CHEERING UP.

From the National Intelligencer. The following paragraphs, from the New York ournal of Commerce of April 20th, satisfactorily confirm the opinion we have already expressed, that the spirit manifested in Congress by the passage of the Loan Bill, and by other indications, would of itself have the effect to reinvigorate the public confidence, and revive the lrooping spirits of the country : "The difficulties which have existed his Spring are passing over. Business within a few days has become tolerably brisk; payments from the country are better; money in the city is plenty; the disasters which were feared and predicted six weel-s ago have not happened; and 2d, 1831, it shall be the duty of the court of each county, whether a separate poll or polls are authorized to be held therein shells a little, and they will of course do so, and moneyed men who have been hiding their treasures will be glad to unlock them.
