But, on hearing to much said about the Sanative, against it and for it, we were induced, from motives of curiosity merely, to make trial of its reputed virtues upon a number of our most hopeless patients, and we now deem it our bounden duty (even at the expense of our self-interest) publicly to acknowledge its efficacy in curring not only consumption, but other fearful malatics, which we have heretofore believed to be incurable. Our contempt for the discoverer of this surable. Our contempt for the discoverer of this edification as at one awallowed up in our utter as mishment at these unexpected results; and, as mends for our abuse of him, we do frankly confess to the world, that we believe him a philanthropis who does honor to the profession and to our courtry which gave him birth.
