POETRY.

WILT THOU BE TRUE!

BY ELIZA COOK. "Wilt thou be true ?" we ask it of the flower That decks our garland in the festive seene; But leaves that fall before the parting hour Mock us and tell how vain the words have been,

"Wilt thou prove true!" Wilt thou prove true?" we ask it of the billow, And launch our bark upon the crystal tide ; But many a sea-werd shroud and coral pillow Have met the lips that trusted while they cried, " Wilt thou prove true !"

Wilt thou prove true ?" we ask it of the heaven That shines all bright and beaming on our way: But clouds that gather, dark and thunder-riven. Bid us regret that e'er we asked the ray, " Wilt thou prove true ?"

Wilt thou prove true?" oh, ask it of my bosom, Let thy warm faith believe Affection's sigh; And thou shalt find it shame the scented blossom, The sparkling ocean and the smiling sky, For it is true.

HOW TO MAKE NECTAR.

Take a kiss from that woman whose kiss is most

And if one's not enough, why the quantum repeat, With a smile-when her smiles are most placid. Take the pout of her ripe lip, the draught to enrich, With a sneer full of scorn from some fond jealous witch-Woman's scorn's such an excellent acid. Take those tears o'er the warm check of beauty that

With a glance of her eve-'twill a sparkle bestow Such looks as we all love to meet. Woman's tones-woman's love-with the mixture

Then drink of the potion, you'll own it divine And-there is your nectar complete !

THE INTERESTING VARIETY OF THE BIBLE.

When the great Sam Johnson was asked why so many literary men were Infidels, his reply was-Because they are are ignorant of the Bible." If the question was asked why the lovers of general reading so often fail to acquaint themselves with the Sacred Volume, one reason that may be assigned doubtless is, they are not aware of its interesting variety This feature of the Bible is well illustrated by Mrs. Ellis, in the following elegant extract from her recent work entitled the "Poetry of

"With our established ideas of beauty. grace, pathos and sublimity, either concentrated in the minutest point, or extended to the widest range, we can derive from the Scriptures a fund of gratification not to be found in any other memorial of the past or present time. From the worm that grovels in the dust beneath our feet, to the track of the leviathan in the foaming deep-from the moth that corrupts the secret treasure, to the eagle that soars above his evrie in the clouds -from the wild ass in the desert to the lamb within the shepherd's fold-from the consuming locust to the cattle on a thousand hills -from the rose of Sharon to the cedar of Lebanon-from the clear crystal stream gushing forth out of the flinty rock, to the wide waters of the deluge-from the barren waste to the fruitful vineyard, and the land flowing with milk and honey-from the lonely path of the wanderer to the gatherer of a mighty multitude-from the tear that falls in secret to the din of battle and the shout of a triumphant host-from the solitary in the wilderness to the satrap on the throne-from the mourner clad in his sackcloth, to the prince in the purple robes-from the gnawing of the worm that dieth not, to the seraphic vision of the blessed-from the still small voice, to the thunders of Omnipotence-from the depths of hell, to the regions of eternal glory, there is no degree of beauty or deformity, no tendency to good or evil, no shades of darkness or gleam of light, which does not come within the cognizance of the Holy Scriptures; and therefore there is no expression or conception of the mind that may not find a corresponding picture; no thirst for excellence that here may not meet with its full supply and no condition of humanity excluded from the unlimited scope of adaptation and sympathy comprehended in the language and spirit of the Bible."

THE DEATH OF A CHILD. And no one feels the death of a child as a mother feels it. Even the father cannot realize it thus-There is a vacancy in his home and a heaviness in his heart. There is a chain of association that at set times comes round with its broken link; their memories of endearment, a keen sense of loss, a weeping over crushed hopes, and a pain of wound ed affection. But a mother feels that one has been taken away who was still closer to her heart. Her's has been the office of constant ministration. Every gradation of feature has developed before her eyes. She has detected every new gleam of intelligence .-She has heard the first utterance of every new word. She has been the refuge of his fears; the supply of his wants. DOMESTIC FELICITY,

BY URIAH K. JUDAH, ESQ. My low-roofd cottage is this hour a heaven; Music is in it—and the song she sings, That sweet-voiced wife of mine, arrests the ear Of my young child, awake upon her knee; And with his calm eye on his master's face, My noble hound lies couchant-and all here-All in this little home, yet boundless heaven-

Are in such love as I have power to give, Blessed to overflowing.
[N. P. Willis-Reverie at Glemmary. Most truly has an eloquent writer observed, that "Domestic felicity is the only bliss of Paradise that has survived the fall;" inasmuch, as when we enter a home wherein contentment reigns, we are apt to entertain the opinion, that if perfect happiness can be found on earth, 'tis bere, 'tis here. "Rich, though poor!" If listening to the evening song of an adored wife, as she lulls her young child to its balmy repose, in the consciousness that she has awarded her unchanging heart to one who can reciprocate affection in the strength of its purity, be not an evidence of wealth, although fortune in other respects may not have been so lavish of her favors, then, indeed, man's "little home" presents no attractions. "Blessed to overflowing." Perchance, not with the gorgeousness of display, nor surrounding evidences of affluence, nor richly curtained windows obscured by the glorious light of heaven, nor costly wiltons covered those floors, yet neatness and comfort reigned triumphant in that low-roof d cottage.

Domestic felicity! There is something clevated and noble in contemplating its brilliant effects-something so approximating to the brilliant and grand, in dilating upon its happy influences, that it thrills with joyous feeling the hearts of poor, weak, erring mortality. Without some kindred spirit to console in affliction, or rejoice in prosperity, what is life! Oh, woman! if man was banished from thy society, he would walk abroad a wretched outcast. Take from him thy love and thou depriveth him of the means by which he lives. If in sickness thou wert not to bathe his aching temples, to moisten his parched lips, and to administer the healing draught, how poignant would be the couch of pain! And, dear one, when he trembleth in the last moments of existence, and his grave openeth to await his coming, thou strewest with flowers the pathway to eternity, and gildest his passage to the last resting place of mortality! All this thy generous nature would prompt thee to do for the friend or Lovely woman! If thou wouldst exercise these, thy generous influences for the friend or stranger, let us take it for granted that thy love-so lasting and holy-would farther extend for the partner of thy choice, thine own dear husband.

Man! roaming, inconstant and selfish man! Wouldst thou like to become a useful citizens? Wouldst thou wish to gather around thee hospitably thy friends? Would please thee to form on earth a "boundless heaven?" Oh, then, link thy destiny to the last and best of all created-a "sweet-voiced

The story of Adele Barron, published in a recent number of the Knickerbocker, which turns upon some missing letters, has brought to mind an incident related by Frank Granger, as having occurred when he was at the head of the post-office department. A let- without being greatly damaged, as one of his ter was one day received from a Postmaster legs was made of cork.—Bristol Paper. of a town in New Jersey, enclosing a letter very old and dingy, and covered with fly specks in every part, except where a tape had passed over it, indicating that it had been for a long time placed in the paper or cardrack of some bar-room or shop. The superscription, if there had ever been any, had entirely faded away. The Postmaster wrote that he had found it in his letter-box, and had tried in vain to discover who had deposited it there, in order that it might receive a proper direction, as it apparently contained money. As it had not been advertised, it was not, in strictness, a dead letter; but he sent it to the department in order that they might dispose of it. The Postmaster General took the responsibility of opening it, and found that it was dated at Philadelphia. in the year 1821, (twenty years before,) and enclosed a twen y-dollar bill of the United States Bank. It was addressed by a man to his wife at a small village not far from the post office where the letter was found, informing her that he (the writer, should start for home in two or three days; but that, as his brother was about to leave for home, he took advantage of the opportunity to send her by him the enclosed sum of money wherewith to make preparations for an approaching wedding. The Postmaster General caused a letter to be written to the address of the writer, informing him of the circumstances. In the course of a week a reply was received from a female, who stated that the writer of the letter was her father, and the one to whom it was addressed was her mother, both of whom were dead; that twenty years before, on the eve of her own wedding, she remembered that her father and uncle had quarrelled, the former having been led, from some suspicious circumstances, to discredit the latter's assertion that he had lost a letter conmount to his own use. The consequence was that all intercourse between the families had from that time been suspended, and that she should immediately write to her uncle and cousins, who were still living at a distance, to beg that the intercourse and friendship so long interrupted might be resumed; the discovery of this letter having satisfied her of wrong, and relieved her mind from a weight of painful anxiety. Whether any farther clue to the manner not known; the probability is that the letter had been picked up at or near some country tavern on the road, and was placed with the variety of business eards and miscellaneous papers which usually fill the tapes over the mantel-piece of such a place, and there it had remained from year to year, perhaps concealed from notice by other papers and let-ters, until, by a change of landlord, or an improvement of the house, the landlord had disposed of it by depositing it in the nearest to Cochin China.

Mahon was making some charges against "the house of Dromoland," on the hustings, when he was interrupted by Smith O'Brien, who addressed him in the following words, with as much neatness, and calmness, and courteous bearing, as though he were paying him a compliment : "As a member of but one reply to make to your aspersions, and that reply, as a gentleman and a man of honor, you will. I am sure, receive in the spirit in which it is given-you lie, sir! bowing again.) Mr. Mahon lifted his hat in acknowledgment, Smith O'Brien and he leaving the court together, without the slightest fuss, each accompanied by a friend, who rather followed instinctively than by invitation, and without the least attempt at interference on the part of the sheriff. In less than an hour from this interchange of civilities, they were both standing within twelve paces of each other, on the public race-course, close to the town of Ennis, while at least a thousand people were present to witness the

He handed back the still loaded pistol to his friend, saying with a smile, "McDon-

EXHAUSTION OF TALK.

How long the lamp of conversation holds out to burn, between two persons only, is cu riously set down in the following passage from Count Confallonier's account of his imprisonment: "I am an old man now; yet by fifteen years years I existed, for I did not live-it was not life-in the self same dungeon ten feet square! During six years I had a companon : during nine I was alone! I never could rightly distinguish the face of him who shared my captivity in the eternal twilight of our cell. The first year we talked incessantly together! we related our past lives, our joys forever gone, over and over again .-The next year we communicated to each other our thoughts and ideas on all subjects .-The third year we had no ideas to communicate; we were beginning to lose the power of reflection! The fourth, at the interval of a month or so, we would open our lips to ask each other if it were indeed possible that the world went on as gay and bustling as when we formed a portion of mankind. The fifth we were silent. The sixth he was taken away, I never knew where, to execution or liberty but I was glad when he was gone; even solitude was better than the dim vision of that pale vacant face. After that I was alone, only one event broke in upon year's vacancy.

One day, it must have been a year or two after my companion left me, the dungeon door was opened, and a voice—whence proceeding happened yesterday of the Lagrence cars.—

A substantial, wholesome looking Irish lady, who was too intent in her gossic with a friend in the cars, just as they were starting from Lawrence, did not awake up to the reality I knew not-uttered these words. 'By the until she was making a course for Boston at orders of his imperial majesty, I intimate to a 20 mile speed. The instantishe perceived you that your wife died a year ago. Then this, she rushed for the doo! Conductor the door was shut, and I heard no more : they had but flung this great agony in upon me, and left me alone with it again.

AN ODD CALCULATION.

What a noisy creature would a man be, were his voice, in proportion to his weight, as loud as that of a locust. A locust can be heard at the distance of 1-16th of a mile .-The golden wren is said to weigh but half an ounce; so that a middling sized man would weigh down not short of 4,000 of them; and it must be strange if a golden wren would not outweigh four locusts. Supposing, therefore, that a common man weighs as much as 16,000 of our locusts, and that the note of a locust can be heard 1-16th of a mile, a man of common dimensions, pretty sound in wind and limb, ought to make himself heard at the distance of 1000 miles; and when he sneezes "his house ought to fall about his ears." Supposing a flea to weigh one grain, which is more than its actual weight, and to jump one and a half yards, a common man of 150 pounds, with jumping powers in proportion, could jump 12,800 miles, or about the distance from New York

LUXURIES OF THE ROMANS.

The luxury of the table commenced about the period of the battle of Actium, and continued to the reign of Galba. Their delicacies consisted of peacocks, cranes of Malta. nightingales, venison, wild and tame fowls; they were also fond of fish. The reigning taste was for a profusion of provisions; whole wild boars were served up, filled with various small animals and birds of different kinds .-The dish was called the Trojan horse, in allusion to the horse filled with soldiers .-Fowls and game of all sorts were served up in pyramids, piled up in dishes as broad as modern tables. Mark Antony provided eight boars for twelve guests. Caligula served up to his guests pearls of great value, dissolved in vinegar Lucullus had a particular name for each apartment, and a certain scale of expense attached to each. Cicero and Pompey agreed to take supper with him provided he would not order his servants to prepare anything extraordinary. He directed the servants to prepare the supper in the room of my soul is younger than my body! Fifteen | the Apollo. His friends were surprised at the magnificence of the entertainment. He then informed them that when he mentioned the name of the room the servants knew the scale of expense. Whenever he supped in the room of Apollo, the supper always cost £1,250. He was equally sumptuous in his dress. A Roman prætor, who was to give games to the public, requesting to borrow one hundred purple robes for the actors. Lucullus replied that he could lend him two hundred if he wanted them. The Roman furniture in their houses corresponded with their profuseness in other respects. Pliny states that in his time more money was often given for a table, than the amount wall the trea-sures found in Carthage, where it was conquered by the Romans.

A DIVING 'BELLE.'-A frany incident happened vesterday on the Lastrence cars .-Billings, a very gallant man, and exceedingly tender of woman kind, started to stop her, and arrived at the platform just as the frightened woman made her leap. Luckily the cars were upon the canal bridge; and as sho shot out, the speed of the train turned her over in the neatest of all possible summersets, and then down she went straight as a meal bag, bonnet first, into the canal. The dive was beautiful, and as she arose puffing with fright, a board was thrown to ber, and she soon found herself dripping like a fat naiad, upon dry land, all unharred, but a good deal scared, as well she might by Last night she came up in the cars, looking as nice as a sunflower, and calm as a summer morning. Great doubt has been expressed as to the probable result of the tussle, had the gallant conductor succeeded in clasping her before the leap was made .- Lowell Aurnal.

MR. CLAY AND GEN. CASS.

It has recently been stated that Gen. Cass had written a letter to Mr. Clay, exonerating him from the charge of "bargain and sale" with Mr. Adams' administration. The Washington correspondent of the Pailadelphia American says he had it from Mr. Clay himself, that he had received such a letter .-

The correspondent adds: It was written by Gen Cass of his own free accord, and not in answer to an application from Mr. Clay or any other source .-The letter states briefly, and forcibly, that such is the strength of the defence made by Mr. Clay against his calcumniators and the where for food. convincing testimony which accompanied it, that the writer (Gen Cass) could not restrain himself from offering his congratulations on the occasion of this complete triumph over his enemies, and expressing the belief that when party violence and prejudice had subsided, posterity would do him justice.

The year rolled slowly away. The noviciate had ended. The profession was publicly announced; the bells rang merrily, as for a bridal; the first flowers of spring were blooming on the floor of the monastic chapel. The cardinal had arrived; the young novice, fair as the young moon in May, knelt with her white veil floating behind her, and her eye glancing eagerly from face to face in the assembly till it rested on him whom, during that long and sad noviciate, she had never seen, and whose presence at this moment assured her of his faithfulness in the past. The service proceeded till the cardinal asked the usual question as to her willingness for the life of a cloister: she at once declared her unwillingness. The cardinal was astounded. The assembly was greatly excited; and on being asked again for her reasons, she pointed to the young man who was present, and said boldly, "My wish is to be married to that gentleman."-She was the next instant on her knees to the cardinal, beseeching him to forgive her, and permit the marriage. The feelings of the cardinal and all the assembly were deeply moved. The service ceased. A Washington letter in the New York Journal "Under the late acts of Congress the Jefferson and Madison papers have been offered to the Secretary of State, and they are to be published by the Government! The Jefferson papers are voluminous. Il sides territorial and political disquisition and correspondence, they embrace treatises on moral and religous topies, and particularly a comment on the life and character of St. Paul. "Mr. Jefferson was, perhapminere careful of papers than any man that of er lived, except the late John Q. Adams. Mr. Jefferson kept copies of every paper that he ever wrote, even on the most trifling subject. He invented a copying press, and had several made in France. One that he such used is now extant, and in the hands of a gentleman in Richmond. Equally careful he was in preserving every paper that he received.—
His papers, and those of Mr. Andison, are

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCES.

There are a great many "mysterious dis-appearances" from Boston about these days. The last disappearer is Thomas Bradley, currier, of Fulton street. ife left his home. in Hill street, on the 18th ult., for his place of business, telling his wife he would not be home to dinner, and has not returned yet .-Some suppose he is murdered, as he was in the habit of carrying money about him .-The Boston Traveller, however, hazards the opinion that he will turn up alive and well, one of these days, in some part of this great

We have very little faith in these mysterious disappearances since we read the story told by "Sam Slick." A farmer in Maine had an overgrown son, who was as stubborn were sitting before the fire, which was get-ting low, the father told his son, "a lazy fellow as he was, to go out to the woodpile and Martinsburg, a very large and valuable lot of bring in a back-log." The son went out muteering, and doggedly, and, thinking that it was not exactly the work for him, determined to "go of." He disappeared, therefore. 'mysterio sly," and was given up by father and all as dead, murdered, perhaps, by In-dians, who, in those times, were found in that

The story runs, that, in about twenty years, whilst the old father, then become grey and feeble from age, was sitting one cold night in his own room before the fire, which was getting low, a man appeared at the cottage window, and descried the old gentleman sitting, as he was twenty years beforc. The man proceeded to the wood pile, took up a big back-log, and walked into the room saying, "Father, here is that back-log, you sent me for." The father raised his long time bringing it. Put it on the fire, and

The story stops here, and we example say whether the last order was more promptly obeyed than the first. But, after this story, we always hear of "mysterious disappearan-ces," with a sort of conviction that the disppearer will some time or other come back in the flesh." Baltimore Patriot.

From its having almost always builled the most skilful medical treatment, has very justiv been termed the " Opproblem of Physicians;" and, until within a few years, been generally considered incurable, although many medical men of the highest Charles and Pratt Streets, and 108 Baltimore street, if alstanding, among whom we may mention Lucanec and his friend Bayle-both distinguished authors, admit that this much dreaded disease may be cured, even in its advanced stages, when the lungs are not completely disorganized. The remedy which we now offer, WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHER-RY for the cure of this disease, not only emanates from a regular Physician, but has also been well tested in all the complaints for which it is recommended. A Physician in Maine says: I have recommended the use of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry for diseases of the lungs, for two years past, and many bottles to my knowledge have been used by my patients, all with beneficial results. In two cases, where it was thought Confirmed Consturriby had taken place the Wild Cherry effected

F you are sick, get cared; if well, employ measures to continue so. Every individual includes in habits, which must, to a greater or lesser extent, disarrange the admirable and intricate combinations which form the system, and consequently EVERY INDI-VIDUAL should cossess some mild, yet efficiences, simple and accredited agent for preserving all the functions of the body in good order. Dr. SWEETSER'S PANACEA will achieve this result, and should be in every family, and in the hands of every person, who by business, pro-fession or general course of life, is predisposed to the very many little nilments that render life a cause, in-stead of a blessing, and finally result, in their aggregated condition, in the cause of Death. For Eruptions of the Skin, Scurvy, Scorbutie Affections, Tumors, Scrofula or King's Evil, White Swellings, Erysipelas, Ulcers, Cancers, Running Sores, Scabs and Biles, time and a determined perseverance in Dr. Sweetser's Panacea, will effect a cute. For Indigestion, Rejection of Food, Nausea Vomitings, Nervous Affections, Bilions complaints. Head ache, Paleness or Female Irregularities, Dr. Sweetser's Panacea will soon effect a cure ; but it obstinate, or at tended with griping, flying pains, the dose should be increased, and the cure will soon be effected. Let not the patients frighten themselves with the idea that they are too weak to take much medicine; but bear in mind that this mildly operating medicine puts not weakless into the frame, but most certainly draws weakless out. leaves streng h in its place, and by giving composed sleep at night, and an appet to to relish any feed, re-animales the whole frame with vizorous action, clearing the mind and improving the sight In cases of Jaundier, Asthma, Liver Complaints, Tie Deloreux, Rheumatism or Rheumatic Gout, Dr. Sweets-ers's Panacea cannot be too highly extelled; it searches out the very root of the disease, and by removing it from the Blood makes a cure certain and permanent. For diseases of the Bladder and Kidneys, S rictures, Gravel, Stone, Piles, Fistula, Urmary Obstructions and Extreme Costiveness, Dr. Sweetser's Panac a is the best remedy ever tried; it removes all those acrimonious humors from the blood, which give rise to the above diseases, a d b. keeping the blood in a pure condition insures health. For Dropsy, Falling of the Bowels, impurities of the Bleed, Mercuriai Taint, Weakness of the Sp. e, Flow of Blood to the Head, Giddiness, Singing or Buzzing Noise in the Head and Ears, Dr Sweetser's Panacea will give certain relief; in all severe and chronic cases the patient caract be too often reminded the LARGER poses and PERSEVERANCE will effect a core, In chills and Fevers, Bilious Fever, Affect has of the Eyes and Eurs. Spongy and Bleeding Gums, Fronchitis will be found perfectly sure and certain in its effects. DR. SWEETSER'S PANACEA. Being composed only of vegetable matter, or medi-cal herbs, and warranted, on oath, as containing not one particle of mercurial, mineral, or chemical substances, is found to be perfectly harmless to the most tender age of the weakest frame, under any stage of human suffering; the most pleasant and benign in its operation that was ever offered to the world; and at the same time the most certain in searching out the root of any take medicine at this season of the year, but more especially at this present time; for there probably were never so many causes existing at one period as there are now, so likely to produce a state of sickness. The repeated changes in the atmosphere, by acting as they do upon the constitution, and quality of the blood itself, give occasion for the most fatal and malignant disorders. The bile becomes (and often without any warning.) in a most acrimonious condition from these repeated changes, and if the stomach and bowels have been neglected previously, the first symptoms require immediate attention. go and get a bottle of DR. HASTINGS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF NAPTHA.

St. Johnsville. New York, Feb. 5. 1848. DR. HASTINGS' COMPOUND SYRUE of NAPTHAST. Johnsville. New York, reb. 5. 1848.

Mr. Harrison: Sir—I will trouble: your patione refew minutes by informing you of the great triumph which your Naptha Syrup has obtained in the case of my brother. He increased the dose as you directed, and the result was that he began to raise very freely, and it scented so bodly that it was impossible to stay in the room where he was, on the fifth day after the increase of the dose. In a day or so after, he began to get better, and at this present time is quite revived, has a good appetite, and don't cough a quarter as much as he did previously. A severe cough and immense expectoration were the prominent symptoms of the disease. I think his case was a singular one; none of the physicians here had ever heard or seen any thing of the kind before. I mention all these particulars, as I am firm in the belief that, itad it not been for the fraptha Syrup, he could have expected nothing but a speedy grave, as there was an immense number of tubercles formed on his lungs, which the medicine took immediate hold of, and in a few days he threw them up by the quantity, some of them were as large as a bean. If he improves as fast as he has done, I do not think that he will need any more than the six bottles I may send for. Enclosed are five dollars, Direct the tox as before to Jonas Suell. Care of Charles Kingsland, Railroad Depot. Yours respectfully, Jonas Suell.

After reading the above, who can doubt that Hastings' Naptha Syrup possesses all the virtue that is claimed for it.
