Every thing is in complete repair. The situation is believed to he one of the very best for a country tavern and wagon stand between Winchester and Stann attached, together with a stable for 14 horses now building. A garden is connected; and should the tenant be a mechanic, I will also rent with the property an excellent new stone shop, very suitable for a wagon maker or corpenter. As the turnnike now being made will pass directly by the door of the tavern, additional inducements are presented to a sober and orderly man (and none other will I have) to take charge of this house. JUDGE WHITE'S SPEECH. FURTHER LATER TS. Let candid and reflecting, men of all partie the lips of a man whose honesty and vericity his weast enemies have never yet impeached. As a proof of the acknowledged weight and purity of his character, let it be remembered that Tenne see sustained him even against, the influence of General Jackson himself.

There is a constant press to increase. offices, and to increase salaries. Can any friend of the Administration put his finger upon any message, specifying the office to be abolished, or the salary to be decreased? Yet they prate of Demorracy. A short time since, we had a great struggle to know what should be done with surplus money in the Treasury. Now the struggle is to know how to raise enough to keep the Government in motion. That which we had is all gone. Our currency is destroyed, and with it A Tavern & Wagon Stand the commerce of the country. Our sources of revenue are the sales of public lands and duties upon importations of goods .-While the currency is deranged, both these sources of revenue are drying up, and we are without revenue to supply actual wants; and what have we resorted; to? To making paper money—to issuing Treasury notes. A short time since, we and our families were to be made glad by peeping at our Benton yellow jackets, that were peeping through our purses at us; but what now have we? Nothing but yellow-backed Treasury notes, intended to supply the double purpose of a deficit in the Treasury, and a circulating Since the 1st of September last we have authorized the issuing of twice ten millions of Treasury notes; and why? Because we needed money, and had it not The credit of the United States is good, and we have an express power to borrow but if we horrow the people will see that a national debt is contracting, and will inquire into expenditures; therefore the Administration prefer a resort to Treasury notes. They appear to cost nothing, and, if tolerated, extravagant expenditures may be continued without alarm to the Public. This contrivance ought to be nipped in the bud. Treasury notes are unconstitutional, except when used as a means to produre a loan. Bills of credit cannot be issued as a currency by either Federal or State authority. tolerated we will soon have an extravagant Government and a depreciated paper currency. Whenever an amount of Freasurv notes is issued as a currency, beyond the deties and sales of public lands, they must and wiit depreciate, and the mass of people are with the whiterers. Against SHIFTING THE RESPONSIBILITY. sen and Van Buren misrule have become striking and conspicuous, the organs of the party in power have been laboring to shift the blame and esponsibility to the shoulders of the Opposition. They have cried out incessantly against Whiggery, as the cause of the troubles under which the country grouned, hotwithstanding the palpable and well-known facts, that the Congress of the United States and two-thirds of the Legislatures of the States were Jacksonian! The attempt, however, to deceive in this respect is too plaring and absurb; and the people will not fail o notice this fact, that it is only since the Whors have succeeded in many of the States, and checkmated the Parsy on Congress, that the country has been resuscitated, and its wonted prospers in a measure restored. This must have its proper influence upon reflecting, minds, in spite all the clamor of the debased and pensioned presses, whose editors are now despatting at the anticipated less of their bread.

It is a sheer after-thought.—In 1834, he opposed the principle, of the Sub-Treasury scheme. If he did not, there is no meaning in language. Read, for example, the following paragraph from his speech:

VARIETY.

Sacred Poetry .- The wisest and the best stand in as much need to be redeemed by the blood of Christ, and to be sanc tified and guided by the Holy Spirlt, as the most illiterate, and the most unworthy Tho Lwo great principles on which our salvation must be founded, "are faith and holiness: faith without which it is impo sible to please God; holines:, withat which no man can see the Lord .--These are not my words as you know, but ocker says, "a muse may be a missionars: I agree with her; but then it mus mangha muse as that of Campage Mit dan whose the enough directs and sigembelishes its thout altering its character or debash rits purity. SINGULAR MARRIAGE, -- A wislower at Camden, who was not very young, became smitten with a young and beautiful girl, and married her. A short time after, the son of this man by a former wife, be-came all o in love, not with a younger. person, but with the mother of the father's new wife a widow lady still in the bloom of life. He offered himself, and soon the young mae and the widow were united in the bands of matrimony, so that in consequence of these two connexions a father became the son-in-law of his own son, and the wife not only the daughterin-law of her own son in-law, but still more, the mother-in-law of her own mother, who is herself the daughter-in-law of her own daughter, while the husband of the latter is the father-in-law of his mother-in-law, and father-in-law to his own father. Singular confusion may arise, if children should spring from these peculiar marriages.

The Captive Wife .- When Cyrus had taken captive the wife of Tigranes, he asked him what he would give for her redemption.

"All that I have and my own life with it," was the reply: upon which the conqueror gratuitously restored her. All ommmending Cyrus, Tigranes asked his wife what she thought of him, "I did not," said she, "Took at him." Not look at Lim' on when then you look?" At the general man who offered his own life to redeem me from slavery."

A pious mind will want no assistance to apply this interesting anecdote. Wisdom of Fashions .- When the thermometer is at 95, our gentlemen play busilvat "ten pins" -when 40, at chess or lominoes: when the glass is at its highest, the Jadies, God bless them, waltz all night, and day too sometimes, when trost appears they dress low in the neck, and thin at the feet. Who now will dare to dispute the wisdom of fashion? [N. O American.
