTON, JAN. 22d, 1839.

EWTON, Fifecky City, Md., has been in my office for several days to see the good effect of the Ointment injected by Dr. Judd,

Dr. H. H. Phillips, Dr. Judd,

VIRGINIA FREE PRESS.

GRAND JOURNAL OF THE STATE.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 10, 1838.

NORTH CAROLINA ELECTION.—One fourth of the State has been heard from, which is also copied from the "Washington Globe," a hitherto scarcely a doubt that the State is now decisively Whig. Gov. DUDLEY (Whig) will be re-elected by a large majority over Mr. BANCROFT (Van Buren candidate), and it is believed there will be a large Whig majority in the next State Legislature; if so, the election of Mr. Brown, is secured, and also one in the place of Mr. Strange, if he should resign as a member. The elections close today. In our next we shall have a great party full return, and show conclusively that North Carolina, too, has seen the error of her ways since the last Presidential election.

P. S.—Since the above was in type we learn through the Democratic papers of Tuesday, that Mr. Strange has no intention of resigning, and that the election of U. S. Senator in place of Mr. Brown, will not take place till Sept. 10. The Whigs can hardly be expected to let him remain except—the Whigs of the Union nothing but the advantage of a good example.

ARRIVAL OF THE GREAT WESTERN.—The "Great Western" left New York on Sunday afternoon, being but ten days and twelve hours on her passage. She brought one hundred and thirty passengers, and a full cargo of freight.

The Great Western (says the "Pittsburgh Courier") made her trials on the Atlantic, and each of them in about fourteen days. The regularity with which she made her voyages is not less impressive than the uneventful expedition which she gives to the transmission of intelligence. Henceforth we shall look for the arrival of the mail from Europe with the same interest of awaiting it on the day it is due, as that of any other mail in the country, and when it is manifested that it will despatch more than its usual steam packets to run a daily line between the two countries, it will hardly be thought extravagant to suppose, that in less than ten years she will have a mail daily from Liverpool—averse winds and unavoidable accidents may occasionally retard her a day or two, but still we have no doubt that there will be as much certainty and regularity as in any of the mails of the country.

The steamer Royal William left New York the 2nd inst., Sunday 1st, to meet crew, & supplies at Fort Leavenworth, took on 30 passengers, and a great number of letters.

GEN. HARRISON.—We are gratified to see from the Louisville Journal that General Harrison, in his speech at the celebration of the Fourth of July, at Massey, Ohio, fully declared his determination to abide the decision of the National Convention which is to assemble at Harrisburg in 1839. He accompanied this declaration with high and appropriate compliments to the tried patriotism and irreconcileable talents of HENRY CLAY and DODD'S WISCONSIN.

In a list of U. S. Army appointments just published in the Army and Navy Chronicle, we observe that Capt. LEONID J. H. STAPLES, of the Third Artillery, came up to Adj't to Gen. Easton, & was appointed First Lieutenant in the Corps of Artographical Engineers.

The Rev. JASPER AYERS, B. D., of South Carolina, has been appointed Chaplain and Professor of Ethics and Moral Philosophy in the U. S. Military Academy at West Point.

The Hon. A. D. BROWN, agent of the members of Congress from Maine, who has been sick for some months, died at Boston, Thursday evening, a few days after his birthday. Mr. Brown was a Whig, and was esteemed by a very small majority over his Van Buren opponent.

THE UNION.—The Union paper, published at Cincinnati, has announced the retirement of Commodore JOHN ROBINSON, a distinguished commander in the U. S. Navy. The Inquirer states that he expired on Wednesday evening, the 1st instant, about nine o'clock, at the Naval Asylum, near the Schuylkill, in the 74th year of his age, after a long and painful illness, which began with a tertian ague, and terminated with a fit of apoplexy.

The case involving the legality of the proceedings of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, came up in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania a few weeks ago. The court decided that they had jurisdiction in the case, and was set down for trial in November next.

The National Intelligencer of Monday last:

The remains of this distinguished Londoner in Regent's were to be interred this evening, but were removed to the tomb in Chancery Lane, and buried in the ground, Philadelphia.

THE DREDGE.—Replaced every second of the morning by persons who have been absent from South Carolina at this time a great loss, for the weight of his name and great personal influence would most probably save that State from falling into the hands of the Van Buren party—to

irreconcileably opposed. [Balt. Chron.]

The case involving the legality of the proceedings of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, came up in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania a few weeks ago. The court decided that they had jurisdiction in the case, and was set down for trial in November next.

Yours, very truly, —W. W.

From the Washington Globe.

Sir: Should you, or the readers of the Globe, wish to flee the head and dust of this city, take the Railroad Cars for Baltimore at 6 o'clock in the morning, get out at the Relay House, nine miles this side of Baltimore, and wait the arrival of the cars for Winchester, Va., which will be along in five or ten minutes, get into them, and in fifteen minutes you will be at Ellicott's Mills, where, at 8 o'clock in the morning you can take a good breakfast, if you are hungry, but only tolerable if you are not. The cars will then take you to Harper's Ferry by 2 o'clock p. m., where passengers stop for dinner. Be careful to smother the hotel, kept by Samuel Gibson, about fifty yards from where the cars stop, and you will get a good dinner, whether you are hungry or not. The landlord is from the old country, and there are some who would not stop with him on that account. If there be such without you, you get clear of them the better. It would be best for the whole country if they would take the Indian trail up the Potowmack for the "Far West," and never stop until they arrive at the wigwam of the native Black Hawk and Foxes there.

If the day is cool, stay at Harper's Ferry twenty-four hours, and visit the United States Army, and the natural curiosities around about. It is well worth a trip from here there to see them, much less a stay of twenty-four hours when you are there.

Colonel LEECH, the Superintendent of the Armory, will show you all.

It is worth while to go to Harper's Ferry, for the "Great Expander" on the shelf would be glory enough for me.

John Quincy Adams.—The Emancipation, East, West, North, and South, and its influence upon the hearts of his countrymen.

The National Intelligencer of Monday last:

The remains of this distinguished Londoner in Regent's were to be interred this evening, but were removed to the tomb in Chancery Lane, and buried in the ground, Philadelphia.

THE DREDGE.—Replaced every second of the morning by persons who have been absent from South Carolina at this time a great loss, for the weight of his name and great personal influence would most probably save that State from falling into the hands of the Van Buren party—to

irreconcileably opposed. [Balt. Chron.]

The case involving the legality of the proceedings of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, came up in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania a few weeks ago. The court decided that they had jurisdiction in the case, and was set down for trial in November next.

Yours, very truly, —W. W.

From the Washington Globe.

Sir: Should you, or the readers of the Globe, wish to flee the head and dust of this city, take the Railroad Cars for Baltimore at 6 o'clock in the morning, get out at the Relay House, nine miles this side of Baltimore, and wait the arrival of the cars for Winchester, Va., which will be along in five or ten minutes, get into them, and in fifteen minutes you will be at Ellicott's Mills, where, at 8 o'clock in the morning you can take a good breakfast, if you are hungry, but only tolerable if you are not. The cars will then take you to Harper's Ferry by 2 o'clock p. m., where passengers stop for dinner. Be careful to smother the hotel, kept by Samuel Gibson, about fifty yards from where the cars stop, and you will get a good dinner, whether you are hungry or not. The landlord is from the old country, and there are some who would not stop with him on that account. If there be such without you, you get clear of them the better. It would be best for the whole country if they would take the Indian trail up the Potowmack for the "Far West," and never stop until they arrive at the wigwam of the native Black Hawk and Foxes there.

If the day is cool, stay at Harper's Ferry twenty-four hours, and visit the United States Army, and the natural curiosities around about. It is well worth a trip from here there to see them, much less a stay of twenty-four hours when you are there.

Colonel LEECH, the Superintendent of the Armory, will show you all.

It is worth while to go to Harper's Ferry, for the "Great Expander" on the shelf would be glory enough for me.

John Quincy Adams.—The Emancipation, East, West, North, and South, and its influence upon the hearts of his countrymen.

The National Intelligencer of Monday last:

The remains of this distinguished Londoner in Regent's were to be interred this evening, but were removed to the tomb in Chancery Lane, and buried in the ground, Philadelphia.

THE DREDGE.—Replaced every second of the morning by persons who have been absent from South Carolina at this time a great loss, for the weight of his name and great personal influence would most probably save that State from falling into the hands of the Van Buren party—to

irreconcileably opposed. [Balt. Chron.]

The case involving the legality of the proceedings of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, came up in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania a few weeks ago. The court decided that they had jurisdiction in the case, and was set down for trial in November next.

Yours, very truly, —W. W.

From the Washington Globe.

Sir: Should you, or the readers of the Globe, wish to flee the head and dust of this city, take the Railroad Cars for Baltimore at 6 o'clock in the morning, get out at the Relay House, nine miles this side of Baltimore, and wait the arrival of the cars for Winchester, Va., which will be along in five or ten minutes, get into them, and in fifteen minutes you will be at Ellicott's Mills, where, at 8 o'clock in the morning you can take a good breakfast, if you are hungry, but only tolerable if you are not. The cars will then take you to Harper's Ferry by 2 o'clock p. m., where passengers stop for dinner. Be careful to smother the hotel, kept by Samuel Gibson, about fifty yards from where the cars stop, and you will get a good dinner, whether you are hungry or not. The landlord is from the old country, and there are some who would not stop with him on that account. If there be such without you, you get clear of them the better. It would be best for the whole country if they would take the Indian trail up the Potowmack for the "Far West," and never stop until they arrive at the wigwam of the native Black Hawk and Foxes there.

If the day is cool, stay at Harper's Ferry twenty-four hours, and visit the United States Army, and the natural curiosities around about. It is well worth a trip from here there to see them, much less a stay of twenty-four hours when you are there.

Colonel LEECH, the Superintendent of the Armory, will show you all.

It is worth while to go to Harper's Ferry, for the "Great Expander" on the shelf would be glory enough for me.

John Quincy Adams.—The Emancipation, East, West, North, and South, and its influence upon the hearts of his countrymen.

The National Intelligencer of Monday last:

The remains of this distinguished Londoner in Regent's were to be interred this evening, but were removed to the tomb in Chancery Lane, and buried in the ground, Philadelphia.

THE DREDGE.—Replaced every second of the morning by persons who have been absent from South Carolina at this time a great loss, for the weight of his name and great personal influence would most probably save that State from falling into the hands of the Van Buren party—to

irreconcileably opposed. [Balt. Chron.]

The case involving the legality of the proceedings of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, came up in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania a few weeks ago. The court decided that they had jurisdiction in the case, and was set down for trial in November next.

Yours, very truly, —W. W.

From the Washington Globe.

Sir: Should you, or the readers of the Globe, wish to flee the head and dust of this city, take the Railroad Cars for Baltimore at 6 o'clock in the morning, get out at the Relay House, nine miles this side of Baltimore, and wait the arrival of the cars for Winchester, Va., which will be along in five or ten minutes, get into them, and in fifteen minutes you will be at Ellicott's Mills, where, at 8 o'clock in the morning you can take a good breakfast, if you are hungry, but only tolerable if you are not. The cars will then take you to Harper's Ferry by 2 o'clock p. m., where passengers stop for dinner. Be careful to smother the hotel, kept by Samuel Gibson, about fifty yards from where the cars stop, and you will get a good dinner, whether you are hungry or not. The landlord is from the old country, and there are some who would not stop with him on that account. If there be such without you, you get clear of them the better. It would be best for the whole country if they would take the Indian trail up the Potowmack for the "Far West," and never stop until they arrive at the wigwam of the native Black Hawk and Foxes there.

If the day is cool, stay at Harper's Ferry twenty-four hours, and visit the United States Army, and the natural curiosities around about. It is well worth a trip from here there to see them, much less a stay of twenty-four hours when you are there.

Colonel LEECH, the Superintendent of the Armory, will show you all.

It is worth while to go to Harper's Ferry, for the "Great Expander" on the shelf would be glory enough for me.

John Quincy Adams.—The Emancipation, East, West, North, and South, and its influence upon the hearts of his countrymen.

The National Intelligencer of Monday last:

The remains of this distinguished Londoner in Regent's were to be interred this evening, but were removed to the tomb in Chancery Lane, and buried in the ground, Philadelphia.

THE DREDGE.—Replaced every second of the morning by persons who have been absent from South Carolina at this time a great loss, for the weight of his name and great personal influence would most probably save that State from falling into the hands of the Van Buren party—to

irreconcileably opposed. [Balt. Chron.]

The case involving the legality of the proceedings of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, came up in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania a few weeks ago. The court decided that they had jurisdiction in the case, and was set down for trial in November next.

Yours, very truly, —W. W.

From the Washington Globe.

Sir: Should you, or the readers of the Globe, wish to flee the head and dust of this city, take the Railroad Cars for Baltimore at 6 o'clock in the morning, get out at the Relay House, nine miles this side of Baltimore, and wait the arrival of the cars for Winchester, Va., which will be along in five or ten minutes, get into them, and in fifteen minutes you will be at Ellicott's Mills, where, at 8 o'clock in the morning you can take a good breakfast, if you are hungry, but only tolerable if you are not. The cars will then take you to Harper's Ferry by 2 o'clock p. m., where passengers stop for dinner. Be careful to smother the hotel, kept by Samuel Gibson, about fifty yards from where the cars stop, and you will get a good dinner, whether you are hungry or not. The landlord is from the old country, and there are some who would not stop with him on that account. If there be such without you, you get clear of them the better. It would be best for the whole country if they would take the Indian trail up the Potowmack for the "Far West," and never stop until they arrive at the wigwam of the native Black Hawk and Foxes there.

If the day is cool, stay at Harper's Ferry twenty-four hours, and visit the United States Army, and the natural curiosities around about. It is well worth a trip from here there to see them, much less a stay of twenty-four hours when you are there.

Colonel LEECH, the Superintendent of the Armory, will show you all.

It is worth while to go to Harper's Ferry, for the "Great Expander" on the shelf would be glory enough for me.

John Quincy Adams.—The Emancipation, East, West, North, and South, and its influence upon the hearts of his countrymen.

The National Intelligencer of Monday last:

The remains of this distinguished Londoner in Regent's were to be interred this evening, but were removed to the tomb in Chancery Lane, and buried in the ground, Philadelphia.

THE DREDGE.—Replaced every second of the morning by persons who have been absent from South Carolina at this time a great loss, for the weight of his name and great personal influence would most probably save that State from falling into the hands of the Van Buren party—to

irreconcileably opposed. [Balt. Chron.]

The case involving the legality of the proceedings of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, came up in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania a few weeks ago. The court decided that they had jurisdiction in the case, and was set down for trial in November next.

Yours, very truly, —W. W.

From the Washington Globe.

Sir: Should you, or the readers of the Globe, wish to flee the head and dust of this city, take the Railroad Cars for Baltimore at 6 o'clock in the morning, get out at the Relay House, nine miles this side of Baltimore, and wait the arrival of the cars for Winchester, Va., which will be along in five or ten minutes, get into them, and in fifteen minutes you will be at Ellicott's Mills, where, at 8 o'clock in the morning you can take a good breakfast, if you are hungry, but only tolerable if you are not. The cars will then take you to Harper's Ferry by 2 o'clock p. m., where passengers stop for dinner. Be careful to smother the hotel, kept by Samuel Gibson, about fifty yards from where the cars stop, and you will get a good dinner, whether you are hungry or not. The landlord is from the old country, and there are some who would not stop with him on that account. If there be such without you, you get clear of them the better. It would be best for the whole country if they would take the Indian trail up the Potowmack for the "Far West," and never stop until they arrive at the wigwam of the native Black Hawk and Foxes there.

If the day is cool, stay at Harper's Ferry twenty-four hours, and visit the United States Army, and the natural curiosities around about. It is well worth a trip from here there to see them, much less a stay of twenty-four hours when you are there.

Colonel LEECH, the Superintendent of the Armory, will show you all.

It is worth while to go to Harper's Ferry, for the "Great Expander" on the shelf would be glory enough for me.

John Quincy Adams.—The Emancipation, East, West, North, and South, and its influence upon the hearts of his countrymen.

The National Intelligencer of Monday last:

The remains of this distinguished Londoner in Regent's were to be interred this evening, but were removed to the tomb in Chancery Lane, and buried in the ground, Philadelphia.

THE DREDGE.—Replaced every second of the morning by persons who have been absent from South Carolina at this time a great loss, for the weight of his name and great personal influence would most probably save that State from falling into the hands of the Van Buren party—to

irreconcileably opposed. [Balt. Chron.]

The case involving the legality of the proceedings of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, came up in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania a few weeks ago. The court decided that they had jurisdiction in the case, and was set down for trial in November next.

Yours, very truly, —W. W.

From

NADA TROUBLES.

Santa Anna's Statute of Tuesday.
—Macomb, commander-in-Chief of the United States Army, arrived on Saturday from the North, despatched the Northern frontier, to learn from him that the men on the Northern line have fled; and though a feeling really exists among a great proportion of our citizens favorable to the Federal Government, as well as at least for our laws and a desire of the amicable re-union between our own and the Government, will prevent any internal relations of the ance of Gen. M. within a district where his services were rendered important during the war—undoubtedly produced a very influence; and we have no clear effect will result from his western frontier.

MEXICO.

The route of the Mexican portuguese, is causing considerable distress to the merchants of New York, who have been cut off by it from Mexico and Liberia, trade, practised with their ports, has been questioned, to blockade a nation without the actual soldiers, driven by stress of were taken possession of Corpus bore goods and supplies are forwarded to the interior. In case of this intelligence, an execution forwarded to the President in taking possession of the Mexicans will, to some decrease the blockade of their ports.

The Texans appear to be exasperated at this renewal of hostilities, and talk loudly of marching on. Public meetings had been held at Brazoria and Matagorda, and resolutions were passed to raise a force, to be forthwith put in action against the Mexican Government not be adverse to such a measure. The feelings of have been greatly irritated by the committee on the frontier and the Texan

“War West.”—We learn from his papers that, the steamboat returned to that city from the Yellow Stone River, after more than three months.—

back a valuable cargo of furs, about one thousand packs, 60,000. By this arrival autumn is received that the ceased its ravages among the up the Yellow Stone. The are said to be extinct, and Blackfeet have fallen victims, that more than 25,000 of the disease, and that it would part of the Pacific Ocean.

Fires in Baltimore.—At half o'clock last night, two fires at the same time, one of which in a large old frame building, the Chemical works on Columbia, which was entirely consumed, broke out in the rear of a Plowman street, which was under nearly one-half of the in which it originated was among which was the extenand agricultural implement shelving, &c., &c.,

Cheneau and candle factory and of Peter Boyd, together with dwellings and shops, both of brick. Part of the property but to what amount we have

Batt. Whig.

New York Daily Express.

Minister of the passing events of perhaps the following facts as alleged in locomotion, may be reliable.

man arrived here in the Royal camer, left Trieste on the 15th after passing through Italy, France and England, and the European capitals, and several complete days at the different mentioned above, on his arrival at Liverpool, the arrived, reached New York

July, making 30 days in all, describing 12 days of departures:

FOREIGN.

The Steam Ship Great Western, which arrived at New York on Sunday last, brought London and Liverpool papers to the 20th and Bristol papers to the 21st July inclusive.

The political news is not of much importance, though great anxiety has existed in relation to the course which the King of Belgium may adopt in regard to the twenty-four articles about to be forced upon him by the great powers of Europe.

The affairs of the East, too, have threatened to give trouble to Europe, in consequence of Mohamed Ali, the enterprising and enlightened Pacha of Egypt, having refused to pay any further tribute to the Sultan, and at the same time given notice to the Consul of the European Powers of his determination to assert his independence of the Porte. By the last accounts, however, it would appear that the present declaration of the European Powers, that they should feel themselves compelled to enforce the authority of the Porte, had induced the Pacha to change his determination, and pay the arrears of tribute due to the Sultan.

The affair of Canala necessarily occupies much public attention in England, and, judging from the debate in Parliament and the public press generally, the

Government and the public must be satisfied with the result of the negotiations.

The affair of the Great Western, which arrived at New York on Sunday last, brought London and Liverpool papers to the 20th and Bristol papers to the 21st July inclusive.

We have just (says the Baltimore Sun) the notice of Isa Hill's death in the "Alma House" at Hockessin, Maryland, July 20, 1838.

The political news is not of much importance, though great anxiety has existed in relation to the course which the King of Belgium may adopt in regard to the twenty-four articles about to be forced upon him by the great powers of Europe.

The affairs of the East, too, have threatened to give trouble to Europe, in consequence of Mohamed Ali, the enterprising and enlightened Pacha of Egypt, having refused to pay any further tribute to the Sultan, and at the same time given notice to the Consul of the European Powers of his determination to assert his independence of the Porte. By the last accounts, however, it would appear that the present declaration of the European Powers, that they should feel themselves compelled to enforce the authority of the Porte, had induced the Pacha to change his determination, and pay the arrears of tribute due to the Sultan.

The affair of Canala necessarily occupies much public attention in England, and, judging from the debate in Parliament and the public press generally, the

Government and the public must

be satisfied with the result of the negotiations.

The affair of the Great Western, which arrived at New York on Sunday last, brought London and Liverpool papers to the 20th and Bristol papers to the 21st July inclusive.

We have just (says the Baltimore Sun) the notice of Isa Hill's death in the "Alma House" at Hockessin, Maryland, July 20, 1838.

The political news is not of much importance, though great anxiety has existed in relation to the course which the King of Belgium may adopt in regard to the twenty-four articles about to be forced upon him by the great powers of Europe.

The affairs of the East, too, have threatened to give trouble to Europe, in consequence of Mohamed Ali, the enterprising and enlightened Pacha of Egypt, having refused to pay any further tribute to the Sultan, and at the same time given notice to the Consul of the European Powers of his determination to assert his independence of the Porte. By the last accounts, however, it would appear that the present declaration of the European Powers, that they should feel themselves compelled to enforce the authority of the Porte, had induced the Pacha to change his determination, and pay the arrears of tribute due to the Sultan.

The affair of Canala necessarily occupies much public attention in England, and, judging from the debate in Parliament and the public press generally, the

Government and the public must

be satisfied with the result of the negotiations.

The affair of the Great Western, which arrived at New York on Sunday last, brought London and Liverpool papers to the 20th and Bristol papers to the 21st July inclusive.

We have just (says the Baltimore Sun) the notice of Isa Hill's death in the "Alma House" at Hockessin, Maryland, July 20, 1838.

The political news is not of much importance, though great anxiety has existed in relation to the course which the King of Belgium may adopt in regard to the twenty-four articles about to be forced upon him by the great powers of Europe.

The affairs of the East, too, have threatened to give trouble to Europe, in consequence of Mohamed Ali, the enterprising and enlightened Pacha of Egypt, having refused to pay any further tribute to the Sultan, and at the same time given notice to the Consul of the European Powers of his determination to assert his independence of the Porte. By the last accounts, however, it would appear that the present declaration of the European Powers, that they should feel themselves compelled to enforce the authority of the Porte, had induced the Pacha to change his determination, and pay the arrears of tribute due to the Sultan.

The affair of Canala necessarily occupies much public attention in England, and, judging from the debate in Parliament and the public press generally, the

Government and the public must

be satisfied with the result of the negotiations.

The affair of the Great Western, which arrived at New York on Sunday last, brought London and Liverpool papers to the 20th and Bristol papers to the 21st July inclusive.

We have just (says the Baltimore Sun) the notice of Isa Hill's death in the "Alma House" at Hockessin, Maryland, July 20, 1838.

The political news is not of much importance, though great anxiety has existed in relation to the course which the King of Belgium may adopt in regard to the twenty-four articles about to be forced upon him by the great powers of Europe.

The affairs of the East, too, have threatened to give trouble to Europe, in consequence of Mohamed Ali, the enterprising and enlightened Pacha of Egypt, having refused to pay any further tribute to the Sultan, and at the same time given notice to the Consul of the European Powers of his determination to assert his independence of the Porte. By the last accounts, however, it would appear that the present declaration of the European Powers, that they should feel themselves compelled to enforce the authority of the Porte, had induced the Pacha to change his determination, and pay the arrears of tribute due to the Sultan.

The affair of Canala necessarily occupies much public attention in England, and, judging from the debate in Parliament and the public press generally, the

Government and the public must

be satisfied with the result of the negotiations.

The affair of the Great Western, which arrived at New York on Sunday last, brought London and Liverpool papers to the 20th and Bristol papers to the 21st July inclusive.

We have just (says the Baltimore Sun) the notice of Isa Hill's death in the "Alma House" at Hockessin, Maryland, July 20, 1838.

The political news is not of much importance, though great anxiety has existed in relation to the course which the King of Belgium may adopt in regard to the twenty-four articles about to be forced upon him by the great powers of Europe.

The affairs of the East, too, have threatened to give trouble to Europe, in consequence of Mohamed Ali, the enterprising and enlightened Pacha of Egypt, having refused to pay any further tribute to the Sultan, and at the same time given notice to the Consul of the European Powers of his determination to assert his independence of the Porte. By the last accounts, however, it would appear that the present declaration of the European Powers, that they should feel themselves compelled to enforce the authority of the Porte, had induced the Pacha to change his determination, and pay the arrears of tribute due to the Sultan.

The affair of Canala necessarily occupies much public attention in England, and, judging from the debate in Parliament and the public press generally, the

Government and the public must

be satisfied with the result of the negotiations.

The affair of the Great Western, which arrived at New York on Sunday last, brought London and Liverpool papers to the 20th and Bristol papers to the 21st July inclusive.

We have just (says the Baltimore Sun) the notice of Isa Hill's death in the "Alma House" at Hockessin, Maryland, July 20, 1838.

The political news is not of much importance, though great anxiety has existed in relation to the course which the King of Belgium may adopt in regard to the twenty-four articles about to be forced upon him by the great powers of Europe.

The affairs of the East, too, have threatened to give trouble to Europe, in consequence of Mohamed Ali, the enterprising and enlightened Pacha of Egypt, having refused to pay any further tribute to the Sultan, and at the same time given notice to the Consul of the European Powers of his determination to assert his independence of the Porte. By the last accounts, however, it would appear that the present declaration of the European Powers, that they should feel themselves compelled to enforce the authority of the Porte, had induced the Pacha to change his determination, and pay the arrears of tribute due to the Sultan.

The affair of Canala necessarily occupies much public attention in England, and, judging from the debate in Parliament and the public press generally, the

Government and the public must

be satisfied with the result of the negotiations.

The affair of the Great Western, which arrived at New York on Sunday last, brought London and Liverpool papers to the 20th and Bristol papers to the 21st July inclusive.

We have just (says the Baltimore Sun) the notice of Isa Hill's death in the "Alma House" at Hockessin, Maryland, July 20, 1838.

The political news is not of much importance, though great anxiety has existed in relation to the course which the King of Belgium may adopt in regard to the twenty-four articles about to be forced upon him by the great powers of Europe.

The affairs of the East, too, have threatened to give trouble to Europe, in consequence of Mohamed Ali, the enterprising and enlightened Pacha of Egypt, having refused to pay any further tribute to the Sultan, and at the same time given notice to the Consul of the European Powers of his determination to assert his independence of the Porte. By the last accounts, however, it would appear that the present declaration of the European Powers, that they should feel themselves compelled to enforce the authority of the Porte, had induced the Pacha to change his determination, and pay the arrears of tribute due to the Sultan.

The affair of Canala necessarily occupies much public attention in England, and, judging from the debate in Parliament and the public press generally, the

Government and the public must

be satisfied with the result of the negotiations.

The affair of the Great Western, which arrived

THE FREE PRESS

IS PUBLISHED WEEKLY AT

TWO DOLLARS & FIFTY CENTS

PAID IN ADVANCE.

Advertisers will be charged half price, but Two Dollars will be paid as payment in full, if paid entirely in advance. Whenever payment is deferred beyond the expiration of the year, interest will be charged.

Subscriptions for six months, $1.25, to be paid invariably in advance.

ADVERTISING.

The terms of advertising are, for a square or less, for three insertions—larger ones in the same space will continue 25 cents per square. All advertisements not ordered for a specific time, will be continued until paid, and charged accordingly.

FOR THE FREE PRESS:

EL RIO DEL NORTE.

The following lines, translated from the Spanish, embody a most beautiful and graphic delineation of this grand and majestic stream—El Rio del Norte, in a central district of the Rocky Mountains between their two great chains, in a region, too, of perpetual snow, it flows Southern direction, falling from precipice to precipice, and from 10,000 to 12,000 feet, until it reaches the tide water of the Gulf of Mexico.

This great river, very contrary to what would seem probable, is susceptible of navigation no higher than the head of the Rio Grande. The Great lakes upon the rugged mountains that the bold and skillful have

Yours &c. T. G.

EL RIO DEL NORTE.

From the canyon rock.

Then, to the north, the water flows, somewhere earth with her seven wells.

The dark, sombre, wavy hills w ay spring is in the clouds, the stream rages to move and roar like a

W. The snow peaks fall the mossy boulders in the tide water of the Gulf of Mexico.

This effect of such a tangled, in fact the streams they are intended to impede. Such deferts and obstructions, while they produce difficulties, also bring consolation, and distress, and confidence to attempt which are among the characteristics and the most effectual aid of genius."

Negro Man Wanted.

AN ELDER to hire until Christmas next, BLACK MAN. For one who can be recommended for honesty, induc-tive, &c., a liberal price will be given.

SAMUEL HILL.

July 26, 1838.

JEFFERSON LAND For Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale that beautiful and spacious land in the county of Jefferson, on the Shenandoah River, called "Eldon," containing about

400 Acres of prime Land, a large part of which is in timber—having a commodious dwelling, &c. &c.

Also, about sixty acres of woodland on the south-east side of the Shenandoah, nearly opposite to the subscriber.

Apply to T. T. DAWSON, Charles Town, or to the subscriber in Alexandria, D. C.

LUCINDA M. WALTON.

March 8, 1838.

MORE NEW GOODS, And Cheaper than Ever!

THE undersigned has just received from Bal-more a large supply of

Entirely New Goods,

Which makes his assortment very complete—

He has now a variety of rich and rare articles, for both gentlemen and ladies, all of which will be sold extremely low. He invites all who are fond of ornament, and cheap articles, to call and view his store.

GROCERIES,

To which he invites the attention of those who may want hardware supplies.

GE. F. CHAMBERLIN,

Charleston, June 29, 1838.

Judicious Supply of Summer GOODS.

JOHN H. SHAWSHIRE informs his friends and the public generally, that he has received a regular supply of GOODS, which, with his former assortment, makes it complete.

Persons who desire to purchase Goods at any cost—the pride that must have a fine house of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of what the writers above quoted would do well to do for their respective members more distinctly than for each article, stand in a different room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of
what the writers above quoted would do well to
do for their respective members more distinctly
than for each article, stand in a different
room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is
thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say
about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of
what the writers above quoted would do well to
do for their respective members more distinctly
than for each article, stand in a different
room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is
thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say
about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of
what the writers above quoted would do well to
do for their respective members more distinctly
than for each article, stand in a different
room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is
thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say
about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of
what the writers above quoted would do well to
do for their respective members more distinctly
than for each article, stand in a different
room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is
thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say
about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of
what the writers above quoted would do well to
do for their respective members more distinctly
than for each article, stand in a different
room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is
thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say
about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of
what the writers above quoted would do well to
do for their respective members more distinctly
than for each article, stand in a different
room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is
thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say
about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of
what the writers above quoted would do well to
do for their respective members more distinctly
than for each article, stand in a different
room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is
thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say
about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of
what the writers above quoted would do well to
do for their respective members more distinctly
than for each article, stand in a different
room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is
thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say
about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of
what the writers above quoted would do well to
do for their respective members more distinctly
than for each article, stand in a different
room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is
thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say
about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of
what the writers above quoted would do well to
do for their respective members more distinctly
than for each article, stand in a different
room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is
thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say
about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of
what the writers above quoted would do well to
do for their respective members more distinctly
than for each article, stand in a different
room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is
thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say
about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of
what the writers above quoted would do well to
do for their respective members more distinctly
than for each article, stand in a different
room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is
thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say
about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of
what the writers above quoted would do well to
do for their respective members more distinctly
than for each article, stand in a different
room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is
thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say
about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of
what the writers above quoted would do well to
do for their respective members more distinctly
than for each article, stand in a different
room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is
thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say
about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of
what the writers above quoted would do well to
do for their respective members more distinctly
than for each article, stand in a different
room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is
thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say
about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of
what the writers above quoted would do well to
do for their respective members more distinctly
than for each article, stand in a different
room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is
thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say
about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of
what the writers above quoted would do well to
do for their respective members more distinctly
than for each article, stand in a different
room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is
thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say
about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-

nutes when the means are inadequate—the pane-

try, for each article, stand in a different

room, the foreign opposite views!—Personal upon various respects, the Peony
captain has the following just and severe remarks:—There are so many varieties of
what the writers above quoted would do well to
do for their respective members more distinctly
than for each article, stand in a different
room. The reprehensible and vicious property, the first, that most feel, which is
thinking of what Mrs. Grundy will say
about pride that must keep up appearance at
any cost—the pride that must have a fine house
of cloth, an expensive table, costly ame-