THRILLING SKETCH.

From an interesting article in the April No. of the Southern Literary Messenger, on Mathew G. Lewis (commonly called Mak, from the novel of that name which he wrote) we take the following: "THE MANIAC."

"Among his poems is that celebrated one 'The Maniac,' which has been lately joined to thrilling music, and sung by a distinguished composer. It was originally a monodrama and presented by Mrs. Litchfield, a tragic actress, at one of her benefits .-Her character as a maniac, and her embodiment of the author's imaginings, combined with the scenic effect, threw a portion of the audience into hysterics, and the whole theatre into confusion and horror. Even the box keepers took fright, and universal terror he countenances of boxes, pit and Mrs Litchfield herself in acting. car fainting. Of course the piece was are arawn, but the author was sufficiently complimented by its effect, if compliment it be, to well-nigh kill a whole assemblage.-The piece, with Lewis's stage directions and in its original form, is much more effective than as a bit of poetry or as a song. In its primitive dress we present it. "The scene represents a dungeon in which is a grated door guarded by strong bars and chains. In the upper part is an open gallery leading to the cells above. Slow and melancholy music. The captive is discovered in the attitude of hopeless grief; she is in chains; her eyes are fixed with a vacant stare, and her hands are folded. After a pause the Gaoler is seen passing through the upper gallery with a lamp; he appears at the grate and opens the door. The noise of the bars falling rouses the captive. She looks around eagerly; but on seeing the Gaoler enter, she waves her hand mourufully and relapses into her former stuper. The Gaoler replenishes a jug with water, and places a loaf of bread by her side. He then prepares to leave the dungeon, when the captive seems to resolve on making an attempt to excite his compassion; she rises from her bed of straw, clasps his hand and sinks at his feet. The music ceases and she speaks: "Stav, Gaoler stav, and hear my woe!

She is not mad who kneels to thee, For what I'm now, too well I know, And what I was and what should be I'll rave no more in proud despair, My language shall be calm tho' sad; But yet I'll firmly, truly swear I am not mad, [kissing his hand] I am not mad. He offers to leave; she detains him, and continues in a tone of eager persuasion: A tyrant husband forged the tale Which chains me in this dreary cell My fate unknown, my friends bewail, Oh, haste, my father's heart to cheer; That heart at once, 'twill grieve and glad

To know, tho' kept a captive here, I am not mad! ret mad! not mad! Harsh music, while the Gaoler, with a ook of contempt and disbelief, forces his hand from her grasp and leaves her. The bars are heard replacing. He smiles in scorn !- He turns the key!

H. H. COLE. He quits the grate!-I knelt in vain! Still -still, his glimmering lamp I see. Plaintive music; the light growing fainter as the Gaoler retires through the gallery. and the captive watches his departure with enger looks. Tis lost !- and all is gloom again. She shivers and wraps her garment more closely around her. "Cold !-bitter cold !-no warmth !-no light!

Life! all the comforts once I had; Yet here I am chained this freezing night, [Eagerly.] Altho' not mad! no, ne, no, -not mad! A few bars of melancholy music, which she interrupts by exclaiming suddenly: "Tis sure a dream [-some fancy vain! [Proudiy.] I-I, the child of rank and wealth! Am I the wretch who clauks this chain.
Deprived of ficedow, friends and bealth?
The while I count those blessings fled
Which never more my hours must glad,
How peles my hears!—how burns my heaf? Interrupting herself hastily, and pressing her hands forcibly against her forchead.

But 'tis not mad-no-lis not mad! She remains fixed to this attitude, with a look of fear, till the music changing ex-presses that some touder melancholy reflection has possed her mind "My child!—ah! hast then not forget by this.

an agony of terror. Now! now! my dungeon bars he shakes. Help! Help!

Scared by her cries the madmar, quits the grate. He again appears in the gallery above, is seized by his keepers with torches; and after some resistance is dragged away. He's gone !- oh fearful woe Such screams to hear, such sights to see.

THE SMILE AND THE TEAR.

Than the smile and tear, what are more beautiful? A smile is a ray of the spirit's joy, beaming from the sun of cheerfulness, and if it chance to fall upon the faithful, prismatic mirror of the face of a kindred spirit, it is reflected, and appears again in fairer form upon another's countenance, as a bright | the mind deciduates into the lowest depths rainbow of delight in the sky of bliss.

Thus one smile is mysteriously transformed into seren; each color in the rainbow becomes a beam of happiness; and if you smile you may gladden as many hearts. From this learn the beauty and the value of a smile; and if you forget what I say-no matter if you do not forget to smile often.

Tears are the dew-drops of sympathy; and they often fall so fast upon the heart that | pel the shadows that have accumulated .the tear fount o'erflows, and quick the eye glistens ;-'tis then we shed a tear !

But if we weep it is no evidence that we are not happy. All are not tears of grief .-There are tears of joy, and is there not a tear of love? When first the eyes of maternal love beheld thee, did not thy mother smiling, greet thee with a tear? Do friends weep only when they part? Oh, the meeting! who hath not wept forth his joy in tears, when his heart was too full of love to speak? Ah! I pity the one who cannot say to some Such tears are the nectar of blissful emotions-not salt, but' sweet. Such tears I love, and when they trickle down my cheek. if you should look you'd see them falling through the sunshine of a smile! Then-by the light of a smile see the beauty of a tear. Then is it not beautiful to see joy and love embodied-made visible-both in the form of the smile and the tear?

THE NEWSPAPER.

Those persons having charge of families, who do not see them supplied with at least one good miscellaneous weekly paper, leave a very important duty unfulfilled. Such a medium of instruction has many advantages over books; first, because no books of equal capacity in quantity, can be offered so cheaply as a newspaper-and secondly, none are so interesting because the newspaper consists of a variety measured out in the proper quartitles, as to time and quality. new every week, it invites to a habit of reading, and affords an easy and agreeable mode of acquiring knowledge, so essential to every one. It causes many hours to pass away pleasantly and profitably, which would otherwise have been spent in idleness and mischief. The first taste for reading that is elieited from children is manifested in the mis-cellaneous paper, in which they carliest learn to sel an interest, and to read with attention. Some writer has said he could at once decide whether a family were in the habit of readderstand .- Plug of the Union.

HOPE.

Hope is the golden cord that tethers man to this existence: once destroy that ligament, and instead of introspecting with all the anxious eagerness excited by happy anticipations, gloomy retrospections supervene, and of chaotic despair. Hope, like the neverfailing guide of the pathless ocean-the compass, even in the midst of most gloomy despondency, keeps steady to its point, and prompts us to look forward to a happy conclusion of a tempestuous voyage. When the lamp of life's enjoyments begins to wane, take care that it be not altogether extinguished, leaving thee without a single ray to dis Let hope pour the oil of consolation into the flickering cresset, and see that it be kept constantly trimmed by thine own industry, perseverance and energy. Whose sitteth idly by, and permitteth the light of happiness to burn into the socket, without an effort on his own part to sustain it, must not complain, if, in the end, he find nought but night around him-no star to point him out the way of safety-no sun to warm him with its genial beams, and nothing left to him but an utter vacuity as regards future prospects .-Rear, then, the banner of consolatory in-looking, and be it inscribed with these bright words-Hope! hope! hope!

KINDNESS.

The strongest bond of union in society is kindness. It may be shown at all times and under all circumstances, and is the cheapest of all the remedies for the numerous ills that affect us in the journey of life.

"A little word in kindness spoken, May heal the wounded heart or broken." And what is so sweet as the memory of a kind act. We may have contributed to the relief of distress, or given succor to the needy-made the widow's heart to rejoice, or dried the orphan's tears. There is a luxpry in the thought, that we have done that which blesses twice, him who gives, and him who receives. All without may be dark, but the sunshine is in our heart, the warmth is an hour with the poor and distressed.

"Be it therefore enacted by authority aforesaid, That in actions of slander occasioned by the wife, as aforesaid, after judgment passed for the damages, the woman shall be punished by ducking; and if the slander be so enormous as to be adjudged at a greater damage than five hundred pounds of tobacco, then the women to suffer ducking for every five hundred pounds of tobacco, adjudged against the husband, if he refuses to pay the tobacco."

Woman's Love.-How many bright eyes grow dim-how many cheeks grow palehow many levely forms fade away into the tomb, and none can tell the cause that blighted their loveliness! As the dore will clasp its wings to its sides, and cover and conceal the arrow that is preying on its heart, so it is the nature of woman to hide from the world the pangs of wounded affection.

WOMAN'S VOICE .- How consoling to the mind opposed by heavy sorrow, is the voice of an amiable woman! Like sacred music, it imparts to the soul a feeling of celestial serenty, and, as a gentle zephyr, refreshes the wearied senses with its soft and mellifluous tones. Riches may avail much in the hour of affliction; the friendship of man may alleviate for a time the bitterness of woe; but the angel voice of woman is capable of producing a lasting effect on the heart, and communicates a sensation of delicious composure which the mind had never before experienced. | cellar, and cover them with send. THE HORSE'S EYE. I will now inform you how for certain you may know whether a horse has a strong and good eye, or a weak eye, and likely to go blind. People in general turn a horse's head to a bright light to examine his eyes. You can know very little, by this method, what sort of an eye the horse has, unless it be at very defective one. You must examine the eye first, when the horse stands with his head to the manger. Look carefully at the pupil of the eye, in the horse; it is of an oblorg form; carry the size of the pupil in your min i, then turn the horse about, bring him to a bright light, and if the pupil of the eye contracts, and appears much smaller than it was in the darker light, then you may be sure the horse has a strong good eye; but provided the pupil remains nearly the same size as it appeared in the darker light, the horse has a weak eye, therefore have nothing to do with him. — Old Almanac.

DRESSING FOR THE FLOWER GARDEN .- A little care will enable any family to have the very best compost possible for flowers, whether in beds or pots. Mix together the waste leaves and stalks, all the shreds and bits of cloth, cuttings of hair, sweepings of rooms and paths, bone broken in small pieces, coal dust, an equal quantity of fine coal ashes, or half quantity of wood ashes-mix in a heap, and pour upon it daily the nightwash of the house, but not in quantities to run through; turn the whole once a week until the quantity equals your requirements.

POULTRY .- Have two breeds of hens; one sort selected expressly for their excellent quality in hatching and rearing chickens; and twice the number of perpetual layers, as eggs are more profitable than chickens -Let your chickens come as early as possible. Feed plentifully. Barley is excellent feed for hens.

Scions .- Now is the time to cut them for use. Take care and select thirty shoots; not from the lower branches, as these are apt to grow badly. Keep them for use in a dry saw-dust they mould; in damp earth they decay; on bare boards they dry too much.

Virginia Free Press. THURSDAY HOREING. MAY 10, 1849.

We beg to call the attention of correspondents to the following: No communication on any subject will be published unless the editors are put in possession of the name of the author.

No article will be published which is written on both THE STATE ELECTIONS.

The result of the late elections is by no means gratifying. We have lost every Congressional district, but one. The real condition of the House of Delegates is not yet ascertained; nor is it very important, as no political question of moment is likely to arise at the next session. We have gained the Westmereland Senatoriai district,

The apathy of the Whigs in some portions of the State, and their dissensions in others, have been exceedingly annoying to the bulk of the party. This is generally the case after a Presidential contest.-It was so in 1841 and in 1845-many thinking it only necessary to exert themselves once in four years,articularly pleasing to our opponents, who fancy they see Gen. Taylor with a minori-

th Houses. Well, if the result should be so, Democratic Congress take it into their heads ! the Wilmot Proviso, as they did in reference regon, the President will scarcely be expected in counter to the will of so distinguished a body itter character of the feud in the Richmone disgusted many of the Whige in every ate, and has been disastrous in other stricts. Botts was obstingte in his opposition to Gen. Taylor up to the period of the Presidential election, when he surrendered and voted for the Old Hero. Those who doubt his Whiggery have illustrated their own, by aiding in the election of a Locofoco! This is a sublimation of purity which plain country folks bereabouts don't understand .-Will any body explain it?

THE COUSTY CANVASS.

We hope the lively contest for the County will leave no heartburnings or unkind remembrances .-Such a contest is no evidence of the relative popularity of the candidates. Those who received the Convention nomination had decidedly the advantage, because a repudiation of the work of that body would have been considered an endorsement of the charge of packing, and this was an accusation which the great body of the voters were not prepared to make. The worst feature in our County contests, of late, is that of sectionality. We have four precincis, and each thinks itself occasionally entitled to a delegate. What particular adverse interests can possibly spring up between the sections, we are ntterly at a loss to imagine-and in the course of our somewhat long experience, we have been unable to point to a single instance of a want of fidelity on the part of our delegates to any and every interest of our County.

DUTY OF AN EDITOR.

The Editor of a newspaper, it is said, should consult the taste of all his readers, and can never be justified in pleasing one class, to the exclusion of the rest. The difficulty of performing the task, can be appreciated only by those who have attempted it .-Papers are distributed among all ranks of society, and, with few exceptions, each expects that their particular wishes will be especially regarded. The Merchant looks for advertisements, marine lists, and bank tables; the Philosopher, for grave dessertations on inna e ideas, or on the immateriality of matter; the Mechanic, for new discoveries of perpetual motion; Young Ladies would sigh at least once a week, over a few delectable love ditties; the virtuous Matron wants to know how many divorces were granted at the last session of the General Assembly, and mourns that there should be cause for separations between husband and wife; the old Maid counts the marriages and deaths, to find on which side the balance preponderates. Your dashing "Blood" would know who fell last at Bladensburg, on the bed of honor; while the Friend of peace, rejoices that the noise of battle will soon cease, and that germents will no longer be rolled in blood. The Partizan, of all men in the world, is the most difficult to please. He looks only for original matter .the editorial columns are not well crammed with art repartees, biting sarcasms, bold inuendoes, it do not come exactly up to the libel point; unanswerable satires, that will kill an honorable antagonist, or an honest friend; conundrums without number, and political squibs that will blow him into office-be praises the man that could write such chings and the printer who would print them, is thoroughly convinced of his own importance, and feels as if he could make a speech with any orator in Christendom. But should such articles be wanting-should an examination of measures be found when an attack on men was expected-or an opinion be expressed, which is not perfectly consonant with the views and interest of those who alone should have the power of speaking, thinking, writing and acting, why then, the editor is marked as an egregious blockhead, or a dangerous politician; the paper becomes very barren or is fraught with mischief, and the hot-headed Partizan wonders at the audacity of printers, who in this degenerate age,

The poor editor, who expects to obtain an approving smile on all occasions, from every one o this discordant multitude, will find himself as much mistaken, as the man in the fable, who, in attempting to please every body, pleased nobody. It'is enough if he endeavors to please others, without displeasing himself, or betraying his trust. Circumstances will sometimes occur, which, if he has any regard for the liberties of his fellow-citizens, require that he should assume some responsibility .-And when this is the case, the faithful and independent public sentinel, will not shrink from the performance of his duty, to avoid the seproaches of an enemy, or the displeasures of a friend. If, in his estimation, the people require it, he will lift up a warning voice, without fear of offending.

presume to judge of the public weal!

THE NEXT LEGISLATURE.

The loss and gain being about equal, the Demoeratic majority in the Legislature will be about the same as last year. There being no political question of interest to consider next session, this is a matter of no consequence; but the loss of the Berkeley Senatorial district-or rather the failure to reclaim it-is a subject of deep regret. It was altogether within the power of the Whigs of Berkeley to have produced a different result, but they permitted a local feud to operate, and the election of a Governor and United States' Senator will both come on before the disaster can be retrieved. The Estra Session will be commenced on the 28th instant (two weeks from Monday next.) It is supposed the work of Revision of the Civil Code will occupy the Legislature about four or five weeks.

CELEBRATION IN STAUNTON.

The Sons of Temperance and the Odd Fellows had a grand festival in Staunton on the 1st instant. The Harrisonburg Register, one of whose editors was present, says:

At atout 11 o'clock the two Orders proceeded from their respective halls. There were 80 Odd Fellows and 155 S. of T. in procession, clothed in their regalia, and to their line was superadded the Millifa officers who were training in Staunton. The Militia officers who were training in Staunton. The procession, stretching itself over a space of near half a mile in length, presented one of the handsomest spectacles evar exhibited in any country village.—The kind and boothers vaniou and seeming blending of the two benevolent Orders was the happiest feature, and must have made a happy trajsression in favor of both Orders on the mind of the community.

After passing through the principal streets, the procession entered the M. E. Church. The Odd Fellows were first addressed by L. Wigness, Esq., eding of the "Spectator." His address was a limitated and beautiful production, and light, affice to him who uttered it and to the principles of the Order it was istended to disserate.

After the alidrand, the procession was re-formed, moving to the post at which the two Orders separa-ted for their respective places of meeting. "WOOD UP -- AGAIN,

THE CONGRESSIONAL ELECTION. Our neighbor of the Spirit is in centacy because the "Duch have taken Holland." We are candid the general result. We had strong hopes of saving at least four members of Congress; and had the Whigs done even half their duty, our hopes have been numbered, we are free to confess that our with the aid of a good pair of borrowed spectacles, Hero bax been somewhat worsted; that General to decipher the following advertisement: Lukewarm test, (always a potent adversary in this State) with the aid of one iniquitous Gerrymander.

have driven him to the ground our forces occupied to the campaign of 1845. Most readers will readily remember, that in 1813, herobeing a democratic majority in the Legislature, the Congressional districts were so laid off as to allow with certainty but one member to the Whigs .-To secure this result effectually, the Richmond distries, the most growing in the State, had an additional county (8000) put upon it, after it already bad a surplus population over the ratio. Whig strength, however, increased, in spite of this extra number. and the district became decidedly Whig two years ago. The well known dissensions which sprang up the last two months have produced defeat, but this must only be temporary. There will be a rally, and at the next election the Metropolitan district will be

FIRST DISTRICT. John S. Millson, L. F., is elected by about 148 majority.- 'Phis district gave Gen. Cass 221 majority. Whig gain 76. SECOND DISTRICT.

R. K. Meade, L. F., re-elected without opposition. Cass' majority 368.

THIRD DISTRICT. Thomas A. Avereit, L. F., elected by 3 majority. Cass' maj. 22. In this district the polls were kept open in the strong Locofoco county of Halifax, and closed in the Whig counties. His opponent, Flournoy, late member, had a handsome majority on the first day's voting.

FOURTH DISTRICT. Thomas S. Bocock, Loco, re-elected by upwards of 200 majority over Irving Whig. Taylor's maj. 87. This result seems to indicate that the Whigs have lost ground in this district, but such is not the fact. It has been ascertained that 160 Whigs in Charlette and Appomatiox, voted for Bocock in order to secure the county representatives.

FIFTH DISTRICT. Paulus Powell, Loco, elected by 40 majority over Goggin, Whig. (late member.) Here, too, we have lost a district, through the shameful conduct of a portion of the Whigs of Amberst. The contest for the House of Delegates in this county was exceedingly warm and animated, and some 35 Whigs supported Powell for altogether local reasons. The polls were kept open in Madison and Greene, two Democratic counties, while they were closed the first day in Albemaile and Bedford, and other Whig counties. Taylor's majority 125.

SIXTH DISTRICT. J. A. Seddon, Loco, elected by 400 majority over Botts and Lec, Whigs. Taylor's maj. 421. Our dissentions in this District are so generally known, that it is hardly necessary to allude to them. The Whig vote was not out by over 900.

SEVENTH DISTRICT. T. H. Barly re-elected over Mallory by a large majority. Taylor's maj. 552. The uncertainty of Mallory's politics induced many Whigs to vote for Bayly, and some 500 staid away from the polls-he having been a L. F. in '36, a Whig in '40, a L. F. in '41, and a Whig in '48. The Whig candidate was from the Western shore, and the Whigs of the Eastern will not vote for a Western man

EIGHTH DISTRICT. A. R. Holladav, L. F., elected by 40 majority over Forbes Whig. Taylor's maj. 77. In Spottsylvania, Caroline and Westmoreland the Whig vote was not polled by 200, and the Locofoco vote was not increased. The poils were kept open three days at Democratic precincts, and Forbes, was beaten, though he like Mr. Flourney, had a majority on the first and second days.

NINTH DISTRICT. Morton, Whig elected over Pendleton, late member, by 700 maj. Taylor's maj. 1569.

TENTH DISTRICT. Richard Phrker, L. F., elected over Faulkner independent Whig by 700 maj. Cass' maj. 651. ELEVENTH DISTRICT. James McDowell, L. F., re-elected without opposition. Cass mai. 1604. TWELFTH DISTRICT. Edmonson, L. F., elected over Anderson, independent Whig. Cass' maj. 149. The Legislature last winter annexed a portion of Highland county to this district, which gives over 100 Locofoco maj. THIRTEENTH DISTRICT. McMullen, L. F., elected over George, L. F., by a large majority. Cass' maj. 781. FOURTEENTH DISTRICT.

Beale, Democrat, supposed to be elected. Taylor's maj. 361.

FIFTEENTH DISTRICT. Alexander Newman, L. F., elected over Russell independent Whig by 400 maj. Cass' maj. 855. It will be seen from the above abstract, that had our friends exerted themselves as they should have done, we would have secured seven members.

It may, perhaps, be deemed useless to speculate on these things. The result is disastrous, whatever may be the cause, and cannot be remedied for two years, but the Whigs should not suffer themselves to be disheartened. They can "right the ship" within the next two years, if they will. What has been done once, can be done again. In our own Congressional district, it is well known, we are also laboring under the incubus of a "Gerrymander." Page, with her 600 majority, has been fastened upon us, and she can and does control the district. The Whig vote was not out by many hundreds, owing to a feud in Berkeley, and the fact that there were no Democratic county candidates in Jefferson, to put the Whigs up to their strengthmany of them disliking to attend the polls to discriminate between friends.

The Democrats are now indulging the hope that they will secure a majority in the next House of Representatives-and this they may do, if the Whigs of the other States vet to vote do not exert themselves better than those of Virginia have done. But they are also relying upon the aid of Whig "free soilers" at the North, who claim to hold the "balance of power," and who may coalesce with the Democrats on several questions. Let them do it. The firm Old Hero who holds the reins will not be disturbed by mere factious opposition.

THE NEXT CONGRESS.

From calculations undde by the New York Tribone, (generally very accurate,) the members of the House of Representatives already elected stand as follows, in their political complexion:

Free Soil Whigs Free Soil Democrats Yel to be Chosen. Probable results: Whigs Free Soil Whig

This will leave the relative strength as follows: Whigs 115, Locos 103, Free Soil Whigs 9, Free Soil Democrats 4 If the Free Soilers should undertake to wield the balance of power," and coalesce with the Democrats, as they seem inclined to do in most of the Legislative bodies, they may prevent the election of Whis officers. For this disastrous result, the Whigs of Virginia are in a great degree responsible. The feud in the Richmond district was altogether inexcusable. Botts had certainly no great claim to indulgence, but when it was fairly a certained that a majority of the Whigs of the District were willing to overlook his aborrations, it could scarcely be deemed a test of boiler Whiggery by those who found anly with him, to throw themselves into the ranks of the adversary. With the Secrete against him, and the House so nearly so, Gen. Taulor will bark no opportunity so carry out any calulary Whig useasures. But the Old Hero is imperturbable under all circumstances, Whatever the country can stond, he can endure, and with as nearly presence as anybody. If the Whige choose is throw away, by apathy or dissenion, the fruits of the Great Victory of November, the fault is their own

We have received the May number of this periodical, published in Philadelphia. This work offers as agreeable and instructive reading as may well be, for not only farmers, but for all who look to the enlightenment of that class as the great means of bringing about a wiser economy in the distribution and combination of all the auxiliary or dependant industrial pursuits. Our worthy friend Skinner is one for whom we feel not only the interest of an ancient and most kindly personal regard, but that still more imperative claim which he has upon the whole country, as the public writer who has amongst us by the particular charm of his writing-their method, ing." their spirit, their manner of treating things-rendered science popular in an occupation where once all was prejudice against it. It is his merit in these latter respects which, even more than the personal esteem which he inspires, makes us frequently recur to his journal as one that-though there be now many other most useful ones of a like sort-as the patriarch of all advancement in culture, should rereive the willing and even grateful support of all husbandmen and friends of the many other arts, that must flourish or languish according as it does or does not adopt all the aids of knowledge from other subjects which might lead to its advancement.

into your infant mind the principles of piety and virtue-had your youth been marked by indulgence in dissipation and vice, we could well account for the commission of the crimes which are now about to consign you to a felow's fate. But none of these usual precursors of crime heralded your fall. Born of most reputable parents, who carefully trained you to the practice of virtue, you early formed of yourself a character which seemed to be the natural esult of your birth and education. Your punctual performance of every duty, your remarkable exmption from every vicious habit, your scrupulous fidelity to every trust confided to you, was the frequent topic of remark among those who had the best opportunity of knowing you. You had not the poor plea of necessity to tempt you to indulge in dishonest practices, for your rare qualifications for usefulneis would always have ensured you a competency at least, if not ultimate wealth. You could not have needed money, indeed, for it is in proof that of all the large sums you abstracted from the mails, the fruits of your systematic depredations, through three entire months, every dollar was found in your possession, carefully hoarded at the time of your arest. How then are we to account for infatuation which hurried you into the of the series of crimes for which you suffer? Avarice has been called the but the story of your melancholy fall le room to doubt that the blight of this most despicable vice may sometimes fall upon the youthful heart, wither its best affections, and fearfully pervert the whole moral nature of him who becomes its slave when the dawn of manbood has searcely been attained. And pity 'tis, 'tis true." A terrible retribution has overtaken you, but the trusting heart of your devoted triends will yet extract the precious solace of hope from the profound depths of your present despair. They will delight to cherish the recollection of the bright virtues that adorned your past life up to the very hour that you yielded to the fatal temptation which beset you. They will never surrender the conviction that you could not have become, as it were, in an instant, incorrigible vicious, and they will still indulge the cheering hope that the dreadful penalty you have justly incurred will still exert a salutary influence on your heart and character. The Penitentiary, indeed, is a wre-ched school of reform, and the observation of every man must have taught him that the heart of the unhappy convict is much more likely to grow callous under the deadening influence of its discipline and associations than to experience reformation. Still, instances of thorough reformation through the instrumentality of this fearful ordeal have occurred: and, if you are wise, you may leave your prison, chastened by affliction, a better man than you entered it. God grant that you may yet live to be a stay and comfort to that widowed mother and devoted sister whose hearts are now filled with

ROBERT E. SCOTT.

The Piedmont (Warrenton) Whig noticing the defeat of this gentleman, says:-"We know that Mr. Scott's prominent onposition to the Virginia resolutions, and his subsequent defeat, will be claimed as an endorsement by l'auquier county of those resolutions. We protest against any such inference. Opposition to the Virginia Resolutions would not, we feel satisfied have lost him one Whig vote in the county. We do not believe those resolutions meet with the of this county. But opposition to the peace or civil war, or position to such resolu-tions, and an open advocacy of the power of tories are by no means, necessarily the same. Fauquier, we say is still Whig, is still conservative, and whenever the question of union or disunion is presented before her, she will never be found giving her aid to those, who, under the guise of resistance to the so called Valuable copper ore is said to have been Wilmon Proviso" seek to accomplish objects they dare not openly avow."

> AN INPALLIBLE CURE FOR CHOLERA .- Take three table-spoons full of castor oil, three table spoons full of the best French brandy, and forty drops of landanum, mixed well together, and let the patient drink it off. The body must then be rubbed over with brandy and a hot flannel cloth. Should the condition of the patient not improve within one hour. and the nails of the fingers begin to get black, administer one table-spoon full of easter oil, one of French brandy, and ten drops of laudanum. This generally throws the sufferer into a profound sleep, from which he will awaken perfectly well. This treatment has been found most effectual in India, waste the cholera first appeared, and thousands of persons were cured by this very simple remedy.-Liverpool paper.

CHARLESTOWN MINING COMPANY. PARTIES IN THE NEXT CONGRESS. In the absence of any direct communication from St. Josephs, where our Company for California was last sojourning, we subjoin some exracts from a private letter of a friend, who is also a member of the Company, but at the date of this had not yet reached his comrades: INDEPENDENCE, Jackson county, Mo., [

* * * * * April 19, 1849. \
* The emigration ! California is so great as to astound the stontest heart. Many, doubtless, have supposed the larger the number the less the danger. This, however, is a very great mistake. All who migrate are dependent upon the prairie grass for forage, and the question naturally arises, will there to a sufficiency to sustain the stock? If we reason upon the information in our possession, we must be compelled in all candor to realy that the grass will not be sufficient. Those who have already travelled over the route speak of the difficulty in procuring forage, even when the number migratng were not one-twentieth when compared to the travel this Spring.

Various estimates have been made as to the number. At present, no definite number can be set down. Every boat is crowded, and the road lined with migrating parties. The sturdy me-chanic and the hardy farmer—the gay clerk and the assiduous professional—the grave parson and the sporting gentry-each, all, are duly represented in nearly every company numbering thirty. This place is crowded with emigrants-many are active, spirited and gay as the morning lark;

whilst you can see ever and anon, a long visage, marked with care, and bearing all the traces of deep and keer anxiety. Some few companies are disbanding. They, of course, did not count the cost, and having engaged in the enterprise as a matter of pleasure, have learnt very soon, being apt scholars, that there is no fun without paying the fiddler. The fact of it is, some have seen a few stripes of the Zebra already, many a one of which has been alike, and if those which remain yet to be seen, partake of the character of those already viewed, I'm not over-anxious for sight myself.

Having embarked after reflection, I am prepared go through, and meet whatever fate awaits 'Tis absolute folly to meet our difficulties half way, and whilst such shall not be my case, still, I will not be altogether andisturbed when they do arise.

St. Josephs, is 120 miles from this point. We shall not get there before Saturday, as our boat happens to be the slowest on the river. We had a little brush, or rather race, about 4 o'clock this morning. The boat Timour came up alongside, nd we had it side and side for some time. At ength we attempted to pass, when the other rounded-to," preparing to run into us. This rather frightened our Captain, and he " took waer," or in other words, jugloriously surrendered. We had the satisfaction, however, of knocking off some twenty sacks of flour on the other loat. We are not ahead, for although I date Independence, we are two or three miles from the landing, and Independence is 3 miles from the river. It is likely I shall get off the boat and walk to Independence, and overtake the boat at another landor. 12 miles farther up the river. Some twenty f us intend doing th's.

hat I presume you are anxious to hear from me on account of the prevalence of the Cholera on he river. You have doubtless learned ere this, of the death of Thomas F. Washington, of our company. He was taken ill on Wednesday morning the 11th, and was a corpse on the next morning, the 12th. Every thing that could be done for him was done. Medical skill was baffled, and our friend and companion, who started in good health lies now entombed, six City, Mo. The disease and buoyant in miles below Je. which terminate is life was doubtless cholera.
We had a case on board our boat on the 16th.— The patient was taken off on vesterday, and no new case has since occurred.

I would not now write to you but for the fact

We are now at the landing and I must close. The company are at St. Josephs by this time. I met Aisquith and Lewis at St. Louis. Lewis and myself have with us the goods of the Company. Aisquith will be along in a day or two. Write to me at once, and direct to Fort Laramie, via Independence. Two weeks later, write and direct Fort Hail, via Independence. I will write a letter for your paper, as soon as get a little settled at St. Josephs. There is no cholera at St. Josephs, so far as I can learn. Indeed it is too cold. Yesterday morning, and the day before, we had right sharp falls of snow. In haste, &c. J. H. K. A VOLUNTEER COMPANY.

It is proposed by some of the citieens of our own and its vicinity, to raise a Volunteer Company. There is certainly material enough for the purpose, and we would like very much to see a handsome company raised in the place. We are sure that it can be done if only a becoming interest is evinced in the matter. We hope that the spirit of former days will be revive. Nothing gives more life and animation to a village like ours, than the frequent parades of a handsomely uniformed and well drilled sunteer corps. And nothing is better calculated to elicit the admiring gaze of those whose admiration we all so much covet. An accomplished officer has proffered his aid, and if necessary and required to do so, will take command of the Company. Those who feel disposed to join, and we hope none who are of the right age will hesitate, can find a paper, on which to enrol their names, at the Shoe Store of Lieut. John Avis .- Spirit.

[Winchester Virginian.

Gen. Jas. McKay, for many years a Representative in Congress, from North Caroling, declique

From the returns thus far received, we zre nduced to fear that the loco-focos have earried all the districts with the exception of that of Loudoun. In this district Mr. Pendleton is defeated by Mr. Merton, himself a Whig, and an original friend of Gen. Taylor. In the elections held previous to that of Virginia, the Whigs bave chosen 88, the Democrats 63. The addition of 14 from irginia to the Democrats, and of I to the Whigs, makes the tables stand 89 Whigs and 77 Democrats, already elected. In the last

Congress, the States yet to choose Representatives, stood as follows: Indiana . - - - - - - - - - - 41 Kentucky 6 Mississippi -North Carolina -Tennessee - - - - 5 Vacancies -

It will thus be seen, that if no changes occur in the States which have yet to elect, the representation will stand 119 Whigs to 112 Democrats, leaving the Whigs, even after the loss of Virginia, a clear majority of seven in the lower House. In none of the states enumerated in the above table, do we see the slightest probability that the Whigs will lose, while we regard it as almost certain that they will gain in several. In Kentucky for instance, which gave Gen. Taylor the largest majority she had ever given to any candidate for the Presidency; in Alabama, where the Presidential vote indicated a greatly reduced locofoco majority; in Louisiana, which gave a large majority for the Whig candidate, and s moreover the State in which lies General Taylor's home ; and in Tennessee, which, as the Presidential vote indicates is decidedly Whig. We do not like to venture upon the tender ground of prophecy. We have, of late, seen so many men start from home Baalam's in their own estimation, and return no better than his ass, that it would require much to make us mount the tripod. Yet wo think, that without pretending to the gift of prophecy, the above tables, taken in connection with the circumstances to which we have alluded, fully justify the belief that we shall have a majority of at least twelve, probably of twenty, in the next House of Representatives. The Senate as far as has been ascertained. stands 30 Democrats, 25 Whigs, and 3 Free Soilers. Alabama appoints 2 at the next session of her Legislature, which will make up the entire number of 60.

It is a remarkable fact, and one which wa call upon our readers to note, that the three free-soil Senators, Hale of New Hampshire, Chase, of Ohio, and Whitcomb, of Indiana, were all chosen by Democrats. This is the way the "Northern Allies" invariably show their devotion to Southern interests whenever the opportunity is presented to them .-Notwithstanding our defeat in Virginia, there is still every hope that the Administration will be supported by a majority in the House of Representatives. The majority is certainly against us in the Senate, but it is to be hoped that that body will consult the dictates of patriotism and not trust the selfish suggestions of faction .- Rich Whig.

MELANCHOLY SUICIDE. On the 6th of April last a young man culling himself Richard Tunner came to this place and sought employment as a saddler. He was received into the shop of Mr. C. H-BALL and applied himself to work until Tuesday the 24th, when he had a full settlement with Mr. B., and left the shop. About. two o'clock of that day he purchased two drachms of opium at the drug store of Messrs. Eskridge and Kinney, which was given him without suspicion. After leaving the store he was seen eating it on the street. Presenty he returned and enquired of the apothecary how much opium would kill a man." He was immediately arrested by the civil authorities e purpose of enand committed to forcing ve means.were, with armean out effect. Insensibility rapidly ensued

After the foregoing partial amendment he again sunk into a state of stupor, which terminated in death at two o'clock on Wednesday. "IT PLEASES HER."-"John," said his master to him one day, they really say, that your wife beats you. Is it true?" "Yoy," drawled John with most provoking coolness .-"Yoy," responded the master with indignation. "What do you mean by that, you lout? A great thumping fellow like you, as strong as a steam engine or an elephant, to let a little woman like your wife thrash you! What a blockhead you must be !" "Whoy, whoy," was the patient answer, "it pleases her an it does me no hort."

A YANKEE INVENTION .- A Yankee has just invented a method to eatch rats. He says, locate your bed in a room much infested by these animals, and on retiring put out the light. Then strew over your pillow some strong smelling cheese, three or four red herrings, some barley meal or new malt, and a sprinkling of dried codfish. Keep awake till you find the rats at work, and then make a grab. Try it, somebody.

"Going IT WHILE THEY ARE YOUNG!"-A marriage recently took place at Quebec, Capada, in which the bridegroom was aged 14, and the bride 13 years. The boy imposed upon the clergy: an by wearing false whiskers, and the girl by cotton breastworks.

IT "It is all very true, Mr. Knickerbottom," said Mrs. Partington, as she read in the last Knickerbocker something concerning brevity and simplicity of expression; "its true as you say; and how many mistakes there does happen when folks don't understand each other! Why, last summer I told a dressmaker to make me a long visite to wear, and would you believe it-she came a fortnight with me? Since then, I've made it a pint always to speak just what I say."-Her mouth grew down to a determined pucker at the end of the sentence, and the snuff box was tapped energetically, as if the fortnight of unrequited bread and butter was laving heavy on her memory. - Beston Post. The Maine Farmer tells of a chap in Gardiner, who took a gill of camphene in mistake for gin, but whose life was saved by a most ingenious process. After the stomach pump and all common means of restoration had been tried in vain, the grocer's clerk simply run a wick down the patient's throat, touched a blaze to it, and burnt out the camphene! Instant restoration was the coneequence.

The Bangor Mereury tells of a jolly husband not a thousand miles from that city, who, having been out on a bit of a spree,' was saluted by his better half on his return, with : 'O, you hard-hearted wretch !' The husband meckly replied that he didn't think his heart could be very hard, for he'd been 'souking it' for the last forty-eight hours!

A New Yorker has invented a contrivance which is called a Walk-in-the-Water, with which a man can plauge into the river and swim about like a duck without danger, using a finger only as a propeller. He is so much at his case that he may read a newspaper, take a comfortable nap, or cat a snack while fleating. This is just the contrivance for an afternoon in midsummer.

A clab of women in Paris, who contend for the wildest and most extended rights. have a code of bye-laws. One of the articles runs in this wise: "Any young woman who finds herself married to a man fifty years of age, shall have a perfect right to swap him off for two of twenty five years each."

The following are infallible recipes: To make pic-play at blind man's buff in a printing office. To have music at dinnertell your wife she is not so handsome as the lady who lives across the way. To save butter-make it so salt that nobody can cat it. We were looking for the latest report upon gentlemen's fashions lately; a N. York house says "there is not much change in gentlemen's pants this month!" Very likely. A gentleman of our acquaintance being in conversation yesterday evening, with a remarkably pretty young lady, said to her that he had a friend who would be a suitable match. If he get me, I will be a little mistaken,' said the young lady. 'I perfectly agree with you,' replied the gentleman, that in such a case, you will be a little Miss-taken!"

A husband, whose cars were constantly assailed by the unruly tongue of his wife, bore the sound of her incessant slarm with the greatest patience.

"It is very clear," said one of his friends, "that you are afraid of your wife." "I am not afraid of her." said the husband. "but of the goise she makes."

Harpers-Ferry, April 26, 1849. To the Afflicted. UPWARDS OF ONE HUNDRED YEARS GONE BY, some of the most eminent Physicians of Europe made the discovery of a Weed the healing virtues of which was, until then un-chown, and is now nearly lost sight. . It was then considered the only remedy for Concers, Ulcers, S. ald Head, Thrush Inflamation of the Eyes, Ilch, and many other Cutaneous, Diseases. God has provided remedies for every disease that afflicts the human family, and this which I allude to, I know from experience, to be the most powerful and efficacious of any other ever known. I claim no merit in the discovery, but I have tested its merits and virtues. Sixteen years since, I cured a Cancer in my lip, of ten months standing, in eleven days. 1 | 20 Hhds Porto Rico, New Orleans and Cuba do have since cured the Scurvy in my gums, the teeth being bare to the jaw bone-bidiamation in the Eve, Sunburn, Poison, Tetter, Ring Worm, Sore Mouths, the Itch, and old sores in others. I believe it will cure St. Anthony's Fire, or Irrisepolis, Piles, or any other external affliction. Any person enclosing a one dollar current bank note, addressed to me, post paid, to Shepherdstown, Jefferson County, Va., shall receive full information of the manner of preparing and using the said weed which grows in all parts of the United States. It can now be procured, and the manner of preparing and using is very simple and easy.

November 9, 1848-1y Another Miraculous Cure.

READ the following letter, and then, if you are troubled with any disease of the lungs, go and get a bottle of DR. HASTINGS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF NAPTHA St. Johnsville, New York, Feb. 5. 1848. Mr. Harrison : Sir-I will trouble your patience few minutes by informing you of the great triumph which your Naptha Syrup has obtained in the case of my brother. He increased the dose an you directed, and the result was that he began to raise very freely. and it scented so badly that it was impossible to stay in the room where he was, on the fifth day after the erease of the dose. In a day or so alter, he began to get better, and at this present time is quite revived, has a good appetite, and don't cough a quarter as much as he did previously. A severe cough and immer se ex-pectoration were the prominent symptoms of the dis-ease. I think his case was a singular one: none of the physicians here had ever heard or seen any thing of the kind before. I mention all these particulars, as I am firm in the belief that, had it not been for the Naptha Syrup, he could have expected nothing but a speedy grave, as there was an immense number of tubercles formed on his lungs, which the medicine took immediate hold of, and in a few days he threw them up by the quantity , some of them were as large as a bean. If After reading ale above, who can doubt that Haat-
