THE WELCOME BACK.

Sweet is the hour that brings us home, Where all will spring to meet us; Where hands are striving as we come, To be the first to greet us. When the world hath spent its frowns and wrath, And care been sorely pressing.
Tis swent to turn from our roving path, And find a fireside blessing.

Ob. joyfully dear is the homeward track, If we are but sure of a welcome back. What do we reck on a dreary way,

Though lonely and benighted,

If we know there are lips to chide our stay,

And eyes that will beam love-lighted? What is the worth of a diamond ray, To the glance that flashes pleasure; When the winds that welcome back, betray, We form a heart's chief treasure? Oh, jayfully dear is our homeward track, If we are but sure of a welcome back.

Oh! say not, sing a careless lay,

When clouds are on thy brow; I once could warble them away, But oh! I cannot now.
I cannot meet thine earnest gaze So full of mournful light, And not remember other days More blessed and more bright. Thy smile has lost the sparkling glee

Which once it ever wore; I cannot bring it back to thee By music, as of yore. How can I breathe a gladsome song, Thy sadness to beguile,
When other thoughts thy bosom throng,
And I could weep the while?

Then bid me not sing jayously, But let it be a strain That may recall the past to thee, Of love that loved in vain. Oh! let it be of hopes that met With dark and early blight; Of hearts that beat but to regret-But not of joy to-night.
