a mild but sa effectual purgative. As it is wisely said_"There is but one principle of life, so is there but one principle of disease, and only one method of cure." There is no person who can properly appreciate health, but he who has none-use then the proper means to o btain health, none—use then the proper means to obtain health, and if you fail in this your money will be refunded. Much may be done in checking disease in the onset, then if symptoms approach, re sort to the maximum-as it is said "an ounce of preventive is worth more than a pound of cure." This medicine will cure you because it removes the corrupt or vitiated humors from the mamach and bowels, leaving the good humors to give life and health to the patient. It is morally impossible for this to fail, provided nature be not entirely ex hausted. The Catholicon is prepared and sold by Mr. H. Staub, Shepherdstown, Va.; also, by Levi Caix. Mr. STAUE:--With your valuable medicine, call-ed the "Compound Catholicon," I have long been acquainted.
