THE HUMAN HAIR. Where the hair is observed to be growin thin, nothing can be more proposterous than the use of oils, gresse, or any fatty matter. Their application can only be recommended through the grossest ignorance, as they basten the fall of the hair, by increasing the relaxation of the skin. When there is a harsh, dry, or contracted, when, and where the small blood vessels which carry nourishment to the hulb are ob-atructed, then the oils, &c , may be good, as they lend to relax the skin; but slone they are of no avail. There must be a stimulus to rou the vessels from their torpor, and quicken the current of the blood. Extract from Clicchugh's Treatise on the Hair. The BALM OF COLUMBIA is the only pre-
