THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 22, 1845. LETTER PROM MR. CLAY.

LOVING AND FORGIVING.

Oh, loving and forgiving-

Ye angel words of earth.

If ye two had not birth !

The grief that ye are sharing Hath blessings in its tear.

Oh, stern and unforgiving— Ye evil words of life,

With never-ending strife. Oh, harsh and unrepenting—

Forbore not nor forgave !

The passions find control!

And, angel-like, restore us

The paradise we lost.

Still breathe your influence o'er us

"LONG AGO!"

Long ago! Those words how thrilling

Come they with their murmur low,

Memory's long deep-hoarded treasure

Days of yore, with dreams of pleasure,

Long ago! Those words of sadness,

Ne'er forgotten sighs and tears.

Fading, but surpassing sweet; Skies where brightly fled the hours,

Never more the sight to greet.

Long ago! Those words how dearer

Far than others we may know,

When they bring our spirits pearer

The key-note of a measure, filling

All the heart with harmony!
The discord of the present stilling,
Calming all its troubled sea.

General Entelligence.

THE GREAT MATCH RACE.

The stands were all crowded to the ut-

ther the most lively and gamey look.

To the loved of long ago.

Bringing, through the mists of years, Visions of departed gladness:

Dreams of youth and thoughts of flowers,

Bring they to the spirit's light;

Rushing back upon the sight.

The spirit's troubled waters stilling

With the music-"Long ago."

Whene'er by passion cross'd,

If Heaven, as unrelenting,

Oh, loving and forgiving-Sweet sisters of the soul,

That mock the means of living

How would ye meet the grave,

Years were not worth the living

Oh, loving and forbearing ____ How sweet your mission here;

VARIETY.

Catching Yankees .- There is an old black woman at Havanna known to almost every one who frequents that port Drillings and Gambroons, from 20 cents to $1,75 as a washer of clothes, in which business per yard; she employe several slaves, having acquired a handsome property by it. She is partial to the Americans, baving made the greater part of her money through them. When some of the British ships stopped there on their way to the coast of Louisiana, she, as usual, boarded the ships in search of business -and having despatched that, she ask the captain of one of the vessels, 'Where are you going, massa?' who replied, 'we are going to catch Yankees at New Orleans. We shall stop and sell a dezen or two very cheap, for washerwomen.' 'Ah, ha! you better let 'e Yankees 'lone,' said she. 'I tell ye let him 'lone.' When the same ship returned to Havana, after the dreadful defeat of the 8th January, the old woman again made Clothing, such as dress and frock Coats, boarded, and observing the captain, said dollars; Tweed and other sack coats made kees!' Riding Courtship .- We find the following in an exchange, and give it as a warning to all little boys who ride out with their courting cousins :- "A little boy just returned from a long visit, was asked by his mother how he enjoyed himself, answered, with a boyish simplicity, that 'he liked his visit very well-but he wouldn'tthat's what he wouldn't, never ride home between cousin George and Sarah again, Spring and Summer Supply. for they kept hugging and kissing each other so much that they squeezed him all the time, and almost spoiled his new hat."

Absence of Mind .- A Vermonter, intending to seat his wife at the table, and snow ball a log out of the yard, politely handed the pig to the table, and began to snow ball his wife. He found out his mistake, when the snow balls came back faster than they went.

A man went into a book-store yesterday and inquired for 'The Light of Other Days,' meaning a popular song of that name. The bookseller, who is a wag, referred him to a variety store, where there is for sale a number of old city oil lamps, which have been replaced by modern gas burners.

'I don't sav as Missus drinks, but I do know that the bottle in the dark closet don't keep full all the time.'

'Have you seen the Dardanelles?' asked one of the company. 'Yes,' replied he, 'I dined with them at Gibral ar, and found them to be excellent company.'

When a woman loseth her good name she can't get it back again. That is precisely the case with a dog made up into sausages. He is gone forever! Alas, poor Tray!

'I am indeed very much afraid of lightning,' murmured a pretty girl during a thunder storm. 'And well you may be,' Also a full assortment of Hosiery Gloves, heart is made of steel.'

An Editor down East stopped his press to write poetry, when, after a few days labor he brought forth the following :-

"I love to see the waving grass, Just before the mower mowe it; I love to see an old dray horse. For when he goes he goes it."

'Mr. Dentist, do you see that decayed tooth?" 'Yes sir.'
