VOL. 39.

There is a silent river, The rolling river Time; In summer's roses blushes,

In heary winter's rime It floweth, floweth, floweth, In whatsover elime. And well trimm'd barks are sailing

Upon its silent tide:
With golden riches laden
The little vessels glide;
And Fath, and Love and Action
. And Hopg are side by side. And oh, a host of others

Now soon the waves are heaving, Now wide the waters beat to Gray mists steed o'er the waters, The mournful mists of Pate. The polar-star grows dimmer; 'The scatter'd vessel's driven; All wide in disappointment Unto the waves are given,

And Faith alone remaineth
To bear the soul to Heaven.

EDUCATION.

ADDRESS Of the State Central Committee to the Friends of Popular Education in Virginia.

Fellow-Citizens: At the Education Convention held in Richmond last December, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

corn trade consequently remains in a very unsalisfactory state. From Willmer and Smith's Times.

Commercial .- The House of Commons has at length brought the debate on the Irish Coercion Bill to a close, a matter of less importance in itself than as it clears the road for the fiscal measures of the Government passing through their remaining stages. Last night the Corn Bill would occupy the attention of the House, and in ten days from this time the judgment of the Lords on that important measure will probably be known.

The quantity of goods held by the great manufacturers in Lancashire is large, and

The cotton market sustains the improved feeling that ruled when the last steam. or sailed. The ascertained deficiency in the last crop is the primary cause of the firmness. The sales during the week exceed 45,000 bales, about 10,000 of which have been for export and on speculation, leaving a very respectable daily average for the trade. The imports during the last week, have been light, hardly exceed ing 9.000 bales. Up to the present time the imports are 15,000 bales below those of the corresponding period last year -Yesterday the sales exceeded, 6,000 bales, at firm prices. Large quantities of American provisions find their way to this country by almost every arrival. With an anticipated scar city of breadstuffs, the records of the barrels of flour and of beef which cross the Atlantic at the present time are duly paraded in the columns of the daily press. They point a moral of agratifying charac ter; for when the restrictions which have present, there are upwards of 400,000 bar rels of flour under lock at Liverpool, all of which will be removed at the low duty when the Corn bili becomes law.

The corn-trade remains in a very unsat isfactory state. Operations are suspend ed. The trade merely supply their immediate wants, and this lethargy will contique until the fate of the corn bill is decided by the House of Lords. The best informed public men are sanguine that the Peers will pass the bill; and a personal friend of our own .- a popular member of the People's House, writing last night, says-"The opinion still gains ground that Peel's measures will pass through their remaining stages without the country being put to the agony of a dissolution. We hear a dissolution spoken of at the clubs, but it proceeds from those who are inimical to the free-trade principle. Every revolving day convinces me that the consummation of our triumph is at hand. You may safely announce this to your American readers as a fact."

The accounts which came to hand from America recently had no visible effect on the price of the English securities. The settlement of the Oregon on the basis of the 49th parallel continues to be regarded as a thing that must be -as a fair settlement, to which the leading statesmen on both sides of the Atlantic will combine to give their aid. The interminable discussions on the subject in the Senate bear a striking affinity to the dreary waste of words in the English House of Commons on the Coercion and the Corn Bills. The commercial accounts from India. which came to hand yesterday, show an improved feeling in that distant land .--Peace is restored, & commerce, the handmaid of peace, will participate in the gene ral prosperity. Exorbitant Prices The Administration is pursuing the same extravagant course that marked that of Mr. Van Buren, during the Florida War. They are paying for the hire of boats per month, as much. and in some instances more, than they are actually worth. Here is an example :- The steamship Alabama has been chartered by Gorege. ment at $16,500 per month, to convey troops, &c. to Brazos Santiago. Whew! $198,000 a rear! Three times, perhaps six times as she is worth !
