SUDDEN DEATH AND SINGULAR FAMILY.

A Mr. Jenemian Bacon died suddenly near Bridgeport, N. J., a fow days since, under somewhat singular circumstances. He fell dead, while in the act of pumping some water, and with one of his ianula still, resting on the pump handle. The Bridgeton Chronicle gives the following particulars to relation to this individual, and of the extraordinary family of which he was and of the extraordinary family of which he wa

"The subject of this notice was, we be eve, one of the oldest native inhabitants in Hopewell township, and with another brother and two sisters had resided on the estate left them by their father, ever since his death, which occurred many years ago, very much in the same way on's, he being found dead in the field! The family, in the recollection of the oldest inhabitants, have always been singu-far. Their squire were conducted by the characters who died last suring. And tableough they have like savegos, the lave of money was strong within them; the only pleasure they seemed to enjoy was arding up their comings. The brother and sister now living are incapable of protecting themselves-for 20 years he has been suffered to rove in the woods in a state of perfect nudity, and when the cravings of appetite impelled would 19urn to the house to satisfy his hunger and in the morning flee again to his hiding places, being seldom if ever seen by the nearest fieighbors. The overseers of the township finding it necessary since the death of Jeremiah, to take charge of them and their effects, he was pursued and taken. He was thinly covered with hair, somewhat resembling the coat of a very old opossum, and stoutly resisted every effort to clothe him, and for several lays refused to eat any thing.

On examining their miserable abode, which was scarcely fit for decent swine o live in, there was found in an old chest, almost without lid or lock, twelve bank notes converted into mice nests, which were so effectually destroyed as not to 3d. bit of using the Ointment prepared by you for a number of years, now called Shepherd's Patent Oint number of years, now called Shepherd's I'steat Ont-ment, (formerly Judkins,) for wounds of various description to the state of the seales and burns, and declinating it to the public. So highly do I think of it that it has generally been an inmate in my family. I know that Mr. Herstons has been pro-prietor and manufacturer of this Ointment for years must, having frequently received the article directly from himself. SAML C. sir, very respectfully. timore having the name of Judkins' Ondment. I sold some of it that was returned to me, not being good. It is true it had not your name on the label around the pot, which I now understand is on the genuine article, as made by you. This is to give notice that the public may be guarded against an imposition of the kind.

Yours, ke.
