THE LATE CABINET.

Our readers will remember, that a few weeks previous to the late election in New York, the Hon. John C. Spencer, Secretary of War, adhon. John C. Spencer, Sec partisans) in New York, in which, among other things, he charged the Whig Members in Congress with having made a proposition to the President that they would not press the second Bank Bill at that session, but let it lay over, if he would consent to retain in office, the then existing Cabinet. And further, that it was the President's intention to have declared that he would not be a candidate for the Presidential chair, but was dissuaded therefrom by his Cabinet, who protested against his doing so.

In our Congressional synopsis a few weeks since, we noticed the course taken by Mr. Botts upon these charges, he demanding a committee of investigation upon the subject, but the Houseconsidered the letter as a mere electioneering paper, and would not grant such committee.

This letter has, however, brought two members of the late Cabinet into the field, the Hon. proceeded to Worcester to make known to Gov. land have been entirely repealed and an- same course taken by Mr. Cushing, in defend-J. The difference between the two consists in this: Mr. E. confined his suggestion merely as to the matter of insertion in the Veto Message, whilst Mr. S. amplifies it into a decision by the Cabinet against the President's making such declaration at any time or in any manner whatever.

ANNUAL ADDRESS CARRIER,

Pairous of the Free Press.

January 1st, 1843.

Ab! Tom! said Ned. on New Year's day, Flow are the folks at home I ptay?
Why faith, said Tom, I thank you friend, My wife continues still to mend, Billy improves, and so does Kato, But say Ned what's the news of late? Oh, there's nothing stirring, nothing new, Sive what's already known to yeu—You take the "Fake Press." Ah! by the way This, friend Tom, is New Year's day, And we shall shortly see, I guess, The "CARRIER BOY," with his Address! Filled annually you know with verses, Besides, "a draft" upon our parses;
A"draft" which we must not protest,"
His "PAPER" Tom, is of the best; Yes, Tom replied—'tis very true,
His "fip" and "levy's" ju-tly da;
But come friend Ned and let's be roaming— Held! stop! cried Ned, the Carrier's coming-And sure enough he hove in sight, And "conting it" with all his might. He meets the friends, and nothing loth, A "happy New Year" wisnes boin : Good morning, Mr. H -, he ories, Whilst hope was beaming from his eyes; Both cught to take a copy home, For wife and children all to see, (They are always glad to hear from me;)

And glad to see you Mr. S—,
I've brought you my New Year's Address;"
You are bound to purchase, for you'll own, Besides you'll get from wife a smile, (Though I deserve it all the while;) You can't refuse my claims you know, Because I come through rain and snow, Through weather fool, and weather fair, And bring the "Free Press" all the year! But Charley, hold! the friends rejoined, And let's see what your train has coined, For faith, I think, in these hard times, You must have rather barren rhymes! No, no, quoth Charley, you're both wrong there For news is plenty, sirs, this year; Well, Charley, said H. just read it o'er, And you shall have a levy more. Charley read, (though much against his will,) Of Tyler's grand "Exchequer Bill,"
Of "Bank" and "Bankrupt," by the way, The very best bills of the day; Of "Tyler victories," last election, Besides a "Tariff for Protection," And then the thousand dollar claim, To glorify Old Hickory's name; Next came the "Warehouse" plan in view, With his "Accidency's" "Reasins" to And after them Right of Petition," That all hands could not keep him quiet ; Cost Johnston's "Land Bill," claims attention, 'Tis 'in order' also here to mention,

That John M. Botts has still in view, His "impeachment bill" 'gainst "Tyler too;" Cushing and the "Corporal's Guard," Are making speeches by the yard-In fact sirs, you will own it true, That Congress has enough to do. In "Church" 'tis said, as well as "State," The world, says "Miller's prophecy," Will and in eighteen forty-three; The month is April, which by aucient rule Shows plainly 'tis an "April fool." The "Mormons" too have had their day, And prophet Joe, has run away;
All other sects, you know, my friends,
Are 'orthodox," as each contends.
But enough of this, and now I'll prate, Of something else than Church and State-The Temperance cause is still alive, And on "cold water" seems to thrive; Its friends are not so zealous though, As they were some months ago, But yet I wish it understood, Though zeal has cooled, the cause is good. I have another thing or two, Which I will mention now to you -The Armory's closed, the hands turned out, And "loafing" here and there about; They have tried to find out, (but in vain,) When they will get to work again. You've read the last paper, sirs, I take it? Tis as full of news as we can make it: There is one or two amusing tales, And also lots of "Sheriff's Sales," Besides there's Sales made by "Trustees," And others made by Court "Decrees," There is "Marriages and Deaths" in scores, And "Goods at Cost" in all the stores, There is "Murders," "Accidents." and 'Crimes, The "Markets," "Poems," and "Hard Times," The proceedings of our Legislature, And scraps of every sort and nature. Charley ended here, and made his how With, "I'll thank you for your levy's now-Both H. and S pulled out their purses,

CONSUMPTION, A ND Bleeding at the Lungs, eured by the use of Dr. Duncan's Expectorant Remedy. Miss-Emeline Yeager, aged seventeen years, was taken when at the age of sixteen with a slight cold, which she neglected until the lungs fell a prey to that seek-ing destroyer, Consumption, when application to a physician was made, but to no effect. He consida physician was made, but to no effect. He considered her case a hopeless one, and prescribed but little medicine for her. In the mean time she discharged graat quantities of blood, with much expectoration of thick phlegm and cough. Her hodinly frame at length became reduced to a living skeleton. Her last was anxiously looked for by her friends, that her sufferings might end by the panga, of death. During the time her physician frequently called, and as the last resource, determined to teat the virtues of Dr. Dunean's Expectorant Remedy, having noticed some extraordinary cures performed by the medicine in similar cases. He at once obtained two bottles and administered it to her. The by the medicine in similar cases. He at once obtained two bottles and administered it to her. The fourth day he found some change, which gave hopes. He continued giving the medicine for eighteen days; at that time she was rendered able to be walking in her bed chamber, to the astonishment of her friends and relatives. She continued using the medicine for eight weeks, when she declared herself entirely free from disease and pain, and now pursues her daily occupation in perfect health.
