"LOVE NEVER SLEEPS." Love NEVER SLEEPS!" The mother's eye Bends o'er her dying infant's bed; And as she marks the moments fly, While death creeps on with noiseless tread, Faint and distress'd she sits and weeps, With beating heart—"Love never sleeps!"

Yet, e'en that sad and fragile form Forgets the tumult of her breast; Despite the horrors of the storm, O'erhurden'd Nature sink; to rest: But o'er them both another keeps His midnight watch-"Love never sleeps !"

Around-above-the argel bands Stoop o'er the care-worn sons of men With pitying eyes and eager hands, They raise the soul to hope again; And round-beneath-and over all-O'er men and angels, earth and heaven, Is answer'd-and relief is given.

The heart in pain, "HE never sleeps!" Tired of the world's false radiance, turn ; And as we view thy purity, We feel our hearts within us burn; in their bowers the godly praises bestowed on that puissant knight. But vain might be their sighs, for his heart was devoted to his wedded wife, and nought could change his love.

Their bridal feast had now gone by welve-month, and the pompous and final rejoicings of the first months had subsided into the more touching joys and bower-where they loved to hord that sweet converse, which minds elevated by the soft emotion of deep-rooted love, alone can feel. On a summer's eve. when the deepening shades told Enna she might expect the return of her husband from the gay and busy court, he with a heavy step and heavier heart, for the first time since their alliance, entered that love-fraught bower. "In the name of all that is dear," cried Enna, casting her arms around his steelhath caused this change in thee? what I have heretofore said that there was a time when money was unknown, and when eachanges were carried on by barter, or commedity was exchanged for commodity; that the inconveniences of this operation, at an early period of the world, of this operation, at an early period of the world, forced upon men the intervention or agency of a common standard, money; and I now will endeavor to trace money to the earliest history we have of it, and to those periods which are nearest to its introduction and use. If I mistake not greatly, I will satisfy the unprejudiced and honest that the true nature and agency of money was much better and more generally understood then, than at the present day; and that the prohibition of all prefs upon meney, confined it is true agency, and excluded and kept out serious evils that the allowance of even legal interest has brought upon modern times. The first authentic account we have of money, is to be mot with in the history of the Jews. And let it be

In the Senate, on Tuesday, the Apportionmen clause in the House bill figure a repre by Districts. The Senate change the Districts and the following substitute is recommended by the Judiciary Committee.

"That in every case where a State is entitled to more than one representative, and the elecmeh Districts shall be composed of contiguous ritory, and each contain a representative popslation equal to the ratio, and no District have re than one representative." No decision was had upon this amendment.

In the House, the general appropriation bill for the support of the Army was discussed in committee of the whole. In the course of the debate, Mr. Adams submitted a proposition to reduce the Army to the standard of 1821. At that period, the Army numbered about 5,500; it is now something more than 12,000. This startling proposition excited a great deal of interest, and was debated until a late hour.

In the Senate, on Wednesday, the discussi of the Apportionment bill was continued, and the amendment of the Indiciary committee giving one additional representative to each state having a fraction quota greater than one moiety of the ratio, was adopted-aves 25, noes

BROOM

Or, the Man within Fait Horse.

A braggert was one day boasting about he could out-rue any thing which went could beat him.

'A mule,' said the boaster, 'I'll bet you a hundred dollars of that." 'Done!' said the other. 'Done!' said the boaster.

'Now cover that,' said the owner of the mule, laying down a hundred dollars.

The bossier began to be frightened at this. He thought there must be something more about the mule than he was aware of, otherwise his owner would'nt plank a hundred dollars, to run him against 1842. a horse. He began to hitch about unearily. He put his hand in his pocket; he pulled it out again; and at last said—'I don't know I swow, about that tarnal mule-he may be the devil and all to run, for what I know.'

'Do you back out, then?' 'Yes, I back out and treat.' So saying he called in the liquor, but declared that his horse could beat any thing which went upon four legs except the mule.

'Why,' said the other, 'I've got a jackass that will beat him.' 'I'll bet a bundred dollars of that,' said the boaster. 'Done!' said the other.

When these Pills were introduced into this State, the Agent did not urge them on the notice of the public with any superflous praise, confident that a fair and impartial trial was all the recommendation they required, to prove their usefulness. They have now been tested by a number of persons laboring under that miscrable complaint Dyspepsia, in this section of country. And in every instance, as far as we have heard, have proved beneficial. We wish to give sufficient time for a full and fair trial, when we will add such testimony of their efficacy as will do justice to so valuable and safe a medicine.

N. B.—Those who may be suffering from the various diseases incident to men, would do well to procure immediately the above medicine, whereby the soon be relieved of their maladies.
