the song of pleasure or the burst of revelry?

No; there is a voice from the tomb sweeter than song. There is a remembrance of the dead to which we turn, even from the charms of the living. Oh, the grave! the grave!-

and gentleness, and the thousand endear ments lavished upon us almost unheeded in solemn and awful tenderness, of the parting scene. The bed of death, with all its stifled griefs-its noiselesss attendance-its mute, watchful assiduities. The last testimonies of expiring love! The feeble, flutglazing eye, turning upon us even from the threshold of existence! The faint, faltering accents, struggling in death to give one more assurance of affection! Ay, go to the grave of buried love, and meditate! There settle dearment unregarded, of that departed being who can never, never return to be scothed er the contrition. If thou art a child, and moment of thy kindness or thy truth-if thou art a friend, and hast ever wronged, in generously confided in thee-if thou art a lover, and hast ever given one unmerited pang to that true heart which now lies cold and still beneath thy feet-then be sure that every unkind look, every ungracious word, unavailing tear-more deep, more bitter, be-thy chaplet of flowers, and strew the beauties of nature about the grave; console thy broken spirit, if thy canst, with these tender, yet futile tributes of regret; but take warn-

POETRY.

CAN LOVE FORGET! Forget thee! If to dream by night, And muse on thee by day— If all the worship, deep and wild, A poet's heart can pay—

If prayers in absence, breathed for thee, To Heaven's protecting power— If winged the ughts that flit to thee A thousand in an hour-If busy fancy blending thee With all my future lot-If thou call'st those "forgetting," thou Indeed shalt be forgot.

Forget thee! Bid the forest birds Forget their sweetes tune; Forget thee! Bid the forest buds To swell beneath the moon; Bid the faint evening flower forget To drink refreshing dew; Thyself forget thy own dear land—

Its mountains white and blue; Forget each old familiar face, Each long remembered spot-When these things are forgot by thee, Then shall thou be forgot. Keep, if thou wilt, thy maiden peace

Still calm and fancy free-For God forbid thy gladsome heart Should grow less glad for me; Yet, while that heart is still unwon, Oh! bid not mine to rove-But let it narse its humble faith,

And uncomplaining love. If these, preserved for patient years, At last avail me not-Forget me then! but ne'er believe That thou can'st be forgot. CONSTANCY.

onstancy! look on the first green leaves When fresh in the spring they blow: Constancy! look on the ripening sheaves Ere the year's decline they know. Look on the sea, when the waves are smooth On the sky, when the stars are bright; List to the winds when their murmurs soothe The rest of the tranquil night. Gaze upon these, and forget the time When the earth her flowers must weep, When the stars grow pale, and the storms sublime, Then seek if thou wilt for pageantry,

For its native clime is here; But constancy dwelleth afar on high, And dies in this lower sphere. THRILLING TALE.

The cage, with our united efforts, was slid quietly down from the wheels-Bruin growling all the time in anger—the hogshead was rolled in, and placed the open end in front of the cage, and the animal stirred up with our

With a terrific yell he rushed in, and we closed the lid suddenly down upon him, factening it at the same time in a secure manner. The yell of the bear had roused the other animals, and our ears were regaled for the next ten minutes with a variety of hideous sounds that awakened fearfully the sleeping echoes of the night. The animal in the hogshead growled, and his voice came like distant thander, and headened was it by the wood in which he lay. His fellows had no incumbrant to their voices, and they howled as clearly as though they were in their house behind him, and casting his eyes around, saw the cause. He spurred his horse, who started, snorting with terror, for he saw the coming of the mighty animal as well as his master. It was in vain—

The tiger noted not the man. He only saw the terrific speed. One leap, the distance was just swed, and he stuck his claws in order to their voices, and they have a strength of his double brades.

The animals often started a coolness most determined, for it resulted chorus of strange noises during the night, and the keepers thinking nothing unusual to his besom, and with a firm strake, buried it be the matter, cursed the unruly beasts for to the hilt in the neck of the tiger. Over and over went the hogshead, the animal within Those who came that way an hour after, we nearly convulsed with laughter at the uncouth noises he made.

At length we reached the back part of the college, when one of our party climbed over the wall and unfastened the gate. We rolled in our prize to the back door of the laboratory, which was the place where our professor of chemistry lectured. We found that in consequence of the narrowness of the door, the hogshead would not enter. Such being the case, we were about to start the animal through the open door, when an idea more redolent of fun struck the fancy of Somers.

Back of the lecture room was a small apartment containing odds and ends, and which was not visited perhaps once a month. He said rightly that if we placed Bruin in this apartment, he would not likely be discovered until sometime during the lecture of the chemical professor, when the roise he would be apt to make would attract attention, and the plot would readily be brought to a crisis. We joined our strength, and upon our shoulders, up went the hogshead until it was placed on a level with the window. A light young fellow, the smallest of the of ocean which stretches along the east coast ful bosom spring none but fond regrets and party, climbed up, hoisted the window, and of Scotland; while white specks on the hoslided up the lid of the cask. PROSPECTUS OF THE REPUBLIC.

May 3, 1849.

THE undersigned will, on the 13th day of June I next, begin the publication in the city of Washington of a daily Whig Administration paper, to be called "The Republic," the editorial supervision and management of which will be committed to the ex-clusive care of ALEX. C. BULLITT and J. O. SARGENT. The Republic will give to the principles upon which the administration of Gen. Taylor came into power a cordial, zealous, and constant support. It will be a faithful record of the times; it will discuss public measures in an impartial and independent spirit; it will be a vehicle of the latest and most authentic information; it will be, in a word, a political newspaper, devoted to the liberalizing and progressive loctrines which prevailed in the late Presidential canvass; to the interests of labor, as developed in the wants of agriculture, commerce, and manufactures, and to the cause of literature, science, and general

The Republic will acknowledge no allegiance except to the country. It will aim to vierit the considence and support of the American People. It will be the organ of no person, or party, or fraction of a party, in that compulsory sense which would hinder it from speaking boldly and candidly to the People about whatever it concerns them to know. The Republic will be printed upon a double-royal sheet, in a new large, clear readable type.

Besides the Daily paper, there will be published a Tri-weekly and Weekly Republic made up of the most interesting and important matter of the Daily TERMS .- For the Daily Republic

For the Daily Republic $10 00

For the Tri-weekly 6 00

For the Weekly 2 00

To Postmasters.—Any Postmaster who will transmit as $10 shall have SIX copies of the Weekly Republic sent to such persons as he may direct; and $15 will entitle a Postmaster to THREE copies of the Tri-secrity paper.

No paper will be sent unless the order is accompanied by the money.

April 19 1819.-3t. The Plough, the Loom, and the Anvil-EDITED BY J. S. SKINNER & SON. To the Friends of Agriculture, Manufactures, and all the useful branches of American Industry. THE object of this work is not merely to amuse L its readers with accounts of extraordinary crops from single acres, and prodigious weights of bu locks, sheep, and hogs. No!-Though the purpose is to keep the reader advised of all really new and valuable discoveries and improvements in the implements and animals employed in agriculture, and in the processes and principles of Husbandry in all its various branches, this is not all. If it were, the single word PLOUGH might sufficiently indicate that purpose; but the fact is far otherwise. By adding to it the LOOM and the ANVIL, the Editors design at once to indicate that, in their belief, the Plough never has, nor ever can prosper so well, as when the Loom and the Anvil are at work as near to it as the nature of things will admit; and therefore, that the Planter and the Farmer ought heartily to unite to cause the establishment of an efficient and permanent policy, such as will draw around them not only the Loom and the Anvil, but the Saw, and the Trowel and the Lapstone; the Coal Heaver and the Iron Monger—in order that those engaged in cultivating the soil may save in the sale of their produce both time and labor, for the enrichment of their lands and theraselves. But this is not the place to go into argument to prove these positions. We respectfully solicit those to whom our best days have been devoted, to study the subject in the pages of the work we offer; for, of all classes of society, this question of Protection or Free Trade, is most important to those whose interest it is to multiply prosperous consumers, not ri-vals, in the production of the fruits of Agriculture. The Terms are in advance - 52 each, when five unite-$5 for two subscribers, and $3 for a single one. Sixty-four pages monthly, printed in the best style, and on the best paper. The work is stereotyped, and back Nos. can always be supplied.

Postmasters, Country Merchaes, Manufacturers, and all others who take an interest in the prosperity of American Industry, are requested to act as agents on the above terms,

Thus, any man and horse can plough eight or ten acres in a day, and perform the work in the most admirable manner. This Celebrated Plough and Cultivator Combines the qualifications of performing double work in all branches of Agriculture for which it is recommended, with case to the horse, and almost without any effort to the operator, by the adapta-tion of the shafts and the application of two or three shares at a time, thus giving it the self-sustain ing principle, which greatly recommend it to an enlightened public, seeking the advancement of the usual arts. Its different modes of application are thus described: In furrowing, the ploughs can be applied for making two rows at a time. Then, in cross-furrowing, they can be arranged to cover one row and furrow the next. The first and second plougeing of corn. &c., the Ploughs can be arranged to plough both rows, and throw the dirt either to or from them. The proprietor could, if it were necessary, pro cure a host of the most indubitable evidences from the most prominent Farmers of the States of Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Western Pennsylvania, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin. But of what avail are such testimonials to practical demonstra-Farmers and Mechanics: to satisfy yourselves that it is no humbug, but practical reality, as demonstrative as the many advantages derived from the aid of steam power, the power loom, or the press, come and examine with your own eyes, and handle with your own hands, and you will most assuredly give it that meed of praise which thousands before you have bestowed upon it, as being the cheapest, simplest, and most general agricultural implement in its various application now extant. The aforesaid Plough will bereafter be manufacured and sold by James M. Hessey, in the following counties : Jefferson, Berkeley, Frederick and Shenandoah, He is engaged in making them at Shepherdstown, where he will be prompt in filling all orders, either by forwarding or delivering the JAMES M. HESSEY.

go and get a bottle of DR. HASTINGS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF NAPTHA ST. JOHNSVILLE, New York, Feb. 5. 1848. Mr. Harrison: Sir-I will trouble your patience a few minutes by informing you of the great triumple which your Naptha Syrup has obtained in the case of my brother. He increased the dose as you directed, and the result was that he began to raise very freely. and it scented so badly that it was impossible to stay in the room where he was, on the fifth day after the inerease of the dose. In a day or so after, he began to get better, and at this present time is quite revived, has a good appetite, and don't cough a quarter as much as he did previously. A severe cough and immense ex-pectoration were the prominent symptoms of the disease. I think his case was a singular one : none of the physicians here had ever heard or seen any thing of the kind before. I mention all these particulars, as I am firm in the belief that, had it not been for the Naptha Syrup, he could have expected nothing but a speedy grave, as there was an immense number of telercles formed on his lungs, which the madical med on his lungs, which the medicine took immediate hold of, and in a few days he threw them up by the quantity, some of them were as large as a bean. If he improves as fast as he has done. I do not think that he will need any more than the six bottles I now send for. Enclosed are five dollars. Direct the box as before to Jonas Snell. Care of Charles Kingsiand, Kailroad Depot. Yours respectfully, JONAS SNELL.
