EXTRAORDINARY SUICIDES. Two suicides, accompanied with the st extraordinary and even romantic ircumstances, occurred in New York on Sunday. The first was that of Petro de Paolo Qualuense, a native of Smyrna, aged 20 years, who killed himself at 221 Fulton street. It appeared at the coroner's inquest, that the deceased, who had boarded there for a long time, became passionately enamored of a young German Girl also boarding there, named Josephine Jerman, but his passion was not reciprocated-and he was moreover desperately ealous of a barber, and this drove him nearly to desperation.

About a fortnight ago, while conversing with a friend, he spoke of the girl in the warmest terms, and said he wished to marry her, but she had refused to have him, and he intended to shoot her and soothed his feelings as to induce him to leave the house for a time. Absence, however, only increased his passion, and and again pressed hi With just respect, suit upon the girl, and was again rejected. On Sunday morning, about nine o'clock, he went into her room, and after again pleading his gause in vain, he drew two
