I'M SADDEST WHEN I SING.

You think I have a merry heart. Because my songs are gay; But oh! they all were taught to me

By friends now far away. The bird retains his silver note. Though bondage chains his wing, His song is not a happy one; I'm saddest when I sing.

I heard them first in that sweet home I never more shall see; And now each song of joy has got

A plaintive tone for me. Alas! tis vain in winter time. To mock the songs of spring; Each note recalls some withered leaf; I'm saddest when I sing.

Of all the friends I used to love, My harp remains alone, Its mirthful voice still seems to ba An echo of my own; My tears, when I hand over it,

Will fall upon its string, Yet those who hear me, little think I'm saddest when I sing.

We regret to learn that many of our Van Buren triends, in consequence of the "ominous conjunction" at Ashland, fear that a "coalition" is about to be formed, which may overturn all the hopes and disappoint all the predictions of all the politicians. We have information positive, however, that the presence of Lord Morpeth will effectually prevent any po-litical arrangements, and limit Mr. Clay's efforts entirely to joking, at which Mr. Van Boren knows he is particularly good.

LEVIS AND THE SCHUYLKILL BANK .-By a correspondence contained in the Philadelphia papers, it appears that Hosea C. Levis has made some disclosures to the President of the Bank of Kentucky which has induced the interference of Govenor Letcher of Kentucky, to arrest criminal proceedings against Levis, and a nolla prosequi has accordingly been granted, whereby the prisoner has obtained his release. He is now on his way to Philadelphia, where the disclosures he has made are to be applied to an elucidation of the fraud by which the State of Kentucky and the private stockholders of the bank have sustained a loss of $1,300,000.

Charlestown and its vicinity, to his imported system of Cleaning, Plugging, Extracting and Inserting Teeth. He has an assortment of Incorruptible Teeth, which, for beauty and durability, cannot be excelled. His instruments are of the most improved kind, made to facilitate the operations, so as to produce the least possible pain, and socure the greatest safety. He is prepared to insert Teeth on the mast improved method now in use, and to perform all sperations thereon, in a manner which capnot fail to give perfect satisfaction. It is presumed that his method of inserting teeth on the single root, is the most durable of any invented. He has also practised with much success, a new and improved system of filling cers, a new and improved system of filing carious teeth, which renders them as servicesble as they were previous to decaying.
He will attend on the third Monday of every month, and may be founded the house of his sister-in-aw, Mrs. Trawn.

Ladies or gentlemen waited on, in Charles-town, or any part of Jefferson, if required. March 17, 1812.

CERTIFICATE.
Having frequently conversed with Mr. Little, upon the science of Dentistry, particularly diseases of the teeth and the different modes o operation in Extracting, Plugging and Inserting Teeth, as well as sat under his operations we deem it but just to his merits as an operator to say, that his knowledge of the science and mechanical genius, make him a safe, certain, and pleasant operative Dentist. We have no besitation in giving this public expression of our sentiments, and in recommending him to the whole community as well worthy their liberal patronage.
